TWO SOVIET CARGO SHIPS BARRED ON ARRIVAL HERE WITH 'CONVICT' PULPWOOD

32 SHIPS ON WAY FACE BAN

Some Said to Be Bringing Goods Placed Under Treasury Embargo.

AMTORG TO PROTEST TODAY

Bogdanov, Denying Red Menace to American Industry, Again Threatens Cut in Buying.

MANGANESE PLEA IS FILED

Lowman, in Capital, Denies Report He Said Soviet Was Plotting to Ruin Our Trade.

The clash of Soviet and American economic interests resulting in demands for embargoes on various Russian exports to this country assumed more concrete form yesterday when two cargoes of Soviet pulpwood from Archangel were barred from entry by customs officials, in accordance with the embargo of the Treasury Department. The embargo followed protests that the Russian pulpwood was of convict, or forced labor, origin.

A third cargo, brought by a ship which docked here last week, was held up for a time, but was permitted to enter later in the day.

Representatives of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet commercial agency in this country, will appear before treasury officials in Washington today in an effort to have the boycott lifted.

There are said to be thirty-two more ships on the high seas bearing pulpwood and other cargoes from the Soviet to this country.

Seen as First Blow in Trade Clash.

The barring of the Soviet pulpwood shipments here yesterday marked the first concrete blow in what is regarded as a struggle developing between the State owned Soviet industry and American business interests, a struggle involving the threat of a break in trade relations between the two countries. Behind this clash is seen the play of forces representing two diametrically opposed economic systems.

The three freighters whose cargoes of Soviet pulpwood were held up by customs officials were the British vessel Greslisle, consigned to Garcia & Diaz; the Christian Bors, of Norwegian registry but operated by the Amtorg, and the Queen Olga, a British vessel, whose cargo was also consigned to Garcia and Diaz.

The Greslisle got a preliminary permit allowing her to place her cargo in dock for storage on condition that the cargo shall not enter the country. The Christian Bors did not receive this privilege. She remains at Quarantine. The Queen Olga was discharging her cargo at 135th Street and the North River when the order came from the Treasury Department to cease unloading. Later in the day, however, the order was rescinded, the customs authorities ruling that because the vessel arrived last week, before the imposition of the pulpwood embargo, her cargo might enter.

The captains of the Greslisle and Christian Bors went to the custom house yesterday morning and entered their ships in the usual manner. While at the custom house however, the masters were informed that instructions had been received by the customs authorities from Washington forbidding the landing and disposition of the cargoes.

Representatives of the Amtorg and of Garcia & Diaz arriving soon thereafter remained closeted with customs officials for some time and emerged crestfallen because of their failure to move the officials from their position. H. C. Stuart, Assistant Collector of the Port, one of the officials with whom the representatives of the steamship company and of the Amtorg conferred, refused to discuss the matter beyond pointing to the order from Washington.

At the Amtorg offices, 261 Fifth Avenue, no surprise was evinced at the holding up of the cargoes. It was indicated that the matter would be taken up with Washington officials in an effort to have the embargo removed.

Manganese Men File Plea.

While the Amtorg Trading Corporation was arguing with the customs officials here announcement was made by the American Manganese Producers Association that it had filed formal request with Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Youth, 225 Pounds, 6 Feet 4, Is Rejected at Annapolis

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 28.—Youths who seek admission to the Naval Academy may be too big and powerful, much to the disappointment of the football and other coaches.

A youth weighing 225 pounds and standing 6 feet 4 inches, who had passed his mental examination, was rejected physically for no other reason than that his poundage was too great. He was of athletic build and had taken part in football and other sports at high school. The youth is trying to have his disability waived.

A candidate of even greater weight was also rejected physically, but the reason was color blindness.

REDS TAKE CHANGSHA; FOREIGNERS RESCUED

Looting and Burning Reported in City in Which Yale Has Mission College.

NANCHANG ALSO CAPTURED

Wang Ching-wei, Forming Northern Government, Disavows Left but Assails Chiang.

By The Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, July 28.—American, British and Japanese gunboats today gave refuge to foreigners who fled from Changsha as 10,000 Communists overran the Hunan Province capital, looting and burning.

Three American missionaries were among the few foreigners who remained within the Walled City with 500,000 Chinese. The others hastily boarded the foreign warships in the Siang River.

Warned by renewed Red activities in Northern and Eastern Hunan, foreign governments had dispatched warcraft to protect their nationals. The Nanking Government's garrison, weakened by the transfer of troops to the Honan and Shantung war fronts, was overpowered by the Reds, who swept over the city walls and poured through the gates.

The Reds despoiled the city, which a few weeks ago was captured by Kwangsi Province rebels, who in turn were chased southward by Nanking armies.

In the adjoining Province of Kiangsi, the important city of Nanshang was reported to have yielded to a Communist army after a siege of many weeks. About 3,000 refugees were said to have reached Kiukiang, Yangtse River port.

Wide Red Flare-up in Valley.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 28.—Although temporarily checked by recent Nanking Government military operations, the Communist menace in the Yangtse Valley flared up again today more violently than ever, creating apprehension for the safety of several cities. Following the appearance of a well-armed Communist force outside Changsha, foreigners in the city were evacuated on the American gunboat Palos, the British gunboats Aphis and Teal and the Japanese gunboat Futami.

Owing to the low depth of the Siang River, which links up with the Yangtse River, the success of

BAILEY TO SURRENDER $1,350,000 TO REPAY RYDER CRASH VICTIMS

OTHER ASSETS RECOVERED

$450,000 Stock Exchange Seat and $250,000 in Banks to Go to Woody Creditors.

QUICK SETTLEMENT SOUGHT

Committee Is Named to Wind Up $2,000,000 Brokerage House Failure in Sixty Days.

Counsel negotiating for the return of assets admittedly taken by Harold Russell Ryder from his partners and their customers in the brokerage firm of Woody & Co. in order to satisfy a claim of $2,000,000 held against him by Frank Bailey, banker, reached a substantial agreement yesterday which Mr. Bailey is to complete today, for the return of cash and equities totaling about $1,350,000.

In addition Mr. Bailey is to abandon his claim against Mr. Ryder, and to release the now bankrupt firm of Woody & Co. and its partners from any further obligation to him.

The negotiations started five weeks ago with Mr. Bailey's declaration, just after the collapse of Woody & Co., that he would not keep anything that had been stolen. Mr. Bailey insisted, however, that due consideration be given to the fact that some of the assets had been stolen from him as one of Mr. Ryder's customers.

Final Terms Arranged.

With Mr. Ryder's help and the assistance of accountants of the Irving Trust Company, as temporary receiver, Samuel H. Kaufman and Milton P. Kupfer finally fixed terms yesterday to which Alfred Davison, counsel for Mr. Bailey agreed.

The agreement provides for the return of $575,000 or $600,000 in cash, as well as return of the Ryder cooperative apartment at 720 Park Avenue, representing an investment of $500,000, and the cancellation of a credit of about $250,000 due Mr. Bailey on the books of Woody & Co.

It is not believed, however, that the $500,000 which Mr. Ryder put into the apartment can be fully recovered. Its real value is estimated at about $300,000.

Allowing for this shrinkage, Mr. Bailey's real contribution to the reduction of the $2,000,000 liabilities of Woody & Co. will be about $1,150,000. Other Woody & Co. assets include the $450,000 Stock Exchange seat contributed last November to the firm by Charles L. Woody Jr., titular head of the concern; stock and cash on hand on June 19, when it collapsed, amounting to about $250,000, and an indeterminate claim against Frank Stoltz for operations in making a market for the stock of Stein Cosmetics of which he is president.

In anticipation of a settlement of the affairs of Woody & Co. within a month a creditors' committee was chosen yesterday to represent the 125 customers and others to whom the concern owes $2,000,000.

The members of the committee are Albert A. Tag, Jerome Horton, H. Arzo Patterson and Sidney A. Witherbee. Their counsel include Eugene L. Garey, who was counsel for the three original petitioners in bankruptcy and whose prompt action at the outset secured them the cooperation of Mr. Ryder, together with Peter J. McCoy, counsel for ten of the customers.

The settlement made with Mr. Bailey yesterday will remove him

Crowd Cheers Huge Airship Leaving Cardington With 41 Aboard—Enough Fuel and Food Taken for Five Days—Radio Will Keep in Touch With Both Sides.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CARDINGTON, Tuesday, July 29.—The world's greatest and fastest airship, the R-100, is speeding to Canada on its maiden flight across the Atlantic.

Crowds which had spent a bitterly cold vigil around the government's flying field here were rewarded just before dawn when, after the engineers had run the engines for nearly an hour, the order was given by Squadron Leader R. S. Booth to slip the moorings. The huge airship drifted easily away from the mooring tower at precisely 3:45 A. M. (10:45 P. M. Monday, New York Daylight Time). For a few moments the watchers saw it outlined against the clear sky and then with all engines working it disappeared swiftly westward.

Hitherto the ship's longest flight had been a duration test of fifty-four hours, and altogether it had flown not more than 100 hours. It was built for the Air Ministry by Sir Charles Dennistoun Burney's Airship Guarantee Company, Ltd., at Howden, Yorkshire, and was launched Dec. 16, 1929.

Thus for seven months it had been subject to experiment, and the Air Ministry regards this flight as the supreme test of the airship's capabilities in commerce and in speeding communications between the component parts of the Empire.

Shortly before 3 o'clock hundreds of motorists parked alongside the airdrome heard a splutter from the airship's hull and, looking upward where the huge bulk swung motionless with its twinkling riding lights, saw one engine after another belch fire as they were warmed up.

There had been an earlier "call to stations," but afterward members of the crews in twos and threes had descended the mooring tower for a last chat with wives and sweethearts, who were masking their nervousness during the tense waiting hours beneath a flow of light-hearted talk and laughter.

As Wing Commander R. B. Colmore stepped into the mooring tower elevator, he showed newspaper men a message to the crew from Lord Thomson, the Air Minister, who is not

REFUSES TO INDICT EWALD FOR BRIBERY

SEVEN WITNESSES HEARD

Traffic Case Defendant and Man Who Interceded Testify—Fraud Trial Monday.

The New York County grand jury refused yesterday to indict former Magistrate George F. Ewald on charges of bribery or of accepting a gratuity while in public office. It will file a dismissal of the accusations with Judge Otto A. Rosalsky of General Sessions today.

The magistrate remains under Federal indictment for using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of Cotter Butte Mines stock. His trial has been set for next Monday.

The county grand jury's rejection of the charges against Ewald came after it had listened to the testimony of seven witnesses, two of them principals in the case which led to the initiation of proceedings by District Attorney Crain on evidence disclosed by United States Attorney Tuttle.

It was charged that Ewald in his chambers in traffic court on Nov. 2, 1928, sold 1,000 shares of the Cotter Butte stock to Abe April, politically prominent furrier, on an occasion when April was interceding for a friend, William F. Badger, facing trial as a third offender for a traffic violation. Badger was dismissed on the traffic charge and the former magistrate received $250 commission on the stock sale to April, according to the charges before the grand jury.

April and Badger Heard.

Both April and Badger were witnesses yesterday and are understood to have sworn that their meeting in traffic court was accidental. April assured the grand jury that he was on his way to see the former magistrate about the stock when he happened to notice his friend in court and spoke a word in his behalf to Ewald.

Motorcycle Patrolman Edward J. Heffernan, who gave the summons to Badger, testified that Ewald had asked him a few questions about the case at a private hearing in the magistrate's chambers. Assistant District Attorney Harold A. Hastings, who examined the witnesses before presenting them to the grand jury, had previously announced that the facts indicated the hearing in the chambers to have been a legal trial.

The other witnesses were Cornell C. Cromien, court stenographer, who had minutes of the Badger hearing; George Walters, traffic court attendant; Emerick J. Doczor, friend of Ewald, who is reported to have taken April's $1,000 check to the Cotter Butte offices, and Frank Mitterlachner, cashier of the mining company.

Ewald, with five others, including his brother, Dr. Louis A. Ewald, was accused by the Federal grand jury of using the mails fraudulently to promote Cotter Butte stock sales, in which $400,000 was lost. United States Attorney Tuttle called the mine "a hole in the ground." The former magistrate was a director of the company until last Fall, when he resigned.

A count in the indictment against the former magistrate charged that he sold large lots of the stock to friends in the Steuben Society and elsewhere, receiving commissions by check. These, the indictment alleged, he deposited to the account of Mrs. Mary Gudat in the 170th Street branch of the Corn Exchange Bank, and Mrs. Gudat later drew checks for the amount deposited and paid

PROTESTS LIQUOR AT BRITISH EMBASSY

Former Virginia Mayor Asks the Ambassador to Follow His Predecessor's Example.

HOLDS DRY LAW FLOUTED

Letter, Which Links the Anti-English and Wets, Will Be Ignored.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The issue of diplomats serving liquor has been raised against Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, by Samuel B. Woods, former Mayor of Charlottesville, Va., an ardent dry, who has written a letter to the Ambassador protesting the use of liquor in the embassy. All indications are that Sir Ronald will ignore the protest.

In May 1929, a similar letter from James T. Carter of Lynchburg, Va., another prohibitionist, to Sir Esme Howard, predecessor of Sir Ronald, led to a statement by Sir Esme that, waiving his diplomatic privilege, he would sign no more liquor permits for himself or members of his staff.

Sir Esme made it plain that his action was not in the nature of a rule for the diplomatic corps, of which he was dean, or a precedent for his successor. Although there were considerable supplies of liquor in the embassy at the time, so that official events there could be wet, Ambassador Howard kept his word and no more liquor was imported for the embassy during his régime.

There were indications that his decision was due not so much to the letter from Mr. Carter as to letters from other persons protesting against the use of liquor by embassies.

Soon after Sir Ronald arrived he let it be known that he would import liquors for use at the embassy and in a short time a consignment arrived from Europe.

That Sir Ronald regards the question as a personal one was indicated by the reticence today at the embassy. Officials declined even to admit that the letter had been received from Mr. Woods and discouraged discussion of the matter.

At the State Department officials merely referred to past pronouncements on the question of diplomatic liquor. Since the prohibition law went into effect the department has maintained that diplomats of foreign governments stationed here had the right to import liquors under their immunity privileges.

Several months ago, when Washington police held up a shipment of liquors to the Siamese Legation, they delivered the liquors to the legation when told that they might be prosecuted for interference with the shipment.

Practically all of the diplomatic liquors are imported through Baltimore and are brought here on trucks. Treasury permits are issued for this transportation, while representatives of the embassies or legations concerned accompany the trucks to facilitate identification.

The agitation by prohibitionists at the embassies has led more and more to diplomatic dinners and receptions being dry whenever high American officials are present. Many diplomats feel that they should in this way avoid embarrassment to government officials.

Recalls Former Envoy's Action.

"You have been willing to take advantage of a technicality and of the immunity of your office to do yourself what would be a crime for a citizen of the United States to do," Mr. Woods wrote to Ambassador Lindsay. "Whether you intend it or not, you show disrespect for the Con-

DETECTIVE IS SLAIN IN STREET BATTLE WITH AUTO GUNMEN

FOUR MEN ARE CAPTURED

Driver Loses Control of Speeding Machine When Pistol Fire Is Returned.

CRASH AT HARLEM BRIDGE

One Suspect Wounded and All Are Caught as They Abandon Their Machine.

Detective Thomas E. Hill of the Tremont Police Station was shot and killed last night when he and Detective Robert Rehmann jumped on the running board of a suspicious looking automobile as it approached the Bronx end of the 155th Street Bridge over the Harlem River from the Manhattan side.

Rehmann returned the fire, causing the driver of the car to lose control. It crashed into an electric light pole. The four occupants tried to escape but all were captured by police, one of them being shot through the arm.

Hill and Rehmann, with Patrolman James Ennis of the Highbridge station, were assigned to what is known in police parlance as "bridge duty." Their job was to keep a lookout for all suspicious cars and to stop them as they approached the Bronx end of the bridge.

Saw Car Speeding.

Just before midnight a big Buick sedan was seen approaching from the Manhattan side at a terrific rate of speed.

"Look at that fellow," Hill exclaimed. Rehmann looked. Then he turned to Ennis and ordered "flag him."

Ennis stepped into the middle of the roadway and seizing the red warning lantern waved it in the direction of the approaching car. The driver slackened speed and as the car drew abreast of them Hill and Rehmann climbed on the running board.

"We are police officers," Rehmann said. "We want to have a look at you fellows."

The words were hardly uttered when a fusillade of shots rang out from the interior of the car, and Hill fell from the running board with a bullet through his heart.

At the same time the driver of the sedan stepped on the accelerator and the big machine bounded forward. Rehmann was nearly thrown off by the sudden start, but he managed to hang on and, whipping out his service pistol, fired into the car. The shot whizzed past the driver's head and caused him to lose control, and the car crashed into an electric light pole.

Four Try to Escape.

In an instant the four men had clambered out of the automobile. They scattered and ran. Rehmann followed one of them, firing his pistol as he went, and Traffic Patrolman Joseph McMahon, who was on duty at the end of the bridge, came running to Rehmann's aid.

One of the men was racing in McMahon's direction when the policeman confronted him. The man held a pistol in his hand and pointed it at the traffic patrolman But McMahon also had his pistol ready and was quicker on the trigger. He fired. A bullet plowed through the other man's shoulder and the pistol dropped from his hand.

Meanwhile, at 161st Street and the bridge end, two other policemen had

CANADA GOES CONSERVATIVE; LIBERALS BEATEN ON TARIFF; WE FACE BIG TRADE LOSS

WINNERS GET A MAJORITY

Surprising Gains Made in Quebec and Maritime Provinces.

FIVE MINISTERS ARE BEATEN

UNEMPLOYMENT A FACTOR

Tariff, Imperial Preference and Farmers' Ills Also Were Live Issues in the Election.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

MONTREAL, July 28.—The Liberal Government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, in the face of returns rolling up late tonight in the Canadian general elections, has met with a smashing defeat at the hands of the Conservatives, led by R. B. Bennett.

At a late hour, when the results in only twenty-five of the 245 constituencies were still to be reported, the Conservatives had won four more seats than a clear majority in the new House of Commons.

The totals by parties at that time were: Conservatives 127, Liberals 77, United Farmers 8, Progressives 2, Liberal-Progressives 2, Laborites 2, Independents 2.

Breaking into the bloc of the traditionally Liberal Province of Quebec, where they had held only four seats, the Conservatives made a straight gain of twenty, defeating two of Mr. King's Ministers, Lucien Cannon, the Solicitor General, and W. F. Kay, Minister without portfolio.

Three others of the Cabinet have gone down to defeat, the most notable among them Charles Dunning, in Regina, Sask., author of the May Day budget containing the countervailing tariff duties which formed a major issue in the election. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways, was beaten in Brandon, Man., and Cyrus McMillan, Minister of Fisheries, lost out in Queen's, P. E. I.

Although Premier Mackenzie King trailed in the early returns from his own constituency, Prince Albert, Sask., his election was conceded by his Conservative opponent on later figures giving the Liberal leader a lead of 1,200 votes. Mr. Bennett, the Conservative chieftain, easily carried his constituency of Calgary West.

The only woman member of the House, Miss Agnes MacPhaill, was re-elected from Southest Grey in Ontario.

The forming of a new government, now virtually assured, means a loss of $500,000,000 in trade for the United States, according to the tariff plans of the Conservatives.

Hard times following the stock market slump, depression in commerce, industry and agriculture and widespread unemployment were given as the main reasons for the upset of Mr. King's Administration. Psychologists suggest that it is just the natural result of long years of power—a cycle in political time. But the Conservatives maintain that the people of Canada want higher tariffs bringing more protection against foreign goods dumped on their markets.

Sweep of Conservative Victory.

When the citadel of Liberalism, Quebec Province, yielded twenty-four seats to the Conservatives no doubts were left as to the final outcome of the election. Then the gains in the West made the result doubly certain.

Every one of nine Provinces registered victories for the Conservatives. In the maritime Provinces they wrested three seats from the Liberals, two of these in Prince Edward Island.

In Ontario there were steady gains, although early returns showed badly for the Conservatives when ex-Mayor Thomas Church of Toronto, a veteran of many Parliaments, went down to defeat.

Former Premier E. C. Drury of Ontario, one of the stanchest advocates of prohibition in Canada, was defeated in Simcoe North. There were at least fifteen Conservative gains to only four losses in this Province.

When the western returns began to come in it was seen that the Liberals had lost two seats in Manitoba, including that of T. A. Crerar, the Minister of Railways.

The Communist bid for power was not successful. Not one of the eight who came forward was elected.

Conservative Inroads in East.

The counties won by the Conservatives in the Province of Quebec included St. Ann's (Montreal), Brome, Yamaska, Laval-Two Mountains, Chateauguay, Shefford, Richmond-

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—An unexpected end has been put to a romance at the British Embassy at Washington, it is reported tonight. After returning to England with the intention of obtaining her parents' consent to her engagement to Sir Ronald Lindsay's Italian butler, Signor del Agnes, Miss Gytha Stourton is remaining here.

Miss Stourton is related to Baron Mowbray of Segrave and Stourton and went to Washington in 1924 as social secretary to Lady Howard, wife of the recent Ambassador. Her father, Herbert M. J. Stourton, grandson of the nineteenth Baron Stourton, stated tonight he had withheld his consent to his daughter's engagement.

FLIER IS SUSPENDED FOR BERMUDA HOP

FIRST CASE OF ITS KIND

Meeting of Aviators Sees in the Decision a Handicap to American Air Expansion.

Because he failed to obtain the permission of the Governor of Bermuda before flying over that British possession on his non-stop flight from New York last month, Roger Q. Williams, transatlantic flier and test pilot, has been suspended for ninety days by the Department of Commerce, it was announced in Washington yesterday.

Although other American fliers, notably Captain Lewis A. Yancey, have flown to Bermuda in the past without troubling to obtain permission in advance from the British authorities, on this occasion the Governor made a protest to the American consul in Bermuda, who forwarded his complaint through the State Department.

Leniency Has Prevailed.

Under the regulations fliers are required to obtain the permission of the authorities of foreign countries before flying over their territories, except where reciprocal aeronautic agreements exist, as, for instance, between this country and Canada and Cuba. In the past, however, governments have been lenient in insisting on the observance of this formality.

There is no existing agreement governing flying between this country and Bermuda, although negotiations looking toward one now are in progress. Until it is reached, however, pilots will henceforth have to obtain special permission through the State Department before attempting the flight to the island.

Williams was suspended under Section 62J of the air commerce regulations, which reads:

"Pilots' licenses will be suspended or revoked for * * * doing any act in connection with aircraft which is contrary to the public safety or interest or detrimental to the morale of pilots or mechanics."

Times Sq. Cigar Store Held Up in Rush Hour; Thousands Pass as Lone Robber Gets $600

A hold-up man got $600 in cash at 5:30 P. M. yesterday from a clerk in the United Cigar Store at the northwest corner of Forty-second Street and Seventh Avenue and walked off with his loot as Times Square teemed with dense pedestrian and motor traffic and policemen stood all around, shrilling signals to maintain the traffic flow.

It was no ordinary hold-up man—even the police admitted that—for an ordinary robber would have realized that his chances of successfully carrying out the crime were less than a million to one. Not only was Times Square jammed with people and motor cars, but the store itself, a mere cubbyhole on the square, was filled with patrons.

Behind the counter at the time were Frank Galleggo, who was counting the receipts; Reno Pollack, another clerk, and Benjamin Schattman, the manager. In the row of booths just opposite were men and women busy at the telephone. Customers lined the short row of cases, and a few feet away the rush-hour tide flowed by the door.

In walked the hold-up man. He wore no hat or coat. His white shirt was unbuttoned in the front. He had blue trousers, black shoes. He was about 33 years old, dark-haired and of dark complexion, about 5 feet 11 inches in height and rather stocky. He walked to where Galleggo was counting the money.

"Stick 'em up," he said in a low tone.

Galleggo, instead of looking up, kept on counting. He thought it was some friend.

"Don't bother me," he said petulantly; "Can't you see I'm busy?"

"I'm not fooling," said the steady voice.

And the hold-up man squeezed through the narrow opening beside Galleggo, the automatic held at his belt line. The clerk backed up and open-mouthed watched the man put the weapon on the counter and begin stuffing the banknotes and silver into his trousers pockets.

By this time Schattman realized what was going on.

"Get a cop," he whispered to a man who was buying a nickel cigar. "We're being held up."

The customer smiled, bit the end of the cigar and walked out. Pollack, too, was now alive to the situation and he whispered to another customer, who took it as a joke, grinned and walked out.

The hold-up man pocketed his automatic, eased through the counter opening, brushed past the uncomprehending patrons and vanished in the passing throng.

Heat Wave Ends Here, Cool Weather Promised; Relief Due for Nation After High Death Toll

Relief after three days of blistering heat came yesterday to New York and to most of the nation, although a few places, notably Chicago, St. Louis and sections of the South continued to suffer. In New York the temperature receded from a high point of 81 at 1 A. M., and its average for the day was a mere 74, one degree below normal.

Thunder showers this afternoon may be expected to clinch the triumph over the heat wave, the local Weather Bureau predicted, and considerably cooler weather is in prospect for this evening. The government meteorologists in Washington added that they expected the relief would be nation-wide.

While no heat deaths or prostrations and only two drownings were reported locally, other communities were not so fortunate. In St. Louis, where the thermometer soared to 102 degrees, three heat deaths reported yesterday brought the total for the month of July to 123. A recapitulation in Illinois showed sixteen deaths over the week-end, while five deaths in and about Baltimore yesterday brought the total to thirty-four in the last ten days.

The effects of the prolonged spell of abnormal weather were widespread. A milk shortage is threatened in Virginia as a result of a falling off of thousands of gallons a day in the supply, The Associated Press reported. Pastures have been scorched into barren wastes and orchards also have suffered.

Crops in Tennessee, Arkansas and many mid-Western States were being seriously affected by a prolonged drought, which had endured for seventy-one days at Memphis. Navigation on the Mississippi was being seriously hampered as the river fell to 3.8 feet at St. Louis, the lowest point since the records were started in 1860. United States Army engineers planned to have fifty dredges at work clearing the channels by the end of the week.

Those who were drowned in and near the city yesterday were James Cioffa, 16 years old, of 43 Cumberland Street, Brooklyn, who lost his life while bathing in Gerrittsen Creek, and Frank Ivanca, 14, of 233-10 113th Street, Queens Gardens, Queens, who went beyond his depth in Adelberg Creek, Meadowmere, L. I.

INSURGENTS OPPOSE FESS FOR CHAIRMAN

SAY THEY CAN DO NOTHING

Administration Will Not Consult Them on National Committee, They Assert.

NO CAMPAIGN AID ASKED

Selection of Senator Will Leave Westerners at Odds With All Party Committees.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Insurgent Senators whom Senator Simeon D. Fess denounced last year as "pseudo Republicans" revealed today their opposition to having him chosen as successor to Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the party's national committee. But, they said, since they will not be consulted by the administration, there is nothing they can do about it.

Mr. Fess, who is whip of the Senate, pronounced his opinion of the insurgents during the fight over the export debenture plan when, through the vote of fourteen Republicans, the Senate approved such a plan of farm relief over the protest of President Hoover.

Some of those referred to indicated today that they disliked the characterization "pseudo Republicans" quite as much as "sons of the wild jackass," as they were dubbed by Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire.

The insurgents will find no one to their liking at the head of any of the Republican campaign committees if Senator Fess is chosen for the national committee. Senator Moses, head of the Republican Senatorial Committee, and Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, are opposed to the insurgent idea in politics.

Plan Their Own Campaigns.

With the West reported dissatisfied with the farm relief act and the debenture plan and equalization fee certain to figure in the campaign, the indications today emphasized that the insurgents will conduct their own campaigns as far as possible.

Besides the differences within the party over the tariff and farm relief, there is the irrepressible issue of prohibition. While the fight over the latter problem is not expected to become a major affair until the next session of Congress, the politicians already are figuring on the 1932 campaign. Senator Fess and Postmaster General Brown declared recently that Mr. Hoover will be renominated in 1932. In their opinion, the issues will be the achievements of the administration and opposition to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Some of the insurgents declare that President Hoover is preparing for the 1932 campaign by getting control of the National Committee and selecting officers entirely friendly to his policies and plans. Developments in connection with the reorganization meeting of the committee on August 7, when Mr. Huston is scheduled to resign, have inspired much talk relative to the Presidential situation in 1932.

Borah Was Fess's Target.

In a letter to Marshall Sheppy of Toledo, dated May 9, 1929, Senator Fess attacked Senator Borah and those Republicans who were supporting the debenture plan.

"As you are aware," Senator Fess said in part, "I foresaw this danger of the special session and urged with all my influence against it. The President had been led through Senator Borah and other pseudo-Republicans to promise a special session upon the representation that such a promise would bring these Republicans to the President's program. * * * Senator Borah, the one person responsible for the special session, refused to go along with the President and supported the debenture against which the President had written a letter to the chairman of the committee."

At that time Senator Borah replied sarcastically. Today, however, as he departed for a vacation at Poland Springs, Me., Mr. Borah declined to enter into the controversy, saying that he is taking no interest in the selection of a chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Those classed by Senator Fess as pseudo-Republicans besides Mr. Borah were Senators Brookhart, Cutting, La Follette, Norbeck, Nye, Schall, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, McMaster, Norris, Pine and Thomas of Idaho.

SENTENCED FOR EXTORTION

Michigan Laborer Threatened Head of Reo Motor Company.

LANSING, Mich., July 28 (AP).—Samuel J. Meyers, 39-year-old laborer, pleaded guilty to extortion today in Circuit Court and was sentenced to twenty-three months to two years in prison.

Meyers attempted to extort $15,000 from Richard H. Scott, president of the Reo Motor Car Company, under the threat of killing the financier and three members of his family.

Meyers said he thought the use of threatening letters would be "an easy way" to get money to buy a home. He was arrested Saturday when he walked into a trap set by State police under whose direction Mr. Scott had placed money in a coal yard shed.

Mr. Scott received three letters and a telephone call threatening death to himself, his wife, a son and a 5-year-old grandson unless the money were paid.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia, July 28 (Canadian Press).—J. M. Downie, Minister of Mines and Industries, has been appointed to succeed Sir Francis Newton as High Commissioner for Southern Rhodesia in London.

Freight Train Blocks Crossing; Impatient Driver Parts Cars

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 28.—John Szarnecki of 660 Ohio Avenue must appear in headquarters police court tomorrow to answer a warrant charging him with an unusual offense.

Yesterday when he was driving his car a freight train stopped on a crossing. It was a long train and Szarnecki figured it would take too long to pass even when it started.

So, the police charge, he uncoupled two cars. When the engine finally started a nice pathway was opened for his car and he went on his way, regardless of the shouts of the crossing flagman. The flagman got the number of the car, however, and the police did the rest.

DEMOCRATS BRAWL IN HARMONY PARLEY

J. F. FITZGERALD WALKS OUT

A Fist Fight and More Votes Than the Number Present Enliven the Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 28.—Amid tumultuous scenes of disorder, the "harmony conference" of Massachusetts Democrats called here today to select a geographically and religiously balanced slate, recessed this evening after three hours of acrimonious discussions. The proceedings were enlivened by a fist fight and the withdrawal of John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, sponsor of the meeting and candidate for governor.

The delegates voted down a motion to give unofficial endorsement to a pre-primary slate of candidates, but examination of the balloting disclosed forty-three more votes than there were accredited delegates, whereupon, after a two-hour respite, the delegates reassembled later tonight in an endeavor to smooth over the discord.

After Senator David I. Walsh's eloquent plea for a peaceful discussion fell on deaf ears, Mr. Fitzgerald, finding a drift among the delegates in opposition to his candidacy for Governor, turned savagely on any effort to vote for candidates. With the assistance of a group of Boston delegates and Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, the motion to endorse a State slate was declared defeated by 268 votes to 255.

The vote was promptly doubted when it was found that it totaled 523, whereas there were only 480 delegates present. As a roll-call identification of delegates was started a fist fight broke out on the floor and Richard D. Gleason of Roxbury, a member of the House and the Boston City Council, was ejected by the police. Mr. Fitzgerald began to sing his famous "Sweet Adeline," to cover up the riot, but his voice drowned the roll call. Somebody withdrew the motion of doubt and the meeting was adjourned in disorder.

The temper of the assembly, judging from the applause and other demonstrations not interpreted as applause, was none too friendly toward any Boston Democrats, chiefly Mr. Fitzgerald. He was the target for an attack directed by John Jackson Walsh, former candidate for Governor, who quoted from Mr. Fitzgerald's newspaper interviews to prove that he had abandoned his conference idea and now stood directly opposed to his ideas as publicly stated three weeks ago.

"I shall not permit myself," said Mr. Walsh, "to be the victim of Fitzgerald's insincerity. I came here solely because the conference was advocated by him for purposes of harmony."

Strabo V. Claggett, candidate for any available place on the ticket, threw the afternoon session into an uproar when he boldly accused the Democratic party of Massachusetts of being religiously intolerant in its primary voting. He admitted that his frank speech probably would mean his elimination from further consideration by the party, but he had it on his mind and he would not be comfortable until he "exploded and got it off."

Mr. Claggett was hissed and booed intermittently and at times violently interrupted, but he had his say to its bitter end.

Before the meeting ultimately was adjourned, Joseph B. Ely of Westfield, candidate for Governor, urged the defeat of any endorsement of candidates, although admitting he at first planned to abide by any decision reached. He was able to command more attention than any other speaker.

GOLF BALLS MAR HIS PEACE.

Westchester Man Asks Police to Make His Backyard Safe.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 28.—How to make golfers keep their balls from straying from the greens and narrow fairways is the question confronting the golf committee of the Elmsford Country Club and Captain Philip McQuillan of the Greenburgh police.

W. Pupke of Worthing Road, Greenburgh, doesn't care how it is done, as long as golf balls stop coming on his property. He does not object to golf playing on Sunday, but he told the Greenburgh police today that he objects to sitting in white ... being bombarded with little white pellets when he attempts to sit in his yard. He also objects to the scramble of caddies through his premises in their hunt for the balls. He told the police it isn't safe for him to sit in his yard because of the danger of being struck.

Prefers 90 Days to $300 Fine.

Martin Lynch, 30 years old, of 309 East 136th Street, the Bronx, chose to serve ninety days in jail rather than pay a $300 fine yesterday, after a hearing before Magistrate Burke in Morrisania Court on a charge of operating a still in his apartment. Lynch was held in default of $1,000 bail for violation of the Volstead Act, arising out of the same circumstances, and will have a hearing before United States Commissioner Cotter on Aug. 7.

TWO RIVALS SWING TO 'MA' FERGUSON

HER LEAD REACHES 55,441

DALLAS, Texas, July 28 (AP).—Texas Democrats today looked at the 55,441 lead Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, former Governor of the State and wife of a two-term Governor, had run up over Ross S. Sterling, wealthy Houston publisher, in Saturday's primary, and began forming alignments for the campaign leading to the run-off primary on Saturday, Aug. 23, when the Democratic nominee for Governor will be chosen.

As the counting of returns by the Election Bureau continued tonight 701,664 votes had been tallied from 245 of the 253 counties, with 82 counties complete, and it was estimated that a possible 125,000 votes remained to be counted. There was no thought, however, that the trend would be changed.

The vote for Governor stood: Mrs. Ferguson 204,057, Sterling 148,616, Clint C. Small 109,724, Thomas Love 70,059, James Young 64,850, Earle B. Mayfield 47,273, Barry Miller 46,168, C. C. Moody 4,011, Frank Putnam 2,505, Paul Loven 2,475, Dr. C. E. Walker 1,926.

Division on Ferguson Issue.

Thomas B. Love, Dallas lawyer and State Senator, the first of the nine defeated candidates for the Gubernatorial nomination to declare himself, announced he would support Sterling.

On the other hand, Frank Putnam, of Houston, a "wet" candidate, said he would support Mrs. Ferguson, since Mr. Ferguson was "wet" although Mrs. Ferguson is a "dry." Dr. C. E. Walker stated that Mrs. Ferguson would get his support as the "champion of the plain people."

Governor Dan Moody, who defeated Mrs. Ferguson four years ago, but who declined to run for a third term after Mr. Sterling announced, issued a statement at Austin of support for Mr. Sterling, in which he said:

"I am opposed to corruption in government, and my prediction is that Texas will not again be shamed at home and ridiculed abroad by the ridiculous spectacle of a government such as we had four years ago."

In the face of this opposition Mrs. Ferguson came out with a statement saying:

"My overwhelming vote in Saturday's primary shows that although the people may make a mistake, they invariably right a wrong as soon as they are informed. The people of Texas now know that I was the victim of falsehood and corruption. Their Saturday verdict so states."

Mr. Ferguson said he would wait until all primary returns were in before expressing his views.

The Fergusons, "Ma" and James E., campaigned together. They promised two Governors for the price of one; a lower tax rate, less legislation, opposition to a proposed $300,000,000 road bond issue, advocated by Mr. Sterling, and pleaded for further vindication for Mr. Ferguson, who was impeached and removed from office in the middle of his second term.

Results in Other Contests.

In the Democratic contest for the United States Senatorial nomination, the veteran incumbent, Morris Sheppard, won an easy victory without having made a single campaign speech. He polled 419,930 votes, on the face of the latest returns, as against 139,789 for R. L. Henry, "wet," and 32,874 for C. A. Mitchner.

In the outstanding contest for Democratic Congressional nomination Representative John C. Box of Jacksonville was trailing Martin Dies Jr. of Orange by nearly 6,000 votes when returns from thirteen of the district's fourteen counties were unofficially compiled late today by the election bureau. The vote was Dies 29,055 and Box 23,325.

H. E. Exum of Amarillo had a majority over all opponents for the Republican nomination for Governor on the face of unofficial returns from thirty counties, including eleven complete. The vote stood: Exum 989, George C. Butte 501, John F. Grant 200, John P. Gaines 17.

For United States Senator C. O. Harris of San Angela was leading the Republican poll, the count being: Harris 558, D. J. Haesly 552, H. H. Haines 375.

THOMAS TO REPLY ON RADIO

Socialist to Respond to Walker's Defense of City Administration.

Norman Thomas, co-chairman of the Socialist party's committee on public affairs, will reply to Mayor Walker's recent defense of his administration in a radio speech from station WOR at 8:30 tomorrow evening. In a letter to Mayor Walker, Mr. Thomas said he had written to stations WNYC, WJZ and WOR, which broadcast Mayor Walker's speech without charge, but had received no answer from WNYC and WJZ, while WOR had given to him half an hour of time.

"Especially do I think that station WNYC should have replied promptly and favorably to my request," Mr. Thomas wrote. "You, yourself, very properly offered the station to the Republicans who for reasons of their own did not accept it. The Republicans have plenty of skeletons in their own closet and often have found it more profitable to unite in a bi-partisan deal with Democrats than to fight them.

"WNYC is a municipal station paid for by municipal funds. If it is to be open at all to controversial city issues—and I think such use of the station may be made genuinely educational—it should be opened on equitable terms to all responsible parties and groups. Certainly, the Socialist party comes under this head. On no reasonable theory of fair play or political education can station WNYC be open to you for the kind of speech that you made and offered by you to General Harbord but denied to me. What has happened to your vaunted sportsmanship?"

Sons of Norman Thomas Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., July 28.—William Thomas, 17 years old, and his brother, Evan, 10, sons of Dr. Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, were slightly injured tonight in an automobile accident while driving to their home here from Quogue. They were in a car driven by William, which skidded on the shoulder of the road near Northport, as they were passing another automobile. William was pinned behind the wheel when the car overturned. Evan's head was bruised.

TO REPORT 'PROGRESS' ON LINGLE MURDER

Investigators Ready to Go Before Grand Jury—Col. McCormick of Tribune Testifies.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—Investigators of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, were ready tonight to "report progress" to the July grand jury.

While the jurors listened today to more witnesses summoned to tell of alleged racketeering among other newspaper reporters and of the assassination of Lingle, the prosecutors in conference agreed to report the status of the murder inquiry to the grand jury Wednesday.

State's Attorney Swanson announced after the conference that the jurors would be asked to express their wish. He said he would offer no objection if the jury desired to hear Charles F. Rathbun, Tribune attorney and chief of the Lingle murder investigators; James McShane, his assistant, and Patrick Roche, chief of the State's Attorney's investigators.

Accepting the prosecutor's offer, the grand jury asked Mr. Roche and Mr. Rathbun to appear before it tomorrow.

William H. Stuart, political editor of The Evening American testified before the jury during the day as the inquiry begun last week with the examination of Harry T. Brundidge, St. Louis newspaper man, was renewed. As Mr. Stuart emerged he said:

"I know of no profession whose ethics or ideals are higher than journalism. Regarding newspaper rackets, I don't know of any."

It was Brundidge's charge that several Chicago newspaper reporters were profiting from rackets through gangland connections, as Lingle had done, without the knowledge of their employers.

Mr. Stuart was followed on the stand by Samuel Ettelson, Corporation Counsel of Chicago and chief aide to Mayor Thompson. The final witness was Colonel Robert R. McCormick, publisher of The Tribune. Neither would say anything as to his testimony.

POLICEMAN DIES OF SHOT.

Caviglia, Wounded Surprising a Hold-Up, Succumbs in Hospital.

Patrolman Dominick Caviglia, 42 years old, who was attached to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, died yesterday morning in the Roosevelt Hospital from a bullet wound he received when he surprised three Negroes in a $1,000 hold-up Saturday night in a tenement house at 228 West Sixty-third Street. A blood transfusion failed to save the policeman.

One of two Negroes arrested on Sunday admitted yesterday that he fired the bullet that killed Caviglia. He is Joseph Stevenson, 20, a chauffeur of 214 West Sixty-third Street. Stevenson told the police that he became panicky when Caviglia entered the apartment during their hold-up of an alleged policy game payoff headquarters and fired two shots before fleeing. He had been a lifelong acquaintance of the patrolman and once obtained a job through Caviglia's aid.

The other Negro under arrest is Arthur Morris, 19, of 12 West 115th Street, who was a runner in the policy game and knew that $1,000 would be paid off that night.

The dead patrolman will receive an inspector's funeral, it was said yesterday. He lived with his wife at 16 Van Nest Place, the Bronx. Caviglia had been on the police force for twenty-one years and had spent twelve years in the San Juan Hill section, where he was killed. Mrs. Caviglia will receive a $1,500 a year pension, also her husband's salary of $3,000 for one year and $5,000 from the Police Relief Fund.

LOS ANGELES, July 28 (AP).—Dorothy Mackaill, film actress, today filed suit for $16,250 back salary against the First National Pictures Corporation.

She alleged she had not received wages for the past month which were due her under a five-year contract made in July, 1925.

DETECTIVE IS SLAIN IN STREET BATTLE

heard the shooting. They were Patrolmen Weager and Szermer. Weager was on duty in a police booth there and Szermer was sitting in a police flivver just outside the booth.

Weager climbed into the car alongside Szermer and they started toward the bridge. Just then they saw a man running from it. "Let's get him!" Weager shouted, and Szermer swung the wheel of his machine over and started after the fugitive. They overtook him a few minutes later and Weager collared him.

Meanwhile, another of the fugitives had been captured by Rehmann and the fourth was caught by Ennis after a short chase. Only one of the four had a pistol in his possession when caught. He was the one who tried to shoot Patrolman McMahon. But on the floor of the automobile detectives found three other pistols of large calibre. One of them was fully loaded. Another had four empty shells in it and the third had three empty shells.

The four prisoners were taken to the Highbridge police station. The one captured by McMahon gave his name as John Frazzione, 24 years old, of 66 East 105th Street. Rehmann's prisoner, who is said to have been the driver of the car was Joseph Young, 30, of 900 Summit Avenue, the Bronx. The other two prisoners were: Frank Corelli, 26, of 737 Southern Boulevard, and Nicholas Palluci, 27, of 871 Holmes Street, the Bronx.

The spot where the shooting occurred is less than a quarter of a mile from the home of Police Commissioner Mulrooney and as soon as he was informed of it he hurried over to the Highbridge police station and began questioning the men arrested. He ordered them fingerprinted at once and also told detectives to investigate the ownership of the car. The detectives said later that the car was obtained from a rental agency. They expressed the opinion that at least two of the four men had records but said they would not be able to tell until their fingerprints had been checked at headquarters.

Hill's body was taken to the Morrisania City Hospital soon after the shooting, but a doctor who examined him there said he had been killed instantly.

Detective Hill had been on the force since August, 1928, and was one of the youngest detectives in the Bronx. He was married and had three children. He lived at 1,324 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx.

PATTESON TO SEEK NOMINATION AS DRY

THIRD REPUBLICAN ENTRY

To Oppose Millard and Holzworth, Both Wets—Sees Chance to Support Hoover Views.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 28.—Robert A. Patteson, president of the Tarrytown National Bank, who served six years as Westchester County Controller, has accepted the offer of the Anti-Saloon League to back him as a dry candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Twenty-fifth district, it was announced tonight by Fred A. Victor, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

The Republican primary fight in the Twenty-fifth district thus becomes three-cornered, with Charles D. Millard, organization candidate, and John M. Holzworth, independent, both wets, offering opposition to Mr. Patteson.

"In accepting the offer," Mr. Victor quoted Mr. Patteson as saying, "I do so feeling that President Hoover is entitled to support in Congress from men of his views."

Mr. Victor declared Mr. Patteson would fight in the primaries as an absolute dry, wishing no change in present conditions except to better them, should that be possible.

Mr. Patteson's acceptance had been expected for a week, ever since his name first was mentioned. After a period of silence he declared he was beginning to think of running, because of the pressure exerted upon him by the friends of the dry movement. His first comment on being informed that he was mentioned for the race was: "I have heard nothing of it, but I do think there should be a dry candidate."

Republican organization leaders in Westchester today pointed to the records as evidence that Mr. Holzworth was wrong when he said over the radio last week that William L. Ward, party leader, had dropped three Assemblymen as delegates to the State convention because they had voted for the Cuvillier bill. There was no evidence, they said, that Assemblymen C. Henry Hathaway, Alexander Garnjost and William F. Condon, who voted wet in the Legislature, had ever been delegates to the State convention.

Mr. Millard was reported in Rockland County as endeavoring to win support after Mr. Holzworth had blocked the Rockland County Republican Committee from taking a stand for Mr. Millard. The committee last week refused to endorse either candidate. Each candidate claimed this as a victory.

FOUR HELD IN FUR THEFTS.

Three Men and a Woman Arrested After Being Trailed Three Months.

Three men and a woman, who had been trailed for three months, were arrested yesterday after one of them, Samuel Stein, alias Nathan Lang of 1 Rivington Street, had stolen $2,500 worth of furs from the establishment of Kanik & Greenberg, 301 Seventh Avenue, according to the police.

Stein was held on charges of robbery and grand larceny. The other prisoners are Joseph Harris, known also as Joe Brown, and Joe Levine, 38, of 45 St. Mark's Place, Brooklyn, and Randel LeCour, 21, a porter at the Unity Hospital, 1,545 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, both of whom are charged with robbery, and Mrs. Yetta Friedman, 50 years old, who operates a cleaning and pressing establishment at 75 Ridge Street, Manhattan, in which the police said they found $5,000 worth of stolen furs. The police said that Harris and Stein faced life terms as fourth offenders.

According to detectives of the Safe and Loft Squad, who made the arrests, LeCour showed the other two men how they could steal a payroll from the hospital. They broke into the hospital on the night of June 30, but were unsuccessful in finding any money, the police said. The detectives assigned to trail them decided not to make any arrests at that time. Shortly after Stein, with a parcel under his arm containing the furs from the Kanik & Greenberg firm, was picked up yesterday, the others were also taken into custody, according to the police, the men for the hospital entry and the woman for receiving stolen goods.

TREVISAN ALIMONY FIXED.

Chicago Opera Singer Ordered to Pay $35 a Week Temporarily.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—Vittorio Trevisan, bass of the Chicago Civic and Ravinia Opera Companies, was ordered today to pay his wife, Celia, $35 a week temporary alimony and $250 attorneys' fee pending settlement of Mrs. Trevisan's suit for separate maintenance.

In her complaint last May Mrs. Trevisan charged that the singer "shouted at her constantly, stating that he was training his operatic voice," that he struck her and kept her so poorly dressed she could not accept social invitations.

The couple were married June 21, 1923, at Waukegan, Ill. Mrs. Trevisan was her husband's accompanist.

BOY DROWNS AT CAMP OPEN ONLY TWO DAYS

Junior Marine Member Went to Lake Alone at Place Sponsored by Drexel-Biddle.

Special to The New York Times.

PITMAN, N. J., July 28.—William McKinley Jr., 9 years old, of 871 Bridge Street in the Frankford district of Philadelphia, was drowned tonight in Alcyon Lake, near the Summer camp of the Junior Marines, of which he was a member. The camp, sponsored by Major A. J. Drexel-Biddle of Philadelphia, opened only yesterday.

Young McKinley went down to the lake after dinner without the knowledge of those in charge and was not missed until some adult bathers found the body. Major Olaf Pederson, second in command at the camp and an uncle of the boy, was frantic when he heard of the lad's death. Chief of Police Orin Lloyd and five men held him until his condition returned to normal.

According to Lloyd, the incident so unnerved Major Pederson that when the police approached he lunged for the revolver in the chief's holster and attempted to pull it out, but was frustrated when the weapon caught in the holster. Before he could repeat the attempt the police pinioned his arms.

Child, 2, Rescued by Father.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 28.—A 2-year-old boy, Edward Doran, a grand-nephew of Police Chief P. J. Doran, was rescued from the bay at Chelsea Heights late today by his father, who plunged into the water fully clothed when he saw the child floating face downward about fifteen feet from the shore.

The father, Patrolman Richard Doran of 4,123 Boulevard Avenue, Chelsea Heights, started for the hospital in his automobile and, when the car failed, ran to the hospital carrying the unconscious boy, who had stopped breathing. After the water had been worked from the child's system, artificial respiration caused him to breathe again. His condition was given as good late tonight.

URGES LEGISLATION FOR WHEAT RAISERS

Representative Ayers Holds Farm Board Should Seek More Relief Laws.

ASSAILS FARM BOARD HEAD

Kansan Declares Board Hopes Drought or Insects Will Curtail Crop Production.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Efforts to reduce wheat acreage and curtail overproduction, to be effective, should be made through legislation rather than through appeals to farmers to take this voluntary action, Representative Ayres of Kansas said today.

Contending that Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, has discounted the value of a suggestion by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma that an international conference be called to stem the world-wide overproduction, Representative Ayres said:

"If there is no help for the wheat farmer through a world-wide effort to reduce wheat production, and the wheat farmer must remove himself from the export field, then it would appear to be the solemn duty of the Farm Board to prepare and recommend to the coming Congress legislation which will place in force this newest plan of the Farm Board."

After ten years' study and consideration by the Congress, Mr. Ayres continued, and after one year's operation under the farm relief act and with the expenditure of a large part of the $500,000,000 appropriated, we now have for the consideration of the American wheat farmer proposals to reduce the acreage of wheat some 25 per cent, "which means in many sections a sentence to wheat farmers to go out of business," and the Farm Board's plan "to welcome the assistance of droughts, floods, chinch bugs, grasshoppers, boll weevils and army worms."

Contending that the Farm Board had been successful in relieving almost every agricultural industry except wheat, Mr. Ayres said that "last year, when wheat was selling for $1.25 a bushel, the board advised the farmers to hold for a better price and that prices have fallen to 60 cents a bushel."

Says "Request" Will Not Curtail Crop.

"Chairman Legge, speaking for the board in a letter to Senator Thomas of Oklahoma," Representative Ayers continued, "said that the wheat farmers would in the future be governed not by the farm relief law, but either the law of the jungle, which means survival of the fittest, or by the law of supply and demand.

"Under this announcement, the farmers have the choice of competing with the pauper labor of the world in producing wheat, or they can voluntarily organize and cooperate and reduce their acreage some 25 per cent and thus curtail wheat production some 200,000,000 bushels, when Chairman Legge says the tariff of 42 cents per bushel will begin to operate.

"The new remedy of the Farm Board is for the American wheat growers to limit their production to the domestic demand. Under this policy no possible aid can come to the wheat sections either this year or in the near future because with only a request that wheat production be curtailed it is not thought humanly possible that much curtailment will be brought about.

"In fairness it should be conceded that the distress of agriculture is a world problem; that the vast majority of the people of the world are engaged in the production of food and, with an overproduction of food and the consequent financial distress among the great masses of the people, it is easy to assign this reason as the cause for the present industrial world-wide distress."

Legge Sees Poor Corn Crop.

The Farm Board chairman will go to Indianapolis on Friday to attend a large gathering of farm representatives, and then swing west again, after returning from that territory, possibly meeting Secretary Hyde at a Western point. Mr. Legge will reach Portland, Ore., a week from Sunday, according to his present itinerary, and meanwhile will have attended grain conferences and discussions on the livestock industry.

Chairman Legge said today regarding the ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission issued Friday, which raised freight rates on all coarse grains to those paid by wheat, that he believed that this would be a good thing in limiting the movement of grain, encouraging farmers to keep corn for stock-feeding purposes at its point of origin.

The corn prospects, he stated, continue to appear worse because of the widespread drought, which threatens a shortage in this commodity, pronounced by Mr. Legge "the most important crop of them all." This drought, he added, appears to be the worst one in thirty years.

FLIER SUSPENDED FOR BERMUDA HOP

was the first instance in which an ocean flier has been disciplined for ignoring the legal formalities, while regular lines have repeatedly routed their ships over international boundaries without complying with the technical requirement of obtaining permission in advance.

A group of leaders in air transportation met at the call of Frank A. Tichenor, editor of Aero Digest, yesterday afternoon to discuss the situation. It was the consensus at the meeting that the present situation might serve to establish a precedent seriously handicapping the future expansion of American air lines to other countries.

Rivalry Is Pointed Out.

It was pointed out by authorities who were unwilling to be quoted that keen rivalry exists in the establishment of new international airways and that Imperial Airways, Ltd., holds the exclusive rights to air traffic to Bermuda. The flights of Williams and Yancey have demonstrated that a regular air line between New York and Bermuda is feasible, it was said, and might have served to interest American flying companies in such a line.

Notice of his suspension came to Williams as a surprise. He said that at first he thought the notice was a practical joke on the part of friends of his and when he found it was genuine he was astounded. He pointed out that the scientific data he had collected in the flight had been received with gratitude by officials of the Navy Department and the Weather Bureau in Washington.

Vincent J. Burnelli, employer of the pilot, said that his suspension would seriously hamper the development of a huge multi-motored plane which Williams is under contract to put through test flights and stress analyses at the Newark Airport. He announced that he would seek to appeal the suspension in an effort to have Williams's license restored at the earliest possible time.

OFFICERS OF R-100 LONG WITH AIRSHIPS

NAVIGATOR FLEW TO INDIA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—The five officers and crew of thirty-two of the airship R-100 include many who have had long and valuable airship experience. In supreme command is Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, designated as "captain," who was senior officer on the airship R-33 when she broke away from her mooring tower at Pulham and weathered a gale over the North Sea with a crumpled bow. He brought her back safely to her shed. For this he received a bar to his Air Force Cross.

Squadron Leader Booth is thirty-five years old. He started his military life in the navy and became a captain of non-rigid airships during the World War. He is a competent airplane pilot. He has been attached to the Royal Airship Works at Cardington since 1924 and is assigned from the Royal Air Force for duty on airships.

Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, navigating officer, was navigator on the first Imperial Airways flight to India. Captain G. F. Meager, first officer, commanded airships during the World War. Flying Officer M. H. Steff, second officer, who was lent from the staff of the dirigible R-101 for this flight, is expert in kite balloons.

Wann Is R-38 Survivor.

Squadron Leader A. H. Wann is supernumerary officer. He was responsible for the instruction of the United States naval airship detachment which came to Britain in 1921 to fly the ill-fated airship R-38 across the Atlantic. He was in command of this ship when she broke up over Hull and was the only survivor from the fore part of the airship.

M. A. Giblett, superintendent of the airship division of the Meteorological Office will be meteorologist. He has been associated with this side of airship navigation since 1921.

The members of the crew are:

Chief Coxswain—Flight Sergeant T. Greenstreet.

Assistant Coxswains—L. A. Moncriff, G. E. Long, T. Horrs.

Riggers—C. Broughts, G. G. Cutts, R. L. Deverell, C. Flatters, C. H. Rumsby, G. R. Scott, F. Williams, A. Wiseman.

Foreman Engineer—W. Angus.

Chargehand Engineers—N. Man, A. F. Stupple, G. Watts.

Engineers—R. Ball, H. W. Clark, H. Cumley, F. Gaye, L. A. Hunt, J. Jowitt, D. L. Elliott, H. Millward, J. M. Sturgeon.

Radio Chargehand—S. Kelley.

Radio Operators—G. H. Atkins, A. Disley.

Chief Steward—A. H. Savidge.

Stewards—F. Hodnett, J. F. Meegan.

Captain's Clerk—A. Eldridge.

Very few passengers in addition to the officers and crew are being carried. Wing Commander R. B. Colmore is aboard as director of airship development and Major G. H. Scott, who commanded the R-34 on its Atlantic flight, is on the airship in his capacity of assistant director of airship development. The only other persons aboard are F. M. McWade, air ministry inspector; Sir Dennistoun Burney and N. S. Norway of the airship constructing firm, and Lieut. Commander R. St. J. Prentice of the aircraft carrier Courage.

Burney Urged Big Airships.

Sir Dennistoon Burney, who is managing director of the Airship Guarantee Company, Ltd., which built the R-100, is a retired officer of the Royal Navy. Famous as the inventor of the paravane, a device for rendering harmless the mines laid by the Germans in the war, Commander Burney proposed to the British Government in 1922 that it assist in the building of giant aircraft to protect the nation's status in the air.

In October, 1924, official approval was given to the plan, with the government and Vickers, Ltd., jointly financing the project. The contract called for an airship capable of carrying 100 passengers and a crew of 45 and capable of making not less than seventy miles an hour. It was intended to use the craft commercially in a service to link England, Egypt and India by air.

Work was started on the ship in 1926 and it was expected that the R-100 would be ready for tests in 1927. Changes in design in 1928 slowed up the construction, and in October, 1928, when the Graf Zeppelin made its first voyage to Lakehurst, the R-100 still was in its hangar at Hamden.

Early in 1930 the R-100 made its first trial flight. It was scheduled to leave for Canada in May, but the trip was postponed until late in June. Then an accident to the airship's tail prevented a take-off. Since then the tail has been shortened and rounded as an improvement in design.

Meanwhile the delays and postponements aroused suspicion in England. Critics attacked the construction of the air liner, hinting that it was not airworthy; that the boast of Commander Burney that it was five times as strong as any other dirigible was an exaggerated faith in his own ship. The flight to Canada was awaited anxiously, for it was felt that the ship's behavior on the voyage would show whether the critics or the defenders were right.

R-100 Is Unlike Graf Zeppelin In Many of Her Vital Features

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—No airship like the R-100 has ever been seen on the North American Continent. She is shorter and fatter than the German Graf Zeppelin, with which the following figures give a comparison:

Capacity, in cubic feet...	5,157,000	3,708,000
Gross lift, in tons........	156.5	129

Diameter, in feet.........	133	100
Height	133	113
Number of engines......	6	5

Germany has a new airship under construction with 5,500,000 cubic feet gas capacity, with a gross lift of 167 tons, and America has two ships under construction with 6,500,000 cubic feet gas capacity and with a gross lift of 180 tons.

R-100 CREW HAS AID OF WEALTH OF DATA

Extensive Radio Reports Are Available—Fuel Supply Far Exceeds Normal Needs.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—No airship has ever started to cross the Atlantic with such organization behind it as has been provided for the R-100. This is due mainly to the early appreciation by the British airship branch of the Air Ministry that the secret of successful airship transport is a complete knowledge of the prevalent weather on any route and the importance of setting up a wireless and weather reporting system covering minutely a broad airship lane between two terminal points.

The pioneer voyage of the R-34 was virtually plunged into the meteorological unknown, compared with the elaborate study now completed of Atlantic weather. Even the Graf Zeppelin, making occasional flights from Europe to the United States, could not have the wealth of data at its disposal almost hourly as will be the case with the R-100.

From the moment it leaves Cardington Airport it will receive by radio a selection of the regular synoptic reports issued from the British Meteorological Office, special reports from the meteorological centre at Cardington Airport, weather messages from ships at sea, regular synoptic reports from Greenland, regular weather reports issued by the United States Weather Bureau via Arlington radio station and other special reports from the Canadian Meteorological Office, which has established a forecasting centre at St. Hubert.

M. A. Giblett, meteorological officer aboard the airship, will prepare weather charts every six hours, and the route followed will be based mainly on deductions made from these charts.

It may seem curious that, with all this advance knowledge and preparation, the R-100, with accommodations for 100 passengers or more, is carrying only its crew across to Canada. The Air Ministry holds, however, that this is an experimental flight in which safety is to be the predominant factor, and until experience has been gained with actual meteorological conditions and the best methods of meeting them every available ton of the airship lift, namely, 156½ tons, should be devoted to extra fuel.

An airship of the size of the R-100 with its 5,170,000 cubic feet capacity is entirely new and the organizers of the flight are insisting on wide margins of safety at every point until practical operation has shown the normal margin needed to combat all conditions. Thus, if depressions are ahead, the course can be altered without fear of running short of fuel to get on the side of a disturbance where winds are favorable instead of plunging on blindly against headwinds on a direct course.

Both long and short wave radio transmission will be under the call sign G—FAAV, but the actual wave lengths have not been disclosed. For the first 1,000 miles communication will be direct with Cardington, then from Long. 35 degrees W. the signals will pass through the postoffice's great station at Rugby. Weather signals will pass via Louisburg station until the Canadian coast is crossed, when communication will be direct to St. Hubert. Once within 100 miles of the base at St. Hubert, the airship may change to telephony and Wing Commander Colmore is to give a short broadcast talk under arrangements with the Canadian National Railways.

The airship's route will depend on the air currents. Three northerly and three southerly routes have been planned. The most northerly is a Great Circle course via North Ireland to a point south of Cape Farewell in Greenland and then a Mercator course to Belle Isle, across Labrador and along the St. Lawrence River to St. Hubert. The distance of this route is approximately 3,385 miles.

The next is a Great Circle course from North Ireland to Belle Isle and thence to the Canadian base, 3,260 miles. The third northerly route is via Southwest Ireland and thence to Belle Isle, 3,300 miles. The southerly routes in each case are much longer than the northerly ones.

All the crew will wear the new civilian uniform specially designed for the R-100 and R-101. A well-equipped electric kitchen will insure ample hot meals for all aboard throughout the trip, but the dietary is rather on the Spartan side.

Specimens menus are: Breakfast, bacon or sardines, milk, tea and sugar; dinner, fresh meat, vegetables, bread biscuit or preserved meat, tinned fruit, cheese, bread and biscuit; tea, bread, biscuit, jam, dried fruit, tea, milk and sugar, and supper, bread, biscuit, cheese, cocoa, milk and sugar, or bread, biscuit, preserved meat, cocoa, milk and sugar.

THE R-100 IN FLIGHT, AND PROPOSED ROUTE TO CANADA.

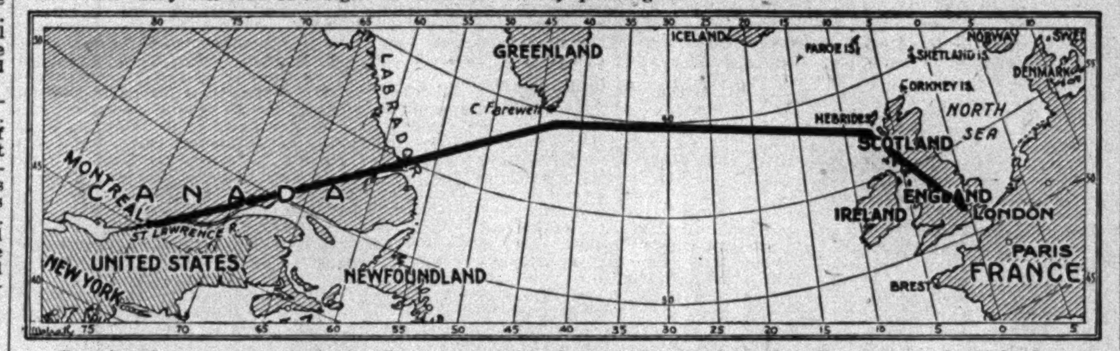
British dirigible, off for Canada, with seven passengers, five officers and thirty-two men, on her first trip across the Atlantic. The airship is 709 feet long and 133 feet in diameter. Its gas capacity is 5,157,000 cubic feet and it can carry ten tons of freight in addition to fifty passengers.



Starting from its hangar at Cardington, near London, the R-100 planned to fly north to the Hebrides, then to a point southeast of Greenland and finally head straight for Montreal.

accompanying the flight as he at one time hoped. It ran: "The R-100 is setting out on the first flight yet made by an airship to a mooring tower erected by one of our great overseas dominions and I confidently hope it will be a prelude to new development in imperial communications. I wish you all aboard a quick and prosperous flight."

A special guard had been mounted at the tower to prevent any stowaways getting aboard and the ship was well searched before the cast-off.

For all its great bulk of more than 5,000,000 cubic feet, the ship is the world's fastest lighter-than-air craft, having attained a top speed of eighty-one and a half miles an hour in its trials. Yet it still is an experiment, for when first designed it was twice the size of any existing airship and since has had to undergo many modifications.

When its captain, Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, gave the order to cast off, it planned to follow the Great Circle course to North America, which will mean a flight of at least 3,242 miles.

Commander Sir Dennistoun Burney, who is responsible for the ship's construction and who has lavished years of his life on the development of airships, is aboard it, but besides the flying crew of five officers and thirty-two men there are only three other technicians aboard as passengers.

Expected to Take Three Days.

The voyage is expected to take not more than three days, but just as wide a margin has been allowed as to the loading and fueling with the thirty tons of gasoline, so that provisions for a much longer time are aboard. Food for five days is being carried. This consists of ordinary rations for three days, reserve rations for one day and emergency rations for one day.

With so large an airship as the R-100, the product of ten years' research since the R-34 made the pioneer voyage to the United States and back, the flight is regarded as largely experimental. One of the most interesting experiments of the flight will be made on behalf of the Cambridge School of Agriculture to ascertain whether the upper air over the Atlantic contains traces of vegetable organisms or minute living spores. The airship accordingly carries a number of "Petri-U" dishes—small flat glass disks coated with a preparation of gum agar-agar, which will be exposed outside the control car at regular intervals.

Microscopic organisms can adhere to the gum preparation and can survive and breed upon it. If the existence of these vegetable organisms can be proved it will provide data on many outstanding problems in the botanical world.

Start Without Trouble.

CARDINGTON, July 29 (AP).—As the R-100 cast loose from its mooring mast a cold, strong wind was blowing. Everything went smoothly, however, and the ship soared rapidly and headed off for Liverpool and the Irish Sea.

A crowd that had eagerly watched the preparations for hours gave loud cheers to the departing giant.

The start was businesslike and uneventful. The engines were set running soon after 3 A. M. and roared loudly as the starting time approached.

It was announced the airship would cross the English coast at Liverpool and then head northward toward the Hebrides Islands, off the west coast of Scotland, in order to avoid a depression north of Ireland.

England's most famous airship commander, Major G. H. Scott, is aboard but not in command. Wing Commander R. B. B. Colmore also is on board as director of airship development and will represent the Air Ministry while the R-100 is in Canada.

The 2,000 pounds of food carried includes the surprisingly un-British item of chewing gum. There are 500 gallons of drinking and washing water on board. Meals will be served in the dining room and cooked in a kitchen adjoining.

A careful watch was kept aboard the ship and about its mooring mast and hangar for possible stowaways. An officer was especially assigned to keep a check on every person authorized to make the transatlantic voyage.

On the R-100 the necessity for keeping off uninvited but ambitious transatlantic passengers was urgent. All the data regarding the airship's performance, as well as the rationing of the food supplies, have been worked out to a fine point so that even one extra person would upset careful calculations.

Largest Airship in the World.

The R-100, built with the R-101, is the largest airship in the world. It is 709 feet long and 133 feet in diameter. The R-101 is 724 feet long but is slimmer.

The R-100 was originally designed for the London-Egypt-India trade and is so constructed that its cruising radius should range between 4,000 and 6,000 miles. It can carry a load of ten tons of freight in addition to a passenger list of fifty. The volume of the gas bags is 5,157,000 cubic feet, giving the ship a gross lift of 156 tons.

The last trip of a British dirigible across the Atlantic to the North American Continent was in 1919, when the dirigible R-34 crossed from Scotland to Mineola, L. I., covering a distance of 3,200 miles in 108 hours. It carried a crew of thirty-one, including a stowaway. The return journey of about 3,000 miles was made in 79 hours.

The R-34 was the first craft of its kind to cross the Atlantic. It had a capacity of 1,960,000 cubic feet, a length of 640 feet and a gross lift of fifty-nine and a half tons.

The R-34 was wrecked in 1921 by a windstorm at Hamden, which almost cut it in two. It was believed at the time that a mooring mast would have been effective in preventing the wreck.

Since the voyage of the R-34 to the United States, two other dirigibles have made the crossing, the ZR-3, now the Los Angeles, which was built in Germany and was flown to the United States by Dr. Hugo Eckener as part of the German war reparations to the United States, and the Graf Zeppelin, which has made several trips to America and one voyage around the world.

BAD FLYING WEATHER LIES IN PATH OF R-100

United States Weather Offices Say Showers and Adverse Winds Will Prevail.

The ocean weather conditions predicted for the flight of the British dirigible R-100 to Montreal indicate that the crossing will tax the ability of its fliers and navigators, according to the data collected from ships at sea by the Weather Bureau offices here and in Washington. For the eastern half of the ocean, showers, overcast skies and adverse winds are predicted from Washington. West of 60 degrees W. longitude, clearing skies and moderate northeast winds may hasten the dirigible as far as the coastline off Nova Scotia.

From Nova Scotia to Montreal a chart of the weather for the next forty-eight hours, compiled by Dr. James H. Kimball of the New York station, reveals two troughs of low pressure extending from Canada to the Chesapeake Bay. Both troughs are now moving northeastward and will be in the path of the R-100 when it is en route over land, he said. Entering each, the dirigible will encounter southwesterly winds to the centre then northwesterly to the intermediate high pressures and on into the normal lows which are expected to prevail near Montreal at the scheduled time of arrival. The temperatures are normal off the Grand Banks at this time of year, a condition which should obviate the danger of ice formation on the surfaces of the craft which might make it too heavy to fly, Dr. Kimball added.

The Washington station yesterday declined to predict the conditions for more than a twenty-four-hour period. Reports still coming in from ships nearing Europe are being charted and a more complete report of weather ahead will be radioed to the navigator of the R-100 as it plows its way westward over the ocean late tonight and tomorrow.

PLAN OCEAN AIRLINE BY PLANE AND DIRIGIBLE

Lufthansa and Spanish Group Agree on Service, Our Consul at Barcelona Hears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—A combined airplane-dirigible service between Germany and South American cities, via Spain, may be inaugurated as the "result of negotiations which are reported as having been concluded between the Deutsche Lufthansa and the Compañia de Navigácion Aerea Española Colon," the Department of Commerce was informed today in a report from Frank Anderson Henry, American consul at Barcelona, Spain.

"The service," said the consul's report, "contemplates the transportation of passengers from Berlin to Seville by airplane and from Seville to South America by Zeppelins."

Whether the plan for the establishment of the service foreshadows the sale of the Graf Zeppelin to the new line or the use of Zeppelins to be especially built for the service could not be ascertained from Commerce Department officials tonight.

The Graf Zeppelin, on its most recent flight to the United States, took the route from Germany via Seville to Brazil. When the former was in Pernambuco, Brazil, last May, Dr. Hugo Eckener and the Governor of the State of Pernambuco, at a luncheon, drank toasts to the cause of permanent air communications between Germany and Brazil, and it was then stated that an agreement had been reached to make Pernambuco the terminus of a regular Zeppelin service between Europe and South America.

RECORD-SEEKING PLANE ON NINTH DAY ALOFT

Fliers Thrill Growing Gallery in Swoop Over Field—Face Bad Weather.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 28.—Louis Reichers and Robert Balck, pilots of the Lycoming-Stinson monoplane in which they are attempting a new refueling record above this field, passed on to their ninth day aloft here tonight at 8:34 o'clock by swooping down on the field to thrill the gallery, which increases steadily as the flight advances on the 553-hour record set July 4 in Chicago by the Hunter brothers.

The fliers made four contacts during the day with a sister ship of their plane, used for refueling. In all they took on 240 gallons of gasoline, twenty of oil, meals, leather jackets for the cooler nights, newspapers and fan mail. The fuel supply was slightly greater than that of any previous day because of a predicted period of poor weather during which the refueling plane may not be able to establish contact so frequently.

The green plane, also a mate of the two used on the flight, is being kept ready to substitute for the refueling plane in case trouble develops. The green ship was to have been a participant in the endurance flight, but was forced down with a sick pilot on one of the hottest days of the recent heat wave.

ALICE DUPONT IN CRASH

She Escapes Injury in Mishap in Plane at Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 28.—About to take off on her second flight in her examination for a pilot's license at the Boston airport today, Miss Alice du Pont, 18-year-old daughter of A. Felix du Pont of Wilmington, Del., vice president of the du Pont interests, lost control of her plane which ground looped and struck a light monoplane on the starting line, causing slight damage to both ships.

She will return for further tests as soon as possible.

AIR DERBY PILOTS REST.

Twelve Fliers Will Leave Los Angeles Today for Ogden, Utah.

LOS ANGELES, July 28 (AP).—A dozen pilots, survivors of the All-American Air Derby, rested here today after completing approximately 4,000 miles of their aerial jaunt about the United States begun a week ago at Detroit.

The Derby will swing eastward Wednesday, reaching in one-day jumps Ogden, Omaha, Chicago and Detroit, where approximately $50,000 in prize money awaits the winners.

HIRTH PLANS FLIGHT TO ICELAND TODAY

TAKE-OFF OFFERS PROBLEM

War-Time Aviation Base Near Kirkwall Is Viewed as Possibility for Long Run With Heavy Load.

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, July 28 (AP).—Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German aviators who plan to cross the North Atlantic to the United States in a light sport plane, expressed the hope tonight that they would be able to hop off tomorrow on the next stage of their trip by way of Iceland and Greenland. Their departure will depend on weather conditions.

The German airmen, flying a light, single-motored airplane, arrived at Kirkwall late yesterday from England. They said they would follow the northern air route, which would carry them to Newfoundland and would make no effort to set speed or distance records.

Herr Weller said that upon arrival at Labrador the flight would be continued by easy stages along the St. Lawrence. The first landing in the United States, he said, probably would be Detroit. The airmen planned to visit numerous American cities during their stay.

The airmen, who set out from Germany on July 24, hope to visit a number of cities in the United States. Their plane is a forty-horsepower sport machine and carries no excessive baggage, not even radio. It is capable of a speed of 81 miles an hour.

The hop between the Orkney Islands and Iceland is approximately 850 miles.

The fliers spent much of the day seeking a good place to take off. A public park here where the plane now stands is too short to permit a plane to rise with a full load of fuel and oil. Hence the airmen were busy hunting sites after they had worked on their motor this morning. One place viewed was at Swanbister Bay, seven or eight miles from Kirkwall, which was used as an airplane base during the war.

Hirth was amusing in telling of their first experience with a Sunday in Scotland, where even most railway trains take a rest.

"We landed at Turnhouse, near Edinburgh, while on the way north to get some lunch," he said. "We found the place practically deserted. The one official we did see could think of nothing but his half-crown for a landing fee, so we set off at once for Kirkwall."

Herr Hirth, who was married recently, was asked if his wife would join him in America.

"Yes," he replied, "she will if I get there."

He said that he hoped to remain on the North American Continent about a year.

The wings were removed from the plane last night and five Boy Scouts, three of them sons of the German consul at Kirkwall, stood guard over it all night.

PASS WEEK IN FLIGHT.

Jackson and O'Brine Seek More Money in St. Louis Hop.

ST. LOUIS, July 28 (AP).—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine today began the second week of an endurance flight in which they hope to break the record of 554 hours recently established by the Hunter brothers in Chicago. At 7:11 o'clock tonight the fliers had gone twelve hours beyond the first week of the slight.

Jackson and O'Brine, in a note dropped from the plane, said more money to finance the flight was needed. Already about $20,000 had been subscribed, but flight officials say that is at least $9,500 short of the amount necessary.

Plans for putting a radio transmitting set in the plane, the Greater St. Louis, were abandoned after the pilots said the set would require too much room. They have a receiving set.

CLEARED IN MEXICAN CRASH

Col. Lezama, Chief Officer of First Air Regiment, Released.

MEXICO CITY, July 28 (AP).—Colonel Alfredo Lezama, chief officer of the First Air Regiment, who was arrested after the fatal crash of two airplanes last week, today was released by order of the Secretary of War and absolved of blame for the mishap.

The cause of the accident, in which four pilots and a civilian were killed, remains a mystery, flying conditions having been ideal at the time. Colonel Lezama denied that aviators in the first and second squadrons had placed a bet involving the ability of one of the planes to out-perform the other.

COURT HOLDS RENDT ILLEGALLY OUSTED

Justice Humphrey Bars Lynch From Chairmanship in Richmond County.

NOTICE OF APPEAL FILED

Democratic Meeting Presided Over by Rendt Fails to Develop Expected Clashes.

David S. Rendt, Commissioner of Public Works, won the first round of his fight with Borough President John A. Lynch for the leadership of the Democratic organization of Richmond County yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Burt J. Humphrey in Brooklyn ruled that Mr. Rendt had been ousted illegally from the county chairmanship and that the election of Mr. Lynch to succeed him was illegal.

Mr. Rendt presided last night at the meeting of the county committee at the Democratic county headquarters at Stapleton, at which trouble had been expected but which failed to materialize.

Justice Humphrey's decision, while it put Mr. Rendt back temporarily in the chairmanship, failed to settle the controversy, for Richard M. Cahoone, of counsel for Mr. Lynch, filed notice of appeal from the decision shortly after it was announced. Supporters of Mr. Lynch made it known that the fight against Mr. Rendt would be continued. The latter's term as chairman of the county committee will not expire until September, 1931, but the Lynch supporters let it be known that they would try to defeat Mr. Rendt for member of the Democratic State Committee from the Second Richmond Assembly District at the primary election on Sept. 16.

Rendt Forces to Retaliate.

Mr. Rendt's supporters, it was said, will seek to retaliate by running a candidate against Robert G. Lindsey, Democratic State Committeeman from the First Richmond Assembly District and a leader of the Lynch faction.

Justice Humphrey based his decision restoring the chairmanship to Mr. Rendt upon the contentions that the special meeting at which the latter was ousted was called illegally and that a change in the chairmanship was not specifically mentioned among the purposes for which the meeting was called.

Mr. Cahoone, in urging the court to sign an order to compel Mr. Rendt to turn over to Mr. Lynch the records and funds of the county committee, declared that the election of Mr. Lynch was accomplished by the votes of 395 out of 617 members of the county committee.

"The very presence of such a large number at such a meeting waived the necessity of having the meeting called by the chairman," Mr. Cahoone said.

Mr. Cahoone minimized the necessity of an immediate decision, but Mr. Norton urged Justice Humphrey to decide at once so that there might be no conflict over the presiding officer at the county committee meeting last night.

Order Served on Lynch.

Justice Humphrey signed an order restraining Mr. Lynch from functioning as country chairman and it was served upon the latter at Borough Hall, St. George, during the afternoon. The effect of the order was to prevent Mr. Lynch, who is not a member of the county committee, from attending a meeting which he had called as chairman.

Mr. Lynch, it was learned last night, made a last-minute effort to prevent Mr. Rendt from presiding at the Stapleton meeting. He obtained an order from Justice Lazansky, presiding officer of the Appellate Division in Brooklyn, that would stay Mr. Rendt from acting as chairman pending a review of Justice Humphrey's decision.

Instead of serving the order in time to keep Rendt out of the chair, a representative of Mr. Lynch called on Mr. Norton, Rendt's attorney, at 6:30 P. M., an hour and a half after the meeting was started. Mr. Norton then pointed out that the order was useless and it was withdrawn. It appeared that Mr. Lynch's representatives were under the impression that the meeting was scheduled for 7 P. M.

The meeting of the county committee was one of the shortest and most orderly ever held by the Richmond Democratic organization. About 250 members were present and it was noticeable that some of those who had voted for Mr. Lynch at the special meeting on July 21 were among those who congratulated Mr. Rendt upon his court victory.

William Grieme, secretary of the committee, read the call for the primary election, a formality required by law, and Mr. Rendt, as chairman, was authorized to notify the election officials of the party positions to be filled at the primary. The meeting lasted less than fifteen minutes and was without other incident.

Ruling on Appeal May Wait.

It is expected that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court will not decide Mr. Lynch's appeal until after the primary election and that Mr. Rendt in the meantime will continue to function as County Chairman. Tammany Hall is reported to be much interested in the Richmond situation and to hope for harmony, but a report that John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, had suggested the selection of William K. Walsh, Deputy Sanitation Commissioner, as a compromise County Chairman was denied.

Except to say that he was "greatly disappointed," Mr. Lynch would not comment upon the decision.

"I cannot express too fully how elated I am over the decision, although I never had any doubt of the outcome," Mr. Rendt said. "As I was elected by the County Committee in 1929 for two years and my term as county leader does not expire until the latter part of 1931, I never could see how I could be ousted legally. I also was quite sure that the court would uphold my contention that the special meeting at which Borough President Lynch was elected by a majority of the committee was illegal, inasmuch as the call sent out for the meeting did not state that an election was to take place. I hope that the decision of Judge Humphrey will be final so that peace and harmony may be restored in the party. As the court has decided that I am the legal county chairman of the Democratic Party in Richmond, I will continue to conduct the affairs of the party until my term expires."

Boys to Turn Tables on Edison in Test By Asking Him Questions on Boyhood Lore

Special to The New York Times.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 28.—A little questionnaire of their own, drawn up by the boys who will compete here next Thursday morning in the second annual examination for the Thomas A. Edison scientific scholarship, will be offered to the inventor tomorrow with a polite request that he try his hand at answering it, it was learned tonight.

They will not be ponderous questions about work, energy and power, the specific heat of water and indices of refraction, such as Mr. Edison loves to propound for budding scientists, but will relate, it is understood, to "subjects whose answers are familiar to most American boys." The questionnaire may be submitted to Mr. Edison at the Hotel Suburban in East Orange tomorrow night, when the boys will be his guests at dinner.

Whether Mr. Edison, whose boyhood days are buried deep in remote decades, will consider himself qualified to tackle a set of questions familiar to the boys of the new generation, remains to be seen. He has not been informed of the idea.

Forty-nine boys, representing all the States in the Union and the District of Columbia, will try for the Edison scholarship. The vanguard of the group arrived in East Orange today. They were William Welch of Selma, Ala.; Paul Ugstad of Tioga, N. D., and Robert Herman Smith of Las Vegas, N. M. A fourth aspirant for the scholarship, James H. Compton of Wichita, Kan., is visiting relatives in Caldwell, N. J.

On Wednesday morning the boys will meet at the Edison laboratories, make a tour of inspection, then have luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Edison in Llewellyn Park, visit the Edison plants in the Oranges, Bloomfield, Silver Lake and New Village, and in the evening will have dinner and dance at the Rock Spring Country Club in West Orange. Their hostesses will be high school girls of the Oranges.

This night of pleasure will prepare them for the examination which is scheduled for 8:15 Thursday morning. When they finish the test they will have luncheon at the Suburban, make a trip to New York and after touring the city will visit Coney Island and Manhattan Beach.

The winner of the scholarship is to be announced Friday.

BOY SITTING ON PIANO KILLED WHEN IT FALLS

Angelo Palumba, 4 years old, of 475 Rochester Avenue, Brooklyn, with a small group of boys from his neighborhood, played "cops and robbers" for several hours yesterday afternoon in the vacant lot at East New York and Rochester Avenues. After a time, when all the hiding places had been found and the youngsters were exhausted from running, Angelo spied an old piano amid a tangle of brush, leaves and rubbish.

He called to his playmates, and in a few moments they had resurrected it from its resting place and were examining its rusted keys and strings. They found a few in good condition and decided to stage a "cabaret."

Angelo decided to do the singing, so while one of his little friends sat at the keys he perched himself on top of the piano, a la Helen Morgan, and sang. Other boys were attracted, and when he had finished one song they crowded around and asked for more.

He obliged with many songs. Finally, a large crowd collected; persons from all over the neighborhood gathered, eager to hear Angelo sing and to applaud him.

At the end of one song a small group pushed forward to congratulate him. In some way, still unexplained, the crowd came too close and the piano swayed and toppled. Angelo, who a second before had been sitting proudly on its top, was carried with it and was thrown directly under it as it crashed to the earth. A few minutes later a horrified group of boys and older folk heard Dr. Lordacas of St. Mary's Hospital pronounce the little boy dead.

SEEK CANDIDATE FOR BENCH

Republicans Discuss Successor to Shientag—Name Subcommittee.

The executive committee of the New York County Republican Committee met yesterday afternoon and tried to pick a candidate for the nomination for justice of the city court to succeed Justice Bernard L. Shientag, recently elevated to the Supreme Court bench through appointment from Governor Roosevelt. Failing to reach an agreement, the task of making a tentative selection was entrusted to a subcommittee of nine members, which will meet at Republican county headquarters in the Tilden Building this afternoon.

The following were named on the committee: George M. Fanelli, leader in the western half of the Second District; Alexander Wolf of the Fourth Assembly District, Anthony P. Ludden of the northern half of the Fifth District; J. Wilfordt Eidt of the northern half of the Twelfth District, Miss Emily Marx of the Ninth, Miss Helen Laimbeer of the Fifteenth, William C. Hecht Jr. of the Sixteenth, William Duggan of the Twentieth and Jacob W. Friedman of the Twenty-third Assembly District.

SENDS FUNDS TO BUY FALLS

T. C. du Pont Guarantees Offer to Provide Kentucky Park.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 28 (AP).—Funds to guarantee former Senator T. Coleman du Pont's offer of $230,000 to buy Cumberland Falls for a State park were deposited in a Louisville bank today coincident with announcement that proceedings would be instituted in Whitley County Court to condemn the land. Attorney General Cammack announced at Frankfort that following refusal of the Cumberland River Power Company to sell the land to the State he had ordered condemnation proceedings.

John M. Doolan, a Louisville attorney, announced the deposit of funds, subject to the Attorney General's draft, to guarantee the offer made by Mr. du Pont. The State proposes to acquire the falls and 573 acres of adjacent land. The power company, an Insull subsidiary, has a petition before the Federal Commission for a permit to construct a hydroelectric power plant at the falls.

SAGUE MAY OPPOSE FISH.

Former Collector Here Urged by Dutchess Democrats for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

GARRISON, N. Y., July 28.—The Democratic organization of Dutchess County has started a boom for former Mayor John K. Sague of Poughkeepsie, one-time Collector of the Port of New York and widely known in State politics, for Representative in Congress from the Twenty-sixth District to oppose Representative Hamilton Fish, Republican of Garrison.

The Democrats feel that, because of the unemployment problem in the cities of the district and the resentment of some of the "drys" because Representative Fish has been quoted as stating he would favor modification, a strong Democrat can win.

The district embraces Putnam, Dutchess and Orange Counties, and normally is Republican.

TWO BANDITS ARE SLAIN ROBBING DAKOTA BANK

Third Is Fatally Shot After Men Had Forced the Cashier to Surrender $13,000.

GLEN CROSS, S. D., July 28 (AP).—Two men were shot and killed and another was fatally wounded as they attempted to escape after robbing the Glen Cross State Bank of $13,000 today.

The wounded man and one of the men slain were identified by P. J. Schirber, cashier of the bank, as Melvin Scranton and George A. Anderson, both of Timberlake. The third man was unidentified.

The three men flourished pistols as they entered the bank and compelled the cashier to hand over all the money in the vault.

The men escaped to the street, but the cashier took a revolver from his cage and killed one of them as he reached the sidewalk.

Sheriff Henry Johnson, who had been "tipped off" that there would be a robbery, fired from cover, killing a second man and probably fatally wounding the third.

The shooting of the bank bandits was the first telling resistance to a series of bank robberies in the Northwest.

TO ASK MERCY FOR URPHALI.

Counsel for Palestine Jew Under Death Sentence to Ask Clemency.

LONDON, July 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—In view of the refusal of the Privy Council, the highest legal tribunal in the British Empire, to hear the appeal from the death sentence of Joseph Mizrachi Urphali, the only Jew under such sentence in Palestine as a result of the events growing out of last Summer's riots, counsel for Urphali is preparing a petition to the High Commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, for a pardon or at least a commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

After he was sentenced to death by the lower court, the Court of Appeal ordered a new trial for Urphali when it ruled out evidence presented by the prosecution. At his second trial he was found guilty and resentenced. When Arab prisoners found guilty of murder had their sentences commuted to life imprisonment, no action was taken regarding Urphali because his appeal was pending before the Privy Council.

Now it is learned that when he was resentenced the court inserted a plea for clemency in its decision and on the basis of this plea Urphali's counsel will ask for a pardon or commutation.

2 HURT IN CHEMICAL FIRE.

Explosions Shake Houses Near Baltimore—Loss Put at $250,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 28.—Two men were injured and one was overcome by alcohol fumes in a fire that wrecked one of the main buildings of the United States Industrial Chemical Company at Fairfield, near Baltimore, today.

The fire was accompanied by explosions, which occurred at two or three minute intervals as the flames ran from one drum of chemicals to another.

Near-by buildings and homes were shaken by other explosions which resulted when hot steel girders toppled over and crashed into tanks of gasoline.

The loss was estimated at $250,000.

$109,250 BAIL SET IN BANK FRAUD CASE

$25,000 FOR NOTE BROKER

Largest Security Required From W. D. Miller—Wilkinson Says Bellport National Lost $500.

The seventeen defendants indicted a week ago for alleged frauds in the handling of the funds of three Long Islands banks appeared yesterday before Federal Judge Sheppard in Brooklyn to have bail fixed or to have their former bail continued. The total bail set for the security of the seventeen amounted to $109,250.

Those who were indicted were former officers and directors of the Long Island National Bank of Astoria, the Elmhurst National Bank and the Bellport National Bank. Of the last two only the presidents were indicted. In addition to the former president, two former vice presidents and a number of directors of the Long Island National Bank, several employes were named in the indictments. Others were a note broker and a customers' man.

When counsel for William Douglas Miller, note broker of Tenafly, N. J., requested that the $25,000 bail in which Miller had originally been held under other indictments be reduced, Assistant United States Attorney James E. Wilkinson, who headed the investigation of the banks, told Judge Sheppard that as a result of schemes in which Miller aided, "the Bellport Securities Corporation lost $225,000, and the Bellport National Bank is still out $500, while the funds of the Elmhurst bank were used to pay interest on forged notes."

Mr. Wilkinson's statement contradicts announcements made by Alderman Francis D. McGarey, counsel for the Bellport bank, which were sent to the newspapers after the publication of articles telling of the indictments. Mr. McGarey wrote that the Bellport bank "did not lose one cent, directly or indirectly," and that "the Bellport Securities Corporation is not connected with the Bellport National Bank." United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli, in a statement issued at the time the indictments were handed up, also said that the Bellport bank lost nothing.

Federal investigators have said that not only did the bank and the securities corporation have the same officers, and boards of directors, and the same counsel, but the records of the securities corporation were kept at the bank. Mr. McGarey reiterated yesterday his statement that the bank had not lost a cent.

Albert F. Graff, former director of the Long Island National Bank, and Albert R. Allen and Dr. Edward F. Wagner, former vice presidents, were continued in $5,000 bail. They pleaded to the indictments several days ago. Albert H. Hansen, former president of the Elmhurst National Bank, who pleaded guilty some time ago to two counts of a long indictment against him, was continued in $7,500 bail, and Miller was continued in $25,000 bail under all the indictments against him.

The bail fixed for the others was:

FRANK X. ONGARO, former cashier, $9,250.
HAROLD CASNER, former assistant cashier, $20,000.
FRANK PALLANTE, former director, $1,500.
ARTHUR R. ILLING, former director, $1,500.
WILLIAM H. NAST, former director, $1,500.
LOUIS J. KLOVRZA, former director, $1,500.
HERMAN F. PLUMP, former director, $1,500.
JULIUS LINK, former director, $2,500.
ANGELO DI FALCO, former general bookkeeper, $2,500.

HELD IN BIG STOCK FRAUDS

Long Island Man, It Is Charged, Paid Company's Dividends From Capital.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 28.—Charles C. Hubbell, formerly an officer in the Long Island Commercial Discount Corporation and the Francerne Company of Fifth Avenue, New York, was arraigned today before Edward T. Neu, Justice of the Peace, in Lynbrook on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree for fraudulent stock and sales transactions. He was released later in $10,000 bail by County Judge Lewis J. Smith.

Mr. Hubbell, who is married and lives at 128 Chestnut Street, Garden City, resigned as treasurer of the Long Island company on Jan. 8 after almost 8,000 shares of stock had been sold and several hundred thousand dollars had been obtained, it was charged.

It was charged that although the corporation's income was little or nothing dividends had been paid out from capital and loans were made to other corporations in need of financing and which later went into bankruptcy. One of these was the Francene Company, of which Hubbell was president and principal stockholder. It was charged that the Francene Company was organized by Hubbell, John J. Lynch and another in August, 1926, under the Delaware laws to distribute products of the Permo Waver Company, dealer in hair-waving appliances and cosmetics, but it had little revenue from this cource, according to the investigation made by the police.

BOY OF 5 RESCUES CHILD.

Gives Alarm and Holds Up Boy in Utah Mill Stream.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 28 (AP).—If there are any hero medals for 5-year-old life savers Calvin Morris of this city is a candidate for one of them. He rescued a 4-year-old boy from drowning.

Passing a mill stream at Logan, Utah, where he was visiting last week with his parents, Calvin saw Bobbie Nielsen fall into the water. He ran to the mill and gave the alarm and then hurried back to the stream where the younger boy had been carried against a grating by the swift current.

Stooping over, he grasped Bobbie's arm and held on until help arrived. Just below the grating the stream makes a thirty foot drop.

736 Added to Teachers' List.

The list of teachers eligible for appointment to elementary school posts will be increased by 736 names tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by the Board of Examiners. With the addition of these names of young men and women who successfully passed the License No. 1 examination last January, the waiting list of teaching candidates will reach a total of 3,872 persons. Only several hundred of these can be appointed to Fall-term vacancies.

DENIES QUEENS FAVORS BEACH CHAIR LENDERS

Halleran Replies to Charges of Favoritism Made by Coney Island Concessionaire.

The battlefront in the chair-sitting controversy shifted to Queens yesterday, where Acting Borough President John J. Halleran, denied vigorously charges by Alexander Meyers, the Coney Island beach-chair concessionaire, that the borough had awarded to a favored few the chair rights at Rockaway Beach. Mr. Halleran issued to the whole city a blanket invitation to bring its furniture to the Queens beach and sit in peace.

"We let no concessions in the Rockaways, but grant permits to owners or lessees of property on the beach front or abutting streets to rent chairs and umbrellas," he said. "Legally, such persons are permittees and not concessionaires."

Mr. Meyers charged that the Rockaway operators demanded a daily rental of $1 to $2 for their chairs, whether the sitter sat for five minutes or twenty-four hours. At Coney Island the charge is 5 cents an hour.

To this Mr. Halleran replied that the borough had fixed the price at 50 cents a day on weekdays and 75 cents on Sunday. Evidence of higher rates would bring the immediate suspension of the operator's rights, he said.

"If Mr. Meyers or any other citizen knows of cases of overcharging," he declared, "I earnestly request that they submit evidence of such to my office."

Last night Assemblyman Albert D. Schanzer of Brighton Beach submitted an eight-page brief to Corporation Counsel Hilly to prove that the city ordinance forbidding chairs on the beach was illegal, or, if legal, that the police acted illegally in applying the ordinance to private sitters. He cited many past decisions on related topics. Mr. Hilly was to have reached a decision yesterday on the legality of the ordinance. Late yesterday, however, Borough President Hesterberg had not received word from the corporation counsel. Earlier in the day Mr. Hilly announced that he was still studying the matter and expected to give a verdict promptly.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Mr. Meyers, who is president of the M. & C. Chair Operating Company, Inc., has a suit pending against the city for damages he says he suffered in Rockaway Beach three years ago. He charges that after the borough had granted him a monopoly on the Rockaway chair rights no attempt was made to restrain wildcat operators.

FIND CARL BERGER DIED BY GAS IN ACCIDENT

Police and Medical Officials Now Lay Death of Queens Politician to Boiling Over of Coffee Pot.

Carl Berger, Democratic leader of the Sixth Assembly District in Queens died of asphyxiation by illuminating gas last Tuesday and not of heart failure as was first reported, it became known yesterday.

According to Dr. Richard Grimes, deputy medical examiner in Brooklyn, the death of Mr. Berger was accidental. He said that a coffee pot boiling over extinguished the flames of a gas stove on which it was standing while Mr. Berger was resting in the kitchen of his home, 300 St. Nicholas Avenue, Ridgewood. His body was found eight hours later.

The detectives who were called in after the body was discovered by Michael Schoenherr, who made his home with Mr. Berger, reported the death as due to heart failure superinduced by the extreme heat. It was said they had not been informed that the boiling coffee had put out the gas flames until after their report was made, but that the report was subsequently corrected and the medical examiner's office in Brooklyn notified.

Dr. Grimes said yesterday he talked with Schoenherr and from his personal inspection of the body and premises it was his opinion that the death was accidental. He called attention to the fact that the kitchen window as well as the doors were open and that Mr. Berger when found was in his night clothes sitting in a chair near the window with his feet propped up in another chair.

It was also explained that for more than five years Mr. Berger, who was 58 years old at the time of his death, had been under treatment for heart trouble. Friends of Mr. Berger said yesterday that he frequently complained of his heart and of the severe heat. Dr. Grimes also said that there was nothing found in the Berger home to warrant any further investigation.

The plane came down at Cossin, near this village, forced to halt by motor trouble. As it touched the ground it burst into flames. One occupant was slightly cut, and the other three were unharmed.

from a situation which he has admittedly found embarrassing. He was one of the first witnesses called at the inquiry into the affairs of Woody & Co. which was opened five weeks ago before Henry K. Davis, Federal bankruptcy receiver. He has spent days on the witness stand, explaining his transactions with Mr. Ryder, and his testimony was unfinished when the negotiations for a return of assets were opened.

Bailey Tells of Stock Deals.

According to Mr. Bailey's testimony, he met Mr. Ryder in July, 1928. Mr. Ryder was then favorably known as a young money maker in the stock market and a spender on Broadway. Mr. Bailey, a veteran banker and director of twenty-one important corporations, said he was so impressed by him that he let Mr. Ryder handle his stock operations. Mr. Ryder, in a sworn statement, on the other hand, said he and Mr. Bailey had a joint trading account in which they were to share profits and losses equally, and that eventually he lost $2,000,000 for Mr. Bailey, together with as much of his own money.

According to Mr. Bailey's testimony, Mr. Ryder disposed of stock without authorization or failed to turn over stock purchased or the proceeds of sales of stock belonging to Mr. Bailey, starting in September, 1929. Nevertheless Mr. Bailey continued to do business through him until the firm of Woody & Co. failed last June.

Mr. Bailey also testified that in January, 1930, he reached an understanding whereby Mr. Ryder signed an acknowledgment of $2,000,000 indebtedness. Mr. Ryder swears he did not believe he owed this amount, but agreed to repay it in fear of arrest.

When Mr. Bailey was on the witness stand he was asked by counsel for the receiver why he did not consider it his duty in January, knowing Ryder's insolvency and how it involved the newly formed concern of Woody & Co., to warn the Stock Exchange or take some action to protect the general public. "I considered their principal indebtedness was to me," Mr. Bailey replied. "That is, I considered it a special case of insolvency."

Mr. Bailey further testified that Mr. Ryder offered to repay him at the rate of $50,000 a week, but that he told him nobody could earn that much a week but that he would take $25,000 a week and "give him a chance."

He was asked if he believed that a young man who had so little left after the crash could earn enough to repay $25,000 a week.

"He earned much more than that before," Mr. Bailey retorted. As security he took an assignment of the Park Avenue apartment at 270 Park Avenue as well as an assignment of the concern's Stock Exchange seat which has since been denounced as a forgery.

When Mr. Ryder's efforts to pay Mr. Bailey ended with the collapse of Woody & Co. Ryder at first refused to answer questions on the stand. Recently, however, he has been cooperating with them in untangling his transactions.

The hearings which were to be resumed yesterday before Federal Bankruptcy Referee Davis were postponed until 2 P. M. today.

YANCEY IN PLANE PHONES 14,000 MILES

OPENS NEW RADIO LINK

From an airplane 5,000 feet above the flying field at Buenos Aires, Captain Lewis Yancey talked yesterday by radiophone with Sydney, Australia. Besides being the first public demonstration of radiotelephone between Buenos Aires and Sydney, Captain Yancey's conversation is said to have established a new distance record for telephoning from an airplane in flight. It covered more than 14,000 miles.

Yancey's conversation was radioed from the plane to the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation's radiotelephone station in Buenos Aires and thence by radio to Madrid. At Madrid the conversation was transferred to land lines of the Spanish Telephone Company, which took it to the French border where it was transferred to the land lines of the French Government. The latter carried it to the English Channel. A submarine cable took it to England. There other landlines took it to the radiotelephone station at Rugby. And at Rugby the beam wireless carried it to Sydney.

Captain Yancey spoke with the technical chief at the Sydney station. Afterward, through the courtesy of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, he was able to speak by radiophone to Mrs. Yancey in New York and described the Australian radiophone conversation to her. "It was very distinct," he said, "and lasted about twenty minutes." And he asked Mrs. Yancey to tell THE NEW YORK TIMES, for whom he has been writing accounts of his good-will tour through South America.

Captain Yancey has figured in other long-distance conversations from an airplane during his stay in Buenos Aires. On July 16 last, while flying 4,500 feet above the airport there he talked with New York and other points in North America. The maximum distance traversed in that conversation, however, was less than 6,000 miles. On July 21 last, flying 4,000 feet above the airport, he telephoned to San Francisco, 7,825 miles away.

Mrs. Yancey said last night that her husband plans to leave Buenos Aires today for São Paulo, Brazil, and expects to reach Rio de Janeiro next Thursday. His plan is to return to New York a week from Saturday, she said.

FOR AIR MAIL EXTENSION.

Controller's Ruling Opens Way for Winnipeg-Omaha Route.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Controller General McCarl, in an opinion made public today by Senator McKellar of Tennessee, ruled that Postmaster General Brown had authority under existing statutes to extend an air mail route between Minneapolis and Chicago to Winnipeg, Man., and Omaha, "unless there is intended the establishment and operation of a new air mail route from Winnipeg to Omaha and points beyond."

The opinion was requested some time ago by the Postmaster General in order that a proper interpretation might be had of the term "extension" as used in Section 7 of the air mail contract law, which provides that the Postmaster General may "make any extensions or consolidations of routes which are now or may hereafter be established."

While no reference was made in the opinion to "consolidations," the belief was expressed in some postal circles that the effect of the ruling might be the granting of permission to the Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux Air Lines and the Western Air Express to bid as one company for air mail contracts in central transcontinental territory. Representatives of the companies have been negotiating with the Postoffice Department.

SINGER MIDGET KILLED.

Joseph Pozer of Stage Troupe Is Hit by Auto in Detroit.

DETROIT, July 28 (AP).—Joseph Pozer, 34 years old, one of "Singer's Midgets," was killed by an automobile here last night.

Pozer, who weighed 40 pounds and was 40 inches tall, stepped in the path of an automobile driven by Max Parshill of Port Huron, Mich.

Pozer had been with the midget troupe for eighteen years. He was appearing in a local theatre. His only relative is his mother in Vienna, Austria.

BUCKLEY'S KILLERS KNOWN TO POLICE

But Detroit Commissioner Says Men Who Murdered Radio Announcer Still Are Free.

SECRET ARRESTS ARE MADE

Many Are Held Without Booking at Stations—Suspect in Roth Death Identified.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 28.—The slayers of Jerry Buckley, radio announcer who was killed by three gunmen in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel last Wednesday, are known, Police Commissioner Wilcox announced today.

The killers, however, are not yet in custody, and their identity is being kept secret.

The announcement followed efforts of the police to connect the five gunmen who were captured Sunday in a raid on a house in Grosse Point Village, with the murder.

Following an examination by small-arms experts of the .45-calibre pistols found in the Grosse Point House, Chief of Detectives E. A. Mitte announced that they were the guns which had been used in the killing of Patrolmen Erhardt Meyer and Claud Lanstra of the Grosse Point Police Department on June 1.

At the same time, it was announced by Mr. Wilcox that "a great number" of secret arrests have been made in connection with the Buckley killing. The men arrested, he said, have not been booked at the stations.

"Unless they are identified with this or one of the other recent gang killings, no one will ever know they have been arrested," the commissioner said. "They will merely be turned loose."

Joe Catalanotte, another of the five men arrested, was identified today as one of those seen running from the home of Barney Roth and John Mietz in Hamtramck on July 5, when they were killed. It is said the bullet taken from the body of Jimmy Walters, slain cabaret owner and racketeer, tallied with those fired from some of the pistols found in the gunmen's cache.

Roth was the under-cover man for Hamtramck police, and formerly was confidential agent for the Department of Justice. He was about to accompany Mietz, a bootlegger, to Federal court when gunmen opened fire and killed both men.

DETROIT, July 28 (AP).—A patrolman attached to a radio-equipped police cruiser was shot and seriously wounded and a robber was slain in a gun fight today in an alley off Euclid Avenue.

The wounded patrolman is Evert Wuckila, 30. He was taken to Henry Ford Hospital. The slain robber was tentatively identified as Martin De Koven.

Wen Paughman, an oil station attendant, was beaten to death with a heavy chain by a robber who held him up early today.

MRS. CROKER HOLDS TO CHEROKEE BELIEF

She Shares Possessions With Aged in Making $1,500 Gift to Florida Charity.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 28 (AP).—Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the former Tammany Hall chieftain and a descendant of Chief Sequoyah of the Cherokee Nation, in making a $1,500 donation to county charities today, confided to the County Commissioners that she still adheres to much of the Cherokee religion, although a Roman Catholic.

Two of the "nine commandments" of the Cherokee race, which she said teach that it is sinful to neglect or deride the old or the afflicted or to refuse to share with them the fruits of the chase, prompted her to make the donation which will provide furniture for the county poor farm.

Scotch on her father's side and of Cherokee-Welsh parentage on her mother's side, Mrs. Croker said she had been reared as a Scotch Presbyterian, embracing Cahtolicism when she married Richard Croker.

"But back of it all," she said, "I have this old Indian religion ingrained in my soul."

The board listened in respectful silence as she read the Cherokee's "Nine Commandments."

She explained that they covered most of the ground of the Ten Commandments except that no reference is made to stealing, on the theory that "nature was the Indians' storehouse."

ST. LOUIS RETAINS FUND.

Mullanphy Heirs Lose Suit for $1,000,000 Left for Immigrants.

ST. LOUIS, July 28 (AP).—A suit filed by collateral heirs of Byron Mullanphy for possession of the $1,000,000 Mullanphy Emigrant Relief Fund was decided against the heirs today by Circuit Judge Pearcy.

The court ruled that St. Louis, through appointed trustees, should continue to expend the income of the fund as directed by the will made by the eccentric former Mayor in 1849, for relief of "poor emigrants and travelers coming to St. Louis on their way, bona fide to settle in the West."

Judge Pearcy ruled further that since the number of persons in this classification is now small the balance of the fund may be used for relief of needy travelers generally, as has been done in recent years.

The question of what Mullanphy meant by "the West" was not discussed in the decision.

VOLDEMARAS TRIES TO FLEE

Interned Lithuanian Ex-Dictator Is Foiled by Discreet Guard.

KOVNO, Lithuania, July 28 (AP).—Wolf's Agency today reported that Augustine Voldemaras, former dictator, banished for one year, attempted on Sunday to escape from the Plateli estate, near Kroettingen, where he has been interned.

According to the news bureau, Professor Voldemaras was walking through the woods with two friends when an automobile drove up and stopped. The dispatch said he attempted to enter the car, saying he would take a ride in the country. When a policeman forbade him, the dispatch continued, Professor Voldemaras protested vigorously but to no purpose.

As a consequence of the incident the former Premier was under strict surveillance today. Journalists who, with the consent of the authorities, had arrived to interview him, were turned back.

Eight persons were arrested, the dispatch concluded

ST. MARK'S DOCTORS TO HELP END DEFICIT

Pledge $10,000 to $12,000 Annually for 5 Years in Crisis of Hospital's Affairs.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE $50,000

P. G. Gossler's Fellow Directors Promise $10,000 to $15,000—Shortage $160,000 Yearly.

Forty physicians connected with St. Mark's Hospital, Second Avenue and Eleventh Street, pledged between $10,000 and $12,000 annually for the next five years to relieve a serious financial crisis in the affairs of the institution at an emergency meeting yesterday in the auditorium of the new nurses' home of the hospital.

The hospital, which is forty years old, faces an annual deficit of about $160,000 and subscriptions have been considerably less in recent months than had been hoped. Philip G. Gossler of 61 Broadway, president of the hospital and head of the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation, has promised $50,000 a year for the five-year period, while other members of the board of directors have pledged between $10,000 and $15,000.

Alarmed at the vast gap between the needs of the institution and the prospective contributions, members of its staff called the meeting yesterday. About seventy of the 400 doctors associated with the hospital attended, but it was pointed out that the call for the meeting had only been sent out Saturday and that many of them had been unable to arrange to attend.

The action of the physicians in offering funds out of their own pockets to the institution which they serve was said last night to be without a precedent. Those at the meeting named a committee made up of Drs. Ira Fink, A. A. Levy and Leonard Weber to call on Mr. Gossler today and notify him of their action.

The committee will also interview the other doctors associated with the hospital in an effort to increase the total subscriptions from the group to $30,000 or $35,000 a year, Dr. Levy said last night.

WHITE MAN SENTENCED FOR KILLING NEGRO

First of Seven Indicted Atlantans Must Serve 15 Years for Divinity Student's Death.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 28 (AP).—T. L. Martin, one of seven white men charged with the murder of Dennis Hubert, young Negro college student, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in a sealed verdict returned by a jury in Superior Court here today.

The jury set sentence from 12 to 15 years in the State penitentiary.

The youth, a divinity student, was shot to death on June 15 at a public school.

The State charged he was killed without provocation by a party of seven men, while the defense pleaded that the men went to the school grounds to hold the Negro for officers after he was alleged to have insulted two white women.

The case aroused unusual interest here because of events following the slaying. Within a short time the home of the Rev. G. J. Hubert, father of the youth, was burned. A few days later a mass meeting of Negroes held in a church was broken up with a tear gas bomb, which police said was hurled by white men. A few days later an attempt was made on the life of the Rev. Charles B. Hubert, cousin of Dennis.

After the burning of the Hubert home, prominent white residents of Atlanta gathered and signed a letter to civic organizations and civic leaders, asking contributions for the restoration of the home. Many persons contributed.

The letter also declared emphatically the belief of the signers that the young Negro was innocent of the charge of insulting the white women.

The Atlanta Christian Council, the Methodist ministers of the city and the Atlanta Committee on Inter-Racial Cooperation issued statements deploring the killing and the incidents that followed.

The courtroom was crowded today with white people and Negroes, but the verdict was quietly received.

The six other men await trial for the slaying.

25 HURT AS TROLLEY HITS BUS IN BRONX

WOMAN INJURED SERIOUSLY

Ten Treated at Scene by Ambulance Surgeons—Drivers Apply Brakes but Fail to Stop.

Twenty-five persons were injured, ten seriously enough to require treatment by ambulance surgeons, in a collision last night between a one-man Ogden Avenue trolley car and a bus of the Service Transportation Company at 168th Street and Ogden Avenue, the Bronx.

The bus was turning from 168th Street into Ogden Avenue when the trolley bore down upon it. John Smith, motorman of the trolley, and Leon Charak, chauffeur of the bus, both applied their brakes but were not able to prevent the collision. The bus was badly smashed and the trolley was thrown from the rails. Passengers in both conveyances were badly shaken up.

Only one person was taken to the hospital. She was Mrs. Anna Auk, 30 years old, of 564 West 188th Street, a passenger in the bus, who suffered fractured ribs and a fractured right thigh. She was removed to Morrisania Hospital.

Others treated at the scene for cuts and minor injuries were: Mrs. Emma Jackson, 21 years old, of 1,506 Popham Avenue, the Bronx; Francis Braustein, 32, of 1,635 University Avenue, the Bronx; Irving Goldmatter, 26, of 54 Featherbed Lane, the Bronx; Harry Speicher, 33, of 1,333 Lerrian Avenue, the Bronx, all passengers in the bus, and Mrs. Mary Howard, 30, of 1,240 Woodycrest Avenue, the Bronx; Mrs. Catherine Ward, 25, of 21 Fort Washington Avenue, Manhattan; Mrs. Catherine Duffy, 34, of 1,081 Anderson Avenue, the Bronx; Jessie Forsythe, 32, of 930 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx, and Mrs. Bessie Levy, 30, of 1,064 Nelson Avenue, the Bronx, passengers in the trolley.

KURTZ TO TESTIFY IN HIGGINS INQUIRY

INVESTIGATION IS WIDENED

All Surrogate's Aides Are Under Scrutiny Following Arrest of Public Administrator.

James A. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts, brought the city departments and offices under his investigation to four yesterday with the announcement that he would extend his inquiry to the Richmond County Surrogate's office. He also announced he would examine Irwin Kurtz, head of the Republican Speakers' Bureau here, at 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Kurtz has charged the Department of Taxes and Assessments with showing favoritism to Tammany taxpayers.

While Commissioner Higgins would not say he was looking for further evidence of criminality in the handling of estates in Richmond County, his statement recalled the intimations of District Attorney Albert C. Fach of Staten Island that further indictments would follow those voted last Friday against James W. Hennessey, Public Administrator, in connection with a $40,000 shortage unearthed by Mr. Higgins's investigators.

The indictments against Hennessey charge that he took about $40,000 from the estate of William Ricard, to which he was appointed temporary administrator in his private capacity, aside from his official duties. According to District Attorney Fach, Hennessey used the money he obtained from the Ricard estate to cover up shortages in other estates of which he was administrator. Hennessey will plead to the indictments in Richmond County Court tomorrow and has said he would make a statement after pleading.

Surrogate Not Under Fire.

"One phase of the work of the Surrogate's Court calls for immediate inquiry," Mr. Higgins said. "When I make this statement I wish it understood that I have not the slightest intention of reflecting upon the Surrogate of that county. It is a phase of the work connected with that court that I'm looking into."

"Is there a criminal aspect to this latest inquiry?" he was asked.

"I cannot discuss that now," he replied. "If I did I might unwittingly place honest persons under suspicion. Besides, I haven't finished with the work of the Public Administrator."

The Public Administrator's office is under the control of Surrogate Thomas Cosgrove. It is expected that Commissioner Higgins will go over the accounting methods used by both offices in an effort to devise a new accounting system under which it will be impossible for shortages to remain undetected. He followed this procedure in his investigation of a shortage in the office of the County Clerk of New York County, making several changes in the system of receiving and accounting for funds to prevent defalcations.

Asked if his investigations had any bearing on the Lynch-Rendt feud for control of the Richmond Democrats, Mr. Higgins answered that his work was free of politics and that he knew nothing of any internal politics in the borough.

As soon as Mr. Higgins reached his office yesterday morning he sent out an employe with a subpoena for Mr. Kurtz. Mr. Kurtz was out of town over the week-end and did not return yesterday. After he had communicated with Mr. Kurtz's office by telephone, Mr. Higgins was informed that he would appear for examination at 11 A. M.. Mr. Kurtz will be called upon to prove his allegations of favoritism.

Kurtz Hearing to Be Public.

The questioning of Mr. Kurtz will be the first public hearing held by Commissioner Higgins since he started investigating the Dock Department and the Board of Standards and Appeals a week ago yesterday. After Mr. Kurtz's charges had been objected to by George Henry Payne, Republican tax commissioner, Mr. Higgins widened his inquiry to include the Department of Taxes and Assessments. On Friday of last week he presented evidence of his routine investigation of the Public Administrator's office to the Richmond County grand jury, and the number of departments and offices under his scrutiny rose to four with his announcement of the general Surrogate's office investigation.

When the Board of Estimate meets today Commissioner Higgins is expected to apply for funds to employ temporary investigators and accountants in addition to his regular staff. He has twelve men in the field on the Dock Department and Appeals Board inquiries, and it was understood that he would ask for about that number of temporary employes. While the Board of Estimate meeting was called by Mayor Walker to consider Board of Transportation matters, the Mayor said last night that the Higgins request would be considered an emergency and treated as one.

Mayor Walker's committee of fifteen citizens appointed to examine the rules and procedure of the Board of Standards and Appeals will hold its second meeting at 9:30 this morning in City Hall to shape the course of the investigation and to decide upon its scope. At the last meeting it was proposed that the inquiry embrace not only the board itself but also the Building Department, the Tenement House Department and the Fire Department because many of the board's cases are appeals from orders of these departments.

HOOVERS DRIVE BACK OVER DUSTY ROADS

Leave Rapidan at 7 A. M. to Return to Capital—Stay Benefited President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President and Mrs. Hoover arose early today to take advantage of the coolness of the early morning for their departure from the Rapidan Camp at 7 A. M. for the capital. They reached the White House about three hours later.

It was no novelty for the President and his wife to make such an early start; but they drove into steadily increasing heat as they descended from the mountains. By the time they arrived in Washington, the thermometer here registered 87 degrees.

The journey was uneventful except for the discomfort of a detour near New Baltimore, Va., a village between Warrenton and Fairfax. The President's automobile was forced to drive several miles over a country road so dusty that the windows of the car had to be shut tightly in spite of the heat. Now and then the chauffeur had to slow the car almost to a stop in order to see ahead.

The President, it was stated, was much benefited by his three nights' stay at his Virginia lodge. Back at his office, he started immediately to work, but found time to receive several callers.

It was stated at the White House that Mr. Hoover has reached no decision regarding his prospective Western trip. If he does undertake the journey, it was reiterated, he will not leave Washington before Aug. 15.

WALSH INDICTMENT DEFENDED BY CRAIN

FIGHTS DEFENSE MOTION

Court Reserves Decision on Plea to Dismiss Charge Against Ex-Head of Appeals Board.

District Attorney Crain filed a twelve-page objection with Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday to the motion of counsel for William E. Walsh, former chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, for dismissal of the indictment charging Walsh with accepting a gratuity in the form of reduced rental of his apartment in his official capacity.

Mr. Crain, in his memorandum to the court, declared it would be "sheer nonsense to suggest" that Walsh received the reduction in rental from $3,500 to $1,500 on his apartment at 25 East Eighty-sixth Street "for nothing," as had been contended by Mr. Walsh's lawyer, James A. Delehanty.

After reading the paper the court ordered Mr. Delehanty also to file a brief with him on the defense motion that the indictment be quashed. Mr. Delehanty previously had declared to the court there was no necessity for the filing of a brief by him, as he felt the Walsh contention had been fully covered in his argument on the motion a week before.

Assistant District Attorney Robert C. Taylor, head of the Appeals Bureau of the District Attorney's office, and Harold W. Hastings, head of the Indictment Bureau, had prepared the brief submitted to Judge Rosalsky yesterday.

They contended in the document that the grand jury minutes showed that two persons interceded in 1926 with Joseph Golding, president of the corporation owning the apartment building, to give the apartment to Mr. Walsh for $2,000 less than other tenants paid.

"No one would be so credulous as to conclude that Golding had made Walsh a present yearly of this considerable sum," the memorandum continues, "and that a public officer should be allowed an apartment for more than $2,000 a year less than the fair rental value is in itself a scandal, which should not be smothered, but should call for a rigid examination.

"In the absence of a better explanation it would seem that a trial jury should be authorized to infer that the reduction in rental was in fact the payment of a gratuity in violation of Section 1826 of the penal law," the memorandum goes on, and the benefit Walsh received "flowed directly from Golding, who had been the applicant in the application that resulted favorably to the very building in which Walsh is living." It also contended that Golding got what he wanted in that building and in another at Broadway and 111th Street. The brief further contended that the suspicious circumstances surrounding the transactions justified the grand jury's indictment.

Urging Judge Rosalsky not to dismiss the indictment, the memorandum declared that where a public officer is charged with misconduct the courts are loath to grant a dismissal motion, and concludes with the declaration there is ample evidence to support the "belief that Walsh received the benefit for doing an official act."

Judge Rosalsky gave no indication when he would hand down a decision.

PORTERS PLAN WRIT AGAINST PULLMAN CO.

Charge Coercion Is Used by Employers to Block Membership in Brotherhood.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters announced yesterday that it expects to seek an injunction preventing the Pullman Company from operating its employe representation plan, which the brotherhood describes as "a company union using coercion and intimidation against sleeping car porters seeking to join the brotherhood."

A special meeting is scheduled for tonight at porters' headquarters, 239 West 136th Street, where A. Philip Randolph, organizer for the brotherhood, and other union officials will consider the proposed injunction.

Mr. Randolph said that in the injunction proceeding the union would employ as a precedent the Supreme Court decision of May 26, when Chief Justice Hughes and a majority of the highest bench upheld the right of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks to designate its own representatives to deal with the Texas & New Orleans Railroad, a Southern Pacific line.

On July 7 the Pullman Company circulated a printed statement among its employes in which it declared that the decision in the case of the Texas railway "does not in any way affect or change the existing relations between the oompany and its employes."

Ashley L. Totten, supervisor of the Eastern zone of the brotherhood, declared he had a letter signed by an official of the Pullman Company to a company superintendent recommending the dismissal of a porter because he would not vote under the employe representation plan.

TWO DEAD ABOARD LINER.

Pennland Brings Bodies of Passengers Who Died on Same Day.

The Red Star liner Pennland arrived yesterday, bringing the bodies of two passengers who died on the same day while the ship was at sea.

Nathaniel F. Roberts of Kendalville, Ind., died of a cerebral hemorrhage last Sunday, a few hours after the death of Samuel Chesley, 80 years old, of Middlesex, England.

Mr. Roberts, who was 50 years old, had been in poor health since last December and was on his way to Indiana for a rest. His only surviving relative, David, a brother, came from Kendalville and met the Pennland at the pier.

Mr. Roberts was an engineer. He was in Tokyo for three years, supervising installation of telephones for the International Telephone and Telegraph Company and recently had been engaged at work in Antwerp.

DR. DOYLE'S TRIAL IS SET FOR MONDAY

Federal Prosecutor to Move for Consolidation of Charges Against Veterinarian.

VAUSE TO PLEAD TODAY

Former Judge to Be Arraigned on State Charge—To Be Sentenced in Mail Fraud Tomorrow.

The trial of William F. Doyle, veterinarian, who is accused of having accepted large fees from clients he sought favors for before the Board of Standards and Appeals while William E. Walsh was its chairman, was placed yesterday on the criminal trial calendar in Judge Robert P. Patterson's part of the United States District Court for next Monday.

Dr. Doyle was indicted on the charge that he filed false income tax returns for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929, and that he committed perjury in the returns for 1927 and 1928. John H. Wilson, Assistant United States Attorney, announced that he would move to consolidate the two indictments.

Meanwhile W. Bernard Vause, former Kings County judge, who, was found guilty on Friday of mail fraud in connection with the failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation, is scheduled to appear today before Judge Nott in General Sessions and plead to an indictment charging that he, his brother Louis N. Vause and others committed grand larceny in that same failure.

Vause, who will be sentenced tomorrow afternoon by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe on the mail fraud conviction, also faces trial for alleged perjury.

The perjury indictment is based on his testimony before the grand jury in response to questions as to what he did with $253,000 he is supposed to have received for getting pier leases for the United American Lines. Although Federal Attorney Tuttle has intimated that Vause might receive "consideration" if he answered the same questions truthfully, there was no indication yesterday that the former judge had decided to talk.

Vause, who is free in $10,000 bail, was found guilty in the Columbia Finance Corporation case on thirteen counts. He faces a maximum sentence of sixty-two years in Atlanta Penitentiary.

Nathan D. Perlman, Vause's attorney, obtained an adjournment yesterday until September 10 of an argument on his motion to dismiss the grand larceny indictment scheduled to have been heard by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. The hearing on this date will be before Judge Collins, since Judge Rosalsky will be on his vacation then.

Later in the day James E. McDonald, Assistant District Attorney, announced that Vause would appear in court today to plead to that indictment. At the same time Lionel Golub, attorney for Harold M. Kennedy, trustee in bankruptcy for the Columbia Finance Corporation, announced that the former judge and his brother had been subpoenaed to appear today at a bankruptcy hearing before Referee Theodore Stitt at 2 P. M. in the Federal Building, Brooklyn.

Samuel Schuchman, convicted with the former judge and Harry Cruso, and Lucille Schuchman, Schuchman's wife, also have been served with subpoenas. If they do not appear Mr. Kennedy plans to ask that they be cited in contempt of court.

BARBERS' STRIKE HERE SET FOR TOMORROW

2,000 Workers in West Side Shops Ask Three Holidays and Cut of One Hour a Day.

Beards may sprout to unusual lengths among residents of New York's west side after tomorrow morning when 2,000 barbers walk out in an expected tie-up of 600 shops from West Fifty-ninth Street to West 242d Street.

The question of wage increases is not involved, according to John Tartamella, representative of the International Barbers' Union, who said yesterday that the barbers were seeking uniform working hours and holidays enjoyed in other sections of the city. The union demands are for 9 P. M. closing on Saturdays, instead of 10 P. M., and three legal holidays a year, Labor Day, Christmas and New Year's Day.

Agreements fixing working conditions in the affected shops expired on June 15. Since that time the Barbers' Joint Board had been holding conferences with the Associated Master Barbers in an attempt to obtain new terms.

The union asserts that the present Saturday hours of work are too strenuous and a reduction of one hour is sought. Charles Di Neri of the Brooklyn Association of Master Barbers negotiated with the union on behalf of the employing barbers.

While it was predicted in union quarters that the strike would be of short duration, it is expected to embarrass many west-side residents who rely upon their favorite barbers for their shaves or haircuts.

CHANDLESS WRIT UPHELD.

Court Finds Attachment on Senator Fails to Specify Offenses.

Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon in Jersey City yesterday sustained a writ of habeas corpus he had issued July 16 preventing the execution of a writ of attachment on State Senator Ralph W. Chandless of Bergen County for his refusal to answer questions concerning his personal finances and those of his law firm during a Supreme Court investigation of the building of a sewer system in the township of Lodi.

Chancellor Fallon held that the writ of attachment issued by Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker was insufficient in that it did not specify Chandless's alleged offenses. It was generally expected last night that Justice Parker would issue a new writ within the next few days, and Harry H. Weinberger, counsel for Senator Chandless arranged with Chancellor Fallon to appear before him at his vacation retreat in the Adirondacks and apply for a new writ of habeas corpus in that event.

FINDS NEWSPAPERS HARD TO PRESERVE

Bureau of Standards States That Those Not of Special Fiber Go to Pieces Quickly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—After a systematic survey of newspapers, the Bureau of Standards has reached the conclusion that most of those published between 1870 and 1927 will probably be totally lost unless preservative measures are undertaken.

"Prior to 1870 the papers, composed variously of chemically purified rag, wood, straw and Esparto grass fibers, are generally in good condition," the bureau said, "but papers since that period, which contain crude ground-wood fiber, are generally in poor condition and, as a rule, after a few years crumble to pieces when handled.

"The resumption of the use of chemically purified fibers, which was inaugurated for special permanent library editions in 1927, will probably maintain permanently newspaper records from that date.

"No means are known for making the newspapers published between 1870 and 1927 permanent, although their life is prolonged by preservative measures such as covering them with Japanese tissue paper. The photostating of these records appears to be the most practicable way of preserving them."

Bank Teller Kills Himself.

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., July 28 (AP).—Walter L. Harper, teller for the North Carolina Bank and Trust Company, shot himself through the head and chest today and died before reaching a hospital. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. Bank officials said no irregularities were found in Harper's accounts and friends are unable to advance a motive.

TWO HELD IN CAPITAL ON NARCOTIC CHARGE

New Jersey Men, Said to Head Importing Ring, Placed Under $20,000 Bonds.

OTHERS CAUGHT IN RAID

Arrests Grew Out of Finding an Unclaimed Case of Drugs on the Steamship Pier Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Peter D. Agistone and Joseph Anzellone of Garfield, N. J., were each held in bonds of $20,000 today by Federal Commissioner Turnage on charges of sale and possession of narcotics pending a hearing on Aug. 4.

William H. Collins, Assistant District Attorney, stated that the accused are two of the "big shots" in the "dope racket" on the Atlantic Coast and told the commissioner that when Anzellone and Agistone were arrested Saturday night narcotic agents made one of the largest seizures of heroin ever confiscated in the East. He said the amount of drugs taken weighed sixty ounces and would bring at least $65 an ounce at bootleg prices.

Mr. Collins intimated that both men had come to Washington from New Jersey to make a delivery to three other persons who were caught in the raid and also arranged before Commissioner Turnage. These were Mrs. Josephine Graham, 55 years old; Robert Joseph Janney, 30, said to be her son, and John (Jack) Callahan, who were ordered held under bonds of $3,000 and $10,000, respectively.

The government asked for a continuance of the case on the ground that the majority of the Federal agents who engineered the Washington raid were out of this jurisdiction.

Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of enforcement of the customs and narcotic acts, said that these arrests, like others which were expected to be made in the East tonight, grew out o fthe discovery of a case of narcotics which remained unclaimed on a New York pier several months. Mr. Lowman declined to go into full particulars pending the other arrests, but intimated that details will be given out after the other arrests are made.

"The case of drugs seized on the New York pier," Mr. Lowman said tonight, "were shipped to a fictitious firm. It stood on the dock where it was found for several months, lying uncalled for. A Federal agent noticed that the wooden case containing the tins in which the narcotics were packed had been broken open so as to reveal a flash of metal container beneath. The agent became suspicious, investigated and discovered that the case contained narcotics.

"The case was seized. Further investigation resulted in a number of arrests on Saturday night and yesterday.

CLAIMS SPIRIT MESSAGE.

Lady Conan Doyle Says Sir Arthur Used Psychic Photograph.

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—Lady Conan Doyle, widow of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, said today that Sir Arthur had established definite communication with his family through the medium of a psychic photograph.

She told The Daily Herald in an interview that the Rev. Charles L. Tweedale, victor of Weston, Yorkshire, and an investigator of psychic phenomena, sat for the photograph.

Sir Arthur's picture, Lady Conan Doyle said, is superimposed on the photograph of Mr. Tweedale. The picture was made by a professional photographer, but the plate was developed and printed solely by Mr. Tweedale.

Furthermore, said Lady Conan Doyle, Peter Powell of Chester received through the spirit guide a message from Sir Arthur about a sealed envelope which Sir Arthur had left with Lady Conan Doyle. She said that there is such an envelope but that it can only be opened when Sir Arthur directs her to open it and tells her in advance what it contains. She asserts that the family already has had several such experiences and that there has been much evidence of communication from Sir Arthur.

WORKERS FIRE OIL PLANTS.

Rumanians Protest Restricting Production and Dismissing Men.

BUCHAREST, July 28 (AP).—Reports from the Mislea oil fields today said that workers had set fire to numerous plants on learning the new policy of oil companies to restrict production and to discharge men.

The excitement arose when an official of the oil cartel discharged 600 workmen on Saturday and announced there would be further dismissals soon. The men called meetings at which agitators demanded the proclamation of a general strike. In the meantime they urged the expulsion of watchmen from the oil property and the burning of offices and plants.

Some buildings still were reported burning this morning, but the rebellious workmen have been expelled by the gendarmes. Workmen also attacked company buildings in the oil fields, but were repulsed, it is understood. Great excitement prevailed throughout all the oil regions.

Cairo Police Destroy Proclamations for Non-Cooperation Drive.

CAIRO, July 28 (AP).—Police who last night raided the Wafdist Club, where last week Wafdist (Nationalist) Deputies held an outlaw session of Parliament, found several copies of a proclamation calling for non-cooperation with the government.

These were destroyed, and in addition Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha forbade publication of the proclamation in the newspapers.

Mexican Major Kills Foe.

MEXICO CITY, July 28 (AP).—Jerónimo Olarte, an officer of the Home Guard troops of Oaxaca, was shot dead today by Major José Alamo González of the regular army before crowds of people in front of the War Department building. When they met in the street today, he said, Señor Olarte gloated over the deed, upon which he killed him.

OKLAHOMA WILL HOLD ITS PRIMARY TODAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28 (AP).—From the stump and through the microphone office seekers voiced today their final appeals for votes at tomorrow's State-wide primary.

Top-heavy lists of candidates gave assurance of many contests on the Democratic side in Oklahoma's initial run-off primary on Aug. 12. Nine candidates are seeking the party's nomination for Governor, considered tantamount to election, and ten others have taken part in a feverish race for the Democratic Senatorial nomination to oppose Senator W. D. Pine, whose nomination on the Republican slate was seen as a foregone conclusion.

Observers were speculating as to the way the wind would blow for W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, "people's candidate" for Governor on the Democratic slate. Mr. Murray has styled himself the "poor man's friend."

Mr. Murray's major opponents are Frank Buttram, Oklahoma City oil man, who has had no political experience; M. E. Trapp, who went from Lieutenant Governor to Governor when J. C. Walton was ousted in 1923 for declaring martial law during a Ku Klux Klan disturbance; A. S. J. Shaw, State Auditor; E. B. Howard, former Representative in Congress, and Judge Frank M. Bailey of Chickasha.

Two ousted Governors seek the Senatorial toga of Pine; Mr. Walton as an independent and Henry S. Johnston, Democrat, who was expelled from office in 1919 on a charge of incompetency. Mr. Johnston asks "vindication," declaring he was "railroaded" from office.

C. J. Wrightsman, Tulsa oil man; Lee Cruce of Ardmore and J. B. A. Robertson, a "wet" opposed to an oil tariff, are other former Democratic Governors after Mr. Pine's place. The blind ex-Senator T. P. Gore and Mrs. Katryn Van Leuven, former Assistant State Attorney General, are the other major Democratic candidates.

20 DIE, HUNDREDS HURT IN ADRIANOPLE STORM

ISTANBUL, July 28.—Minarets hurling through the air caused consternation in Adrianople during a violent storm which lasted forty minutes yesterday.

The storm wrecked telegraph wires, killed live stock and ruined crops.

ISTANBUL, July 28 (AP).—A tornado and hailstorm killed twenty persons and injured hundreds in Adrianople yesterday. Eighty per cent of the houses were destroyed and crops in the surrounding country were ruined.

Nine minarets crashed to the ground, as did the tops of the four minarets atop the famous Sultan Selim Mosque, one of the greatest treasures of Moslem art.

The Red Crescent Society, or Turkish Red Cross, has rushed aid from Istanbul.

Adrianople is an important port city of Turkey, located at the juncture of the Tonja and Ritsa Rivers. It is one of the most populous towns in European Turkey after Istanbul and is a great centre for textiles and perfumery. From 1366 to 1453 it was the capital of the Ottoman Empire. The present population of Adrianople is about 60,000. It is a picturesque city of mosques and most of the buildings are of ancient origin.

Norwegian Expedition Considers Establishing Claim in Antarctic.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 28.—The tiny Norwegian whaling ship Norvegia, which last season discovered new land in the Antarctic, will leave Cape Town late this Summer for the Antarctic Continent, sailing along the coast and continuing the previous expedition's investigations of the life and habits of whales.

Asked whether the Norvegia expedition would occupy the new land for Norway, a man close to the leaders answered that there appears to be nothing to prevent this if the ship happens to touch at the new "No Man's" land.

the money to the former magistrate's order.

Ewald was indicted by the Federal grand jury on July 7 after a long investigation pushed by United States Attorney Tuttle. At the same time Mr. Tuttle announced that he was sending to District Attorney Crain and Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan a group of papers relating to Ewald's activities.

Tuttle Gave Data to Crain.

The first group of papers was a series of letters from politicians to Ewald asking for leniency in traffic court cases. The second series embraced lists of persons for whom favors were sought, the apparent results and the names of the interested politicians. A third batch included a large number of traffic court summonses found in a private house.

For a week Ewald continued to cling under fire to his post as magistrate, but Chief Magistrate Corrigan finally delivered a virtual ultimatum calling upon him to resign. On July 14 he retired from the bench, sending his resignaton to the Mayor's secretary while at the same time pleading his innocence.

"The charges that have been made against me are false and I am confident that at the proper time I will be able to demonstrate this fully," he said.

The resignation averted a move by the Appellate Division to consider ouster proceedings against Ewald.

In quitting the bench Ewald joined the ranks of others who recently retired under fire—former Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, removed by the Appellate Division; Kings County Judge W. Bernard Vause, who was convicted in Federal court last week of using the mails to defraud, and General Sessions Judge Francis X. Mancuso, who resigned after being indicted in the City Trust Company failure.

Ewald was appointed by Mayor Walker in 1927. He was a member of the Cayuga Democratic Club. On the bench he obtained a reputation for his severe sentences in Traffic Court.

JAHNCKE SAYS TREATY POINTS TO BETTER NAVY

In Radio Address, Assistant Secretary Pledges Service to Hoover's Policies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The London naval treaty was hailed as "a great step in advancing our amicable relations in the sisterhood of nations" by Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in a radio address tonight broadcast over the network of the National Broadcasting System.

The treaty, Mr. Jahncke said, "dedicates us to an orderly and a normal advance in furthering our national defense at sea in a manner quite free of any threat of war, and with animosity to none. In my capacity as the second in command of the Navy, it gives me the keenest pleasure to voice publicly my appreciation to President Hoover for the efforts he has made and the success he has achieved in furthering the fortunes of the sea-going arm of our national defense.

"We do not talk now of a 'big navy' or a 'small navy'. We all want an 'adequate navy', and this I can assure you the President has always sought and I believe has gained. The navy is behind the President and the Administration to its last officer and its last man."

Remarking that "the entire cost for the peace-time upkeep of the Navy is an assessment amounting to no more than 1 cent per day for our population," its annual budget being about $400,000,000, Mr. Jahncke pictured the navy as a great developer of private industry, such as aviation and radio.

"The navy again and again," he said, "underwrites the cost of new metals, new machinery and new processes, and pays high prices for the newest and the best. The navy, by an intensive development and expansion of its radio system ashore and afloat, by elaborate investigation and research, has profoundly influenced the radio industry. There is no branch of the country's industry that the navy does not aid by its orders, its research facilities and its high specifications for material."

NEW PARTY FORMED FOR REICH LIBERALS

Democrats and Young German Order Are United in the Constitutional Party.

IT MAKES APPEAL TO YOUTH

Seeks to Give Lead to Middle Class and Opposes the Peace Treaties—Finance Minister in Group.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 28.—One more political party was added today to the already long list in Germany when the formation of the "Staatspartei," best translated as the Constitutional party, was announced as constituting the nucleus of a new liberal union.

It is designed to appeal especially to the youth of Germany, seek to effect a synthesis between the supporters of the old black-white-red and the Republican black-red-gold flags, and generally give the lead to the middle class, which has been rather badly crushed lately between the strong Left Wing Socialist party and the Right Wing Nationalists and Industrialists.

The basis of the new party is the Democrats, a group which has been progressively weakening since the war, and the so-called Young German Order, one of those more or less non-political organizations composed chiefly of war veterans plus a scattering of youths attracted by the frequency of parades with flags.

It is hoped, however, to attract the discontented from the Nationalist groups which have been splitting away from Dr. Hugenberg and possibly some leaders of the various small centre parties. It is asserted that Dr. Stresemann would have been among the party's founders had he lived long enough, as it is alleged that he had frequently expressed dissatisfaction with the increasing narrowness of viewpoint the People's party was said to have been exhibiting.

"The German Constitutional party stands firmly for the Weimar Constitution as the symbol of State. * * * A broad new front on which the younger generation can fight side by side with those of the older generation who seek reform and expansion of the republic," the new party's platform announces and goes on to assert that a strong foreign policy can only come from inner unity and "the world must be convinced of the impossibility of fulfilling the dictates of Versailles and St. Germain."

The Minister of Finance, Dr. Hermann Dietrich; the Mayor of Hamburg, Carl Petersen; the Democratic Floor Leader of the Reichstag, Erich Koch, and a Heidelberg professor, Friedrich Bergius, are among the signers of the proclamation, as well as leaders of the Young German Order.

The extreme Right and Left newspapers unanimously ridicule the idea, asserting the new party is attempting to get too many hitherto incompatible elements under one roof. The press of the Centre, however, is expressing the cautious hope that the party will prove capable of attracting a substantial number of those confused citizens who in the past few elections have found it increasingly difficult to choose a party worthy of their ballots.

The official Democratic party leaders are meeting on Wednesday to deliberate what to do about the "renegades" who formed this secret alliance with the Young German Order and suddenly sprang the news of the formation of the new party upon a startled Germany. The Democrats in the Constitutional party contend they had to adopt these tactics since all efforts to fuse two or more existing parties had proved vain and a strong middle party was a crying necessity.

COMMONS DEFENDS HONOR.

Conservative Challenges Right of Laborite to Insult Labor Colleague.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—The House of Commons rose to the defense of its honor and traditions today when Earl Winterton, Conservative, challenged the right of one Laborite to insult other Labor members.

The Laborite accused was Elijah Sandham, one of the four members who voted against suspension of John Beckett for running away with the mace last week. Mr. Sandham, referring to the incident in a speech at Manchester Saturday, is reported to have said that Labor members took bribes and became drunk without experiencing the censure of their leaders, and that their conduct was in keeping with the traditions of the House of Commons.

Today Mr. Winterton said the House of Commons had never allowed one of its members or any one outside to make such a charge as that of bribery, and he moved that Mr. Sandham's speech was a gross libel on the members of the House of Commons and a gross breach of its privileges. Mr. Winterton added that he had no objection if Prime Minister MacDonald wished to refer the matter to the Committee on Privileges.

When the Speaker called for Mr. Sandham there was no response. Mr. MacDonald, in order to give him an opportunity to be present, said he would move an adjournment of the debate until tomorrow. The Speaker later announced Mr. Sandham would be notified.

15,000 FLEE FLOOD IN INDIA.

Indus River Menaces Hyderabad and Kotri—Inundated Towns Looted.

KARACHI, India, July 28 (AP).—Fifteen thousand persons from Shikarpur and Sultankote poured into Karachi and Sukkur by rail and highway today to escape flood waters pouring over the upper Sind and skirting the only rail line that offered them escape.

Shikarpur tonight was in imminent danger of being wiped out. Hundreds of constables left Sukkur for that city yesterday to help with the relief work. Looting was reported from Khanpur, another inundated city.

A canal was cut in the night to relieve pressure on embankments of the Indus River in the hope of saving Shikarpur.

Abnormal rains are the cause of the floods, which have resulted in extremely heavy financial losses, for several days. A flood relief fund of about $2,000 has been raised.

One Killed, Twenty Hurt in Brazilian Riots Following Assassination of State President

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, July 28.—The late Joao Pessoa, President of the State of Parahyba, leader of the Liberal party and brother of Epitaccio Pessoa, former President of Brazil and present member of the World Court, who was assassinated at Recife, capital of the State of Pernambuco, on Saturday evening, had been warned that he would be killed some time after July 20, according to reports received from Parahyba.

The news of his murder is causing nation-wide excitement, with the Opposition newspapers demanding immediate action for the punishment of the assassin, Joao Dantas.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 28 (AP).—The Brazilian State of Parahyba today was reported to be in turmoil over the assassination on Saturday of Joao Pessoa, State President and liberal candidate for the Vice Presidency of the country at the last elections.

There were no direct communications from the State to the capital, but dispatches from neighboring States reported that serious trouble was imminent.

In rioting today one man was reported killed, a score injured and several houses burned. Crowds marched through the streets of Parahyba, the State capital, and set fire to residences and stores belonging to Senhor Pessoa's political opponents. Persons driven from the burning buildings had to take refuge in the barracks of an infantry battalion that has been policing the city while the State police were fighting rebels at Princeza.

At Cabedello, port of Parahyba, disorders also occurred.

Senhor Pessoa was slain at the city of Recife, State of Pernambuco, while sitting with friends in a café. His assailant, Joao Dantas, a political enemy, was wounded in the head and captured.

So great is the partisanship for the dead statesman, who was a nephew of former President Epitacio Pessoa, that the Acting Governor of Parahyba feared further violence if the body were brought back and ordered that it be held at Recife.

Dispatches from Parahyba say that 187 prisoners imprisoned for various offenses stormed the main gate of the prison begging for freedom to avenge the death of Señhor Pessoa.

The assassination grew out of guerilla warfare in which more than 300 men, both rebels and State police, had been killed since the beginning of the year.

For more than four months José Pereira, a State Deputy, has maintained open rebellion against the State authorities. His stronghold is in the region around the city of Princeza, which he recently proclaimed an "independent State." The quarrel originally started over a question of political patronage in the State.

CHINA OFFERS TO BUY PRIDE OF DANISH NAVY

Wants Cruiser Niels Juel for War on Pirates—Danes Must Obtain Parliament's Consent.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 28.—An agent of the Chinese Government has offered to buy the 3,500-ton coast defense cruiser Niels Juel, the best warship of the Danish Navy, to fight the depredations of pirates in Chinese waters. He has already inspected the craft, but no sale will be made unless all the parties in Parliament consent to it, although it is agreed that with the money realized from its sale Denmark could build a new cruiser.

The price offered has not been mentioned, but it is said to be between $2,750,000 and $4,165,000.

The Danish Rekylfiffle Syndicate has been the meditator in the negotiations, of which Chinese here deny all knowledge.

The offer was taken as an indication that the Nanking Government has decided on drastic action to end the ever-increasing inroads of sea robbers, who have even been attacking British steamers.

The Niels Juel has ten 5.9-inch guns and would be an excellent vessel for use in the Yangtse River, where piracy is the most brazen. She has a speed of fifteen knots and when not used in the coast defense patrol has been sent on exhibition trips to South America and other distant shores. She has also been used as the royal ship by King Christian.

COPENHAGEN, July 28 (AP).—Denmark, which owns but two cruisers, the Heimdal and the Niels Juel, has decided to dispose of them. The Heimdal will be scrapped and the Niels Juel, just returned from a royal visit to the Iceland jubilee, probably will be sold to a foreign power—China—naval officers believe. lieve.

RUMANIANS SAY SOVIET IS IMPLICATED IN RIOTS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, July 28.—Soviet complicity in the recent anti-Semitic rioting in Rumania, particularly in the attempted assassination of Dr. Constantin Angelescu, Acting Minister of the Interior, a week ago, is stated in officials circles to be indicated by recent police discoveries.

A Macedonian Rumanian student named Gorobbia was arrested yesterday as he was trying to cross the Dniester River into Russia. The police, they assert, ascertained that he was a member of a courier service carrying to the Soviet authorities information regarding the recent anti-Semitic troubles in Bukowina and elsewhere.

District Chief of Police Cadera of Bukowina announced today, after a conference with Premier Julius Maniu, that these troubles undoubtedly were inspired by Russian Communists.

M. Taslavanu, Chef de Cabinet of the Ministry of the Interior, who is accused of having hidden two anti-Semitic leaders from the police and having had some connection with the Angelescu shooting, was arrested last night as he tried to enter his home. He had been missing four days.

Former Minister of Labor Jan Raduceanu, who had been abroad trying to raise a loan for a Rumanian mortgage company, has reported the failure of his mission owing to the unrest in Rumania.

BUCHAREST, July 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—The Rumanian Government will pay damages to the victims of the anti-Semitic disturbances in Borscha, Vama and Suceava immediately after the investigations into these disturbances have been completed, the correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency was assured today by Dr. Alexander Vayda Voevod, Minister of the Interior, following a three-hour interview.

700 IN BOMBAY JOIN IN MASS PICKETING

Frighten Away Most Customers and Seriously Cripple Trade at Foreign Cloth Shops.

PEACE ENVOY CRITICIZED

Political Observers Say Jayakar Has the Confidence Neither of Gandhi Nor of the Nehrus.

BOMBAY, July 28 (AP).—While diplomatic efforts continued among Nationalist leaders today to end the campaign of civil disobedience, more than seven hundred men and women began the most rigorous campaign of picketing yet undertaken here.

Seven hundred congress volunteers alternated all day long in four-hour shifts before all shops dealing in foreign cloth, frightening away most of the customers and seriously crippling business.

At the same time the peace mission of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar, which last week visited Mathatma Gandhi in his prison quarters at Poona, finished up a week-end of conferences in Naini jail with Pandit Motalil Nehru and Pandit Jawaharalal Nehru and returned to the Yeroyda jail with a letter from the Pandits Nehru to Mr. Gandhi.

Political observers of the Gandhi campaign and its more recent peaceful turn today were of the opinion that the peace negotiations would come to nought. These observers insisted that Mr. Jayakar himself was the stumbling block; that the Mahatma neither likes nor trusts politically the man whom Sir Tej Sapru chose as his fellow-negotiator. Acquaintances here of the Mahatma declared that Mr. Gandhi considered he had been "double crossed" some years ago when Mr. Jayakar was leader of the Swaraj (Independence) party in the Bombay Council, Mr. Jayakar later resigning from the congress in a huff.

The politically wise furthermore insisted today that the two Pandits Nehru had not enough regard for Mr. Jayakar to give him their full confidence, the deduction which they made being that Sir Tej Sapru, head of the peace mission, should eliminate his companion and start all over again alone to bring about a settlement of the disturbed congress conditions in time for the best results to be had in the October round table conference at London.

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, woman leader of the Indian Nationalists, is said by The Daily Herald to be willing to compromise with the government somewhat short of Mahatma Gandhi's demands for independence.

The Herald bases its story on a statement by Sir Ramaswamy Aiyar, who says he visited Mr. Gandhi and Mrs. Naidu in Yerovda prison. Mrs. Naidu was jailed after she had led salt raids. Sir Ramaswamy declared that he talked to the leaders before Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar interviewed them as peace emissaries last week, but the Bombay government denies this.

LEOPOLD AUER TO BE BURIED IN NEW YORK

Widow to Sail Aug. 12, Bringing the Body of Violinist to Rest Among His Friends.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DRESDEN, July 28.—It is learned that the widow of the violinist Leopold Auer, who died here recently from pneumonia, will sail for New York aboard the steamship Reliance Aug. 12 with the body of her husband, to be interred in New York late in August. The exact date of the burial will be announced as soon as the formalities have been completed.

Mrs. Auer told your correspondent she wished to have her husband buried in America among his friends. She said the expressions of sympathy which poured in here from American friends when the news of Professor Auer's death became known clearly proved to her that his final resting place should be in New York. Although she is very fond of Dresden, where the Auers owned a house, nevertheless she and her husband always felt themselves more deeply attached to America than to Germany.

She spoke feelingly of their friends in America as well as their American friends in Dresden, all of whom have done everything possible to lighten her grief. She declares she is still more strongly convinced that the most outstanding American quality is readiness to help in time of trouble.

"That is a wonderful realization for a woman alone in the world, as I shall be henceforth," Mrs. Auer concluded.

YOUNG CUDAHY IN HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, July 28 (AP).—Michael Cudahy, scion of the Chicago packing family, was confined to a hospital suffering from what "doctors diagnose as poison liquor," his mother, Mrs. J. P. Cudahy, said tonight.

"Michael and his wife returned a week ago from Europe," Mrs. Cudahy said, "and I never saw him looking better. Then suddenly his lower limbs became paralyzed from what the doctors diagnosed as poison liquor. He is recovering now and I hope he will be out of the hospital soon."

A year ago, following a collision with an automobile, Mr. Cudahy was arrested for driving while intoxicated and fined $5,000. Soon afterward he and his bride, the former Muriel Evansen, actress, departed for Europe.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 28.—Amy Johnson, British flier, arrived here this afternoon and despite the fact that the capital is almost empty of British residents received a vociferous welcome from compatriots and Egyptians, all Cairo having been stirred by the Yorkshire girl's flight from England to Australia.

Miss Johnson, on stepping from the train, was received by the British Consul General and Mrs. Logan, her hosts, and Mrs. Salisbury, niece of Lord Wakefield, who financed the flight. The girl flier shook hands till she was weary and received a magnificent bouquet from representatives of the Egyptian press. She spoke fearfully of the enormous welcome awaiting her in London.

REDS WIN CHANGSHA, FOREIGNERS SAFE

the evacuation effort is in doubt. The Nanking forces are retreating, and another Communist army has appeared south of Nanchang and is threatening that city, which is weakly held. The Kiukiang garrison has been denuded of troops to strengthen the Nanchang defenses, but a state of panic has been caused at Kiukiang by thousands of refugees who are pouring into that city, which is itself threatened because it is defended by only a few hundred men, with a Red force twenty miles away.

The British gunboat Aphis went into action at a point on the Yangtse River above Chenglin, where Communists recently have been active, using old muzzle loaders to bombard passing shipping with grape shot and nails. The gunboat proceeded to the scene, but the Reds fled, carrying off their guns. The gunboat shelled and destroyed their gun positions.

Meanwhile the Nanking Government is seriously perturbed over Wang Ching-wei's arrival in Peking and over the preliminary arrangements for creating a Northern government. Formerly there was a possibility that Nanking and Wang might make peace, but Wang's continued hostility to Chiang Kai-shek, whose dictatorship he denounces, and his arrival at Peking have widened the breach, which it is believed impossible to bridge.

Nanking believes Wang will not be able to work harmoniously with the Northern Generals, Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan, who, Nanking holds, are merely giving lip-service to Wang's ideas and plan eventually to separate after the civil war is over.

Wang Breaks With Left.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, July 28.—While official foreign reports have chronicled the capture of Nanchang and threats to Changsha and Kiukiang by Communists, Wang Ching-wei, Kuomintang leader, organizing a Northern government here, emphasized his complete break with the Left Wing of his party and communism and asserted that one of his first tasks after the conquering of Nanking would be the national duty of exterminating the Communist bands in the Yangtse regions.

Wang, who will soon depart for the war front for conferences with Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang, asserted the establishment of a government here had been settled regardless of the progress of the war. He insisted that the "political failure of Nanking to improve the condition of the people ordains its collapse."

Wang, handsome and soft-spoken, emphasizing his words by frequent gestures, has just returned from a three-year exile in Europe and is considered the spiritual successor of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, but beyond avowing his loyalty to Sun Yat-sen's principls he did not go into detail on his foreign policy plans, although he asserted the treaties concluded by the Nanking Government would be subjected to the closest scrutiny by a commission appointed by the Northern government before their legality would be admitted.

He also said all foreign and domestic loans debts contracted by Nanking since April 1 of this year would be repudiated, as would all obligations contracted by Nanking in the future, except loans forced from Chinese. In the course of a long interview, Wang Ching-wei said:

"I see no possibility of a political compromise because the people are so disappointed with Nanking's failures they would reject any agreement. Although the Northern government will model its principles on the Kuomintang, we will reject Nanking's policy of supressing all opposing parties and criticism and will permit full political freedom which is not subversive of the existence of the State and we will welcome all able Chinese in government posts regardless of their party affiliations. Freedom of the press also will be guaranteed."

The sincerity of the last avowal is attested at present by the absence of censorship of domestic and foreign telegrams from Peking.

Ready to Give Equal Rights.

"The basic difference between the Northern Government and Nanking," Wang continued, "is the interpretation of governmental functions and the period of tutelage of the people. Nanking insists upon the narrow party domination, giving the people neither private nor political rights. We insist on giving both, beginning with district assemblies open to all. The present so-called tutelage is more oppressive than militarism."

Wang declared that before leaving Hongkong for Peking he had received telegrams promising allegiance and obedience to the Northern Government from Lit Sung-jen, Kwangsi leader, and Chang Fa-kwei, "Ironsides" commander. Denouncing Nanking's alleged unfairness in its attempts to identify the Left Wing of the Kuomintang as Communists inspired in their action by Moscow, Wang asserted that, although he favored the resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia, he would approve the step only under rigid provisions that each country must refrain from interfering with the other's political and economic status by subversive activities.

Last year's Sino-Russian battles in Manchuria were termed avoidable and deplorable. Wang charged that the skirmishes had been used by Nanking as a football in domestic politics. He insisted it would be impossible for China ever to resume cooperation with Russia in the manner of three or four years ago because Russia had broken promises made at that time to abstain from interfering in China's internal affairs.

The Northerners, he said, approved Nanking's opposition to the use of China's inland and coastal waters by foreign ships, but the Northerners approved foreign ownership of lands in the interior by nationals of countries permitting Chinese to own land there.

Although taxation is high, with fresh levies on salt, rice and cigarettes, and business is dull, optimism is prevailing in this region. Tientsin and Peking are taking on new life. The new government is organizing a national bank and other institutions. Postal employes here and at Tientsin are loath to strike, protesting against Nanking's alleged favoritism both as to wages and employes, but they express the fear that if Nanking is defeated their pension funds will be confiscated. The postal system is still under Nanking's administration even in the northern cities.

Many noted Chinese literati are gathering here, including editors of Left Wing publications. Tang Liangli, author, who was recently in voluntary exile in England, is now in Peking as the correspondent of the London Daily Herald and the Berlin Vorwaerts.

Yale-in-China Is in Changsha.

Changsha, situated on the Siang River, was opened as a treaty city in 1904 and is surrounded by a wall twelve miles long. The population is 500,000.

Among the many modern features of the city is the well-equipped American Yale mission college (Yale-in-China), with an excellent teaching staff.

Changsha is one of China's cleanest cities. Its modernization has not robbed it of many shrines of antiquity, including a large temple dedicated to Chiayi, a famous scholar and statesman of the second century before Christ.

Rice, tea, paper, tobacco, lacquer, cotton cloth, timber, coal, iron and many other products are exported from Changsha.

Besides Yale-in-China, other foreign interests are the Roman Catholic Mission, American Presbyterian Mission, Norwegian Mission and the foreign consulates. The Y. W. C. A. also maintains a well equipped building there.

MISSIONARIES ARE SAFE.

Americans at Pochow Out of Danger, State Department Told.

RICHMOND, Va., July 28 (AP).—The Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board was advised today that all American missionaries at Pochow, China, were well and safe. Anxiety was expressed several days ago when no word had been received from those in the Chinese city, which is in the war zone.

The board announced the following telegram from Wilbur J. Carr, Under-Secretary of State at Washington:

"Your telegram July 26 received. American Consul Nanking reports telegram received from American missionary at Kweiteh, states he has received word from Pochow that all Americans there are well and safe. Consul has requested authorities to facilitate departure of Americans who desire leave Pochow."

Four missionaries of the Southern Baptist denomination were reported last week as among the Americans at Pochow. They are Dr. Mary King of Tennessee, the Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Strother of Louisiana and Miss Olive Riddell of Virginia. It was stated today that Miss Clifford Barrett of South Carolina was also among the Southern Baptist missionaries at Pochow.

RICHMOND SEES GAIN IN LONDON TREATY

British Admiral Declares It Gives Nations a "Breathing Space" in Naval Activity.

PLEASED BY RATIFICATION

He Tells Union Club Dinner in His Honor Basis for Adjustment in Future Must Be Sought.

Admiral Sir Herbert Richmond, British authority on international naval reduction problems, who last November attracted wide attention by his enunciation of the theory that armament cuts should be based on the policy of navies for defense only, spoke of the London treaty as giving the nations a "breathing space" and urged that the interim until the next treaty conference be used to clarify technical difficulties, at a dinner in his honor last night at the Union Club.

Sir Herbert arrived here last week and is a guest of Hoffman Nickerson, historian, at the latter's Summer home in Oyster Bay. Tomorrow Sir Herbert will leave for Williamstown, Mass., where he will attend the session of the Institute of Politics.

Among those who attended the dinner were former Governor Nathan D. Miller, former Ambassador James Gerard and Charles D. Hilles. In an interview Sir Herbert emphasized that his views were those of a private citizen and were in no way to be construed as official.

After expressing his pleasure that the London Treaty has been ratified by the United States, Sir Herbert said:

"It would be a pity for us now to quarrel about the details. Our eyes ought to be cast toward the future. We should think ahead rather than quarrel about the arrangement we have.

"The treaty has composed certain differences as to the size of armament. That is entirely satisfactory. Let us not then, in so far as this treaty is concerned, bother about small details. But as to the five years we have ahead of us before another conference—that demands that we bend our minds to consider to the utmost what is the basis for the adjustment of armaments with the aim of cutting as far as possible their costs.

"We should examine in a scientific manner in what direction lies action which will reduce costs. The whole subject should be divided into several parts, and one of these is the quantitative element, which includes number of ships and size of ships.

"During this interim we have got to try to discover what the really broad principles are governing the number of ships which the several nations consider necessary for their security. We have got to go into the functions of navies, of ships and fleets and make our minds perfectly clear as to exactly what those functions are. The present treaty gives us breathing space for thinking the problem over in a calm, philosophical mood."

Sir Herbert agreed that "broadly speaking" he believes the function of navies should be defensive. Asked if he was of the opinion that that was the basis on which the London Treaty was constructed, he declined to say, but added, "We may assume that it was."

Sir Herbert was formerly president of the Royal Navy War College and was commandant of the Imperial Defense College. He was president of the International Conference on Safety of Life at Sea, which was brought to a successful conclusion a year ago.

TO CARRY RATIFIED PACT.

State Department Officer Will Sail Friday for London.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—J. Theodore Marriner, chief of the Western European division of the State Department, will sail from New York Friday on the Leviathan bearing the American instrument of ratification of the London naval treaty for deposit in the archives of the Foreign Office at London. The instrument was signed by President Hoover as soon as the Senate had approved the pact.

When the instruments of ratification by Great Britain and Japan have also been deposited, the treaty will come into force. A proclamation announcing that it is in force will be issued by President Hoover when he has been officially informed that all the ratifications have been deposited.

ARABS THREATEN ACTION.

Delegation to London Would Combat "Dangers" of Palestine Policy.

JERUSALEM, July 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—A threat of direct action on the part of the Palestine Arabs to offset "Zionist propaganda in Europe and the enormous dangers to the Arabs of the British policy" is contained in the official report of the Arab delegation to London read yesterday by Auni Bey before the Arab Executive.

After calling for the establishment of an Arab political bureau in London, the report says that the Arabs, "recognizing their plight, appreciate the enormous dangers because of the continued British policy, but the nation will not continue to face death with locked hands, but will use every legal means in its power to defend itself against the danger."

GENEVA, July 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Wailing Wall Commission, which left Palestine last week after investigating the claims of Arabs and Jews to the Wailing Wall, will proceed to London before going to Geneva. The commission will not formulate a verdict immediately, but will meet later for the purpose of passing judgment. Meanwhile, it is learned, each member will formulate his own decision.

Dr. Cyrus Adler, member of the executive of the Jewish Agency and author of the memorandum presenting the Jewish side of the Wailing Wall dispute, has arrived in Geneva and will probably appear before the commission on its return here.

Queen of Spain Wins Yacht Race.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 28.—Queen Victoria, sailing her own craft, showed her royal husband her heels today, putting her boat over the finish line for first place in the Royal Yacht Club of Santander Regatta. King Alfonso, who has had bad luck at Cowes and elsewhere this year, came in fourth. Members of the royal family who were watching cheered the queen.

CONSERVATIVES WIN CANADIAN ELECTION

Wolfe, Quebec West, Levis and Chambly.

In Prince Edward Island, the smallest of the Provinces, the Conservatives captured three of the four seats, wresting two from the government candidates. In the other two Maritime Provinces the Conservatives gained two seats, but lost one.

In the county of Laval-Two Mountains, which has long been Liberal, Arthur Sauve, for many years leader of the Opposition in the Quebec Legislature, defeated the government candidate by a small majority.

A second Conservative victory in Quebec Province was in Brome County, in the Eastern Townships, where Dr. Pickel defeated the govern candidate by a small majority.

Besides Laval-Two Mountains and Brome, the Conservatives won Shefford County in the Eastern Townships and Chateauguay-Huntington.

In Montreal the Liberals were holding out well, rolling up huge majorities in the French sections of the city and coming out of the fray unscathed. Although several of the outlying polls were not counted late tonight it was conceded that there was no change on the Island of Montreal.

A shock was in store for the Conservatives in Ontario, however, when it was learned that three constituencies, regarded as their very safest, were captured by the Liberals. This was a direct result of Premier King's plea for a preferential tariff within the British Empire. The three Liberal seats are all in the Toronto region, generally regarded as ultra-Conservative.

The Postmaster General, Peter J. Veniot, had a narrow escape from defeat in Gloucester, N. B.

Compared to 1911 Polling.

Today's elections have been compared in importance with those of 1911, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was defeated on the issue of tariff reciprocity with the United States. Had conditions remained at all normal the present Liberal Government would have held power for five years or more, it is generally conceded. The preesnt election has been gauged by seasoned observers upon a purely psychological basis. When times are hard, they argued, the government is in for a tumble.

The Opposition, led by R. B. Bennett, a wealthy lawyer of Calgary, depended upon a gain of seats in the Province of Ontario and a few in the Middle Western Provinces.

In the last Parliament the Conservatives had only two constituencies west of the Great Lakes—Calgary West, in Alberta, and Fort William, in Ontario. The Western farmers, who formed a formidable bloc in 1925 and held the balance of power, while always voting against the Conservatives, have been showing signs of revolt and a decided tendency to independence.

For the first time in Canada's political history there was a Communist bid for power. Eight candidates presented themselves, six in Western constituencies.

There were ten women candidates—two in Quebec, five in Ontario, one in Manitoba and one in Saskatchewan.

Economic Issues Paramount.

With the real and virtually sole issue economic, involving depression in trade, industry and agriculture, with consequent unemployment and bringing the tariff to the fore as a vital factor in the situation, both the Liberals and the Conservatives were agreed that a show-down was necessary at the polls.

Unemployment exists in all parts of Canada, largely due to the stock market slump, but also to general hard times. This is particularly true in the urban centres, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, which are filled with men out of work.

In the rural parts the farmers have been made unhappy and indignant by the dumping of New Zealand butter in Eastern Canadian ports. A shipment of 5,000,000 pounds of butter arrived at Halifax on Friday, and the Canadan dairy farmers, urged to forsake wheat growing, are in revolt. The fact that more than 200,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat is still stored in the elevators has not improved the situation.

Standing in Last Parliament.

The division of members according to Provinces in the House of Commons, which was dissolved on May 30, 1930, was as follows:

Premier King Cheerful in Defeat.

OTTAWA, Tuesday, July 29 (Canadian Press).—Until all the returns are in, Premier Mackenzie King does not intend to make any public statement on the result of the general election.

Early this morning, when the overthrow of the government was an assured fact, the Prime Minister said that he would prefer to await the final result from the Far Western constituencies.

Surrounded by a few friends, Mr. King received the returns in the Prime Minister's office in the east block of the Parliament Buildings. He sat at his desk in the room which Sir Wilfrid Laurier occupied during his period as Prime Minister. In an outer office a telegraph instrument ticked off the results of the voting.

As the Maritime Province returns came in Mr. King remarked that "New Brunswick is not as good as we hoped." As the tide of Conservative victories rolled from the Atlantic westward Mr. King retained his cheerfulness.

When the early returns from his own constituency came in, indicating that he was having a battle in Prince Albert, the Prime Minister appeared amused. Later he was informed that the indications were that he was elected and Mr. King with a smile remarked:

"Is that so? I thought perhaps they were going to give me a rest for a couple of years."

MEXICO CITY, July 28 (AP).—According to special dispatches received here today William J. Meers, an American who shot and killed a Mexican in Juarez several weeks ago, has been transferred from the Juarez jail to the State penitentiary in Chihuahua City pending trial.

The transfer was due to representations by friends of the victim, Antonio Visconti, who feared that Meers would escape from Juarez and return to the United States.

LAST-MINUTE FUNDS SAVE BOOK OF HOURS

Subscriptions Enable British Museum to Keep Manuscript Morgan Helped It Buy.

PURCHASE PRICE $165,000

Money Was Provided Last Year by American Financier Free of Interest for 12 Months.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—Just in the nick of time the superbly illuminated Bedford Book of Hours has been saved for the British nation. Announcement was made by the trustees of the British Museum tonight that, largely owing to "the magnificent generosity" of J. P. Morgan, they had been enabled to acquire the Book of Hours and the Luttrell Psalter and exhibit them among the glories of British bookmaking art in the British Museum.

The Book of Hours, a manuscript made for the first Duke of Buckingham, formed part of the Lulworth Castle collection. Last July the museum trustees bought it at auction for $165,000 with the help of Mr. Morgan, who promised that if they could raise the money by popular subscription he would provide the funds free of interest for a year.

At the end of last week the trustees had raised only $69,500, but yesterday and today a new flood of subscriptions made the purchase possible. If the money had not been obtained by tomorrow the book would have gone to Mr. Morgan's library in New York.

"For the successful result," the official statement declares, "the trustees are indebted first and foremost to the magnificent generosity of J. P. Morgan, who has once again shown his friendship to our country and the British Museum by an act of self-denying liberality on a grand scale."

The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker of the House of Commons, as well as trustees and directors of the British Museum, had joined in making appeals for funds to save the Luttrell Psalter and the Bedford Book of Hours for Britain.

These celebrated illuminated manuscripts, which are of exceptional historic and artistic importance, were offered a year ago for public sale and obtained for the British Museum through money advanced by Mr. Morgan. The museum was faced with the necessity of raising $324,150. Funds sufficient to save the Luttrell Psalter were raised, but during the last week the authorities were urgent in their appeals for funds to keep the Book of Hours.

REFUSES TO PAY VALLEE.

New Haven Hall Proprietor Asserts "Crooner" Broke Contract.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, July 28.—A suit for breach of contract is threatened against Rudv Vallee by Tom Murphy, proprietor of a dance hall at Mansfield's Grove.

Mr. Murphy went to New York today to complain to the National Broadcasting Company that Vallee, who was to get $2,500 for appearing at Mansfield's Grove last night, went instead to an inn and sang, played and talked there.

Mr. Murphy alleges that several thousand people gathered in his dance hall heard Vallee over the radio from the inn and went away without seeing him, which was their purpose in going to the hall. He refused to pay the $2,500.

ITALY PLANS HOUSES TO RESIST QUAKES

Reconstruction Charts Being Drawn as Last of Injured Are Taken to Hospitals.

ALL ROADS ARE REOPENED

PEASANTS BACK IN FIELDS

Machinery and Helpers for Harvesting Crops Will Be Sent to Territory—Il Duce Gives $1,600.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 28.—With the departure of King Victor Emmanuel, the Duchess of Aosta and Minister of Public Works Crollalanza from the earthquake region late last night, it may be said the rescue work is now in its final stage and efforts now are being concentrated on reconstruction.

The Duchess of Apulia still remains in the region at Santangelo de Lombardi, where the last few rescued injured persons are being concentrated. They are all bring rapidly removed to hospitals. The majority of extra doctors and nurses in the region also will soon be withdrawn.

All Roads Are Reopened.

At a meet at Foggia the prefects of the stricken provinces of Foggia, Benevento, Bari, Avellino and Potenza reported to the Minister of Public Works before he left for Rome that the authorities had the situation well in hand. All roads have now been reopened to traffic, with the result that food and other supplies can be expeditiously forwarded in adequate quantities throughout the earthquake zone.

The majority of the aqueducts have been repaired and water is no longer seriously lacking. The other aqueducts will be working again tomorrow or the next day. Electric and all other public services, such as telegraph and telephone lines and the mails, have been re-established almost everywhere in the region. Food distribution has been efficiently organized and is now proceeding smoothly.

The area round Melfi late last night sent the last of its injured to the hospital in Foggia, while the Ariano district expects to do so today. Melfi today began sending away all persons who can find hospitality elsewhere. Ariano will take similar action tomorrow. In this way a great load will be taken off the transport facilities, which will thus be available for carrying building materials for reconstruction.

The vast majority of the peasants have returned to work in the fields as their crops are now ready for harvesting. Arrangements are being made to supply them with the necessary machinery, especially harvesting and threshing machines, to replace those destroyed by the earthquake. Arrangements also are being made for harvesting the crops of peasants who were killed or injured.

All orphans have been moved out of Avellino and sent to various institutions and individuals throughout the country. They had been temporarily concentrated at Santangelo de Lombardi and Avellino. Yesterday and last night they left for their new homes. They number many hundreds.

Many Refuse to Return to Homes.

Efforts are now being made to induce the people to return to their homes in all cases where the houses are intact or not severely damaged. It is necessary, however, to conquer considerable reluctance on the part of the inhabitants, because slight earthquake shocks continue to be felt at frequent intervals. They are quite insignificant and do no damage, but they are sufficiently heavy to make every one prefer to sleep in the open. Many, however, have yielded to the insistence of authorities.

The principal work now consists of clearing away the wreckage of collapsed houses. Incredible as it may sound, some few persons are still being extricated alive after almost a week in the débris. Today, for instance, a 5-year-old girl was rescued at Villanova. She was found in a cellar entirely unhurt but almost dying of thirst. A few similar cases have been reported from all over the earthquake region.

The principal object in clearing the wreckage is to recover and bury bodies. Much remains to be done since the total quantity of débris which must be moved is immense.

King Victor Emmanuel returned to Rome today after two and a half days spent in the provinces wrecked by last week's earthquake.

He will remain here until after the anniversary services to be celebrated at the Pantheon tomorrow in memory of his father, King Humbert, who was assassinated on July 19, 1900.

Then the monarch will rejoin his family at Santanna dei Valdieri and may visit the Treviso area, which was swept by a hurricane last week.

This work, hitherto concentrated in villages and towns, especially those where the ruins were lying in the streets and blocked traffic along essential lines of communication, is now being pushed at the isolated farm houses which dot the countryside.

Much work also is being done on repairing those houses which were little damaged. Thus a considerable proportion of the survivors will be relieved of the necessity of living under canvas. Houses of this description are more numerous than was at first believed. In Melfi, for instance, it is believed about a fourth of the houses are habitable. The proportion is very much lower in other places such as Villanova, Ariano and Montrealvo, which were either completely or almost completely razed.

Tomorrow's Cabinet Council is being awaited with the keenest interest because it is believed the Fascist Government intends to announce extensive plans for reconstruction in the entire damaged region. It is recalled that the government immediately and completely rebuilt Terzigno, which was destroyed by Mount Vesuvius, and Mastali, wrecked by Mount Etna, and although the present disaster is of vaster proportions it is believed the government intends to follow the same course.

To Use Quake-Proof Materials.

In any case the government will not follow the procedure adopted after the Messina disaster and house the survivors in wooden shacks, but will build permanent houses for them. This work, however, will have to be performed with the greatest speed, since it must be completed before Winter, when it is bitterly cold in the Apennines.

Orders for building materials already have been placed in Naples, Foggia and Bari in order that construction may be begun without delay as soon as authorization is given. All the new houses will be earthquake-proof, like the ones of reconstructed Messina, Reggio di Calabria and Avezzano.

A great deal of thought is also being given by the authorities to the problem of where to rebuild the destroyed villages and towns. It has been noticed in several cases that near-by towns, or even different quarters of the same town, suffered in very different degrees. A typical example is Melfi, the lower part of which was completely destroyed while the upper part was not nearly so greatly damaged.

These differences are held to be due to the quality of the subsoil. The upper part of Melfi is, in fact, built on rock, while the lower part is on shifting ground. While, therefore, it is proposed as a general rule to build the wrecked villages and towns as near as possible to the former sites, this practice will be deviated from whenever the conditions of the subsoil seem to render it advisable. The destroyed part of Melfi will be rebuilt on the near-by rocky hillock.

Some surprise has been expressed that the Cabinet Council will meet nearly a full week after the disaster. It is explained that the reason for the delay is that the Cabinet wished to have full data on the earthquake before meeting, in order to be able to devise a comprehensive reconstruction plan. Conferences with the Ministry of Finance also were necessary in order to find the means to raise the huge sums necessary.

Says Quake Cracked Apennines.

Father Alfani, director of the Pompeii Observatory, said the earthquake was due to forces which gradually, through millions of years, have lifted the Apennine Mountains out of the Mediterranean Sea. These forces, he said, acting on well-defined points, have caused distortions of the mountain range until the limit of elasticity was exceeded and a fracture produced. A sudden cessation of the strain, he said, causes vibrations which take the shape of earthquakes.

Father Alfani, to prove his contention, asserted that after the disastrous Avezzano earthquake, a fracture some forty miles long and many feet wide was found running across the Apennine range at that point. He predicted a similar fracture would be found in the Apennines after this earthquake.

Fractures thus produced, he said, gradually filled in with earth and rocks washed down by rains, but there nevertheless remains a point of lessened resistance in the mountain range, which explains why earthquakes recur periodically in the same places. In other words, Father Alfani said, the earthquake was produced by a phenomenon which may be likened to the cracking of Italy's spinal column.

Calculations made by him at the observatory, he said, led him to believe that the centre of the telluric disturbance was some twenty miles further away than it actually was. He concluded from this that the disturbance was many miles underground. This, he said, was confirmed also by the wide area affected by the earthquake. The shock could be felt without instruments for a radius of 100 miles, he said.

Il Duce Gives $1,600 for Relief.

ROME, July 28 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today made a personal gift of 30,000 lire (about $1,600) to the earthquake sufferers in Southern Italy.

Partly aided by a flow of cable contributions from American relatives and by aid from the government and large corporations in Italy, the quake region will be constructed on new lines laid down generally by King Victor Emmanuel himself. During his visit to Melfi, the King was informed that the ruined sections of Melfi contained houses built on the site of the ruins of 1851.

"Then," said the King, "it would be logical to build on different grounds this time."

Accordingly the engineers will forbid the construction in the dangerous part of the town and are laying out a new town along the sides of the valley through which runs a railroad which has proved to be much less susceptible to earth shocks. The houses, moreover, instead of being constructed on huge stones with little mortar, as at present, will be of earthquake-resisting materials. The same principle will be applied to all of the stricken towns.

Hundreds of workmen from Naples, Foggia, Bari and Potenza will aid, thus reversing the old custom of these inhabitants who usually build their own houses.

FEAR HELD FOR AMERICAN.

J. F. Lanning of Pittsburgh, in Italy in Quake, Is Unreported.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 28.—The earthquake of last Wednesday in Southern Italy is believed to have numbered J. Frank Lanning, 70 years old, president of J. Frank Lanning & Co., mill supplies manufacturers of this city, among its casualties.

Somewhere in Sorrento, in the heart of the stricken territory, Mr. Lanning was inspecting ancient sites of historic interest when the violent quake brought death to more than 2,000 persons. Since then no word has been received from Mr. Lanning, who had been writing an average of three letters a week to his brother, C. S. Lanning.

Cablegrams and letters alike have gone unanswered, and the brother today expressed the fear that the tourist was among the victims of the disaster.

The last letter from Mr. Lanning was received July 21. It had been mailed at Sorrento eleven days before.

The aid of the State Department at Washington and of the International Rotary has been invoked in the efforts to locate the elderly manufacturer. He left Aug. 1 of last year on a world tour, which was to have been completed in 1932. During the year he has been away Mr. Lanning visited Spain, England, France and other European countries.

MARCONI TALKS ON QUAKE.

Radiophone Address on Yacht Near Rome Is Broadcast in America.

Senator Guglielmo Marconi, speaking by radio yesterday from his yacht, the Elettra, anchored about fifty miles from Rome, was heard in America over the WEAF coast-to-coast network. Senator Marconi spoke about the earthquake disaster in Italy.

The short-wave signals sent out by the floating laboratory of the wireless inventor, carried more than 4,500 miles directly to a receiver at Riverhead, L. I., were transferred to a wire line as audible sound and fed into the WEAF radio chain to be rebroadcast across the country.

"A bad earthquake is one of the most appalling catastrophes that comes to any country," said Senator Marconi. "There is nothing that can make man feel more helpless. In your America I feel sure that true and sincere sympathy goes to the homeless in the devastated area. I am glad to assure my American friends that everything possible is being done over here, both by the Government of Italy and privately, to alleviate and succor."

ROOSEVELT OFFERS HELP.

Governor Pledges New York's Aid for Italian Quake Relief.

Governor Roosevelt manifested his sympathy and that of the people of the State of New York yesterday by sending the following telegram to Agostino de Biasi, editor of the Italian review, Il Carroccio:

"I desire through the medium of Il Carroccio to express my deep sympathy to your readers and countrymen who may have suffered the loss of relatives or friends dear to them in the calamity that has stricken so many communities in Italy. When it is determined how best we may lend help and comfort I assure you that the people of New York will gladly and spontaneously respond in aiding the work of relief and rehabilitation and that now they join with me in this expression of sympathy."

Mr. de Biasi, replying, thanked the Governor and said the Italians greatly appreciated the aid offered.

Ile de France Tells of Benefit Concert Being Held Aboard Ship.

A radio message from the French liner Ile de France to the offices of the company here yesterday afternoon said a benefit concert was to be held in the main salon last night for the victims of the Italian disaster. Will Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributers of America, was to preside at the concert, and Norma Terris, stage and screen star, was listed among the performers.

The message also said an amphibian mail plane would be catapulted from the deck of the liner at 10 o'clock this morning, 150 miles out at sea. The plane is expected to land at pier 57, North River, at noon. The liner is not due at Quarantine until late in the afternoon.

NEW TREMORS RECORDED.

Salzburg and Fordham University Report Slight Shocks Sunday.

SALZBURG, Austria, July 28 (AP).—Officials of the Salzburg Meteorological Institute today reported that slight earthquake tremors had been registered here yesterday. No damage was done.

A pronounced earth shock was recorded Sunday afternoon on the seismograph of Fordham University. The disturbance started at 3:05 P. M. and was repeated five minutes later. The university instruments showed the earthquake to be centred about 2,300 miles from New York, probably off the coast of Guatemala. Earlier in the day two slight shocks in other areas were recorded. About two weeks ago the university reported another pronounced disturbance off the coast of Guatemala.

EARL WILL SELL ESTATE.

Lord Egmont, Former Rancher, Decides to Let Heirlooms and Castle Go

LONDON, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Frederick George Trevelyan, the Earl of Egmont, formerly a rancher, has decided to sell not only Avon Castle, in Hampshire, the ancestral seat, but also the heirlooms, silver and pictures that go with the estate. The Earl says the reason for the sale is the large death duties levied on the estate of the ninth Earl and the duties which his own estate must eventually bear.

The Earl says he will sell the movables first. "I want to see what I can raise on these and other properties before putting a price on the castle," he adds.

The present and tenth Earl of Egmons succeeded to the title last year. He was formerly an Albertan rancher. His claim was contested by two persons who traced descent from earlier earls but the ninth Earl had designated the rancher as his lawful heir and the court confirmed the present Earl's right to the title and properties a few weeks ago.

RIOTS OVER RELIGION GO ON IN LIVERPOOL

Mob of Protestants Breaks Many Windows in the Catholic Presbytery Before Police Arrive.

FACTIONS FIGHT IN COURT

LIVERPOOL, July 28 (AP).—A new outbreak in the sectarian quarrel between Protestants and Catholics occurred tonight after police had quelled fighting at the law courts this morning. A crowd in the Netherfield Road section, which is strongly Protestant, stoned a Catholic presbytery, breaking many windows.

The police dispersed the crowd, arresting three persons. Three women had been taken before the magistrate this morning charged with disorderly conduct, and will be heard tomorrow.

The trouble at the courts arose over the arrest of several other persons in connection with fighting last night between rival adherents of the two faiths, after it had been rumored that Dr. Richard Downey, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Liverpool, would visit a new presbytery near

After a night of ceaseless vigilance, with hundreds of police patrolling the streets and ambulances parked for emergencies, fighting between Catholics and Protestants in the Netherfield Road area was resumed today in police court where several persons arrested for yesterday's disturbances were being brought before a magistrate and held for trial. Outside the court building a huge crowd gathered, divided into two factions which booed and shouted at each other when the prisoners appeared.

The troubles started at the doors of the court room, where several women took the initiative, jostling the prisoners, screaming and refusing to be quieted. Soon the place was in an uproar, and one woman was arrested for assaulting another. Subsequently three others were taken into custody.

The fighting had been so fierce yesterday that the authorities had an ample force of officers on hand to prevent development of the feud into serious rioting today.

Rioting developed yesterday in the strongly Protestant Netherfield Road area following the spreading of a rumor that Dr. Richard Downey, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Liverpool, was to visit a new presbytery in the district.

PERU MARKS INDEPENDENCE

President Leguia Opens Congress on the 109th Anniversary.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LIMA, Peru, July 28.—The 109th anniversary of Peru's independence was celebrated here today.

Congress was opened by President Leguia. The Cabinet, military staff and judicial authorities took part in the ceremony and the diplomats, government officials and notables also attended. In his message the President reviewed the administration's work during the past year.

The newspapers welcomed the declaration made yesterday at Washington by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union, touching Peru's cultural and material progress since the independence declaration in 1821.

LIMA, Peru, July 28 (AP).—The celebration of the 109th anniversary of Peruvian independence began here today. Archbishop Lisson officiated at a mass in the cathedral which was attended by leaders from every walk of life. A review of troops at the old Pizarro Palace and other festivities followed.

TO LIST DELEGATES ON INDIA

All Parties on Conference Roster Commons Will Get Today.

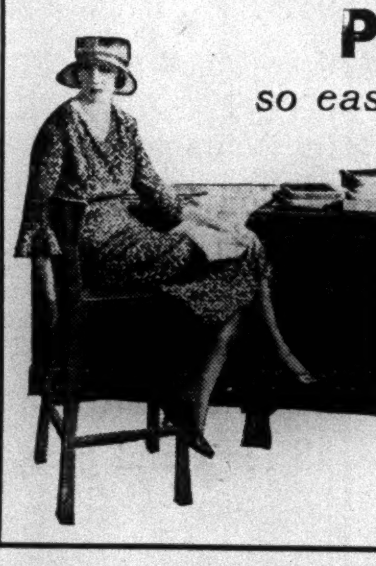
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—The MacDonald Government's intentions regarding the composition of the round-table conference on India will be announced in the House of Commons tomorrow. It is general knowledge tonight that the British delegation will be representative of all three political parties and not only of the Labor Government, as was intended originally.

There appears, however, to be no ground for the belief that Sir John Simon will be included, either as a representative of the Liberal party or as chairman of the statutory commission, which is responsible for the much-discussed report. No members of the commission, it is understood, will be invited to join the conference.

The conference will be held at St. James's Palace immediately after the imperial conference.

PAIN
so easily relieved!



How to treat Headaches Neuralgia Neuritis or check a Cold

WHY are some women so patient with pain? Shopping with a head that throbs. Working when they ache all over. Sometimes it's hours before they take Bayer Aspirin and get relief. Most men take these tablets the moment that some ache or pain threatens their comfort. So should you. Genuine Aspirin is perfectly harmless; cannot depress the heart. The tablet stamped Bayer is always genuine Aspirin; always the same, always safe. So it isn't sensible to suffer with a headache, a cold, neuralgic pains, or anything else that these tablets relieve almost as soon as swallowed. Buy by the bottle and save money. Any drugstore has the 100-tablet size.

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color nearly three times as big as any other magazine page in the world . . . 6,000,000 families at a cost of less than ⅙ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

THE American Weekly carried more advertising during the first six months of 1930 than it has ever carried during any other six months of its history.

This record, coming at a time when advertising expenditures have been scrutinized more carefully than ever, speaks plainly for itself.

There is simply no ignoring the fact that The American Weekly offers the utmost in value on the publishing counter today.

The national advertiser who wants his advertising dollar to buy the maximum of advertising attention cannot possibly omit the greatest of all magazines from his list.

While one color page in the American Weekly costs $16,000, an astounding sum to the uninitiated, actually you can wear out a dozen lead pencils without figuring out as good a way to spend that sum.

Where else with that amount can you buy entry into nearly 6,000,000 homes located in the richest buying areas of the United States?

In what other magazine or group of magazines will it buy the attention of almost 6,000,000 families and without duplication?

A color page in The American Weekly is two and one-half times as big as a color page in any other magazine. That means plenty of room to tell your whole story in word and picture.

The American Weekly has the largest circulation on earth because, editorially, it is the most interesting magazine on earth.

For the advertiser who knows the importance of hitting hard at a time when every dollar counts, this great magazine offers an economic opportunity unequaled in the publishing field.

In 536 of America's 812 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over it concentrates and dominates.

- In each of 185 cities, The American Weekly reaches one out of every two families.
- In 132 more cities, it reaches 40 to 50%.
- In an additional 102 cities, it reaches 30 to 40%.
- In another 117 cities, it reaches 20 to 30%.

—and, in addition, nearly 2,000,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy The American Weekly.

These families represent one-fourth of all the buying homes in the country. And you can reach them all, nearly 6,000,000 of them, for less than ⅙ cent per family.

Do you wonder that 1930 is another record year for this great magazine?

Where else can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

WOULD AMERICANIZE RUSSIAN RAILROADS

Ralph Budd, Inspecting Roads in Soviet, Urges Larger Locomotives and Longer Hauls.

FOR AUTOMATIC COUPLERS

President of Great Northern Goes to Leningrad and Will Travel to Vladivostok Before Reporting.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 28.—Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern Railroad in the United States, will leave tonight for Leningrad on the penultimate lap of his inspection of Soviet railroads. His tour will total more than 15,500 miles by the time he reaches Vladivostok from Leningrad.

Last night a banquet was given him by the Railroad Commissariat, and this evening he will address a meeting of the highest railroad executives and formulate conclusions drawn from the fifty days he has already spent in Russia, during which time he has traveled about 10,000 miles over central and southern roads, including a trip across Central Asia from the Caspian Sea to Alma Ata, thence over the new Turk-Sib railroad to Semipalatinsk and from there to Novosibirsk and Moscow.

Advises Automatic Couplers.

What Mr. Budd will tell the Soviet railroad executives may be gathered from a statement he made to your correspondent today.

"I was struck by the similarity of topography and traffic problems between the United States and Soviet Russia," he said, "but where we use big cars and locomotives and long trains and long hauls, they still adhere to the small load and haul system common in Europe. We use automatic couplers and air brakes; they don't. Applying automatic couplings would be the first step I would take in improving the railroads here.

"Simultaneously I would equip the cars with air brakes as rapidly as possible, which need not be done all at once. American railways applied air brakes over a period of several years. There would be great economy in adopting large cars in connection with this program, because less than half as many cars would be required and the cost would be correspondingly reduced.

"The trains here are much shorter than in America, but I see no reason why the Soviet should not adopt longer trains, which we have found far more economical and satisfactory. That, of course, would require large locomotives, but the smaller units need more tracks and terminals than our big ones; so there would be a saving here also.

"It is also necessary to install automatic block signals and to modernize the train dispatching system. The roads we traveled ride well at moderate speeds, but more and larger ties are necessary and the ballast system needs improvement, which would increase the life of the rails and diminish labor needed in maintaining the tracks. The grades also must be reduced.

"The Russian railroads are in a favorable position because they have had many years of use and the present equipment may now take advantage of the experience of other railways in their reconstruction program. A three and one-half-inch wider gauge than American tracks will facilitate the large cars and locomotives."

Dispute Over Two Systems.

Your correspondent happens to know that there has been a long and profound controversy in Russia as to whether the railroads should be run on the American or European system, and it is highly probable that Mr. Budd's tour will have the effect of clinching the argument in favor of the American way, although his final report will not be written until he leaves Vladivostok. The Soviet railroad commission headed by Vice Commissar Sulimof, which recently visited the United States, reports strongly for American methods against European, which in this case really means German methods.

The Germans, naturally, are eager to obtain the immense orders for railroad equipment which the Soviet reconstruction will involve, and they have strained every nerve to bring about the adoption, or rather the retention, of the European system. But it looks today as if they have failed.

SOVIET COINS HOARDED; SHOES VERY SCARCE

Many Arrests Made to Check Silver Speculation—State Stores to Solve Footwear Problem.

MOSCOW, July 28 (AP).—The government today instituted a system designed to check speculation and end the famine of shoes selling in the private market at prohibitive prices. Children will be provided with shoes upon presentation of their bread cards. Adults may purchase shoes at normal prices in government shops upon presentation of special coupons issued by the house committee of the trade unions' factory organization.

Many arrests are being made on charges of speculating in silver coins. Hoarding of silver, which began among the peasantry and spread to cities, has produced a decided scarcity. So few silver coins are in circulation that government shops and other institutions have issued postage stamps, coupons and trolley car tickets for small change.

Silver currency today had twice the purchasing power of paper money among peasant street vendors.

Beginning this Fall compulsory education of all children between the ages of 8 and 15 will be enforced throughout the Soviet Union. This will be the first time in the history of Russia that obligatory education has been introduced.

Through this means the government hopes by 1935 to eliminate illiteracy completely among the Soviet Union's 150,000,000 people. About 60,000 additional teachers will be required, to which end the government has announced that new pedagogical training schools will be established. A large number of new educational institutions will be built and churches, monasteries and houses confiscated from the kulaks (rich peasants) will be converted into schools.

As part of this new "cultural revolution," as the Soviet press describes the movement, a large number of the new teachers will be Communists. Instruction to the young will be based largely upon the teachings of Marx, Engels and Lenin. The papers also say that in time all of Russia's children will be Communists. The Communist Youths' League will supply 20,000 candidates yearly for the teachers' courses.

In the future the teaching of practical trades and handicrafts will form a regular part of the children's education, so that when they graduate they will be prepared to accept positions in various Soviet industries and enterprises.

"No country in the world," says Izvestia today, in commenting upon the compulsory education decree, "approaches Soviet Russia in the speed with which it is reducing illiteracy. Before the war there were only 7,000,000 children in the primary schools, whereas today there are 12,000,000. Before the war two-thirds of Russia was illiterate. During the last two years we have taught 13,000,000 illiterate adults to read and write."

SOVIET WAR PROTEST TO BE STAGED FRIDAY

Workers to Present 52 Planes to Army—21 Arrests Check Plans in Hungary.

MOSCOW, July 28 (AP).—The Soviet Government has designated Friday, Aug. 1, as "International Anti-War Day."

On that day the Soviet Volunteer Society for Aerial and Chemical Defense will present to the Red Army fifty-two modern airplanes built in Soviet factories with funds contributed by workers.

The Soviet authorities said the planes were intended to "frustrate the war aims of imperialistic countries."

Anti-war demonstrations, parades and carnivals will be held in all parts of the Soviet Union.

BUDAPEST, July 28 (AP).—Aladar Tamas, local Communist leader, and twenty of his followers were arrested today and charged with preparing mass demonstrations for Aug. 1. They will be held in custody until Aug. 2. The Communists were preparing to celebrate an "International Anti-War Day."

BUCHAREST, July 28 (AP).—Many Communists preparing for an "International Anti-War Day" were arrested today.

Arrests were made in Temesvar and other districts besides the capital.

RED PAPER'S OFFICES FIRED

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 28.—A group of unknown persons set fire today to the premises of the communistic newspaper in Kuopio, which have been closed down since June by the government's orders. The manager of the newspaper had previously been abducted by anti-Communists but was later released and is now at the police station.

Attention is now being turned to the national organization of trade unions, which is suspected of engaging in Communist propaganda and which is controlled by Communists. It is expected the organization will be dissolved shortly if the allegations prove to be correct.

SAY REDS AGITATE IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS

Witnesses Before Fish Committee Assert Literature Has Been Distributed Among Students.

PROF. LOVETT IS ACCUSED

Chicago University Instructor Is Charged With Giving Much Aid to the Movement.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Evidence that Communist propaganda was being conducted in the Chicago public schools was presented today to the Congressional committee investigating communism in this country.

N. E. Hewitt, representative of the American Intelligence Vigilantes, said there were thirty-five Communist students in the Cregier High School. William J. Page, principal of the Brown Elementary School, said that on four occasions during the last year groups of six or eight Communist sympathizers, children of Jewish origin, were found in the schoolyard with circulars. Clarence Debutts, principal of Tuley Junior High, and Mary E. Tobin, principal of Cragin High School, told of Communist literature being discovered among the children and brought copies of it to the committee.

Mr. Hewitt also told of Communist propaganda among the Negroes of Chicago and of the origin of the American Negro Labor Congress as a branch of the Red party. He said that there were 238 Negro Communists in the United States, and in addition 1,100 in the Labor Congress, 900 in the Harlem Red League, and 2,000 in other groups.

Representative Oscar De Priest testified that while some efforts were being made among his people, the movement was not making much headway.

"They never will be able to muster more than 5 per cent of my race," he said.

Puts Membership at 15,000.

Mr. Hewitt told the committee headed by Representative Fish that the present Communist membership in this country is about 15,000. There is a movement now under way, he said, to place American-born leaders in charge in this country. He placed the Chicago membership at 1,150. He said he had found evidences of communism in the universities, and named David Gordon, a student at the University of Wisconsin, as one leader.

Mr. Hewitt said he believed that the Congressional investigation would drive the Red movement under ground, but that it would continue to function under the name of the Trade Union League. It received much aid, he said, from such organizations as the Civil Liberties League and from such men as Professor Robert Morse Lovett of the University of Chicago and Professor Holston E. Warne of the University of Pittsburgh.

He said the Communists had begun the work of organizing among farmers through headquarters in South Dakota.

"Pinks" Blamed for Fund Supply.

Major Walter Furbeshaw, representing the Illinois Steel Company, gave the committee much documentary evidence of Communist activity which he had collected. He said he thought the Communist funds came from "Pinks" in this country. The party membership, he said, was seven aliens to three American citizens. He figured the party's membership at 100,000.

Harry A. Jung, representing the National Clay Products' Association, was one of the chief witnesses of the day. He estimated the Red membership at 30,000.

"Communism is now a menace in America," he said, "but it will become one if it is not liquidated, to use a Communist term. Immigration and deportation laws should be strengthened to deal with Communists. The United States should compel all aliens to register."

The government of Soviet Russia was characterized as a machine held together by terrorism by Morris Gordin, who once carried the Red banner in the United States and who previously acted as State prosecutor and press agent for the Soviet Government.

Relating his experiences when he returned to Russia from the United States and was made a State prosecutor, he said:

"I had an illumination. I imagined that they had a free press and free speech. I soon learned that I was to keep still. I found the politicians just as bad as in America. They told me I was a fine orator, but did not know how to pronounce the death sentence. * * *

"I studied there at the University of Moscow and my conclusions forced me to a total negation of communism and its doctrines. I determined to return to the United States and try to undo some of the work I had done there."

Japanese Cultivates Bacillus of Leprosy; Expects Experiments to Produce a Vaccine

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, July 28.—Dr. Kiyoshi Shiga, director of the government hospital at Seoul, Korea, announced today that he had succeeded in artificially cultivating the bacillus of leprosy. The discovery is regarded here as of the greatest importance for the future development of methods for preventing as well as for treating leprosy.

The cultivation of the leprosy bacillus is the result of two years of experimentation on the part of Dr. Shiga. He has recently been able to inject the bacillus into moles, with the result that within two months the moles developed symptoms of leprosy. His experiments with mice failed at first, but later experiments with mice deficient in certain vitamins were entirely successful.

"Although my experiments are not completed," Dr. Shiga said in an interview today, "I have no doubt that within the near future, as we are able to experiment with other animals, we shall be able to develop means of protection against leprosy by vaccination, as well as to discover suitable means of treatment."

Dr. Shiga arrived at Tokyo today from Seoul and left tonight for a vacation in the country.

As a young man Dr. Shiga studied in Germany and was later sent on government work to India, Italy and England. He was Professor of Bacteriology at Keio University until his appointment as head of the government hospital at Seoul in 1920.

This is not the first time the bacillus of leprosy has been artificially cultivated, according to Dr. Victor G. Heiser of the Rockefeller Foundation. It was cultivated by Dr. Moses Clegg at the leper colony in the Philippines. Last year it was again cultivated artificially by Dr. E. Walker of the Hooper Institute of San Francisco. About ten years ago a Russian scientist, Kodroski, succeeded in growing it artificially.

"However," added Dr. Heiser, himself an authority on leprology, "Dr. Shiga, who is an eminent Japanese professor, believes that he has discovered a more positive method of artificial cultivation, one more certain to produce the desired results. The previous methods have not been accepted by scientists as reliable. The artificial growth of a bacillus opens the way to the possibility of developing a vaccine for the prevention and treatment of that particular disease. But it is only a hope."

The leprosy germ was originally discovered in 1871 by Dr. G. Armauer Hansen, a Norwegian scientist.

It was reported from Vienna in April that Dr. Hermann Dostal had succeeded in isolating the leprosy bacillus and had produced a serum that was giving excellent results.

GETS 2 DAYS FOR RED ZEAL.

Woman Who Visited Homes With Communist Petition Jailed.

Because she argued too forcefully for the Communist cause, Mrs. Miriam Adam, 34 years old, of 8,799 Twenty-first Avenue, Brooklyn, was sentenced to two days in jail yesterday by Magistrate Hirshfield in Fifth Avenue Court, Brooklyn. Mrs. Adam, who admitted in court she did not believe in God, was arrested Friday night on the complaint of Nathan Lowden of 369 Nineteenth Street. He charged she appeared at his home and tried to argue him into signing a nominating petition for a Communist candidate for office. He grew tired of her verbal battle, he testified, and called Patrolman Daniel Higgins.

Mr. Lowden said he was particularly incensed when, he charged, Mrs. Adam called him "ignorant." Mrs. Adam denied this, explaining she had spoken first to Robert Gloekel, Lowden's son-in-law, and turned to Lowden when Gloekel walked out of the room.

SOVIET CARGO SHIPS BARRED ON ARRIVAL

Treasury, and Edgar B. Brossard, chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, for an embargo on Soviet manganese on the ground of convict-labor origin and unfair competition. The association charges that the dumping of Soviet manganese in this country has paralyzed the American manganese industry.

The association announced that a conference would be called soon in New York of representatives of all industries affected by Soviet dumping with a view to making a united appeal for help to the authorities in Washington.

It was learned also that joint investigation was being pushed by the Treasury Department and the Anthracite Institute on the application of anthracite operators for an embargo on Soviet hard coal.

Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the Amtorg, denied there was any justification for any of the embargoes demanded and threatened again that a curtailment in imports of Soviet products into this country would bring with it a corresponding reduction in Russian purchases.

Seek Check on Soviet Aides.

Before leaving for Washington yesterday Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and head of the Wage Earners' Protective Conference, declared that labor unions affiliated with the organization, which has announced its intention to force a blanket embargo on all Soviet exports to the United States, would demand that the government undertake a thorough check of all Amtorg officials and employes, as well as of all Soviet industrial and business representatives in the United States with a view to expelling those who may not be here on bona fide business missions. A more rigid supervision of visas granted to Soviet trade representatives will also be demanded, Mr. Woll said.

In connection with this move, it was learned that at the request of the Congressional committee investigating Communist activities, which is now in Chicago, the Western Union Telegraph Company here is collecting for presentation to the committee upon its return East all cables in code sent and received by the Amtorg during the past year.

Bogdanov Justifies Imports.

Mr. Bogdanov issued yesterday the following statement:

"Our imports into this country are meeting a number of obstacles. It is obvious that in order for the Soviet Union to make purchases abroad, it must have markets for its exports. In the United States sales of Soviet products do not exceed one-third of the purchases for the Soviet Union. A curtailment in imports of Soviet products into this country will necessarily be reflected in the purchases.

"It must be noted that our imports into the United States consist almost entirely of such products that the United States either does not produce at all or in insufficient quantities. In addition, many of the Soviet products sold in this country are of a quantity and variety which cannot be supplanted by domestic producers. For instance, Soviet anthracite is of a superior quality, and therefore commands a higher price than other anthracite. High-grade manganese of the kind imported from the Soviet Union and required by the American steel industry is not produced in this country. Imports of Soviet lumber consist almost entirely of spruce, which this country has to import in huge quantities. The same applies to pulpwood. The matches imported from the U. S. S. R. are exclusively safety matches, the bulk of which the United States imports from abroad.

"The statements that Soviet imports constitute a menace to American industry are not warranted by the facts. Soviet anthracite made up less than one-third of the total United States imports of anthracite last year and these amounted to less than 1 per cent of the total anthracite production of this country. Imports of Soviet lumber made up only about one-eighth of 1 per cent of the total American production. Soviet safety matches made up about one-sixth of such imports last year, which in turn amounted to about only 10 per cent of the total American consumption of matches."

Assails Woll Statement.

Mr. Bogdanov also assailed Mr. Woll for his statement warning against trade relations with Soviet Russia. In this connection Mr. Bogdanov made public a letter written by Mr. Woll last May 5 to B. G. Grafpen, an official of the Amtorg, soliciting the patronage of Amtorg officials for the Union Labor Life Insurance Company, of which Mr. Woll is president.

Mr. Grafpen was one of the alleged Communist propagandists mentioned in the documents made public on May 2 by former Police Commissioner Whalen linking the Amtorg with Communist propaganda. Pointing out that Mr. Woll's letter was written three days after publication of the documents and asserting that it was delivered to Mr. Grafpen by P. I. Duffy, general agent for Mr. Woll's organization, Mr. Bogdanov said, "We cannot take the exhortations and warning of Mr. Woll seriously in view of the fact that Mr. Woll has only recently sought to establish business relations with the Amtorg in his capacity of president of the Union Labor Life Insurance Company."

Disclaimer by Mr. Woll.

Mr. Woll, when informed upon his return from Washington last night of Mr. Bogdanov's statement, denied ever having written to the Amtorg or soliciting its patronage.

He said that the letter made public by Mr. Bogdanov as coming from him was a regular form letter with the name filled in by Mr. Duffy, Mr. Duffy believing he could obtain a group insurance policy on the Amtorg employes.

"Upon learning of this correspondence, I ordered Mr. Duffy to discontinue the negotiations, as our organization desires to have no relations whatsoever with the Amtorg," Mr. Woll said.

The demand of the American Manganese Producers Association for an embargo on manganese was forwarded in telegrams to Mr. Lowman and Chairman Brossard of the Tariff Commission by J. Carson Adkerson, president of the association.

In making the telegram public Mr. Adkerson challenged a statement by Mr. Bogdanov that there could be no unfair competition of Soviet manganese against the American ore because the Soviet product was much superior in quality.

"The major portion of manganese ore produced in America is of a higher grade than any ore introduced in the world's markets," Mr. Adkerson said. Contradicting a statement by Mr. Bogdanov to the effect that Russia was merely supplying her normal quota of manganese to the United States, Mr. Adkerson said that Soviet shipments of this ore to the United States had grown from 1,642 tons in 1922 to 329,336 tons in 1929 and that they had doubled in the past year. Denying also Mr. Bogdanov's assertion that the manganese provision in the new tariff act was not directed against the Soviet product, Mr. Adkerson asserted that it was the Russian output at which the act was aimed.

Pointing out that it costs the Soviet Government only $3.75 a ton to deliver the ore from Poti to the Atlantic seaboard, Mr. Adkerson said that this was less than the cost of transportation from American mines in Virginia to Pittsburgh.

The American manganese producers hope to enlist the War Department in their plea for protection of the manganese industry here, an industry essential to national defense.

It is probable, however, that steel interests as represented by the United States Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Steel Company, who absorb most of the manganese imported by this country, will strenuously oppose the proposed embargo on the ground that it would seriously injure the steel industry.

The manganese producers, on the other hand, will contend that only by affording them proper protection against the alleged Russian dumping can the American manganese industry be developed and the United States made independent of foreign manganese markets.

In this connection Mr. Adkerson pointed out that before the closing of the American manganese mines by Russian competition they were producing at a rate of 200,000 tons a year and that if permitted to continue under proper protection they would in a few years be in a position to supply the entire 800,000 tons of manganese used annually in this country in the production of steel.

The announcement made by Mr. Woll on Sunday of the launching of a movement by the Wage-Earners' Protective Conference, of which he is the president, for a general embargo on all trade with Soviet Russia, was denounced yesterday by the Conference for Progressive Labor Action as making for a new World War. A statement issued by Louis F. Budenz, executive secretary of the conference, termed Soviet Russia's so-called forced labor fictitious and directed attention to "yellow dog" contracts and company unions as conditions of forced labor in this country.

"It is particularly unfortunate," he said, "that an American labor leader issues a statement at a time when it will give aid and comfort to the notoriously anti-union manganese trust, which is conducting a similar campaign against Russian importations. We do not hesitate to say that Russian manganese union workers are enjoying a greater measure of economic freedom than that accorded the non-union wage earners of the manganese trust."

Book Returned to Tuttle.

United States Attorney Tuttle got back from Police Headquarters yesterday the "little black book" seized by Federal agents on Saturday when Jacob Kreitz and Abraham Schafran, alleged Soviet agents or representatives, were arrested for facilitating the smuggling of watch movements. Close inspection proved the "little black book" to be a "little brown book" bound in leather and containing not only the names of twenty-five alleged Soviet agents in this country and the names of Japanese and Chinese said to engage in Soviet propaganda in their countries, but also letters and informatory notations which Mr. Tuttle and George J. Mintzer, his assistant, believe to be in code. The book was turned over by Mr. Tuttle to a code expert.

One of the letter forms contained in the book read:

"Dear Uncle: I acknowledge with many thanks the receipt from New York of 200 and through Boston of No. 3,000. As far as my business activity is concerned I may open within the next few days a store after Paris models, I establishing on basis for export on foreign contracts and sale here."

Several of the watch movements seized by Federal agents were impressed with the word "radical." Others bore no imprint at all, although the Federal government requires watch movements offered for import to bear the names or trade marks of their manufacturers.

Closer inspection yesterday revealed that the blank birth certificates which the Federal agents said had been found on Kreitz and which were taken by them to be material used by Soviet agents in obtaining forged American passports were those of "the Roman Catholic Church of St. George." No address was given. The announcement that the birth certificate forms were from the Episcopal Church of St. George in Brooklyn was made Saturday by Federal agents after they had found only one church of that name in Brooklyn.

The ribbon badge said by Federal agents to have been found in Kreitz's possession and which they described as a Communist identification proved to be a white silk ribbon, about three inches long and nearly two inches wide, and bore the signature of "Max Bedacht, for the Secretariat." Bedacht is a prominent New York Communist.

Link to Amtorg Denied.

Mr. Tuttle made it plain that he had not decided whether or not the men arrested had been associated in any way with a representative of the Amtorg.

"As I said Saturday," Mr. Tuttle declared, "I am merely stating that one of them said he was associated with a man who, he said, was controller of the Amtorg. That is what he said. I know nothing about it."

On this point, Mr. Bogdanov yesterday said:

"With regard to reports in the press to the effect that the Amtorg Trading Corporation has been in any way connected with smuggling operations, I wish to state that such reports are absolutely false and could only originate at a time when sensational and irresponsible attacks seem to be the order of the day."

RED CONVICT'S TALE ON A LOG.

Writing on Wood in Ship Cargo Said to Have Related Hardships.

Special to The New York Times.

BANGOR, Me., July 28.—When the Danish steamer Dansborg arrived here early this month from Archangel, Russia, with a cargo of 3,100 cores of spruce pulpwood, rumors were circulated that her cargo had been loaded at Archangel by convict labor, for which the Soviet Government received ten cents a day, giving the convicts, men and women, only two loaves of black bread and a jug of water daily for their work.

These stories came from members of the Dansborg's crew, who also told longshoremen that two of the convicts had been shot by Soviet guards while running away with bread they had stolen from the ship galley.

The most interesting story, however, which was known only to Paul Atwood, a scaler, and a Russian employe of the Eastern Manufacturing Company, consignees of the cargo, and which was not made public until last night, is to the effect that while scaling the logs of pulpwood as they went over the side he noticed one that was covered with writing in pencil upon its smooth surface. The writing was all in Russian, and Atwood got a Russian employe of the Eastern mill to translate it.

The message was to the effect that the writer was one of the gang of convicts engaged in loading the Dansborg and that he wanted people in America to know the terrible conditions existing in Russian prison camps and among the poor people generally. He said that the convicts were in rags, with only bits of canvas to protect their hands and feet; that they were exposed to almost constant zero weather, and that they were fed on heavy and wormy black bread and not enough of that.

The writer advised everybody to keep out of Russia. He had waited, he said, a long time to get a message out, but it was impossible to get a letter past the guard and so he adopted the method of writing on a log.

Captain Mathiesen of the Dansborg admitted while here that the ship had been loaded by convicts. The British steamer from Archangel arrived below Bangor this afternoon with another cargo of pulpwood for the Eastern Manufacturing Company.

LOWMAN NOTIFIED OF AMTORG PROTEST

Learns Delegates Will Visit Him Today—Woll Praises Ban on Pulpwood.

DENIAL BY TREASURY AIDE

Says He Made No Statement That Soviet Was Plotting to Ruin Our Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Representatives of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet commercial agency in the United States, have notified the Treasury Department that they will visit Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, tomorrow to protest the recent embargo laid on imports of Russian pulpwood, it was learned late today.

No protest or notice of such action, however, has been received as yet from the International Paper Company, it was learned in an authoritative quarter. The paper company is known to have made contracts for huge quantities of pulpwood from Russia which recently came into competition with Canada, previously almost the exclusive source of supply of pulpwood.

Denies Drive on Russian Goods.

Circulation of a report tonight that Mr. Lowman has committed himself to a program of eliminating Russian merchandise from American markets brought from him a positive denial that he had any interest in foreign trade other than his duties strictly defined by the tariff act, which directs that he, as head of the customs service, see that convict-made goods are not imported into the United States.

Mr. Lowman particularly denied a report that he had sensed "an enormous scheme deliberately intended to wreck American industry and flood our markets with convict-made goods at prices below the cost of production in the United States."

"I have made no such statement and we do not even know that that is the case," Mr. Lowman said. "That is in the vein of charges such as have been made by Mr. Woll, but we have no proof of these things and there has been no basis of action except in the case of pulpwood.

"The Treasury has no authority to place embargoes on the goods of any country. We are ordered to reject convict-made goods that try to enter this counry, but we have stated time and again that we are not against the goods of any particular country. The law under which we operate is applicable to any country that uses forced or convict labor and we will not overstep its provisions."

Entry of Spruce Explained.

When the question of the importation of Russian spruce arose about two weeks ago, after government representatives had reported that some convict labor is used in Russian forests, Mr. Lowman took the word of the Amtorg Trading Corporation and the International Paper Company that such labor was not used on the particular consignments being considered and, for the time being, granted entry to spruce.

Letter Sent by Woll.

A letter to Mr. Lowman from Matthew Woll, president of America's Wage Earners' Protective Conference, dated July 28, was made public today. In it the labor leader thanked Mr. Lowman for the ruling barring pulpwood lumber, saying:

"Your action will be most beneficial to hundreds of thousands of Americans employed in the production of lumber and other commodities whom Congress intended to protect against the competition of the convict, forced or slave labor of Russia, Europe and the Orient when the present law was adopted.

"Your action in properly enforcing the tariff law despite the opposition of those forces who are interested solely in immediate profits augurs well for the continued employment of American workers who are vitally affected by tariff legislation and the proper enforcement of such legislation.

Hopes for Similar Rulings.

"We are hopeful that your action in denying entry to lumber, produced by convict labor, will be followed by similar rulings on other commodities which are produced by convict, forced or indentured labor. The law very clearly indicates that the intent of Congress was to protect American labor from the competition of the products of involuntary labor of foreign countries."

Meanwhile, the People's Lobby, with headquarters here, issued a statement strongly criticizing Mr. Woll for his advocacy of the Russian embargo. In a message issued through Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary, it termed his statements "a camouflage for the debacle of organized labor in the United States."

"The nerve of Mr. Woll in attempting to speak for organized labor," Mr. Marsh said, "with only about 3,100,000 members of the American Federation of Labor out of 47,000,000 persons 15 years of age and over gainfully employed in 1928, is evidence of a slightly unbalanced perspective which vitiates his judgment."

FACES CHARGE AS RED AIDE.

American Held in Mexico Is Alleged to Be Moscow Propagandist.

MEXICO CITY, July 28 (AP).—Charges of being a Communist propagandist working in Mexico were said today to be in course of preparation against Mark Lulinsky, an American citizen who has been detained here for two weeks.

It was said documents seized from Lulinsky contained matter showing him to be in the employ of Moscow with authorization to spend $900,000 annually for propaganda in Mexico. It was understood that several Mexicans were implicated.

It was learned Lulinsky was detained as the result of an anonymous letter sent from New York on June 12 saying he was coming to Mexico on a secret mission for Moscow.

The government was understood to consider the case of the greatest importance as it is alleged the evidence indicated Lulinsky was carrying on work dropped by the Soviet envoy who was forced to leave Mexico last February.

Lulinsky asserted he came to Mexico as a representative of Amtorg, the Soviet trading organization in the United States, in order to clean up commercial and trade affairs between Russian and Mexican companies. He said he was not a Communist and was not engaged in propagandist activities.

RED DEMONSTRATIONS ORDERED ALONG BORDER

American and Canadian Communists Call for Crossing Line at Three Points on Friday.

TORONTO, July 28 (AP).—Communists from Canada and the United States will attempt, in celebration of "Red day," Friday, to pass immigration barriers at three points along the border to hold demonstrations in both countries.

United States Communists, it was announced today by Charles Sims, Communist leader here, will attempt to invade Canada at Niagara Falls, Windsor and Sault Ste. Marie.

Under plans made at Buffalo and Toronto conferences, the final demonstration of the day will be at the Niagara Falls bridge, Canadian Communists will line up at their end of the bridge and make an effort to reach the United States for a demonstration. If they succeed, American Communists will try to cross to Ontario for a rally on Canadian soil.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—Harry A. Hull, Commissioner General of Immigration, today indicated that he expected no trouble, after hearing reports of Communist plans to arrange demonstrations Friday at the Canadian border.

No special orders will be issued from Washington, and it is anticipated the border patrol will be adequate to deal with the situation.

"I think it safe to say that no Russian advocate of communism will be allowed to enter the United States, and I do not believe that any Russian of this type will be successful openly in getting from the United States to Canada," the Commissioner General commented.

"However, it should be understood that the only bar of a political character preventing entrance to the United States arises from the ruling that no person can pass our immigration station who advocates or believes in the principle of over-throwing established governments by force. There is no general refusal to admit members of the Communist party as such; the only refusal is to admit advocates of violence, which Communists may or may not be."

JEWISH REPUBLIC PLAN OFF.

But Soviet Will Continue Scheme to Colonize Bureya.

MOSCOW, July 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Soviet Government has given up the idea of an eastern Jewish republic, but will include the Bureya colonization plan as part of the general scheme to cultivate the region, it was revealed in resolutions passed by the executive of the Ozet, the society for settling the Jews on land, which have just been published.

The resolutions say the past year's work in Bureya fully justifies the continuance of the plan to colonize that area, and add that the future methods must take into account not only agriculture but the whole economic sphere.

By order of the Ozet executive the recommendations made by the Land Commissariat commission will be followed and a revisory commission will be appointed. In the future the work in Bureya will be aimed chiefly, it has been decided, on attracting Jewish immigrants into the general Soviet instead of concentrating on a Jewish republic.

RED MAIL BAN UP TODAY.

Argument Against Postoffice Action on Magazine to Be Heard.

Argument against the postoffice ruling barring seven issues of the fortnightly Revolutionary Age from the mails on the ground that the organ of the Communist party (majority group) is seditious will be heard this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the United States District Court.

Arthur Garfield Hays will appear for the publishers, who include Jay Lovestone and Benjamin Gitlow, expelled from the official Communist party of America after internal dissension. The most recent issue affected by the ruling is that of July 15, the entire contents of which have been barred from the mails under Sections 470 and 472 of the Postal Laws and Regulations of 1924. The Communist party (majority group) is now soliciting funds to "prevent the postoffice department from destroying the paper."

REDS SEIZED IN ELIZABETH.

Two Women and a Man Accused of Giving Out Communist Literature.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 28.—Three Communists, two of them women, were held in $100 bail each for a hearing on Sept. 12 by Police Judge James F. Brown, before whom they were arraigned on disorderly conduct charges today. They are Miss Veronica Kovacs, 21 years old, of 434 Court Street, Elizabeth; Miss Rose Sands, 17, of New York City and Paul Stark, 23, of 957 De Hart Place, Elizabeth.

All were arrested today in front of the Besco Shirt Company's plant at Sixth and Fulton Streets here, where the police said they found them distributing communistic literature.

GETS BIG RUSSIAN ORDER.

International Harvester to Send $7,000,000 of Machines.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—An order for approximately $7,000,000 worth of machines has been received from Russia by the International Harvester Company.

As a result of the order, it is planned to double operations at the Milwaukee plant of the company, officials said tonight. The order will keep the plant busy until after Christmas.

BRIGANDS AMBUSH AFGHANS

Soldiers Repulse Attackers and Capture Several With Aid of Chiefs.

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—An official telegram from Kabul received in London today stated that a party of fifty Afghan foot soldiers was ambushed near Kohdamar a few days ago by a band of robbers, who were repulsed.

Troops pursued the brigands to the mountains, inflicting heavy losses. Kohdamar chiefs offered assistance to the troops. Some of the robbers were captured.

RED LEAFLETS GIVEN TO CAMP DIX YOUTHS

Hundreds of Pamphlets Urging Revolt Against "Bosses' War" Issued by Holiday Visitors.

OFFICER IS UNDISTURBED

Colonel W. B. Graham, Who Is in Charge of Training, Scoffs at "Ravings" of Communists.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, N. J., July 28.—Distribution of several hundred Communist pamphlets at the Citizens Military Training Camp here was disclosed this morning when the campers lined up for morning inspection and turned the pamphlets over to their officers.

Investigation revealed, according to officers, that the pamphlets had been distributed yesterday by Communists posing as holiday visitors. The pamphlets were of various sizes and types, the largest being in the form of a tabloid newspaper bearing the title, "Red Trigger." An editorial in this one announced that emissaries of the Communists were enrolled at the Fort Niagara, Fort Hancock and Dix camps and called upon the youths to rebel "against the bosses' war" and to "revolt against extra duty."

Colonel W. B. Graham, commanding officer of the Eighteenth Infantry, who is directing the training of the youths, professed himself undisturbed by the pamphlets.

"We are training these boys in citizenship," Colonel Graham said, "and if their loyalty couldn't stand exposure to the ravings of a few half-baked failures in life it would be a pretty sad reflection on the training. Naturally we would not tolerate any open soap-box activities in the camp—merely as a matter of discipline. But if these clowns get any thrill out of sneaking around in the dark and scattering their propaganda they're welcome to it. Any overt acts will be dealt with according to the law, however."

The publicity officer at the camp also issued a statement in which he said that such pamphlets had been appearing since the day the training period began and that there was no reason to believe that there were any Communist workers enrolled in the camp.

SEE PLOT IN CAMPAIGN TO BEATIFY CHARLES

Czechoslovakia About to Try Monk and Clerk for Treason as Hapsburg Propagandists.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, July 28.—That a movement is on foot in the countries constituting the old Austro-Hungarian Empire to have the ill-fated Emperor Charles beatified by the Vatican is disclosed by a trial which will begin in the next few days before a court in Znaim, Moravia.

Father Charles Otto, a Capucin monk, and Felix Christian, a clerk, are accused of high treason in that they spread Hapsburg propaganda. The propaganda consisted of a large number of pamphlets, books and reviews of a monarchist tendency, and especially membership blanks for a so-called league of prayer, which aims to obtain Charles's beatification. All these were found in the baggage of the two accused when they were arrested traveling from Vienna to Prague.

The authorities maintain the religious purposes of the league are only a disguise for monarchist propaganda aiming at a Hapsburg restoration. Although the chances for restoration in Czechoslovakia are so negligible as to be laughable, the State prosecutor asks the full penalty of the law governing high treason.

The grounds cited in favor of the Emperor Charles's beatification are "his Christian martyr-like death in exile, which furnished a striking example of faith." The league is collecting instances of alleged miraculous occurrences at the Emperor's grave under the altar of the Church of the Madonna del Monte in Funchal, Madeira.

CONVICT TAKEN IN WATER.

Caught After Swimming Three-quarters of Mile From Hart's Island

William Turner, 18 years old, of 9,233 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, attempted to escape yesterday from the penitentiary on Hart's Island but was caught after swimming about three-fourths of a mile toward the mainland. Turner is serving a sentence for violation of the Sullivan law.

The youth was working on a coal pile near the water's edge about 8:30 o'clock when he suddenly darted to the bank and jumped into the water. His escape was not discovered for several minutes, but when it was the penitentiary's emergency siren was sounded.

Police Launch 9, commanded by Sergeant Vance Parkinson and stationed at City Island, was sent toward Hart's Island and Parkinson learned what had happened. He set out in the direction taken by Turner, who, aided by the tide, was by this time lost to view. He was overhauled near High Island, which is not far from City Island, and was taken back to Hart's Island.

KUNDT REPORTED IN PERU.

Former Bolivian Army Chief Said to Have Crossed Line Unmolested.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 28.—A dispatch sent today to the newspaper Mercurio by Novoa Orellana, its correspondent at Santiago, Chile, says that General Hans Kundt has succeeded in crossing the Bolivian frontier into Peru. General Kundt, alternately an officer in the German and Bolivian armies and a naturalized citizen of Bolivia, has been reported in hiding in the German Legation here since the revolution of last June overthrew the Siles régime. As chief-of-staff of the Bolivian Army, General Kundt had tried unsuccessfully to force the Presidency of Dr. Hernando Siles upon the country.

Señor Orellano's dispatch says that the former chief-of-staff left La Paz at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, accompanied by the German Minister, the Peruvian Minister, a Señor Bailey and two Bolivian officials. The party, the dispatch says, proceeded by automobile from the city, traveling tranquilly across the countryside and changing automobiles at intervals. They reached the Peruvian frontier at 3 P. M., it says, making the journey without incident, and crossed into Peru.

WOMEN WETS BACK HEMPHILL CAMPAIGN

Pennsylvania Dry Reform Group Says Republicans Have Deserted the Party Principles.

PINCHOT HITS AT COURT

He Files Motions Questioning the Tribunal's Right to Pass on Certified Election Returns.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Criticizing the Republican party leadership in Pennsylvania for failing to take "a definite and constructive" attitude regarding prohibition, women opponents of the Eighteenth Amendment today endorsed John M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee, for the Governorship.

The executive committee of the Pennsylvania Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform unanimously adopted a resolution declaring the "one big public issue that is most momentous and pressing" to be prohibition, and supporting the Democratic nominee "in the interest of the State and nation."

For their campaign against Gifford Pinchot the women chose the slogan, "Help honest Hemphill. Hit hypocrisy." Mr. Hemphill is running on a platform calling for the repeal of the State and national prohibition laws.

Mrs. Graham Dougherty, chairman of the women's committee, in a statement explaining its action, said she and her associates were not departing from "sound Republican principles," in spite of their endorsement of a Democrat.

"This is one of the times," she stated, "when artificial and imaginary party lines cease to have meaning for conscientious citizens interested in the fundamentals of good government and genuinely devoted to the principles of the Constitution.

"We do not feel we have departed from Republican principles. We feel that the group of party managers directing the Republican campaign have departed from them. We are not turning from the Republican party; the Republican party has turned from us. In this instance it is our conviction that we are doing no more than acting in accordance with the high and free purposes traditionally sustained by the Republican party in the past."

The right of the State Supreme Court to change the result of the primary election vote which gave Mr. Pinchot the Republican nomination for Governor was challenged today in three motions filed with the court by Deputy Attorney General W. A. Schnader, counsel for Mr. Pinchot.

The court has set Aug. 19 for argument on the Luzerne County ballot perforation case, by which followers of Francis Shunk Brown hope to have about 60,00 0ballots thrown out and Mr. Brown thus designated as the Republican nominee. One of the motions filed today asked that the Brown forces's appeal be quashed. It declared the Supreme Court had taken jurisdiction "whereas the Legislature has expressly provided that there shall be no appeal from the action of the Court of Common Pleas in such cases."

Another motion asked the court to throw out the appeal involving the vote of the second division of Wilkes-Barre's Eighth Ward, the specific case before the court. In connection with this case the three men who signed the original petition for the Brown forces have drawn up affidavits asking that their names be removed because they were not qualified to sign.

The third motion requested the Supreme Court to set aside its order directing that the Luzerne County election returns be certified "subject to such modification, correction or rejection as may be ordered by this court after a full hearing." The nominee contends that "the certification of the election count having been completed in Luzerne County and throughout the State, the Supreme Court has no power either under the Constitution or any statute to modify, correct or reject such returns."

$100,000 Suit for Baby on 'Lost Identity' To Be Filed by Watkins Against Hospital

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 28.—A $100,000 damage suit for "lost identity" against the Englewood Hospital Association and its staff doctors and nurses will be filed in the Superior Court tomorrow morning on behalf of a month-old baby, named in the suit as John Doe, according to Barratt O'Hara, attorney for William Watkins. The baby born in the hospital June 30 was brought home by Mrs. Watkins with a tag marked "Bamberger."

Mr. O'Hara said he expected to follow the filing of the suit with a petition for a writ of habeas corpus entitling Mr. Watkins to exchange for the baby he has, the month-old baby, now in the possession of Mr. and Mrs. Bamberger.

Later, Mr. O'Hara said, he will file a second $100,000 suit against the hospital on behalf of the Watkins parents.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Watkins at her apartment said:

"We don't want to force the Bambergers to give up their baby—or our baby. That isn't the idea. We may have the right baby, after all. We can't figure out why the Bambergers can be so sure they have theirs. They seem pretty positive."

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins both said it was "all right with them" that the Bambergers had christened yesterday as Charles Edward Bamberger the baby which Mrs. Bamberger brought from the Englewood Hospital tagged "Watkins."

"No matter what he's been christened, if I find he's mine, I'll take him," said Mr. Watkins. 'I don't plan to have this baby I have baptized."

Mr. Bamberger, at the door of his home, said to a reporter:

"It's settled from my point of view. See my attorney."

Special to The New York Times.

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa., July 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Evan Watkins of this city, parents of William Watkins of Chicago, today sent a picture of their son, taken when he was 4 months old, to officials of Englewood Hospital there.

"I have sent the picture to Chicago in the hope that the experts will now be able to see that published pictures of the baby taken by the Bambergers is strikingly similar to that of my boy," Mrs. Watkins said.

Mr. Watkins was less confident that the problem would be solved until the babies were old enough to show distinct family characteristics.

O'Neill and Walling Favor Freedom on Bonds Following City Magistrates' Rulings.

United States Commissioners and State court judges will go to the partial relief of persons arrested at night for violations of the prohibition law, it was indicated yesterday in proceedings at the Federal court.

Despite the decision of city magistrates to discontinue handling bail bonds in liquor cases, eighteen of forty-one persons who were arraigned yesterday on charges of violating the Volstead act had been able to get bail. The twenty-three others had spent either one or two nights in jail over the week-end because they could find no one to sign bail bonds and the Federal commissioners were not in session.

Those who gained their freedom were indebted to Special Sessions Justice William A. Walling, who signed bail bonds for ten persons; Bronx County Judge James M. Barrett, who signed for six, and United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill, who signed for two.

Commissioner O'Neill explained that in view of the new situation the commissioners were relaxing their rule against night bailing. For some time they had been under the instruction of the Federal judges, he said, not to accept a fee for signing a bond at night. They had been told also, he said, that they were under no obligation to take bail except during their regular daytime sittings in the Federal Building.

"But if people arrested can get me by telephone," the commissioner said, "I will probably respond, but I cannot promise to be available."

A deputy marshal, he added, got in touch with him on Sunday and persuaded him to sign bonds for two persons at the Clinton Street police station. As the persons regularly arraigned yesterday gave bail and there were no commitments, he said, all would probably be liberated earlier if bonds could have been signed.

Justice Walling said he did not believe prohibition violators should be kept unjustly in jail over night when bailing was permissible. Indirectly supporting Justice Walling's position, Chief Justice Frederic Kernochan of Special Sessions said he had no intention of calling a conference of judges in his department to take action similar to that of the magistrates.

Both Senior Federal Judge John C. Knox and United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle maintained silence regarding bail bonds. It is understood that Judge Knox wants a trial period in which to determine whether there is need for a Federal night court with a commissioner sitting regularly at night.

Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan continued to remain firm in his stand, saying the magistrates were well rid of a business that was entirely a Federal problem brought about by Federal law. Citing the presentments of the grand juries that investigated bond evils early this year, he contended that most of the malpractices were connected with liquor law bail. Even before the joint agreement of the magistrates not to handle bail of this kind, individual magistrates, including himself, had refused to have anything to do with it, he said.

Commenting on the refusal of Federal commissioners to do night bailing, he said: "Why should they expect city magistrates to do what they won't do themselves?"

The Federal authorities should be capable of meeting the situation, the Chief Magistrate said, adding that if a Federal night court were established it would be a matter for negotiation by the Federal authorities with the police to arrange for producing before such a court all Volstead law prisoners the city police might arrest during the evening.

Mr. Corrigan threw out the suggestion also that bail bondsmen might be eliminated altogether in the average run of liquor cases by arranging for a system of small cash bond deposits. The average fine in a liquor case was a matter of a few dollars, he said, and it might be arranged to have offenders post at police stations or with commissioners double the average fine. This would still be less than $100, he thought. All the cash would be recoverable in case of a dismissal of the case or acquittal, he pointed out, whereas the usual $500 bail bond now costs at least $15, a sum which is not recoverable from the bondsman.

Two impostors were caught in Federal court yesterday pleading for other persons who had been arrested for violation of the prohibition law. Edward Connors attempted to plead for Joseph Saverino, while Joseph S. Marsh answered for Sam Sels. On motion of Maxwell Shapiro, Assistant United States Attorney, who discovered the impersonations, Federal Judge Martineau held each impostor in contempt of court and sentenced him to thirty days in the Federal detention headquarters. The bail bonds of $500 given by the real defendants in each case were ordered forfeited.

United States Attorney Tuttle announced that he would investigate the circumstances of the bail bonding and find whether the bondsmen connived in the appearance of the impostors. They might face prosecution, he said, and in any case would have to show why they should not be barred from writing bonds in the Federal court.

SIX SEIZED IN DRY RAIDS.

Agents of Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, seized small quantities of alleged beer and liquor yesterday and arrested six persons in as many raids. They also reported the seizure late Saturday of 135 barrels of beer in a truck on Park Avenue and 162d Street, the Bronx, where they arrested John Wishrad, the driver, 547 Brook Avenue, the Bronx.

SEIZE $40,000 LIQUOR CACHE

Jersey Police Trail Truck to Farm and Arrest Two Men.

Special to The New York Times.

SALEM, N. J., July 28.—State police, headed by Detective Andrew Zapolski, made a seizure of Canadian whisky valued at approximately $40,000 in lower Alloways Creek Township, near here, today.

David Parkell, 35 years old, Canton farmer, whose truck was seized with part of the contraband, and Joseph Winstel, 58, in whose barn 184 twelve-quart cases were found, were released under $1,000 bail each after a hearing before Federal Commissioner James H. Mecum.

Tipped off by Federal authorities, Zapolski trailed a small truck to the farm of Winstel and found six men unloading it. Returning later with State police, he located 184 cases of liquor, he reported. The truck was found in a field, loaded with eighty-two cases.

Federal authorities believed the landing was made by the group from whom a $100,000 load was seized at Smyrna, Del., last week.

stitution and contempt for the laws of our nation to which you have been accredited as a diplomat."

The communication from Mr. Woods recalled a similar letter written in May, 1929, to Sir Esme Howard, then British Ambassador, by James T. Carter, a prohibitionist of Lynchburg, Va. Sir Esme, in reply, expressed a willingness to waive the diplomatic liquor privilege and announced that he would sign no more liquor permits. He made it plain, however, that this was a personal decision. Other members of the Embassy staff continued to receive liquor and Sir Ronald resumed the custom when he came to Washington as Sir Esme's successor.

Mr. Woods made this action by Sir Esme one of the reasons for his protest, saying:

"You have not followed the noble example of General Foch when in our country; you are doing much to weaken the friendship of the United States for Great Britain, which Sir Esme Howard and the recent action of Canada have strengthened. You are wounding and estranging England's best friends and delighting those who seem by nature to be her enemies, the foreigners and near-foreigners in our midst and the wet politicians seeking their votes.

"You are encouraging those who, for fear of this foreign vote, are delaying and trying to defeat the treaty just tentatively agreed on between our nations.

"You may or may not have heard of 'Big Bill' of Chicago and his cohorts and their war against King George and history. Nor of such actions as the attack upon the Union League Club because on its building the flag of Great Britain was displayed beside that of the United States. This spirit still lives in a considerable element who, joined to a minority clamoring for liquor, constitute such another whisky rebellion as George Washington, when President, called out the troops to put down.

"It is this lawless and unfriendly element that your embassy is encouraging. The press has reported that attachés of some embassies, not your own, have gone a step further in disrespect and contempt of our laws, by selling their 'immune' liquor. Truly, the quality of international courtesy is strained; it droppeth all consideration for the laws of other peoples.

"That rum in this nation is now fighting in its last trench is shown by the millions it is now spending; by the false propaganda it is scattering; the great noise being made, and by the advertising of demands for repeal from those who have always opposed prohibition and who live in our foreign cities and States.

"The mass of our people, the great majority of the citizens of the United States, believe in prohibition and its power to save men and elevate them. Prohibition in its administration has been too much in the hands of its enemies; it has greatly reduced the use of liquor and done, and is doing, much good throughout our land. Where it has mostly failed, as in New York and Chicago, it is because officials have been false to their oaths of office. It is worthy of note that the great wet spots in the United States are the great crime spots of our land."

HANCOCK FAVORS REPEAL.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 28 (AP).—Representative Clarence E. Hancock of Syracuse, addressing the Allied Printing Trades Council of New York State in annual convention today, made his first public announcement of a stand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Through abolishment of the Eighteenth Amendment," he said, "I hope to see the end of the wave of crime and corruption and other evils that have come with prohibition. Then a man will be able to buy wholesome drinks instead of poison, liquor that is made by honest men instead of by crooks."

He spoke of the recently enacted tariff as a safeguard for American labor.

No bulk disturbs your summer comfort because Kotex is made to fit

Kotex is lighter and cooler... and is carefully designed to eliminate all unnecessary bulk.

WARM weather... how disturbing to comfort on certain days ... if one didn't have Kotex!

Kotex is the sanitary pad that emancipated women from many old-time discomforts.

Kotex is lighter and cooler. Five times lighter than cotton, for the same amount of absorption. Cooler, because it is made up of many filmy layers, laid lengthwise, which permit free circulation of air.

These lengthwise layers carry moisture away from the surface. This leaves the surface soft and delicate, and prevents chafing.

Don't think for a minute that other pads are "like" Kotex, just because they bear a certain exterior resemblance. Superficially, Kotex can be copied. But in the things that count, Kotex stands alone.

Made of unique substance

Kotex is not made of cotton, nor of any other usual material. It is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding ... the same material used by 85% of our greatest hospitals to replace fine surgical cotton.

Isn't it wonderful that the absorbent chosen by famous hospitals is available to every woman in the United States? Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT ...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes ... safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

Special to The New York Times.

BATH, N. Y., July 28.—Following closely the death of Glenn H. Curtiss, the veteran aviator, a move was made today in the Steuben County Surrogate's Court in connection with the Herring-Curtiss suit.

Surrogate Wheeler this afternoon issued an order that Mrs. Lena Curtiss, the widow, show cause on Aug. 11, at Bath, why, if Mr. Curtis left a will, it should not be filed for probate in Steuben County, and if he died without a will, why his property should not be administered in local courts. The move was evidently an effort to obtain an inventory of the estate's assets should the Herring-Curtiss decision favor the plaintiffs.

The case has been in court nearly twenty years, a dispute growing out of a partnership as once existent between Curtiss and August Herring. Mr. Herring alleges that he was excluded from a fair partition of the assets when the partnership was dissolved.

ECONOMISTS TOUR MARKETS

Cooperative methods of marketing farm products for consumption in New York City were praised by a group of agricultural economists from twenty countries during a tour yesterday of the produce piers along West Street and the wholesale and jobbing marts elsewhere in the city. After an inspection of dairy farms and plants in New Jersey today the party will leave for Chicago and other Middle West points for a visit before going to Ithaca for the International Conference of Agricultural Economists at Cornell Aug. 18 to 29.

Starting at 3:30 A. M., the delegates observed the handling of Southern and Western fruits and vegetables at the Pennsylvania Railroad piers and auctions of perishable products before breakfast.

George M. Dykes, head of the research division of the Empire Marketing Board of London, said there had been a better development of cooperative marketing in this country due to the scope of the business. Americans, he said, were much larger consumers of fruit and milk than Britishers. The layout of the markets, he said, were much the same here as in London.

Earl A. Flansburgh, assistant county agent leader of the New York State College of Agriculture, is in charge of the group which has headquarters at the Hotel New Yorker.

SCOTT KNOCKED OUT BY STRIBLING IN 2D

HOME BOXER OUTCLASSED

Down Four Times in First Round—Record Crowd of 35,000 Sees Bout.

FANS STAGE OWN BATTLES

Proceedings Enlivened by Fights Which Break Out Among Spectators—Use Ladders to Get In.

By FERDINAND KUHN JR.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—William L. (Young) Stribling knocked out Phil Scott in the second round at Wimbledon Stadium tonight and earned the right to challenge Max Schmeling for the world's heavyweight championship.

The fight lasted only 5 minutes and 45 seconds, but it gave the big, lumbering Britisher plenty of time to find his way to the canvas. Four times in the first round Stribling floored him—twice for the count of nine, once for five and another time for the count of eight, which would have gone to ten if the gong hadn't saved him.

In the second round a terrific left to the stomach sent Scott toppling again, and while the 35,000 in the stadium howled and booed, Scott sprawled over for the final count.

Stribling seldom was hit by Scott, who never once revealed himself as anything but clumsy. Stribling rained accurate and hard blows upon an easy target, especially one deadly right to the jaw that spelled disaster for the Britisher. But throughout the bout Scott gave an exhibition that looked more like clowning than boxing.

Scott Misses His Swings.

Once Stribling actually retreated with Scott hanging onto him and the Georgian looked appealingly at the referee. More than once Scott's swings missed by more than a foot.

To watch this encounter, the biggest open air fight crowd in London's history packed Wimbledon's greyhound racing stadium. Some had waited in line since early morning. A heavy shower early in the evening did not keep the crowds away and an hour before the fight there was a noisy overflow of 6,000 pushing and shoving onto the grass around the ring. Other thousands swarmed over the fences outside the arena and some clambered to the roof of the grandstand where they squatted on the darkening skyline.

Stribling tried to rush Scott off his feet at the start, but he had a surprise. His first swing was answered by two stiff lefts to the nose. Stribling snorted and looked startled, and angry, too. The crowd, sensing a real battle in the offing, roared for Scott, but it was its last chance to cheer the British champion. Stribling's fighting blood was up and Scott quickly began to box on the defensive.

Stribling rushed to close quarters and, although Scott's right was pummeling his ribs, the Georgia man got his opponent in just the right place for a series of sharp jabs and hooks to the left side of the head. Already Scott was being shaken and the infighting which followed was so rough that the referee had to separate the two men. Suddenly, more or less in the open, Stribling shot home a terrific left to the stomach. In the arc lights which flooded the ring Scott's face could be seen with his familiar look of pain. Slowly and majestically he sank to the floor of the ring.

Staggers Up in Time.

That was the first of the knockdowns and Scott just staggered up in time. For a few seconds he gave a show of fight and Stribling gave him no rest. A short, sharp right to the jaw sent Scott tottering once more and he fell the second time for a count of nine. Again he got up and tried to fight back in his flatfooted style, only to run straight into another of Stribling's deadly punches at close range which sent him down. He got up, but was on his knees again, shaken and trembling, when the bell saved him.

Stribling again had things all his own way in the second round. His overarm rights and left hooks to the side of the stomach had Scott all at sea. Speeding up his onslaught, Stribling hurt Scott on the body with a bombardment of rights and lefts.

A contorted look of pain soon plastered itself on Scott's face and stayed there, and when the last terrific left from Stribling landed squarely to the stomach Scott toppled for the last time. He tried to get up but the referee's "out" came while he was still on one knee.

Beckett Challenges Winner.

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—As a crowning anti-climax to England's pugilistic hopes, stout old Joe Beckett clambered through the ropes tonight after the knockout of Scott by Stribling and challenged the winner to battle, with a bet of 500 pounds sterling on the side.

Stribling weighed 188 pounds and Scott 206.

The real feature of the evening's entertainment was not the fight itself but the impromptu volunteer scraps among the spectators. For some reason or other battles broke out here and there through the big stadium as the crowds gathered and the preliminaries were staged. These free-for-alls were as hard to control as a prairie fire. Suppressed in one spot they promptly broke out in another.

The issues at stake weren't always clear, but in general the private quarrels had something to do with whether or not derby hats were obstructing the view and whether customers in standing sections were taking up too much space. The gate crashers also contributed to the entertainment, making raids into the big ringside arena where there were the usual rows of fat men reclining at ease in folding deck chairs.

As a crowning touch to the gate-crashing art, when darkness fell ladders were placed against the stand from the outside and hundreds scaled to the ridge of the roof, while masses of cockneys inside broke down the railings and invaded the higher-priced sections.

All the bobbies seemed to be on a holiday. The good-humored London crowd enjoyed it all, and after the four or five minutes of the major engagement retired to their clubs, where many conversations dwelt upon the history of Anglo-American ring relations, which began way back in 1860 or thereabouts, when Tom Sayers and John Camel Heenan fought forty rounds at Farnborough, some of the rounds of fifteen and twenty minutes duration.

YOUNG STRIBLING,

Who Knocked Out Phil Scott in the Second Round.

MACON HAILS VICTORY.

Crowds Cheer as News of Stribling's Triumph Is Announced.

MACON, Ga., July 28 (AP).—Macon's fight fans paid a tribute of thunderous cheers to a fellow-townsman this afternoon as an announcer for The Macon Telegraph read to a milling crowd in front of the newspaper office an Associated Press bulletin telling of W. L. (Young) Stribling's two-round knockout of Phil Scott in England.

An hour before the fight began stragglers started planting themselves at vantage points near the newspaper office. Within a few minutes after the first took up their positions police reserves were called upon to maintain enough order to allow passage of vehicular traffic along Cherry Street, Macon's main thoroughfare.

After the first round, in which Stribling knocked Scott down four times, the anxiety evinced by a part of the crowd in the earlier minutes of the fight had disappeared, and the fans had not a worry.

Wins Feature 10-Round Bout at Henderson's Bowl.

Archie Bell, veteran Brooklyn featherweight, proved too experienced for Charley Raymond, youthful Williamsburg battler, and gained the verdict in the semi-final contest of ten rounds. Raymond at 126 had an advantage of four pounds over Bell.

Pinkey Silverberg, veteran Connecticut featherweight, lost to Eddie Burl of Jacksonville, Fla., in the first ten-rounder. Burl weighed 125, Silverberg 122½.

In a fast six-rounder, Eddie Cerda of Mexico, 131, outpointed Maxie Faber of Brooklyn, 136. The opening four-rounder resulted in a victory for Joe Cordella of Staten Island, 126, who defeated Benny Husick of Coney Island, 130.

GENARO DEFEATS ADELMAN ON POINTS

3,000 WITNESS THE CARD

Vigna Wins in Semi-Final, Flooring Wallace Twice—Maracanda Outpoints Miller.

Frankie Genaro, regarded as the flyweight champion of the world by the National Boxing Association, carried off the decision over Davey Adelman, Philadelphia bantamweight, in the feature ten-round bout at Dexter Park last night. A crowd of 3,000 persons witnessed the contest, in which Genaro's title was not at stake.

The battle was dull and uninteresting, and there were only few moments that caused any excitement. One occurrence that temporarily relieved the drabness of the encounter came in the ninth round when Genaro floored his rival for a count of six.

Genaro was willing to mix all through the fray, but Adelman was always cautious, and rarely led. Genaro took the lead with the starting bell and was never seriously threatened by his opponent. The weights were 115½ for Genaro, and 116 for Adelman.

Genaro Starts With Rush.

Genaro swarmed over his foe at the start and landed several stiff lefts to the head. Adelman came back near the end of the session to reach Genaro with a hard right to the head. In the second round Genaro rushed Adelman and reached him often with fast lefts to the head and body.

Adelman showed to good advantage in the third, when he sent a number of heavy right uppercuts into Genaro's body. But Genaro retaliated with a left-hand attack that forced his opponent to hold.

Adelman was sent back on his heels under the force of a right to the jaw in the fourth, but he lashed back with a right uppercut to the body that doubled up the N. B. A. champion midway in the chapter.

In the fifth round Adelman centred his attack on Genaro's body and forced the latter to retreat steadily. But the latter responded in the next stanza with a fast left-hand barrage to the head which dazzled the Philadelphia battler.

Genaro continued to reach Adelman with his left in the seventh and eighth and kept his opponent constantly on the retreat.

In the ninth Genaro overwhelmed his adversary and floored him for a count of six. He kept up the attack in the tenth.

Action in Semi-Final.

Rocco Vigna of the west side defeated Herman Wallace of Brownsville in a savage six-rounder, which served as the semi-final. This contest was filled with action, with each boxer trying hard constantly.

Vigna dropped his rival twice in the second round, sending Wallace to the floor for a count of six with a right to the jaw and for no count with a left to the chin. The winner weighed 131 and his opponent 134.

Vince Maracanda, Williamsburg lightweight, carried off the decision over Stanley Miller in a six-round battle. Maracanda outboxed his rival at long range throughout the contest and smothered the latter's rushes effectively. The weights were 134 for Maracanda and 135½ for Miller.

Joe Comforti of Harlem outpointed Joe Diefenbach, Ridgewood, in a hard fought six-rounder. The winner weighed 125 and his opponent 125¼.

Joe Paradise of Greenwich Village dropped Billy Jacobs of Jamaica twice before knocking him out in the second round of a scheduled six-rounder. The weights were 141 for Paradise and 138 for Jacobs. The opening four-rounder, between Juan Carreuza, 140, and Tony Romano, 138½, ended in a draw.

CARNERA HEARING PUT OFF.

Italian Boxer's Plea to Extend Stay Set for Friday.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—At the request of Primo Carnera, Italian pugilist, the Labor Department Board of Review postponed until Friday a hearing which was granted him on staying an order requiring him to leave the country as an alien inadmissible for permanent residence.

The boxer entered the country originally as a temporary visitor. When his six months' time expired he was refused an extension and notified that he would have to leave.

A reconsideration was sought. The Immigration Service granted it, with the result that the further hearing is now scheduled at which he may present evidence which he considers would justify the government in extending his stay.

More than 400 athletes have entered the Metropolitan A. A. U. junior track and field championships at McCarren Park on Sunday, it was announced yesterday by Sy Hedberg of the Knights of St. Antony, sponsors of the games, following a meeting of the junior track and field committee in the Woolworth Building. HEENEY TO FIGHT GRIFFITHS TONIGHT

New Zealander Will Attempt a Come-Back in Main Bout at the Queensboro.

HIS OPPONENT IS FAVORED

Chicagoan's Power Expected to Turn the Tide—Abbott and Caruso on Armory Card.

Tom Heeney of New Zealand will make an attempt to regain his standing in the front ranks of the heavyweight contenders when he tackles Tuffy Griffiths, hard-hitting Chicago boxer, in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Queensboro Stadium tonight. Heeney, who has not performed in the ring since last September, when he won a decision over George Hoffman, has been keeping in good condition nevertheless, and is eager for a chance to battle his way to a position as contender for Max Schmeling's heavyweight championship.

Since his fight with Gene Tunney, which, incidentally, was the latter's final bout of his career, Heeney has been content more or less to watch proceedings from the side-lines, but lately has declared that he is willing to pit his ruggedness and experience against the younger aspirants for heavyweight honors.

In Griffiths, Heeney will be opposed to one of the strongest of the current crop of recent heavyweight arrivals. The Chicago battler is admittedly a devastating hitter, and has a knockout record that is enviable. He also holds decisions over Paulino Uzcudun and Johnny Risko.

Griffiths has been working out at Stillman's gymnasium and is reported in fine shape for the battle. His punching ability and his string of knockout victories have caused him to be installed a 2-to-1 favorite to turn back Heeney.

Five five-round bouts and two four-rounders are on the card. In the semi-final Al Gainor will meet Vic Tracey. In the other fives Buster Malini will oppose Eric Helmberg. Milton Hutner will box Bruno Salo, Abe Lipchitz will tackle William Robinson, and Jimmy Parkhill will oppose Andy Hudson.

Jimmy Abbott and Joe Caruso will clash in the main bout of ten rounds at the Twenty-second Engineers' Armory tonight. In the eight-round semi-final Johnny Peters will box Joe Calucci.

Brown-McCoy, Guenther-Klein and Hale-Cox Score 69 Over Engineers Links.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., July 28.—The professional-amateur tournament, held annually as a prelude to the Long Island open championship, resulted in a three-cornered tie at the Engineers' Country Club today.

One of the three pairs scoring 68, two under par, consisted of Preston Parish and Jack Dowling, representatives of the home club, who clipped a stroke off par figures on each nine by going out in 35 and coming back in 33 on the course where the national amateur championship was played in 1920. Others sharing in the prizes were James Houston and Arthur Demane of Sound View, and E. H. Griffen and James Conologue of Brookville.

The Sound View pair clipped two strokes off par figures going out and equaled par coming in, while Griffen and Conologue had to come back in 32, two under par figures, to gain a tie. Conologue was home in 32 on his own account, his round being 70.

There was another three-cornered tie at 69 among Alfred Brown and David McCoy of Brentwood, E. A. Guenther and Willie Klein of Wheatley Hills, and George Hale and W. H. Cox of Dyker Beach. The last mentioned pair might have tied for the lead had not a ball played Cox a mean trick on one hole. On that one a three-inch putt went in and then out of the cup, the caddie failing to notice that a part of the flag was still sticking in the hole when he putted.

Eddie Driggs and Macdonald Smith, rated as the strongest pair in the field, took 71 strokes—36 out and 35 in. Mac's judgment of distance must have been affected by playing the Hamilton course in Canada last week for he was short on every mashie niblick shot he played.

Brodbeck, Beadle and Wilbert Tie for Third—Will Gunn Fails to Qualify.

Special to The New York Times.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., July 28.—Mark J. Stuart of the Fox Hills Club on Staten Island shot a 75 today to lead the qualifiers in the annual invitation event of the Wolf Hollow Country Club.

Stuart was out in 38 and back in 37 to be 4 over par and two strokes better than Jess R. Long of the home club, who was second.

In a three-cornered tie at 78 for third place were Al Brodbeck of the University of Pennsylvania, William Beadle, Llanerch, the Delaware County champion, and Ray Wilbert, Salisbury.

Walter Rothenberg, Wolf Hollow, and G. O. Tamblyn Jr., Seven Oaks, had 79s.

Rudy Rothenberg, Wolf Hollow, the defender of the cup, slipped in with an 81. An 83 or better was required to make the first flight and many of the stars fell by the wayside. Among them was Will Gunn Jr., brother of Watts, now playing from the Springhaven Club in the Philadelphia district, with 84, and young Tommy Wichel, a member of the Penn State team and medalist here last year, who had 85.

ENGLAND SCORES 251 FOR EIGHT WICKETS

SHOWERS HOLD UP PLAY

1,700 of Crowd of 20,000 Wait Until Late in Day for Match to Be Resumed.

MANCHESTER, England, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Play in the fourth cricket test match between England and Australia at Old Trafford could not be resumed today until 5:30 P. M. At the close of play England's score was 251 for eight wickets. Australia's first-innings total was 345. The match will be concluded tomorrow.

Of a crowd of 20,000 present in the morning, 1,700 waited throughout the day on the chance the game would be resumed. They were finally rewarded when, following repeated inspections of the wicket after showers, the umpires ordered the game to go on. The turf was little better than a mud heap.

Leyland and Tate Resume.

Maurice Leyland and Maurice Tate resumed the English innings, left on Saturday at 221 for five wickets. Leyland was bowled by S. McCabe before he could score and after Tate had made a single S. M. Nichols came in. Wall bowled his fastest. Tate drove McCabe to the rails and Nichols got four singles. It looked as if they might be settling down for a partnership when Tate hit weakly to Ponsford at mid on off McCabe and was caught. Seven wickets were down for 237.

I. A. R. Peebles contributed four singles through the slips. He then placed McCabe in V. Y. Richardson's hands, but the ball squirmed away for a run. In the next over he tried a half volley, but could only snick the ball. This time Richardson held it.

Duckworth Gets Ovation.

George Duckworth, the English wicketkeeper, was the next batsman. With memories of his great stand with Wally Hammond at Leeds fresh in their minds, the crowd gave him an ovation. McCabe's first four balls to him all went by byes, sending up the 250. An appeal against the light was then upheld by the umpires. Nichols had scored seven. McCabe had a successful time, his average reading, overs, 7; maiden, 1; runs, 14; wickets, 3.

MISS S. PALFREY VICTOR

Allows Only a Pair of Games to Mrs. Shanley—Miss Greef Bows to Miss Gladman.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 28.—With most of the leading players now in the country entered in the lists in both the men's and women's singles, the thirty-seventh annual invitation tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club got under way this morning with the field so thickly studded with talent as to put almost every favorite on his mettle from the opening round.

At the end of the afternoon session every one of the seeded players was still a contender, though two of the leading rivals of Francis T. Hunter for the honors in the men's singles had dropped out by default. One of them was Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., who is nursing a lame arm, and the other was G. Lyttleton Rogers, champion of Ireland, who recently competed in Canada.

The withdrawal of these two players costs the tournament two of its big drawing cards, but a field that includes Hunter, Frank Shields, Richard Norris Williams 2d, Ellsworth Vines, the new metropolitan champion; Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate title holder; Julius Seligson, J. Gilbert Hall and Marcel Rainville of the Canadian Davis Cup team is not likely to be found lacking in interest.

As an indication of the quality of the opposition in the very first round, Hunter dropped the opening set of his match with the aggressive Jack Tidball of California but rallied to win finally, 2—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Vines, who distinguished himself by defeating Hunter and Shields in Brooklyn, likewise had his difficulties. He won the opening set of his match with Harold Blauer of New York easily enough, but in the second chapter the tall Californian showed signs of fatigue and lost his control, with the result that Blauer came within a stroke of taking the set in the fourteenth game. Vines rose to the occasion in brilliant fashion in this emergency and finally aroused himself to bring the play to an end at 6—2, 10—8.

Williams, whose performances in reaching the final of this tournament last year revived memories of the days when his daring held tennis galleries enthralled, came through handsomely against Sadakazu Onda, winning at 6—2, 6—3. Rainville prevailed over Herbert L. Bowman in a prolonged back-court duel of position play, Seligson accounted for Gustav Broehmer Jr. of St. Louis.

In the women's play Miss Sarah Palfrey allowed Mrs. J. S. Shanley only two games, and Miss Cross defeated Miss Clare Prentice, one of the best players of the home club, in love sets. Miss Mary Greef of Kansas City, member of the Wightman Cup team, fell before Miss Gladman at 6—2, 6—3.

The above photograph, the first to reach this country showing Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, Shamrock V, leaving Portsmouth, England, for the United States, is of more than ordinary interest, as it brings to view several details of the rig used for the long ocean voyage.

From the photograph it can be seen that the Shamrock V is scudding along in a lively breeze under storm jib and a sail set on her temporary mizzenmast. Her mainsail is uncovered and ready to be hoisted. Of course, when the craft competes in September off Newport for the America's Cup she will be sloop rigged.

In addition to showing the temporary yawl rig, the photograph also makes the shortening of the mainmast apparent. It is interesting to note that on the mast, between the two sets of spreaders, there is a yard on which a square sail can be set to enable the yacht to make fast time should she get a chance to run before the wind.

Whirlwind, Rerigged, to Sail Today if Wind Is Favorable

Whirlwind, the America's Cup yacht, which has had her mast stepped forward to give her a better balance on the wind, will be taken out under sail from City Island at 10 o'clock this morning. The work of rerigging her was completed yesterday afternoon. It is hoped that sufficient breeze will be available to test her under the change. It will require a breeze of eight or nine miles an hour velocity to judge whether she still has a decided weather helm and a rudder drag.

RAMON NOVARRO

His Spanish forebears conquered Mexico . . . won the country in ten brief years. But Ramon alone conquered America, conquered Europe, and all points east . . . in scarcely more than a camera's flicker.

For Ramon gave the world a thrill!

And that's the tale of another young conqueror, OLD GOLD cigarettes. New England surrendered in just two months. "You win, OLD GOLD!" said the Middle West. From coast-to-coast the victory spread. And OLD GOLD in just one year became the country's fastest growing cigarette.

Because OLD GOLD, like Novarro, offered the world a brand new thrill. Finer tobaccos gave a mellower taste. Better tobaccos ended throat-scratch.

Giants Conquer Phils on Terry's Hitting; Robins Blank Braves; Yankees Lose

TERRY OF GIANTS BEATS THE PHILS

Hits 2 Homers and 2 Singles and Sends In Winning Run With Sacrifice in Ninth.

CHAPLIN EXCELS ON MOUND

Pitches Cleverly After Rivals Tie Score in Final Frame—Hurst Drives for Circuit.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Ostensibly the Giants defeated the Phillies at the Polo Grounds yesterday by 5 to 4, but actually it was nothing more than a personal triumph for William Terry, who, taking it upon himself to hammer the Phils' vaunted sluggers into silence by the sheer power of his own bludgeon, put on a brilliant spectacle of high and fancy swatting.

Coming to bat five times, Memphis Bill hit two singles and two homers—the last of these bringing his seasonal total to sixteen—and in the ninth inning with the score tied, the bases full and the count standing dramatically at three and two, he produced a sacrifice fly that drove in the winning run.

Memphis Bill was pretty much an entire ball team in himself, for though Tiny Jim Chaplin, who pitched for the McGrawmen, did an excellent job, he needed all of Terry's help to get the better of his adversary, Earl Collard, who did a pretty fine piece of pitching himself on nearly all occasions save those when he faced Terry.

Phils Off in Front.

Klein's double, Hurst's triple and Thevenow's sacrifice fly had sent the Phils away to a two-run lead in the upper half of the second, but Terry went to work at once in the lower half. He singled, galloped to third on Ott's double and over the plate on an infield out.

In the third the Giants tied the score without Terry's assistance chiefly because Bill had no chance to bat, this tally coming in on Critz's single, Leach's double and Lindstrom's sacrifice fly. In the fourth Terry again took a hand and gave the Giants a tally all by himself by propelling a ball with tremendous force against the façade of the upper left-field tier for his first homer of the day. In the sixth he dropped another homer against the upper left-field tier and put the Giants two in front.

It was well he did, for in the seventh Hurst poked a homer into the lower right-field stand and in the ninth the Phils tied the score when Ott dropped a liner and Klein and Hurst followed this advantage with a pair of blistering singles. All this having happened with none out, it had Chaplin in a ticklish spot, but Tiny Jim extricated himself with considerable dexterity.

Chaplin Hits a Single.

Then, confident that Memphis Bill would again repair all damage, Chaplin led off the Giant ninth with a single. Critz beat out an infield hit on which Hurst made a wild peg and Chaplin was on third. Here the Phils held a prolonged conference. Leach was purposely passed to fill the bases and Lindstrom contributed nothing more than a force play at the plate which still left the bases full and the score tied.

It again was Ladies' Day and 2,000 feminine fans were at the game, helping to swell the total attendance to 5,000.

ROOT AND BUSH HURL CUBS TO TRIUMPHS

Show Skill on Mound to Give Champions Decisions Over Reds, 3-2 and 5-3.

Frey and May Are Losing Pitchers—Hartnett Helps in Opener With a Home Run.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—The National League champion Cubs picked up a half game on the leading Brooklyn Robins today by winning both games of a double-header from Cincinnati, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3.

The twin victories broke the Cincinnati jinx, which has done much to keep the Cubs out of the National League leadership. Charlie Root outpitched Bennie Frey in the first game, giving seven hits and fanning twelve men. Gabby Hartnett aided the cause with a home run in the fourth.

Guy Bush pitched the Cubs to victory in the second, giving the Reds eight hits. Jakie May started for Cincinnati but was knocked from the rubber in the third when Chicago scored four times. Harry Heilmann got a homer for the Reds in the second inning. More than 35,000 turned out for the Cubs' homecoming.

THURSTON BLANKS BRAVES WITH 2 HITS

ONLY FOUR REACH FIRST

Brooklyn Wins Sixth Straight by Bunching Safeties—Now Leads Cubs by 1½ Games.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.
Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 28.—Hollis Thurston, on his way to becoming Brooklyn's leading pitcher, again displayed a well-nigh perfect picture of slow motion pitching today, to the complete discomfiture of the Braves and the delight of Manager Robinson and his league-leading Robins.

The former Pacific Coast hurler, who six days ago shut out the Cardinals with three hits, today blanked the McKechnie men with only two singles, the first being made by Pitcher Cantwell in the third inning and the second one caroming off the bat of Pinch Hitter Earl Clark in the ninth, the Robins meanwhile gathering two runs off Cantwell, who also pitched an excellent game.

The triumph marked the Robins' sixth straight. However, their lead was cut to one and one-half games, since the Cubs won twice from the Reds.

Faced By Only 29 Men.

Thurston now may boast, although he is not at all boastful, of the feat of pitching eighteen consecutive scoreless innings in two complete games and being faced during the two brilliant performances by only sixty batsmen—just six more than the minimum. His mound magic today had the Braves helpless and transcended his great hurling against the Cards. Today only twenty-nine Braves came to the plate and only four of them got to first base.

Rabbit Maranville drew the only pass off the Robin pitcher, but was promptly erased when George Sisler hit into a double play in the third. Richbourg also reached first when he forced Cantwell at second, following the moundsman's single in the third, and Clark, the fourth and last man to get into what might be called a scoring position, was left stranded on first when Richbourg flied easily to Hendrick and Maranville grounded to Bissonette in the ninth.

In seven of the nine innings the Braves went down three in a row before the tantalizing deliveries, sent across with perfect control, of the canny and always calm Thurston. A casual glance at the box score gives indication of the quality of his pitching, seventeen assists being turned in by the infield and all the put-outs save six being registered in the same circumscribed area.

Brandt Relieves Cantwell.

The Robins needed pitching of that calibre to win, for they were able to gather only six hits off Cantwell, who yielded both runs, and one more off Ed Brandt, who worked the eighth and ninth after Cantwell injured his left side in making a wild pitch in the seventh.

But the Robin hits were bunched. They scored first in the fourth when Johnny Frederick opened with a double and Wally Gilbert followed with another two-bagger. In the sixth the same pair of Robins hit successive singles. Bissonette advanced Frederick with a sacrifice fly and Harvey Hendrick lined a single to centre to score Frederick.

Frederick led the hitting with his twenty-ninth double of the season and two singles in four times up, while Gilbert got two safeties in three attempts. Babe Herman drew two passes, but went hitless, as did Glenn Wright, Bissonette and Moore.

HOGSETT VICTIM OF RALLY

Fails on Mound After Driving Home Run in First Half of Inning to Break 5-5 Tie.

CLEVELAND, July 28 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians staged a sensational ninth inning rally to beat out the Detroit Tigers in the series' opener today, 7 to 6.

Pitcher Elon Hogsett of Detroit broke a 5—5 tie in the first of the ninth with a home run over the right field wall, after he succeeded Uhle on the mound, but was bombarded for two runs in the last half of the inning. Outfielder Porter doubled to send the tying and winning runs across, after J. Sewell walked and Pitcher Jablonowski singled.

BATTING AVERAGES DROP.

Reduction of Eastern League to 4-Club Circuit Brings Slump.

The reduction of the Eastern League to a four-club circuit brought a sudden drop in the batting averages of the leaders as many stars departed for other fields, The Associated Press reported yesterday.

Dressen of Springfield has become the leading regular in the average list issued yesterday, which includes Thursday's games, with a mark of .355. His nearest rival is Smith of Bridgeport, whose mark is .338, while averages of .321 are good enough for places in the closely bunched group of the leading ten regulars.

This group includes Fitzgerald, Bridgeport, .335; Garrett, Allentown, .334; Veltman, Bridgeport, .332; Brooks, Springfield, .331; Boyle, Albany, .327; Burkett, Albany, .321; Fitzberger, Allentown, .321, and Dougherty, Springfield, .321.

NEWARK PLANS NIGHT BALL.

Club's Business Manager Will Consult Electrical Engineers.

Officials of the Newark team of the International League are contemplating night baseball at the Bears' Stadium this year, The Associated Press reported yesterday.

Wilbur Crelin, business manager of the club, left Baltimore yesterday to meet electrical engineers. If satisfactory arrangements can be made, the stadium will be used for night games as soon as the installation of the lights can be made.

LANNIN DATES ARE SET.

Memorial Golf Tourney to Be Held Sept. 3, 4, 5 at Salisbury.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., July 28.—Paul J. Lannin announced today that the J. J. Lannin memorial tournament, inaugurated last year in memory of his father, a great benefactor of golf, would be played over the Salisbury Country Club course on Sept. 3, 4 and 5.

Inasmuch as the dates come a week ahead of the P. G. A. championship, which is to be held at the Fresh Meadow Club, the chances are that all the qualifiers for that event will play in the Lannin tournament.

Minneapolis Sells Lundgren.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 28 (AP).—Sale of Del Lundgren, right-hand pitcher, to New Orleans, Southern Association, was announced today by the Minneapolis American Association club. Lundgren, who came from the Nashville club, failed to round into form this season.

A run behind when the Sox went to bat in the final frame, Cissell singled and scored on Tate's double. Lyons then won his own ball game by sending Tate across the plate with his two-base hit.

ATHLETICS DEFEAT YANKS IN TWELFTH

FOXX'S HOMER TIES SCORE

Circuit Blow in Ninth Overcomes Lead of Two Runs—Sherid Starts for Shawkeymen.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.
Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—The Yankees and Athletics fought twelve innings today before a decision was reached. Mickey Cochrane's single with the bases filled in the twelfth landed the Mackmen a 6 to 5 victory and gave the Yankees their third straight defeat.

Two booming drives to left centre turned the tide against the Yanks after Roy Sherid had pitched a fine game to the grievous distress of 15,000 fans and marched into the latter half of the ninth inning with a 5 to 3 lead. With one out and one on base in the ninth Jimmie Foxx arched his twenty-ninth homer of the season into the pavilion in left centre, tying the score.

Ruffing Stems Rally in 11th.

Charlie Ruffing, the Yankee relief man, had mastered an eleventh-inning crisis by retiring Miller, Williams and Dykes with the bases filled. Ruffing entered the game after a pass, Simmons's single and an intentional pass to Foxx by Sherid had filled the bases, but in the twelfth Ruffing could not do it again.

Earnshaw led with a triple. Acting under orders Ruffing gave intentional passes to Bishop and Cramer. He had two strikes on Cochrane, then the peerless catcher of the champions rifled a line single to right field and the game was over.

Sherid, on the strength of his own pitching and five runs hammered home by the Yankees, deserved to win in the regulation nine innings, even though Foxx reached him for that ninth-inning home run. Sherid had no earned runs against him until Cramer singled and Cochrane tripled with none out in the seventh, scoring one run.

Shawkey Shakes Up Line-Up.

Manager Shawkey put in force today a number of changes he has been considering during the fag end of the Western trip. With Lazzeri established as regular third baseman, Ben Chapman was posted at second with a view to getting his hitting power in the line-up. After a month's separation, Ruth and Gehrig were bunched in the batting order again. Dickey was promoted No. 6 and Rice dropped to eighth.

Recruits Roger Cramer and Diberell Williams filled the places of two important member of the Macks' championship line-up. Mule Haas wrenched his ankle in Cleveland Friday. Joe Boley is out of action with a wrist which was bruised by a Waite Hoyt pitch just a week ago.

SENATORS PURCHASE KUHEL

Transfer of Shires to Outfield Seen In Kansas City Deal.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators tonight announced the purchase of Joseph Kuhel, first baseman, from the Kansas City club of the American Association.

Already fortified by two good first basemen, Joe Judge and Art Shires, Griffith indicated the new purchase might mean Shires would be transferred to the outfield because of his hitting ability.

Griffith did not disclose the price paid for Kuhel, but said he was a costly rookie. The deal also involves the transfer of First Baseman Harley Boss from Chattanooga to Kansas City if waivers can be obtained.

Ashton Brothers, Noted Polo Family, Arrive for Matches

NOTED POLO FAMILY HERE FOR MATCHES

TOTAL 26-GOAL HANDICAP

They Learned Game on Sheep Ranch in New South Wales—Parents Accompany Them.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

What is probably the greatest polo family in the world arrived in New York yesterday aboard the S. S. Minnewaska. The family consisted of the Hon. James Ashton Sr. and Mrs. Ashton, James Ashton Jr., Robert Ashton, Geoffrey Ashton and Philip Ashton.

The Hon. James Ashton is the father of the four others, who rate an aggregate of twenty-six goals in handicaps and look as if they could easily rate six more. The four young men—the oldest is James Jr., 30—will play seven matches on Long Island between Aug. 9 and 31.

So far they have put in four years of strenuous polo, mainly in Australia, of which the entire family is native. Most recently they have completed a successful invasion of England, during which time they played twenty-one matches, winning sixteen and losing five.

The elder Ashton and Mrs. Ashton now live at Sydney, while the boys live at Markedale, Golburn, N. S. W. In the latter place the boys conduct an extensive sheep ranch. On this ranch all learned to ride and play polo.

Fine Record in England.

Considering their record in England it is certain that they can play considerably better than average high goal polo. They captured the Whitney Cup, the Raneleigh Handicap Cup and the India Empire Shield as the major accomplishments and they were the runners-up on the Championship Cup, being beaten in the finals by Laddie Sanford's Hurricanes, 9 to 7.

About eight years ago Jim, the older of the boys, took a fancy to polo. At that time the Colburn team, made up principally of officers of the British Army in Australia, were having a fine run of play and Ashton watched every match with much interest, bought himself some mallets and balls and went back to the ranch to practice. In a few weeks he had become what he considered a polo player. Of course practically all of his life he had been a horseman, as were his brothers, for it is necessary for a stockman there to go many miles every day by horse over the land to check up on the big flocks.

Elder Brother the Instructor.

Then, as the brothers grew, Jim instructed them in the sport. In due course all four began playing informal polo at the Golburn Club and eventually they comprised the entire team.

However, it was only about four years ago that the brothers became a playing unit. Two years ago they faced their first so-called foreign opposition when they met the Army in India team during its trip through Australia. Then the idea of invading England struck the boys, and, the father and Mrs. Ashton agreeing, they journeyed to England.

In England they have a high polo rating. Jim, the No. 3, rates seven, as does Robert, the back, and Geoffrey, the No. 2. Philip, at No. 1, rates five. Philip is the youngest, being only 24. James is 30, Robert 28, Geoffrey 26.

Bring String of Twenty-five Ponies.

The Ashtons brought a string of twenty-five ponies with them, which they themselves bred and raised. Contrary to previous reports, however, these ponies are not crossbreds. In fact, there are very few crossbreds in Australia, according to James Ashton Sr. The finest of English-bred stallions and brood mares are used, and from these are selected the smaller produce and these are mated, thus to produce a type of polo pony that weighs about 900 pounds on the average and stands about 14 hands 2 inches. This type is what the Ashtons use on their ranch for riding among the flocks—a handy, easily handled horse, light and fast, and with a great deal of stamina. This type about approximates that used in England, says the elder Ashton, but is an inch shorter and about 200 pounds lighter on the average than the ponies used in American polo.

The Ashtons, excepting the father and mother, will remain here until Sept. 11, making their headquarters at the Garden City Hotel at Garden City, L. I. They hope to see two of the international matches. Their string is being stabled at Fred Post's at Williston, L. I.

Commenting on the British polo candidates, James Jr. declared that Pat Roark was beyond doubt the best player in England and that Gerald Balding was the next best, and, besides Roark, most certain to make the team which will face the American team in the series at Meadow Brook in September.

Three faces new to the formal series of international test matches which are featuring Long Island polo at present will be seen at the Piping Rock Club tomorrow in the fourth of the games designed to aid in the selection of the American team.

The line-ups announced for tomorrow's contest, which starts at the club in Locust Valley at 4 o'clock, include one member of the list originally invited to try for the team who has not yet been seen in action here and two others who are not on that list.

The latest of the formal candidates to join in the games is H. W. (Rube) Williams, the Texan who attained prominence with his appearance in the East last Summer. The two not on the formal list who are playing tomorrow are Lieutenant McDonald Jones of the Army's junior championship team and James P. Mills of Old Aiken.

Line-Up to Be Changed.

Mills is to go into the same White line-up which won by such a convincing margin in Sunday's match at Fleischmann Field. His inclusion, of course, breaks it up, Elmer J. Boeseke Jr. going over to the Red team. But Eric Pedley remains at No. 1, Thomas Hitchock Jr. at No. 3 and Winston Guest at back.

Lieutenant Jones is to be at No. 1 on the Red team, Boeseke at No. 2, J. C. Rathborne at No. 3 and Williams at back. The White team will total 32 goals on handicap, the Red one totaling 28.

Lieutenant Jones is more or less of a newcomer to Long Island polo this Summer, though he has played quite a bit of polo during recent years. He started the game with the Army of Occupation in Germany following the Armistice and has continued since. He will be remembered in New York as the back on the Optimist indoor polo team which, with Winston and Raymond Guest and Michael Phipps, went through a long season undefeated during the past Winter.

An Aggressive Player.

Slim and a sensational rider and often a fine hitter, Jones is a very aggressive player. He was prominent in the Army victory at Rumson for the junior title. Incidentally, with Guest at back against him, he will be opposing the man he helped to win the national indoor championship last Winter.

Williams was seen last year in the high goal tournaments on Long Island and proved himself a hard hitter and a rider ready to take the most desperate chances at coming through. He has been most often at back and plays the same type of attacking game there which has come to be regarded as the ideal American style. His naming at this post for tomorrow's play removes Rathborne from his regular position and into one at No. 3 with which the Old Aiken player is not so familiar.

It is not certain when Earle A. S. Hopping, who was injured in a spill at Piping Rock a week ago, will return to action. The young internationalist's neck, shoulders and face still show the effects of abrasions.

Enthusiasts in Autos Follow Gallant Fox To the Track at Saratoga When He Trains

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 28.—James Fitzsimmons, trainer of Gallant Fox, William Woodward's 3-year-old champion, has a new problem on his hands because of the popularity of the colt.

At first the number of visitors to the stall caused it to be roped off, as too many folks wanted to talk to the horse. Then Fitzsimmons built a light wooden railing at a greater distance from the stall. Now his flivver, which he uses when going out early in the morning for training, is followed by a long line of autos. They all want to see Gallant Fox gallop.

Many are lay folks who cannot tell Gallant Fox from a lead pony and ask Fitzsimmons innumerable questions. But thus far they have gotten courteous answers, for Fitzsimmons, who is known far and wide as Sunny Jim, is as good-natured as trainers come.

Gallant Fox is being pointed for the Travers and Saratoga Cup races but may start in one of four lesser stakes for which he is eligible as a tune-up for the Travers, in which he is expected to have another duel with Wichone, which is here and appears to be in good shape.

Besides the Travers and Saratoga Cup, the stakes to which the Woodward champion is eligible are the Wilson, Saranac, Whitney and Miller.

MISS WALSH TO RACE IN MEET AT PRAGUE

CLEVELAND, July 28 (AP).—Miss Stella Walsh, noted girl runner, said today she would compete for Poland in a track meet at Prague, Czechoslovakia, early in September. She said she did not know how soon she would sail.

Miss Walsh, girl sprinting star from Cleveland, will not forfeit her right to represent the United States in the Olympic Games in 1932 by representing Poland in European meets this year, the Amateur Athletic Union learned yesterday, according to The Associated Press.

Cablegrams were received from the International Amateur Athletic Federation and also from the women's organization to that effect.

ENGLISH COLT HERE FOR AMERICAN RACES

Challenger, a 3-year-old dark bay colt, arrived on the steamship Minnewaska yesterday and was taken to Havre de Grace, where he will join the Branncastle Farm horses in training there, according to C. J. Fitzgerald, who purchased the horse from John Arthur Dewar of London for the interest of W. L. Brann and R. S. Castle.

Challenger, unbeaten as a 2-year-old, was owned by the late Lord Dewar and was, prior to Lord Dewar's death, rated as a favorite for the last English Derby. However, Lord Dewar died prior to the Derby, and thus Challenger's entry was void. It is understood that the horse cost Messrs. Brann and Castle £12,000.

According to Fitzgerald, it is the intention of his new owners to race him in the late Fall this year and probably in 1931 and then retire him to the stud.

Challenger arrived in charge of W. I. Jones of the British Bloodstock Agency and Jack Hare, horse foreman of the Atlantic Transport Line, one-time star jockey of the English turf, who took care of Epinard, Mike Hall and other turf stars while aboard ship.

Also on the Minnewaska was a 3-year-old bay filly named Ondulation, by Asturus, and owned by William Woodward, who also owns Gallant Fox.

FAST 2-YEAR-OLDS READY AT SARATOGA

G. D. Widener's Jamestown and Belair Stud's Ormesby Rated in Top Flight.

DIAVOLO OUT OF HANDICAP

Not to Run in the Saratoga, One of the Features of Opening Program Tomorrow.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 28.—The Wheatley Stable's Diavolo, handicap champion of 1929 and generally regarded as one of the best route horses of the past decade, will not be a starter in the Saratoga handicap, one of the features of the opening day of the Saratoga meeting on Wednesday. Although the starting line-up is likely to include the best of the handicap horses which have been racing at Arlington Park, Diavolo will not be of the number because he is not ready for a race.

Victor Schaumburg, racing secretary of the association, in making up a tentative list of starters in the handicap named Frisius, Black Majesty, Vanity, Sun Beau, Petee-Wrack and Curate. Asked what about Diavolo, he referred questioners to Jim Fitzsimmons, trainer of Diavolo. Fitzsimmons tried to bring Diavolo up to the Dixie stakes, but the horse struck himself in a trial and had to be rested. Then Fitzsimmons tried to bring him up to the Suburban, where again he seemed a sure winner if he went to the post. But another mishap prevented this.

As the victory in the Saratoga handicap had been more or less conceded to Diavolo, it is a hard blow to Fitzsimmons to forego this old prize, as the forthcoming renewal will be the twenty-eighth.

Whether or not Diavolo will be able to get to the post in some of the other stakes suitable for him remains to be seen. Last year he was the winner of the Saratoga Cup, the great mile and three-quarter test which is one of the features of closing day. Gallant Fox, from the Belair stud, but a stablemate of Diavolo's, is being pointed for the cup, and if any horse had a fine chance of beating Gallant Fox it was Diavolo. It is to be hoped that the intervening thirty days may enable Fitzsimmons to get Diavolo to the post so that Gallant Fox will be well tested. A victory over Diavolo would convince the most doubting Thomas that the son of Sir Galahad III and Marguerite is the greatest since Man o' War.

Equipoise Unlikely to Start.

The other feature of opening day, the flash for juveniles, also is likely to be without the two stars who were counted on to come together and supply one of the great contests of the meeting. The two which are very doubtful starters are Harry Payne Whitney's Equipoise and Mrs. M. P. Allen's Vander Pool. The latter is undefeated, although one of his victories came as a result of Equipoise being disqualified when that horse finished ahead of him in the youthful stakes.

Interest has suffered not at all because these two are out of the Flash, for the town is buzzing with tales of 2-year-olds with blazing speed. To listen to the wise ones, Equipose and Vander Pool won't be one, two, three with some of the youngsters which have yet to bear silks or which have raced only once or twice for educational purposes.

George D. Widener's Jamestown was called the best 2-year-old of the year by one horseman, and another immediately laughed and said: "What about the Belair Stud's Ormesby?" A few steps around the corner of the barn found an extended argument as to how far the Greentree Stable's High Feather would beat Equipoise. Black Forest is another which has many friends, but it remains to be seen what these untried youngsters will do with the two comparative veterans when they meet them.

As several of the horses named above are likely starters in the Flash, the interest in the race is mounting although the opening day never needs any stimulant to arouse interest.

Hotel Managers Optimistic.

Inside the big hostelries there is an air of optimism, despite the talk of business depression and scarce money. The managers assert they have more reservations than in several years, if 1929 is excepted. They admit that the reservations are mainly for only a week or a fortnight, but they believe that once here many of the visitors will stay for the full meeting.

They will be well entertained if the quality of horses is any criterion. Schaumburg expects a field of twenty starters in the Flash.

Jumpers, too, are being taken off the train, and they will have a better course than ever to school and race over. Superintendent Thomas Clare has had installed a new watering system for the steeplechase course, which, in dry weather, can be turned on during the night, leaving the course as springy and desirable the next morning as may be wished.

A new layer of top soil on the training track at Oklahoma has made that surface much faster and much better for horses which train there. In short, practically every detail has been thought of.

HOPPE LEADS PONZI.

Sets Pace by 100-77 in Opening Two Blocks of Match.

Aided by a high run of 16, Willie Hoppe took the lead over Andrew Ponzi, 100 to 77, in the opening two blocks of their fourteen-block handicap three-cushion billiard match at the Strand Academy yesterday. Hoppe won in the afternoon, 50 to 23 in thirty-six innings, but lost at night, 54 to 50 in fifty-two innings. Hoppe had clusters of 16 and 6, while Ponzi had 10 at night. They were playing on a basis of 50 points a block for Hoppe to 40 for Ponzi.

CROYDEN SET BACK IN YONKERS FEATURE

ALCMAN SCORES AT 7 TO 1

Passes the Pace-Maker, Nursery Rhymes, in Last Furlong—Fields's Ride Wins for Ruby Keller.

The disqualification of Stephen Ryan's Croyden marred the running of the first division of the Sleepy Hollow Purse, yesterday's feature at the Empire City track, which was divided into two sections. Croyden, which once was possessed of some class, being by Peter Pan-Ruth Law, was penalized after finishing half a length in front of W. J. Weyth's Shasta Grafton.

Croyden, a former H. P. Whitney and Fair Stable racer, bumped Chief's Mountaineer at the quarter pole when Jockey Willie Harvey tried to squeeze him through between that horse and Turf Idol, the leaders at that point. Chief's Mountaineer was knocked out of contention completely, while Croyden went on to win handily.

Shasta Grafton, meanwhile, came on with a splendid rush to pass the tiring Turf Idol for the place, with Realtor fourth.

Vosburgh Reports Foul.

Immediately after the finish, H. O. Vosburgh, one of the patrol judges, reported the infraction to the stewards. The officials questioned Jockeys Kennedy, rider of Chief's Mountaineer, and Rose, who piloted Shasta Grafton, and made their decision after very little deliberation. Croyden's number was taken down and the new placings became Shasta Grafton, Turf Idol and Realtor.

Croyden was well played at 16 to 5, Shasta Grafton was 9 to 2, while Turf Idol was receding favorite at 7 to 5.

The second division of the Sleepy Hollow resulted in a surprise victory by Phil T. Chinn's Alcman, a 7-to-1 shot, which passed Nursery Rhymes, the tiring pace-maker, in the last furlong to win by half a length. Matin's Minister was third. Both sections of the Sleepy Hollow were at a mile and seventy yards, and Alcman's time was three-fifths of a second faster than Croyden's. Alcman won in 1:46 2-5, while Croyden was clocked in 1:47.

In the second division, the favorite was Turf Writer, but he never figured after a poor start. Turf Writer was back in the bunch at the Club House turn and could never find racing room in the backstretch.

Nursery Rhymes and Lady Allby set the pace in this contest and seemed to have the race between them. Frank Coltiletti, however, was rating Alcman nicely back of the leaders, and the Chinn horse proved a comfortable winner.

Ruby Keller Held at 2 to 1.

Coltiletti tried to make a double in the next event when he rode W. L. Hernstadt's Wild Broom, winner of two straight at this meeting, but Georgie Fields virtually stole the race with J. P. McGovern's well-played Ruby Keller. The winner was 2 to 1 and Wild Broom 11 to 5. Wild Broom was third, finishing behind Billie Leonard.

Ruby Keller was most fortunate to score, the victory being due in large measure to the fine ride she received from Fields after a start which found her flat-footed in the small field of six. When they started the mile and sixteenth event, Ruby Keller was about ten lengths out of it.

Fields kept the mare on the rail all through the running, while Windfall did the pace-setting, with Wild Broom next. Ruby Keller had worked her way right up to the leaders at the final bend, and when Windfall made a very wide turn, Ruby Keller easily slipped through the opening to win well in hand.

Jockey Harvey was suspended for the balance of the meeting for his foul on Croyden, which means he will not ride today. He was permitted to complete his engagements yesterday.

Post and Paddock.

Favorites galloped to easy victories in the first two events at Empire City yesterday, M. L. Schwartz's Science, backed to 7 to 10, winning the opener, while J. P. White's Deedie took the second, which was for 2-year-olds. Deedie closed at 9 to 10.

Colonel Matt J. Winn, general manager of the big Kentucky tracks and responsible for the success of the Derby, was a guest of President James Butler of the Empire City Racing Association. Colonel Winn was accompanied by C. Bruce Head, also a Kentucky racing official, and Frank J. Brady, treasurer of the Laurel (Md.) Racing Association. The visitors stopped off on their way to Saratoga.

Phil T. Chinn scored a double when his smart and well-played 2-year-old Polylith proved much the best in the day's final. Polylith, far back in a straggling start, rushed up on the outside, caught Regina H. at the top of the home stretch and outgamed her to the wire.

The final event also resulted in a double for Jockey Charley Kurtsinger. Previously he had ridden Deedie, the other juvenile winner.

All in all, it was a good day for favorites, four winning. The only beaten choices were in the two sections of the Sleepy Hollow Purse.

So many reservations have been made for the Cavanagh Special, which annually takes the New York turf followers to Saratoga, that it will be made up of sixteen cars. The special will leave after the races today.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

WAR on wheels has broken out. The next disarmament conference will have to come to some agreement on a heavy reduction in bicycles if peace is to be maintained in Europe. The Tour de France, the annual pedaling parade around that country, started out as a friendly contest on bicycles, but the latest report is that the citizens of the République Française are now gathering around the bulletin boards, shrugging their shoulders as of yore and murmuring once again: "C'est la guerre!"

With France and Italy barking at each other over cruisers and destroyers, it was a diplomatic error to stir up more international strife. That's what the officials of the Tour de France did when they added an "international team trophy" this year and encouraged the entrants to form teams representing France, Belgium, Spain, Germany and Italy.

The French and Italian riders, trainers, handlers, camp-followers and rooters began arguing about this and that, the debates getting more bitter as the caravan rolled from town to town. Sarcastic remarks were exchanged in the towns of Normandy. Bordeaux heard wordy warfare break out. Through Toulouse and Marseilles the sniping over the handlebars continued.

Along the Italian Front.

At Toulon one of the Italian riders defied all the French riders in the race, individually and collectively. Up above Monte Carlo some miscreant spread tacks all over the roadway and tires began to pop. The French said it was an Italian who had scattered the tacks. The Italians were sure that it was a dastardly French trick to hamper the Italian team.

One thing led to another and finally a pitched battle broke out. Wrenches, oil cans and tires were tossed by the battlers. Wheels began flying through the air. Gendarmes rushed in and calmed the riot. Doctors patched up the wounded. Repair men went to work on the broken bicycles. A good time was had by all. Vive la France! Viva Italia!

But the next time they hold this road race the French and Italian teams should be made to ride in opposite directions or all riders should be compelled to wear boxing gloves.

A Light in the Distance.

About the time that the Davis Cup team went down to defeat, Ellsworth Vines came up. This tall lad from Pasadena was winning from Frank Hunter when the news came in that Tilden and Lott had lost to Cochet and Borotra.

Turning back Hunter on the tennis court is no easy task. It took Bill Tilden to stop him in the final round of the national championship at Forest Hills last year. This boy Vines must be good. Incidentally, he had to hurdle Frank Shields to get a chance at Hunter and Frank is a high hurdle for anybody when he wants to play tennis.

It appears that the young Californian is a tall youngster. So much the better. One trouble with many of our younger class is that they really aren't tall enough to reach to championship heights. Tennis is a game in which height and reach are an advantage. It's true that the French winners are not physical giants and that Bill Johnston was a little fellow, but look back over the list of tennis champions and you will find that most of them were good tall lads.

Tall Timber.

Johnny Doeg was the tall member of the younger set on our Davis Cup team and Johnny didn't get into the final round at all. Frank Shields is a tall chap. Add Ellsworth Vines to that pair and it would be a good tall trio to set out after that Davis Cup.

It would take time, but we have taken that already and the Cup seems to be getting further away each year. Doeg hasn't much of a ground game, but he's young and might pick it up. He has a better chance of picking it up than some of his rivals have of adding three inches to their height. Frank Shields is erratic, but he might get over that. From time to time he flashes like another Tilden in the making. Probably Shields has more possibilities as a tennis player than any of our younger class, unless it is the newly arrived Ellsworth Vines.

In any event, the vote here would be in favor of working with the tall boys and the taller the better. They start with an advantage, whereas the little fellow starts with a handicap. In chess it would be different, but this discussion concerns tennis, which is another game entirely.

Weights and Measures.

It's the old story about the good little man and the good big man, but there are some games in which height, weight and strength count more than in others. Weight and strength count in a football line, in the prize ring, on the wrestling mat. Height counts on the tennis court.

Even in games where there is little personal contact, like baseball, or golf, where there is none at all, strength counts. It takes a sturdy fellow to stand the strain of a golf tournament like the British open and amateur and our own open championship. In baseball the managers like big fellows. The little fellow is viewed with suspicion. He has to prove his case.

Most good sprinters have been fair-sized fellows and practically all great hurdlers have been tall. Quarter-milers would grade fairly high, measured vertically. Beyond that distance the smaller fellows come along. Most of the long distance runners and marathoners are medium-sized and thin.

In such games as hockey and basketball, where speed and agility are important factors, good little men can scurry to the front, but even in those games their opportunities are limited. They have to make the forward line. It's either that or the sideline for them. In football these days the light fast fellow has to make the backfield or join the cheering section. There's no room for him between end and end. There are exceptions, but this is the general rule.

Napoleon was a little fellow and so was Julius Caesar. They did rather well at their own games, but times have changed and on the diamond, the tennis court, the rink, the gridiron and the track the bigger fellow now gets the bigger welcome.

MRS. FOSTER VICTOR IN LATONIA FEATURE

Comes Around Her Field in Stretch Run to Score by Three Lengths.

LATONIA, Ky., July 28 (AP).—Mrs. Foster, owned by the C. L. Worthington Estate, accounted for the running of the Sparta Purse, a six-furlong sprint for older horses, which featured today's card. Bernice Van was second and Stock Market, the odds-on favorite, finished third.

The winner, slow to get started, came around her field in the stretch run to score by three lengths. Bernice Van showed the early foot but weakened when challenged by the winner.

Mrs. Foster carried light weight of 100 pounds and ran the distance in 1:14 1-5. Apprentice E. James had the mount on the winner and put up a well-judged ride. Mrs. Foster paid $7.92 for $2.

SIR MARTIN IS DESTROYED.

24-Year-Old Thoroughbred Pensioned in Madden's Will.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 28 (AP).—Sir Martin, 24-year-old thoroughbred sire, owned by the late John E. Madden, was destroyed today on the Hamburg Place Farm because of an injury the horse received Saturday.

Sir Martin was pensioned under the will of Madden. The horse was the only American-bred colt ever to be favorite for the English Derby. He fell while rounding the famous Tattenham corner and never finished. He was buried in Madden's famouse horse cemetery near his sire, Imp Ogden, and his dam, Lady Sterling.

Marcum Leads Arlington Jockeys.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—Jockey J. Marcum entered the final week of the Arlington Park meeting today still leading the winning riders with eighteen victories.

Princess Henry was kept close to the early pace, came wide in the stretch and finished gamely. Montauk was away well, displayed good speed, but weakened in the last sixteenth. Trapmar was well up and ran a good race.

dDisqualified for fouling.

Scratched—Doctor Rankin, Xylophone, Bob Shannon, Heads Up and Jay Boy.

Croyden, going in much improved form, was kept close to the early pace, swerved to the inside at the top of the stretch, interfering with Chief's Mountaineer, for which he was disqualified for fouling. Shasta Grafton, running back to her previous good race, finished very fast. Turf Idol had speed for seven furlongs, then tired. Realtor closed a big gap. Chief's Mountaineer was going very easy and was about to take the lead when he was almost knocked down.

GALADAY IS FIRST IN ARLINGTON RACE

Clark's Filly Lasts to Beat Mrs. Hertz's Fair Ball by Half a Length.

DR. FREELAND HOME THIRD

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—Galady, R. S. Clark's 3-year-old bay filly by Sir Galahad III—Sunstep, showing a liking for the heavy going, was first under the wire in the Randolph Purse, the featured number on today's card at Arlington Park. Fair Ball from Mrs. J. D. Hertz's stable was second, with Dr. Freeland from

The race was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the mile distance and was worth $1,300 to the winner, which negotiated the distance in 1:41 1-5. Galady rewarded her backers at $9.14 for $2.

Galady, with but 92 pounds in the saddle, was taken into the lead right after the start, improved her position to three lengths advantage at the half, but was tiring rapidly at the end and was doing her best to win by half a length. Fair Ball closed fast to take the place by five lengths, and Dr. Freeland, the favorite in the wagering, was third by a like distance over Beaming Over. Jeanne Wachs, the only other starter, was another five lengths back.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE ISSUE.

The Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York State declares that if the Republicans adopt a Wet platform and nominate a Wet candidate a third ticket will be put in the field by the League. This is more than the warning or the threat of other years. It cannot be set down as political bluff. For the Anti-Saloon League, unless afflicted with judicial blindness, must see that the time is coming when it will have to fight for its life. It set out to do that in New Jersey by throwing all its strength to Representative FORT against Ambassador MORROW. It has sought to explain away the disastrous defeat which followed on the ground of the personal popularity of Mr. MORROW, but whether it wins or loses it is bound to fight in New York. This it must do regardless of the political consequences. It put up a candidate of its own against Senator WADSWORTH with the result of electing a Democratic United States Senator from New York. It may make the election of a Democratic Governor this year certain by opposing the Republican nominee. But in such matters it is not for the Anti-Saloon League to reason why. It knows that it must do or die in behalf of its own principles. If it does not stand up for them on every occasion, no matter what the effect on the Republican party, it will soon entirely disappear as a political power.

For their part, the Republican managers are said to have made up their minds that they must stand for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. They are looking forward to a "Morrow platform" for New York. For them, too, there is no getting away from the issue. They understand perfectly that if they are two-faced about prohibition they cannot elect a Governor, which they so strongly desire to do. Perhaps they cannot elect the Governor even if they are honest and explicit about prohibition. But if they again submit to dictation by the Anti-Saloon League, they will lose not only the election but their own self-respect. So on all sides in this State the evidence is that a new test of integrity as well as of political sagacity is being forced upon all parties. They must submit to it whether they like it or not.

For the ordinary politician nothing can be more terrible than to be led up to an issue which it is impossible for him to dodge. But precisely that fate today confronts all the politicians in the State of New York. They will have to say yes or no to the question whether they favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The time for shilly-shallying and artful dodging is past. It was a New York Republican who gave the nation the phrase about slavery, "an irrepressible conflict." It visibly faces his party in this State today.

WAHOO AND BALLYHOO.

Mr. ALEXANDER LEGGE, Chairman of the Federal Farm Board, is not only explosive himself but the cause of explosions in many others. Kansas politicians berate him for wanting to reduce wheat acreage. Grain exchanges and elevator men belabor him for his unkind words about middlemen. Theoretically the middleman has no friends. But he has a soul. It has risen on the wings of blazing speech in The Republican of Central City on the Platte. Mr. JAMES KEARNEY, manager of the Farmers' Cooperative Elevator at Wahoo, on Cottonwood Creek and at the mouth of Wahoo Creek, takes a whole advertising page, beautifully displayed and printed, to show the folly and injustice of the Board's policies.

The Wahoo counterblaster has a genius for representation. He identifies himself with the United States. If syntax suffers a little, the middleman is avenged:

>
> Since farm relief and the law under which it is to be given and is being given, not with entire satisfaction to the beneficiary, are of uncertain outline, foggy, confused, woolly, to most or many minds, it is good to get your feet on even one basic fundamental. Wahoo builds a basaltic platform. Who is ALEXANDER LEGGE? The former head of the International Harvester Company. That company is the common bane of producer and middleman:
>
> The margin taken by the International Harvester Company has done more to bankrupt the farmers than all the grain and elevator men combined. * * * Give the American farmer his machinery at a reasonable price, proportionate to the economy with which both the farmers and independent grain dealers handle their grain, and it will be a forward step toward concrete farm relief.

Perched on this basic fundamental, we can see without alarm that "the smoke-screen attack made "upon the grain exchanges is burst-"ing into flaming conflagration that "will inevitably spread with destruc-"tion." The causes of the recent hot spell are thus explained. It seems to have died out, save in Wahoo. Yet if the thermometer has relented, mental fire is country-wide:

> Fair-minded and intelligent citizenship throughout the land are aroused and astonished at the sayings and actions of those who were supposed to wear the mantle of wisdom and agricultural guidance.

An Insurgent Senator or PAT HARRISON couldn't be more solemnly resonant. We advise "Don Quixote" LEGGE to have the barber's basin mended and keep eye and ear attent upon Wahoo.

"MANIFEST DESTINY."

Fifty years ago JOHN FISKE wrote a lecture on "Manifest Destiny," which was delivered three times in London, once in Edinburgh, seven times in Boston, four times in New York, twice in Brooklyn and once in each of thirty or more cities all the way from Brunswick, Me., to Waukesha, Wis. Sir OLIVER LODGE, catching up the theme of that address, speaks conversationally in London and is heard on both sides of the Atlantic—in thousands of cities and villages and even in isolated homes, in America as well as in Great Britain and in the near-by Continent. This facility of communication is a phenomenon that did not enter into FISKE'S calculations.

He estimated that in the United States of America we should have "a century hence" (that is, a century from 1880) a political aggregation "immeasurably surpassing "in power and extension any empire "that has yet existed." It has in fifty years reached a place of power in the world beyond what FISKE could have thought possible. Nor is it possible that in a century "four-fifths of the human race will "trace its pedigree to English fore-"fathers," though it is probable, as he prophesied, that English will be necessary as an auxiliary language for one to whom it is not native. Of greatest prescience, however, is his inquiry whether it does not seem probable that in due course of time the States of Europe will find it as desirable to enter into a Federal union as it was for the States of North America. It is only by the adoption of the "lesson of federation" that Europe can "do away with the chances of useless warfare."

FISKE even dared to think that as the process of federation goes on it may become apparent that there is no reason why the whole of mankind should not constitute politically one huge federation—"each little "group managing its local affairs "in entire independence but relegat-"ing all questions of international "interest to the decision of one cen-"tral tribunal supported by the pub-"lic opinion of the entire human "race." The world has moved more rapidly toward that "destiny" than this historian foresaw. "The essence of it is nearer," says Sir OLIVER, with a hopeful answer to those who scoff at destiny planned "in higher spheres."

His flattering suggestion that the United States, after a certain amount of self-discipline—curbing "its riotous extravagances"—should undertake the policing of the world can hardly be more than a well-intended compliment. Our part is, clearly, to cooperate with other federations in this service, which will be necessary as long as there are savages on the earth. A periodical went down last month with this as one of the aims nailed to its masthead: "To illus-"trate the evils that arise through "reliance upon the theory of 'mani-"fest destiny.'" But there has been enough progress toward the destiny defined by FISKE and recognized by Sir OLIVER to give us serious thought as a nation of our responsibility to try to live up to it.

"STAGGERED" TRAFFIC.

This city will watch with interest and hope the latest experiment in traffic control which Commissioner MULROONEY and his deputy, Mr. PHILIP D. HOYT, have planned. It marks one radical and one minor departure from the existing system. The first is the introduction of the "stagger" principle. The other is shortening the interval during which crosstown and north and south bound traffic may flow. The whole system has been so synchronized as to make for fluidity.

For the present north and south bound avenues will operate on the old plan, whereby all the lights change at the same time. The interval of movement, however, will be reduced from two minutes to one minute and a half. On the crosstown streets the stagger system will be tried out. Experiments have shown that, even though the interval for crossing the avenues is to be cut from one minute to thirty-five seconds, the time of transit across the city should be materially reduced. The estimates for different streets make these reductions from 15 to 50 per cent of the present time. Under the old system it took 16 minutes and 40 seconds to go through Forty-seventh Street from First to Tenth Avenue, whereas under the new method it should take from 7 minutes and 45 seconds to 13 minutes and 15 seconds. On other streets the tests show different savings of time.

One of the advantages believed to attach to the change is the elimination of congestion in the side streets. It is hoped also to lessen the crowding of cars trying to make left turns during any given green-light period. The quicker passage through should keep the crosstown streets clearer. At the same time there should be fewer delays on the avenues.

The system requires but little new attention from drivers. Most important to understand is it that the intervals of the lights are shortened. Next is the need to be guided by the nearest light. This is particularly true in going crosstown, as these are the lights which are now staggered, whereas they formerly were synchronized. There will be a little confusion at first, of course. But the system must be given a fair trial before being severely criticized.

How the poor pedestrian will fare in this new system does not yet appear. The shortened interval may delay his passage across town, though he should find it easier to go up or down town. At a smart clip the pedestrian could, under the old system, cover a crosstown block in time to have the green lights flash on him when he came to the next avenue. If he has fewer taxis trying to climb down his neck, he will at least be grateful for this blessing. But, like the drivers of automobiles, he will reserve judgment until he has experimented with the new plan.

THE DESERT MUNITIONS DEPOT

The court of inquiry, headed by Rear Admiral COONTZ, which investigated the destruction of the naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., July 10, 1926, with the loss of many officers and men, recommended that a depot for storing high explosives be constructed within 1,000 miles of the Pacific. It was to be so located as to have railway communication with the Los Angeles-San Diego area, the San Francisco Bay area and the Columbia River-Puget Sound area. The court agreed with local opinion that Lake Denmark was not a fit place for the storage of more than "small amounts of high explosives." It proposed an area of at least 100 square miles, "with an unoccupied safety zone of two miles" around the depot. Other recommendations looked to safer construction of magazines, their separation to avoid explosions from fire, segregation of high explosive containers, remoteness of post dwellings, and improved fire alarms and fire-fighting equipment.

In the current issue of The Army and Navy Journal is an article describing the naval ammunition depot which has been constructed as recommended by the Coontz court of inquiry. The place is in Nevada half way between Reno and Goldfield, and it consists of 180 square miles of barren land, desert country once famous as the location of the Hawthorne gold mines. Altitude is 4,500 feet above sea level. Hawthorne has only a remnant of the population it had during the gold fever. There in the sagebrush has risen, under the shadow of a mountain barrier on the west, a depot of 145 permanent buildings: magazines, a central heating and boiler plant, barracks, officers' quarters, repair shops, a refrigerating plant, hospital, schoolhouse, firehouse, an auditorium and a 10,000,000-gallon reservoir. On the reservation are eight miles of railroads, twenty-four of highways, 35,000 square yards of paving and sidewalks. Near by is Walker Lake, twenty-five by eight miles, for recreation. Connections have been made with railroads to the north and south. The total cost will be $3,500,000.

The fire that caused such havoc at Lake Denmark was started by lightning. Thunderstorms were not infrequent. In the Lake Walker region the rainfall is less than three inches a year. Electrical storms are few. Strategically, the situation of the desert depot is admirable. It is far enough away from the Pacific (1,000 miles) to be easily defended from airplane attack, near enough for quick transportation of ammunition to the fleet.

FERGUSONISM REVIVED.

Returns from the Democratic primary in Texas demonstrate the wisdom of Governor MOODY'S decision not to stand for a third term. So clearly drawn are the factional lines between him and the FERGUSONS it cannot be supposed that any who would have voted for MOODY are now found in Mrs. FERGUSON'S total. Had both MOODY and his Road Commissioner, ROSS STERLING, stayed in the primary, they would simply have shared the anti-Ferguson vote. This might have given Mrs. FERGUSON a clear majority over all the rest of the candidates. And there were ten of them.

As late as May 3 dispatches from Texas asserted that Governor MOODY planned to offer for a third term. Mr. STERLING, executor of the Governor's road policy, was already in the field. But reports from the counties apparently convinced the anti-Fergusonites that "Ma's" strength, via "JIM," was at least as great as the rural 150,000 supposed to be the top of the Ferguson figuring. The results of the primary show that this was accurate. Even the Governor's failure to stand did not prevent Mrs. FERGUSON, running now as always to vindicate JIM, from polling over 50,000 votes more than Mr. STERLING. There must be a run-off Aug. 23, and the losers—plus the Governor—are rallying to Mr. STERLING as the only hope of keeping the FERGUSONS away from power at Austin.

Two elements, one long powerful and the other long weak, in Texas politics cannot view the outcome with satisfaction. The Klan almost disappeared as a factor, although as recently as 1924 it was the chief issue, and in 1926 it was much discussed. The Wets made no showing against Senator MORRIS SHEPPARD, and candidates for Governor who are against prohibition were low in the poll. The leader, Mrs. FERGUSON, is intensely a Dry. A third element, which in the national election of 1928 turned Texas over to the Republicans, also went heavily under in Saturday's voting. These are, or were, the "Hoovercrats." Their candidate, THOMAS B. LOVE, ran a bad fourth, and already he has moved back toward the party fold on the double quick. Obviously Texas, like Virginia and North Carolina, was simply anti-SMITH and never pro-HOOVER or Republican.

ART AND THE RADIO.

In the rank and file of musicians many complain bitterly that modern inventions for the recording and transmission of music are destroying the art in its highest form and cutting them off from their means of livelihood. If more has been made of the latter lament, it is only natural from men who see thousands of orchestra players thrown out of work in the last two years. The immediate crisis is the one that gets the first airing. So we see frequent accounts of musicians meeting for relief discussion and read large advertisements of the Musicians' Union bewailing "robot entertainment." Though they are obviously discouraged, the musicians are nerving themselves to a struggle against mechanized music. They have not given up hope of fighting it down.

Other less partisan observers, some of them critics of the first rank, recognize the desperate plight of the musicians, concede the inevitable triumph of recorded and transmitted music, and yet have high hopes for the survival of the player and his art. Professor DANIEL GREGORY MASON of Columbia University has a well-balanced article on the subject in the August American Mercury. He has had the opportunity, shared in a lesser degree by every owner of a radio, of comparing present concerts and those who provide them over the air with the conductors, orchestras and selections of the years before radio, and, while he cannot look on unmoved at the "death struggle" of certain musical forms and their purveyors, he sees in their decline "not by any means an unmixed evil."

It is the virtuoso who permits and encourages "vain and cheap exploitation" of his personality that Professor MASON at once pities and condemns. He thanks Heaven that the radio has a tendency to curb the posturing of prima donna performers of all kinds—the singer whose profile or complexion is better than her voice, the "wizard" of the piano or violin, the conductor who is more worshiped for his "tailor-made waist-line" than for his musical expression. Genuine musicianship is required of the musician who cannot make up lacks in talent or training with irrelevant qualities. If he cannot be seen, the attention of the listener is concentrated on the music.

Audiences for both phonograph and radio music are still in the main too fond of jazz atrocities, but there is evidence that their taste is improving. Several stations have found that there is a preference for the broadcasting of good, well-played music over the product of what is known as "studio talent." In this development there is hope, not only for trained musicians now out of work, but for the newcomers who will be the musical geniuses of the next decade. They are searching vainly for the outlet in concert formerly accorded promising singers and instrumentalists. If a field can be provided for them "on the air," merit will have the opportunity to prove itself and new contributions may be made to art.

RUMANIAN HATE-MONGERS.

In Rumania events are far from fulfilling the prediction made by Premier MANIU two months ago to a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent concerning agitation and violence directed against the Jews. He saw the end of such demonstrations speedily approaching, hastened by the resolute action of the government in repressing and punishing anti-Semitic excesses. But acts of violence have increased instead of diminishing. If the situation did not involve tragic possibilities there would be no better word than burlesque to characterize the explanation advanced by the Minister of the Interior for employing as chief secretary in his Cabinet an anti-Semitic agitator so notorious that Premier MANIU ordered his arrest on Sunday. It seems that the Minister of the Interior gave the celebrated M. TAZLADANU a post of high importance in the hope of placating the anti-Semitic organizations and at the same time keeping in touch with their secret plans.

That Premier MANIU is anxious to maintain order and do justice to the Jewish citizens of Rumania is generally accepted. But in any case it is evident that the policy of choking the anti-Semitic cat with cream is not producing results. Last May, in the course of an inquiry on the spot by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, the situation seems to have been best summed up by representatives of the Jewish Parliamentary party. They saw pressing need of energetic intervention by the government if incidents which certainly did not deserve as yet the name of "pogrom" were to be prevented from developing into that sinister business. Reports from Rumania, speaking of numerous affrays and threats, and, in one instance, seemingly unprovoked murder by an anti-Jewish agitator, begin to sound ominously like the "incidents" in Palestine last year which government neglect permitted to flare up into tragedy.

Quite apart from the threat against the Jewish population of Rumania, the prestige of the Maniu Government and the good name of Rumania are evidently at stake. It may be true that anti-Semitism is being employed as a weapon against the present Ministry by the Liberal politicians whom MANIU ousted from power. It is probably true that the world-wide agricultural depression, in which the Rumanian peasants share, makes them more easily susceptible to preachments of hate. Nevertheless, in the history of modern minority-baiting it is established that primary responsibility is with the government authorities. Mobs will go in for riot when assured of protection, and will hesitate when the government makes it plain that it will suppress and punish rioting. In Rumania anti-Semitic mischief-makers seem often to have been met more with sorrow than anger. As for a Minister of the Interior who gives a salary to a preacher of race hatred in order to soften his heart, that is something which calls for explanation.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Friends of the People as Spenders.

M. TARDIEU, in scorning parliamentary extravagance, made a point which will appeal to students of history. Parliaments, he said, arose as a check by representatives of the people upon expenditure by the Executive. Today it is the Executive who has to fight the representatives of the people in defense of the public treasury. Parliaments tend to represent "the total of individual interests rather than the general interest." In every-day language, this is log-rolling and pork barrel.

However, the Tardieu historical argument is not unanswerable. The French Premier will probably be informed that it was one thing to keep a sharp eye on Executive expenditure when the Executive happened to be a monarch, and among the principal items of expenditure were palace building, pensions for favorites and dynastic wars. It is quite another matter when Parliament is voting money for the benefit of the people.

If anything, the Deputies at Paris will be astonished at their own moderation. The Premier accuses them of responsibility for the sum of $160,000,000 in a total national expenditure of $3,000,000,000, which is about 5 per cent. At Washington they can do much better than that.

Hays Names the Baby.

Ever since the moving pictures began to make use of speech it has been a question how the new production should be called. The public had no difficulty in devising a name. The screen innovation was immediately dubbed the "talkie." The word is simple and direct and as accurate as the word "movie." But it displays a fatal lack of dignity, and both producers and critics have done their best to find a substitute.

The term "audible films" is too long. Now Mr. WILL HAYS, who holds the motion picture industry in the hollow of his hand, has called them "auricular films." We imagine that producers and critics will follow the leader. But we doubt if the public will. The millions who tramp in and out of the screen houses want a single word. They will never call the pictures the "auriculars." Like it or not, the name "talkie" has fastened itself to the film with speech.

So long as the new invention was in the minority it was necessary to call attention to its distinctive feature. As soon as all houses are wired for sound reproduction the distinction will have vanished. What is fundamental is that the screen picture is a moving picture. Those who fret at "talkie" and those who wish to find a more dignified term, such as "auricular," may alike cease to worry. Sooner or later the original solecism "movies" will return to vogue. As before, people will go either to a "show" or to a "movie."

Athletics and Longevity.

The death from heart failure at 48 of JOHN DE WITT, one of Princeton's football immortals, will stir chords of memory at Princeton and at Yale. Wherever the history of football is conned it will be unnecessary to give any explanation of the identity of the deceased beyond "DE WITT of Princeton." His prodigies at guard, his skill at drop-kicking, his courage and his geniality are part of the American university tradition.

For others the sudden death of this powerfully muscled and comparatively young man will revive the discussion whether athletes live as long as their frailer or less ambitious campus associates. By many the strain of competitive college athletics is believed to weaken the organic system and pave the way to early death. By an equal number that theory is derided.

Probably even the most trustworthy statistics proving that football or rowing or track work shortens life would not reduce the number of candidates at the colleges. Youth is ever willing to exchange the future for the glory of the present. Present football captains will probably feel it is better to have been JOHN DE WITT and died at 48 than to have won a Phi Beta Kappa key and lived to 90.

Ridding Paris of Ugly Statues.

There is a movement afoot in Paris to oust something like half the statue population of that city. The chief ground for condemning the unlucky 50 per cent will be that they are ugly, though traffic considerations will also enter into the decision.

This will not be the first time that public opinion has shoved a statue from its pedestal. The city authorities have a way of setting out their monuments and letting the citizens' ripened view decide their fate. Figures that through the passing of years have fallen from favor have been moved from choice locations to inconspicuous spots. And unfortunate statues—even though the work of famous sculptors—which have roused immediate protest from the public have been promptly set aside.

If the present scheme meets with success in Paris, other cities, cluttered up with ugly but historical celebrities, will do well to follow suit. Perhaps in Washington, and London too, the percentage of condemnations might be raised from 50 to, say, 75.

The pressing problem is what to do with those that are ostracized. The canny French rebel at the extravagant notion of scrapping them, and some one has suggested collecting the ugly fellows and lining them up along the new road to be built from Paris to Saint Germain. But "Why spoil a good road?" objects the chairman of the Commission of Tourism. Perhaps he might consent to the plan if the road could be advertised as one of the sights of Paris—a sort of modern version of the old-fashioned Chamber of Horrors in the waxworks museums—and a sure-fire attraction for tourists.

Difficult to Credit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I greatly enjoyed THE TIMES'S somewhat whimsical, yet cordial and complimentary, editorial anent the centennial of that excellent and also indispensable institution The Boston Evening Transcript, without which its most hostile critics admit Massachusetts and Boston could not have attained their latter-day eminence.

Be that all as it may, now and then ungratefulness and heresy are born and express themselves even in the most exclusive confines of the purest Bostonese, to which The Transcript especially caters, as witness the clever limerick that doubtless thousands do not know, and which is by no means inept to quote at this time:

> Once a young maid of Back Bay
> Became so very outre
> That while still in her teens
> She refused pork and beans,
> And once threw The Transcript away!

TRAIL'S END.

Wanderers, rest; your quest is over.
There are no more miles to cover.
Past the wide and tidal river
Hills of trees and fields of clover—
(Roamers, rest; your quest is over.)

Poplars here forever quiver,
And the spider, the sly weaver,
Spins a web for gnats that hover
For the thyme and tansy flavor
Waiting for the flimsy rover.
(Seekers, rest; your quest is over.)

With their own home sky to cover,
Lover can lie down by lover,
By the brook that chants the river
That it reaches for forever.
Wind-smoothed leaves that lift and waver,
(Rovers, rest; your quest is over.)

Life that holds the woodland savor
And the near-forgotten shiver
Of the ancient days, that never Quite forsake the honest liver,
Till the heart goes flooding over—
Wanderers, rest; your quest is over.

TOO MANY RESTRICTIONS.

Park Playground Advocate Favors More Freedom of Action.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been following with no small degree of interest the amusing repartee which THE TIMES and The Daily News have indulged in of late in the matter of the playground-to-be (or not-to-be, as you would have it) in Central Park on the spot where the old reservoir is now in the process of being filled in.

It is conceded by all that both playgrounds and parks are not only desirable but necessary before the happiness and satisfaction of a cosmopolitan population like that of New York can be complete. What is not conceded by all is that one is less important than the other.

On the side of The News it is held that more importance is attached to the playgrounds. THE TIMES maintains the desirability of the parks to be supreme. In both cases human satisfaction is involved. In the former the welfare and happiness of thousands of the city's children is concerned. In the latter the wishes of the "better class" who occupy the expensive rentals lining the park, the real estate interests who wish to see these high rentals preserved, or further bolstered, and those individuals who believe that the park should serve no other purpose than the provision of scenery for them while their comfortable cars whisk them smartly through it.

If Central Park is too good for the people of New York to touch, it had better be fenced in. As it is now, whenever I return from a trip to the park, sordid visions cross my mind of a thousand signs warning all to keep off; of stupid, unimaginative policemen waving their arms at men, women and children, driving them back onto the drab, hard cement which they came into the park to get away from. I have been threatened with arrest more than once in Central Park. One cannot even cross the grass to sit on a rock. Rather, one must follow the ribbons of cement, for the benches are few and hard to find and invariably filled. One must walk on endlessly, little better off than if he were back on the city's sidewalks.

I can always find more happiness in evidence in the "ugly and unsightly southwest corner playground," as you have seen fit to refer to the children's playground, than anywhere else in the park. As a matter of fact, what the park needs is more of these playgrounds and fewer motor drives. It needs more areas where people can get their feet on the ground and fewer "Keep Off the Grass" signs. It needs more fields and meadows and fewer lawns. It needs more of what this country stands for and does not have much of—freedom.

If miles of the grass is not too good to be torn up for the feet of horses, then the reservoir which is now being filled in is certainly not too good for the feet of the children of New York to play upon.

HOBART'S ENDOWMENT FUND

Western New York College Is Seeking $2,000,000 in Campaign.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the part played by America's small colleges in the development of sound citizenship.

Elihu Root once said: "I believe the American boy has better chances for education, for making a true success of life, in a small college, removed from the centres of population, where students are brought into intimate association with the institution, where the air is full of college spirit, where he is breathing in a scholastic atmosphere year by year and where the college is all-in-all of college life."

In the present $2,000,000 campaign for a building and endowment fund for Hobart College at Geneva, N. Y., there is an opportunity for friends of education to aid in an institution particularly worthy.

Free of debt and operating within its budget with deficit, Hobart College has utilized all of its physical equipment far beyond the over-crowded stage. The college has the highest academic standing, with graduates accepted for advanced study on equal terms with their own by Harvard, Columbia and other leading institutions and professional schools. Hobart is one of the forty-five institutions placed on the original list of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Hobart is the oldest institution for higher learning in Western New York, having been founded in 1822. Although it is the oldest of the five colleges affiliated with the Episcopal Church, it has never asked any religious test of faculty, students or trustees and has offered its advantages freely to all.

With a definite limit to its student body set at 300, and the enrolment at its sister institution, William Smith College for girls, limited to 150, the filling of its present needs should suffice for many years.

Two million dollars is being asked, $1,000,000 for endowment and $1,000,000 for building needs. Hobart today has one of the smallest endowments of any of the first-class colleges. The additional funds will enable it to increase salaries and add to the faculty. The building needs include a new science hall, new library building and a new gymnasium for William Smith College.

Hobart has a long record of character building in the past. It is hoped that this report may receive general approval in a financial way at this time.

Bastile Day.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Bastile Day last (July 14, 1930) newspapers announced that this was the 151st anniversary of the demolition of the Bastile. The news reels have since taken up the cry.

The Bastile was destroyed on July 14, 1789, and only 141 years have elapsed since that memorable event.

AMERICAN STUDIES IN ITALY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg leave to put before the readers of THE TIMES a matter which I hope may prove of interest to many of them. As American Ambassador in Rome I am President ex-officio of the Library for American Studies in Italy, which is situated in very beautiful quarters in the Corso. It is a free public library founded by American citizens and opened in 1918—the oldest American library in Europe excepting the American Library in Paris, which was founded in the same year. The purpose of the library as set forth in the original articles of the association is to make it possible for the public in Italy to obtain precise and accurate knowledge of the United States. It is the one place in Italy where such knowledge may be acquired at first hand, as none of the other libraries or universities—public or private—are adequately supplied with books on American subjects.

The Library for American Studies in Italy now contains about 20,000 carefully selected volumes and pamphlets, of which about 18,000 are American, and over 100 American periodicals are found in its reading room. Through its exchange service with the University of Rome, with the sanction of the Ministry of Education, the books of the library are made available to professors and students of all the universities of Italy free of expense. Attendance at the library last year was 5,000, of which two-thirds were Italian, but these figures do not take into account the books loaned outside to readers in Rome and other cities. Those who frequent the library are principally university students and professors, government officials and employes, journalists and authors. Fiction figures at less than 2 per cent of the internal circulation.

The library furnishes the books required by the commercial courses in American business and banking established seven years ago by the Royal Italian Commercial Institute, through the efforts of the library and of the Italo-American Association in Rome. The library also furnishes a large number of the books used by students of the University of Rome engaged in research work in American subjects, and it supplies the books on Italian subjects for the Summer vacation courses held for visiting American students. These courses were established in Rome nine years ago by the library and the Italo-American Association.

Americans visiting Rome frequent the library in constantly increasing numbers, as it is the best lending library of books in the English language for students of classical, medieval and modern Italy. It has a bureau of information for American university students and art students.

The unusually favorable contract for the present handsome quarters of the library expires in June, 1931. Before making a new contract for a long term on the same premises, or elsewhere, it is necessary for the trustees to be assured of the financial future of the institution. Its funds thus far have been raised entirely by private subscriptions of American citizens. Its assets are conservatively estimated at $40,000, of which $9,000 are invested in bonds and $31,000 are represented by books, furnishings and the card catalogue. It is probably the most economically managed American institution in Europe. The low cost of its administration—less than $4,000 a year, including expenditures and new books—has been made possible by the constant work and attention of the Americans connected with the management.

A higher rental will be demanded for the present premises on a new contract, and as a location not less central than the present one is essential, increased expenditure for rent is inevitable. Furthermore, additional stacks are urgently needed for the rapidly growing collections and more floor space must be taken. A minimum annual income of $5,000 will be required to carry forward the work on the present basis, and unless an endowment of at least $100,000 can be assured, the existence of the library must cease.

GRANGER LEGISLATION.

Mr. Welliver Finds Term May Have Originated in Illinois.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Either I am all wet or I have made an etymological discovery. Can any of the philological sharps help me out?

I had always supposed that "granger legislation" referred to the law-making activities of the pre-populistic reformers in the mid-Western agricultural States, in the era when the grange organization was in the first flush of enthusiastic activity. But recently, conning over a mass of ancient Illinois newspapers, I have found that in the epoch of the middle late '70s, when Illinois was easily a leader in that kind of lawmaking, there was in the State Legislature a particularly ardent reformer named Granger. He introduced bills for the regulation of pretty nearly everything, was denounced as a blackmailer and lauded as a statesman with true social and economic vision. Whichever side of that argument was correct, a goodly share of his proposals ultimately became laws and are now eminently respectable, as attested by the statutes of most States and the Federal Government.

During Granger's Illinois efflorescence, the State papers commonly referred to measures of this sort as Granger legislation—capital G—and I am wondering whether that is not the origin of the term. I have not found the phrase used in the Illinois papers prior to Mr. Granger's appearance in the legislative forum; the capital G seems to have been dropped gradually after his retirement.

Many illustrations for the Historians' History of the World and the Encyclopaedia Britannica came from Mr. Coates's brush.

The administrative committee of the Zionist Organization of America at a meeting held yesterday adopted the following resolution:

The administrative committee of the Zionist Organization of America learns with profound sorrow of the death of Dr. Joseph Silber, Rabbi Emeritus of Temple Emanu-El, for a number of years a member of the executive committee of our organization.

Rabbi Silverman was during the greater part of his life a leading figure in the rabbinate of the country, devoting himself with his voice and pen to the furtherance of Judaism and the welfare of our people with an energy that remained unabated with the passage of the years. He won for himself a high place in the history of his people in America and the regard and affection of his fellow-Jews throughout the world.

More particularly do we desire to pay tribute to the splendid services rendered by Rabbi Silverman during the past eight years of his life to the cause of the upbuilding of Palestine. Upon his retirement from active service in the rabbinate, at a time of his life when he might have felt he had earned his rest, he gave himself anew to the study and revaluation of the cause of Zionism, to which he had been for many years opposed. With fine and youthful courage he identified himself with the movement, and with energy and ardor equally youthful, threw himself in the work of raising funds and securing adherents to the Zionist cause. He did much more for Zionism during these last years than most men do in a lifetime.

In his passing has departed a loyal comrade who has made his mark in the history of American Zionism and whose absence from among us will be deeply felt and mourned.

We extend to the family of Rabbi Silverman our profoundest sympathy, sharing with them their sorrow, but also their solemn pride in his character and accomplishments.

J. R. DE WITT DIES; ONCE FOOTBALL STAR

He Succumbs to Heart Disease at 48 on Train Entering the Grand Central Terminal.

ON WAY FOR TREATMENT

His Feats as Captain of Princeton Team Nearly Thirty Years Ago Still Recalled by Sportsmen.

John R. De Witt, one of the most noted of Princeton University's football heroes, died suddenly of heart disease in the Grand Central Terminal yesterday morning. He was 48 years old.

Mr. De Witt, who had been under treatment for some time, collapsed in the Southport club car of a New York, New Haven & Hartford train as it approached the station. With him at the time were his wife and Arthur Womrath, who had accompanied him from his Fairfield (Conn.) home. Terminal attachés aided them in carrying him to the emergency hospital, but he was dead on the arrival of Dr. Julius McHenry of 45 Park Avenue. Mr. De Witt was making the trip to the city to visit a heart specialist.

His death was mourned by many sportsmen who paid tribute to his career, among them William H. (Big Bill) Edwards, who preceded him at "Old Nassau." Mr. Edwards, a close friend, said:

"If ever a man lived up to the standards of a gentleman and a scholar, John De Witt did. I was with him at Lawrenceville before he went to Princeton. His football is history. He also put all he had in him into the hammer throw. He was always popular wherever he was. He was a keen, upright business man, and because of his close interest in business he never gave any time to coaching."

Mother's Family of Colonial Stock.

Born in Phillipsburg, N. J., he lived for a time in Riegelsville, Pa., where his mother's family, of pre-Revolutionary stock, had lived. He attended the Lawrenceville School to prepare for Princeton. He was captain of the football team there from 1898 to 1899. His first year of college football, however, was one of adversity. Mr. Edwards quoted Mr. De Witt's version this way:

"'If any one thinks my football experience was a bed of roses, I want to assure him that it was not. I experienced the sadness of injury and of not making the team. The first time I was in the line I broke three bones in one of my hands, and then three weeks later I broke some bones in the other hand. So I had to wait patiently until the next year to make the team.'"

In 1901, 1902 and 1903, "De Witt history" was made on the Princeton gridiron. What Mr. Edwards, in his volume, "Football Days," characterized as the "greatest man-to-man encounter" he had ever seen took place in the Yale-Princeton game in 1902, when Mr. De Witt, at guard for Princeton, was lined up against Eddie Glass of Yale. It was his remarkable playing that prevented George Chadwick's Yale men from swamping Princeton that year. Earlier that season he kicked a 55-yard placement goal against Cornell, the third longest on record. Mr. De Witt was nominated for "All-American" fame that year by the late Walter Camp.

His Play Defeated Yale in 1903.

It was 1903 that was the big year, however. Not since Bill Edwards's time, five years before, had Princeton defeated Yale. With Mr. De Witt at the helm as captain, Princeton pushed Yale hard, but near the end of the first half Yale was ahead, 6 to 0. On a Yale kick formation, Princeton broke through. Mr. De Witt picked up a free bouncing pigskin. He scampered through the field and then kicked the goal.

That only tied the score, and in the second half Mr. De Witt made the play that scored the Princeton victory. Driven into her own territory, Yale tried to kick to safety. A Princeton man, mindful of the De Witt kicking prowess, made a fair catch. Mr. De Witt stepped into position and swung his foot. The ball sailed over the cross-bar. Princeton won. Mr. De Witt's playing that year won him another place on Walter Camp's "All-American" and a permanent niche in the football hall of game. On the gridiron he was one of the first of the "roving" linemen. In his college career he also gained renown as a member of the track and field squad. In 1902 he set an intercollegiate hammer-throw record of 164 feet 10 inches.

Mr. De Witt had an active business career and served as president of the National Bag Corporation as well as director of a number of Southern manufacturing companies. He was married in 1915 to Miss Elsie Carey.

Funeral services will be held at 11 A. M. tomorrow in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, 12 West Twelfth Street.

'GATEWAY' TO NATION AT BATTERY URGED

$25,000,000 Project, as Symbol of Welcome, Backed by Board of Trade.

WOULD EXTEND BROADWAY

A monumental $25,000,000 "Gateway to America" at the Battery, with Broadway extending to reach it, is the goal of a committee appointed by the directors of the New York Board of Trade, Inc., at their last meeting on July 1, it was learned yesterday. William T. Donnelly, consulting engineer, of 247 Park Avenue, is chairman of the committee.

Others on the committee are, Robert C. Burnside, president of the Asbestolith Manufacturing Company; J. Stoddard Johnston of C. D. Robbins & Co., Dr. Leon Lascoff, president of the New York State Pharmaceutical Board; Herman A. Metz, former City Controller; Pompeo Poppini, sculptor, and Joseph E. Sheedy of the United States Lines.

Mr. Donnelly said yesterday that the first meeting of the committee had been called for Aug. 12. On that date the committee will join the annual tour of New York Harbor by the Board of Trade, of which W. J. L. Banham is president.

The tentative proposal, according to Mr. Donnelly, is to construct a magnificent gateway, embodying an auditorium at the foot of an extension of Broadway at the Battery. Part of the building would be in Battery Park and part would extend over the water. Mr. Donnelly, who launched the proposal, suggests that the nation, State and city might be asked to aid with appropriations in as much as the projected gateway is contemplated as a national monument symbolic of the amalgamation of many races in the United States and expressive of the open welcome to visitors from foreign lands.

Mr. Donnelly would organize national groups to work in behalf of the undertaking. Committees of architects and allied professions would be enlisted to design the "Gateway to America" when more definite decision as to its design is reached, he said.

Mr. Donnelly, who explained that he was an expert in the building of dry docks and that he had built ten for the government during the World War, was on a visit to Hawaii several years ago when it occurred to him that a "gateway" to Honolulu would be appropriate. He sketched tentative designs, but the Hawaiian Government has made no decision as yet on the construction of the monument.

Last Jan. 18 the Regional Plan made public a plan for "The Nation's Portal"—an enlarged Battery Park with sixteen acres of new filled land extending into the harbor and dominated by an 800-foot granite shaft topped by a beacon.

JERSEY GUARD HONORS ELY AT SEAGIRT CAMP

General and Governor Review 114th Infantry, in Training—To Play Golf Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP LARSON, SEAGIRT, N. J., July 28.—Major Gen. Hansen E. Ely, commandant of the Second Corps Area, arrived here from Governors Island today to inspect the New Jersey State camp, where men of the 114th Infantry, commanded by Colonel Edward B. Stone of Leesburg, are in training.

Escorted here from Perth Amboy by State Police, General Ely came by motor and was greeted with the usual flourishes and salute of thirteen guns. Men of Company G, 114th Infantry, commanded by Captain James V. Sanderson of Asbury Park, formed a guard of honor in front of the Little White House, Summer home of Governor Morgan F. Larson.

Governor Larson and Major Gen. Quincy A. Gillmore, camp commandant, received the General, and he later made a tour of the tented area. The infantrymen passed in review before General Ely late this afternoon. In the reviewing stand with him were General Gillmore, Colonel Alexander McNab, senior regular army instructor, New York National Guard; Lieut. Col. Gilbert M. Allen, senior instructor at Camp Larson; Lieut. Col. Herbert D. Forrest, camp adjutant; Major George Koehlar, a regular army instructor on duty here, and Captain Edgar Bloom, assistant camp adjutant.

Tonight General Ely had dinner with Governor Larson. Before leaving for Governors Island tomorrow he planned to play golf at the Spring Lake Club with Governor Larson and General Gillmore.

RESCUES FOUR OFF SLOOP.

Sound Liner Picks Up Rhode Island Men and Takes Them to Boston.

BOSTON, July 28 (AP).—The steamer Boston of the Eastern Steamship Line arrived here today from New York with four men aboard who were rescued from their sinking sloop, the Albatross, off Point Judith in Long Island Sound early in the day.

The rescued men told Captain Allen of the Boston that they were J. Daly, F. Wagner and J. Carney, all of Newport, R. I., and N. D. Murphy of Providence. Their craft was abandoned after the Boston made an unsuccessful attempt to tow her.

The men said they left Newport Saturday night for a cruise in the Sound and that yesterday they ran into a squall. The sloop's sails were damaged and later the auxiliary motor became disabled, leaving the craft to the mercy of the sea and winds. After drifting for hours, they sighted the Boston and set up flares which were seen by that vessel's crew.

DENY UNION RACKET CHARGE

Nine Dress Manufacturers Scout Fund Story—One Admits Payment.

Nine dress manufacturers, named among others as contributing to an alleged $2,000,000 racketeering fund in the dress industry, entered strong denials when examined yesterday by Assistant District Attorney James J. Daly at the formal opening of the latter's inquiry into the charges made by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

A tenth manufacturer, whose name Mr. Daly would not reveal, admitted paying a $50 tribute to racketeers posing as union officials when he was found violating the provision against Saturday work in the trade. The nine declared that since the recent dress strike they had been maintaining union shops and union conditions and had had no trouble with either the union or gangsters.

Mr. Daly said he would examine ten more manufacturers today and seven more Wednesday. He declared he was not in a position to say whether he would conduct a grand jury examination into the charges.

STEAL 18 CENTS AND AUTO.

Robbers Abandon the Car After Holding Up Four in New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 28.—When a search of their four victims yielded only 18 cents, three highway robbers took the men's automobile early this morning near Evergreen Cemetery, William Ryan Jr. of 116 Valley Street, South Orange, told the police. The robbers later abandoned it a short distance away.

Ryan said he was riding from South Orange to Elizabeth with a brother, Ray Ryan, also of South Orange; Edward Cook of Brooklyn and Henry Mucher of South Orange. On Springfield Avenue, Newark, three strangers asked for a ride and Ryan accommodated them. Near Evergreen Cemetery the strangers drew pistols and ordered everybody from the car. When they found that all the cash Ryan and his friends had totaled only 18 cents, the robbers left in the car, leaving their victims standing in the road.

MAN, 79, HELD IN FRAUD.

Arrested With 2 Others in Connection With Coin-Matching Games.

Three alleged "confidence men," one of whom is 79 years old, were held yesterday in $1,500 bail each by Magistrate Dodge in Jefferson Market Court for examination tomorrow. Their method of working, according to the detectives who arrested them on Sunday, was to strike up conversations with strangers and then begin a coin matching game.

Harry Raymond, 79, who makes his home at the Y. M. C. A., Thirty-fourth Street and Ninth Avenue, was most helpful to the game because his venerable appearance allayed suspicion, the police said. They added that he had been arrested eight times before and was discharged only a week ago. His companions were Fred Hammond, 45, of San Francisco, and James Welch, 37, of the Endicott Hotel.

SAYS SHONGOOD PAID $150 TO GIRL CASHIER

Prosecutor Seeks to Prove Miss McGough's Weekly Salary Was Never Higher.

READS HER OLD TESTIMONY

But Judge Tells Jury to Be Wary of It—Government Rests Case Against the Former Auctioneer.

The highest salary ever received by Kathryn McGough, the cashier for Charles Shongood, former United States auctioneer, who was able, according to bank records produced recently by Thomas T. Cooke, Assistant United States Attorney, to deposit $50,000 within three years, was $150 a week, Mr. Cooke charged yesterday. He substantiated this charge by reading to Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson and a jury Miss McGough's testimony before a Federal grand jury in which she said she had been employed by Shongood for many years, first as a $15-a-week clerk and, finally, after many salary increases, as cashier for the former auctioneer at $150 a week.

Miss McGough is on trial with Shongood and Charles Shongood Jr. for alleged embezzlement and for filing false returns in 1928 with receivers in bankruptcy. Judge Patterson instructed the jury to disregard her testimony read in connection with other defendants, and also to remember that Miss McGough was not on trial for filing false income tax returns nor for any statements made in connection therewith."

After reading the testimony Mr. Cooke rested the case for the government, and the auctioneer's son was the first witness called by the defense. He denied vigorously that he had ever altered or falsified auction schedules or any other records. In each bankruptcy case, he said, there had been three check-ups of amounts received—the schedules, the auction cashier's returns and the records transmitted to Bernard J. McCorry, who died a year ago while United States Attorney Tuttle was pushing his inquiry into bankruptcy practices. Mr. McCorry, the younger Shongood explained, had acted as supervisor of auction proceedings under appointment of the United States District Court.

Goods, according to the witness, had been properly appraised before being offered for sale, and if bids did not come within two-thirds of the appraised value they were rejected as inadequate.

John B. Roberts, Shongood's employe for twenty-eight years, corroborated this testimony. He said, as others testified last week, that bills sometimes had been made out at prices paid to successful bidders by other purchasers, purely as a matter of convenience. But the only prices marked on the schedules, he testified, were those actually received by Shongood.

Mr. Cooke asked the witness on cross-examination if he had ever stolen anything.

"Yes," said Roberts, and paused a moment; then he added, "apples, when I was a boy."

The trial will be continued today.

MOONEY AGAIN FILES PETITION FOR PARDON

Asks Gov. Young Also to Hear MacDonald, Who Will Testify to California Court Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28 (AP).—Thomas J. Mooney today again asked Governor Young to free him from the life sentence imposed for the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing here.

The request was made in a pardon petition mailed from here, in which Mooney asked for a personal hearing. He also asked the Governor to hear John MacDonald, who will appear at a Supreme Court hearing tomorrow on a pardon application of Warren K. Billings, also serving a life sentence for the bombing.

MacDonald is scheduled to tell the court he falsely identified Mooney and Billings and gave perjured testimony at their trials. This testimony helped convict them of the bombing, which killed ten and injured forty persons.

In his petition Mooney reviewed his case and denied any knowledge of or connection with the crime. He asked that his application be considered apart from Billings's petition.

The examiner today reported the disappearance of two important documents having direct bearing upon the issues raised by MacDonald's assertion he gave perjured testimony at the trials of Mooney and Billings. The documents, the paper said, were police reports which Police Captain Charles Goff had asserted were in existence to prove that MacDonald, before meeting Goff, had voluntarily told his story linking Mooney and Billings with the planting of the bomb.

Officials of the Police Department, the Supreme Court and county clerk's office, according to the examiner, participated in an unsuccessful hunt for the documents.

CAR OFF TRACK IN TIMES SQ.

Trolleys Held Up 20 Minutes at 42d St. and 7th Av.

A northbound Broadway trolley car which split the switch and derailed at the turn at Forty-second Street and Seventh Avenue tied up the trolley service for twenty minutes shortly after 5:30 o'clock last evening. Automobile traffic was not affected, nor were the cross-town cars, but north and south bound cars were lined up for two blocks in both directions while workmen put the car back on the tracks.

None of the passengers in the car was injured and most of them kept their seats while the work was being done. The front trucks of the car swung around the curve but the rear trucks continued on the cross-town tracks for a time and then jumped, cutting a deep groove in the pavement.

CALIFORNIA BANKER HELD.

Head of San Diego Closed Bank Charged With Theft of $50,000.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 28 (AP).—Isaac Irwin, president of the California Savings and Trust Bank here, which closed Wednesday, was arrested today on a charge of the theft of $50,000.

Irwin collapsed yesterday and the warrant was served on him in bed. Bail was fixed at $50,000. Pending the 72-year-old banker's recovery a deputy sheriff was stationed at his home. He is alleged to have illegally diverted $200,000 of the bank's funds.

PROSECUTOR SEEKS TO INDICT DR. ALLEN

Head of Institute for Public Service Fails to Satisfy Crain Aide on Gold Mine.

HE APPEARS VOLUNTARILY

Withdraws Plot Charge and Seeks to Testify Before Grand Jury Today.

ADMITS SIGNING LETTERS

But Says His Brother Dictated Notes Giving Glowing Account of Mexican Property.

Assistant District Attorney John J. McNaboe announced yesterday that as a result of statements made to him by Dr. William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, he would ask the grand jury today to indict Dr. Allen on charges of conspiracy and false representation in the sale of stock of La Verdina Gold Mining Company of Mexico. It was reported later that the prosecutor also would seek to have at least one other person named in the indictment with Dr. Allen.

Dr. Allen had appeared voluntarily at the prosecutor's office to demand he be permitted to testify before the grand jury in its investigation of complaints of two persons that they had been defrauded in the purchase of stock of the gold mining company.

The Better Business Bureau has charged that Wilbur F. Allen, a brother of Dr. Allen, associated with him in the mine, obtained $2,000 from Miss Grace L. Cotterill of White Plains, N. Y., in November, 1928, for shares of stock in a La Palma Mining Company, but received instead stock of La Verdina Company, which has a gold mine, Dr. Allen said, in Sonora, Mexico. She alleged that she has not since received any financial return on her investment.

Dr. Allen on Saturday explained that it had originally been intended to form an American company for La Verdina mine stock under the name of La Palma Mining Company.

Grand Jury Hears Complaints.

Miss Cotterill, who at one time was temporarily employed in Dr. Allen's office, and William Collis, an investigator for the Better Business Bureau, who brought Miss Cotterill to the District Attorney's office last week, were witnesses last Friday before the grand jury at the opening of the investigation of the gold mine project, of which Dr. Allen is secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Allen, who has been a persistent critic of the Walker Administration and who recently urged Governor Roosevelt to start an investigation of the City Administration, intimated in a statement last Saturday that his activities against the Walker régime was the cause of the grand jury investigation of the connection of himself and his brother with the gold mine. He also mentioned in the prepared statement he issued to the newspapers a "grand jury racket."

District Attorney Crain and Assistant District Attorney James E. McDonald took part in the questioning of Dr. Allen on his appearance at the District Attorney's office yesterday, and later Mr. McNaboe questioned him in more detail in the presence of a stenographer. Thomas W. Slocum of 11 Thomas Street, foreman of the grand jury, previously had informed District Attorney Crain that the grand jurors would permit Dr. Allen to testify under an immunity waiver.

Withdraws Plot Charge.

"Were you correctly reported in the article in THE NEW YORK TIMES last Sunday?" was one of the questions asked Dr. Allen in connection with his statement of last Saturday.

"I was correctly quoted," Dr. Allen replied, adding "I have been assured that Judge Crain and his assistants will give me a square deal. I honestly believe I will get a square deal."

"You retract everything you said in that interview?" continued Assistant District Attorney McNaboe.

"I do," was the reply.

Mr. McNaboe said that Dr. Allen, in answer to questions, frequently spoke at length on matters which were not pertinent to the inquiry, and ocasionally would rely on answers such as "Yes, morally, but not technically."

The witness, accbording to Mr. McNaboe, said that Miss Cotterill paid her $2,000 to his brother at about the time the Allens became connected with La Verdina Company. Dr. Allen said he sold a farm at Lincolndale, Westchester County, to buy his way into the gold mining project. He added that he confined his stock selling activities in the project to a group of friends.

In announcing his decision to ask the grand jury to indict Dr. Allen, Assistant District Attorney McNaboe said: "After hearing him I think I have him tied up good and pretty. His statements don't cover the case involved."

New Complaint Received.

The prosecutor revealed that another complaint had been received in connection with the activities of the Allens in the gold mine stock transactions. Mr. McNaboe said that a William H. Fay was the complainant in this case. When he mentioned Mr. Fay to Dr. Allen, he said, the latter replied: "Fay is a friend of mine."

Dr. Allen, according to the Assistant District Attorney, also admitted the authorship of letters sent to thirty-three stockholders of the gold mining company, to some of which were signed with the initials "W. H. A.," while the others were unsigned. These communications gave glowing accounts of the progress of the gold mine developments, it was alleged. Dr. Allen declared, however, Mr. McNaboe said, that the letters were dictated by his brother.

"I have been in touch with the State Attorney General's office about the stock-selling activities of the Allens in the gold mine project," Mr. McNaboe declared, "but I cannot reveal anything in connection with that at this time."

Agreed to Reimburse Woman.

Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn, head of the State Bureau of Securities, 74 Trinity Place, said yesterday that his office received a complaint from Miss Cotterill and that as a result Wilbur Allen was examined about two months ago. Without going into the question of fraud, Wilbur Allen promised Deputy Attorney Genera Richard Sherman that his brother would reimburse Miss Cotterill for any losses by July 15.

This was not done, Mr. Washburn said, but his office was informed yesterday by Theodore F. Von Dorn, 52 Wall Street, counsel for Wilbur Allen, that restitution would be made through repurchase of the stock in question within a week.

Miss Cotterill's was the only complaint in this matter received at his office, Mr. Washburn said.

Mr. McNaboe also revealed that Easton Shaw, who was secretary of La Verdina company up to a year ago, and who, according to Dr. Allen, had conducted most of the stock-selling work in the company, would be a witness before the grand jury today.

Mr. McNaboe said that Mr. Shaw had told him that Dr. Allen had full control of the affairs of the company here and in Mexico. Dr. Allen bought out the interests of William H. Boykin some time ago, so that he could have full sway over the company, Mr. Shaw said.

Mr. Shaw is also said to have told the prosecutor that when, on one occasion, Dr. Allen met him in Tucson, Ariz., Dr. Allen told him he was dissatisfied with the manner in which the company was being conducted, and asked for his resignation.

Mr. Shaw, Mr. McNaboe said, told him that he got out of the company, and Wilbur F. Allen got a half of his interest in it.

Dr. Allen Issues Statement.

Dr. Allen issued a statement last night in connection with his visit to the District Attorney's office, in which he said:

"Fortunately, there are stenographic notes of my aswers to questions asked by the Assistant District Attorney. If I know what direct, specific, fact-supported answering is, I gave it to Mr. McNaboe. The interview was at my request. I sought an opportunity to give him facts. I hope I am correctly informed that he has corrected the impression given by news stories.

"It cannot be that he found my words failing to cover the point at issue, because his own statement to the papers gives answers covering the fact that the only value there ever was was in the gold mine for which certificates were given, while the holding company that was not organized could not have added a cent to the certificate's value.

"The reasons for not forming the holding company were explained three different times in letters before the certificate was delivered, over a year ago. Never until last Saturday's paper did I ever hear of any dissatisfaction because something useless was not given instead of something valuable.

"If the Assistant District Attorney talked to the newspapers of conspiracy, I am sorry, for it seems grossly unfair after he had the record cited in my statement. Spending time and money for a mine without a cent in return, increasing the ore bodies 100 per cent, having scientific analyses made and outside tests and assays, keeping friends informed as troubles come, getting financial backing for enlarged production, are not usually called conspiracy.

"After all, the main point is that there is a highly valuable mine which, without a cent of cost to stockholders, has greatly appreciated in value since they bought. Even disparagement by officials cannot make it a fraud to give more than was bought."

Insurance Company Offers $10,000 for Slayer of Agent

Following a meeting of the executive committee of the Prudential Insurance Company in its home office in Newark yesterday Edward D. Duffield, president, announced that a reward of $10,000 would be paid for information leading to the arrest of the slayer of Hector Avallone, an agent of the company.

Avallone was shot last Thursday while making collections at 636 East 137th Street, the Bronx, and died in the Lincoln Hospital.

Mr. Duffield said that the reward would serve as notice that "this company will cooperate with the authorities to the extent of its power in a relentless hunt to bring the guilty to justice."

VENDORS OF ICE CREAM FREED BY CONEY JUDGE

Magistrate Sabbatino Indignant That 15 Boys Were Kept Overnight in Cells.

Eighty ice cream vendors arrested over the week-end at Coney Island received suspended sentences in Coney Island Court yesterday from Magistrate Sabbatino, who refused to heed the demands of the regular concessionaires that the "wildcat traffic" be stopped.

Many of the prisoners spent the night in cells, among them fifteen boys of high school age who could not obtain bail. Those arrested were caught selling their sweets for 5 cents, which is only half what the concessionaires get for their products. The Coney Island Chamber of Commerce recently asked the police to drive itinerant peddlers off the beach.

"I don't think boys should be put in jail for such an offense. I am not blaming the policemen who made made the arrests, but those who are higher up."

The magistrate's court room, which seats about 100, was thronged when the first case was called. Several hundred who could not gain entrance packed the stairs outside and stood in the street. However, the 200-odd cases represented only an average post-week-end consignment.

Eighteen young men and women, charged with wearing improper bathing attire, were fined $1 each. The impropriety in all cases consisted of slipping the shoulder straps from bathing suits so as to give the sun free play.

Fifteen young men were fined $1 each for playing ball on the beach, and fifty picnickers paid the same penalty for littering the beach. A number of motorists who drove over curbs to vacant lots, because all other parking spaces were filled, received suspended sentences. The magistrate, after listening to their explanations, agreed they had been hard pressed.

FOUND OCEAN AREA WITH NO OXYGEN

DESCRIBES FINAL VOYAGE

Discoveries Changed Ideas as to Ocean Circulation, He Says, in Radio Talk at Capital.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—A place was found in the tropical waters of the Pacific Ocean, on the last voyage of the non-magnetic ship Carnegie, where there is practically no oxygen, O. W. Torreson, navigator and executive officer of the ill-fated vessel, said tonight in a radio address over the National Broadcasting Company's network.

This discovery, Mr. Torreson said, was only one of a number of important scientific findings made on the final trip of the ship, which started in Washington in May, 1928, and ended when she burned in the harbor of Apia, Samoa, in November, 1929. During those nineteen months more than 50,000 miles were traveled in the North Atlantic and the North and South Pacific, Captain Torreson said, making a total of nearly 350,000 miles, equal to fourteen times the circumference of the earth, in the twenty years' life of this floating laboratory.

The spot with no oxygen in the Pacific is of such extent that scientists may well conclude that it is an effective barrier to the wanderings of ocean creatures which live in the lower water levels and which always need this precious gas of life, Mr. Torreson said. Beginning 300 feet below the ocean surface and extending downward for 1,000 feet, this water lies in a band one hundred or more miles wide and extends for a great distance to the east and west. It was found during the regular soundings of the scientific staff aboard the Carnegie, when measuring the depth of the ocean and studying its life and content.

More Known of Pacific Circulation.

"One of our most outstanding discoveries is the fact that the assumptions which have been made up to the present about the circulation of the waters of the Pacific Ocean are wrong," Captain Torreson said. "The circulation of the Pacific waters has been thought to be similar to the circulation of the Atlantic, but now has been found to be quite different.

"This knowledge will undoubtedly be important to those who are studying the climates of the United States and other countries bordering upon the Pacific and who are helping us to adjust our daily activities to climate in the most healthful and profitable way.

"The Carnegie's work has also made it possible to predict correctly the changes which take place from year to year in the compass variation. With accurate information about the compass variation and about the changes which take place in the variation as time goes on, the navigator can today pilot his ship across the oceans with greater safety than was possible only a few years ago.

"The earliest cruises of the Carnegie were entirely devoted to measurements of the magnetism of the earth. The most important part of this magnetic work was the measurements of the variation of the compass. On later cruises the magnetic work was carried on as before, but other investigations were undertaken as well, such as the study of the electricity of the air and of weather conditions.

"On the seventh cruise still other investigations were added to the program, including the study of the conditions of radio transmission and reception, of the depth of the ocean, of the composition and circulation of the ocean waters and of the very small plants and animals which live in the oceans.

The Carnegie an Unusual Vessel.

"Undoubtedly, the Carnegie was one of the most unusual vessels that ever sailed the seven seas. She was intended from the very beginning to be a floating laboratory and was designed and built accordingly. Every piece of metal that went into her construction had to be free from iron and other magnetic materials and months were spent in testing the metals used.

"There were scores of interesting and unusual instruments on board the Carnegie. They were mounted in various places on the ship as well as in the laboratories. Some were out on deck, some on the masts and some even on the hull of the ship, below the surface of the water. Still others were sent down by wires into the depths of the ocean, some times to depths of three and four miles to the ocean bottom. Many of the instruments were the only ones of their kind in existence and had been specially constructed in our own instrument shops according to designs by our own men.

"More than 500 measurements of the variation of the compass were made on the last cruise of the Carnegie. The important fact disclosed by these measurements is that the variation charts used by navigators today are very accurate.

"The Carnegie occupied a unique place in scientific investigation, research and discovery, and contributed in no small degree to that knowledge which enables mankind to adjust itself with greater comfort, happiness and safety to the action of the forces of nature."

NO POLICE BAN ON PICKETS.

Mulrooney Says Lawful Methods Will Not Be Interfered With.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney assured Arthur Garfield Hays and Edward Walter Frank, leaders in the American Civil Liberties Union, that the police would not interfere with lawful picketing wherever strikes are in progress, after a conference at his office yesterday regarding police activities on recent occasions. He reviewed the conditions under which picketing could be lawfully resorted to and told the men his department would not molest picketers provided they acted in a lawful manner.

Later in the day the commissioner, speaking of the seizure without bail of eighteen liquor violators on Sunday, explained that the city made it a policy to feed any Federal prisoners who were without means of buying food. Sunday's prisoners were no exception to the policy, he said.

Harvey Proposes Queens Winter Sports Park To Rival Canadian and Up-State Playgrounds

Borough President George U. Harvey of Queens proposed yesterday the establishment of a Winter resort playground in the hilly, woodland park areas between Flushing and Jamaica, similar to the Winter sport centres at Lake Placid, Montreal and Quebec.

Interviewed by telephone at Plattsburg, where he is serving as a Major of the 305th Infantry, United States Army Reserve, Mr. Harvey said that when he returns he will recommend the Winter playground project to Park Commissioner Albert Benninger and the Board of Estimate. He pointed out that the proposed playground would be the only one of its kind easily accessible to New York residents. His plan would include the construction of ski and toboggan slides and wide ice skating rinks.

"With the proper supervision," he said, "a sports centre of this type can be made to operate very effectively despite our small snowfall. There are ways and means to preserve frozen surfaces over long periods, and such a park, even if available for actual use for only one month of the year, would be worth the effort and cost necessary to establish it.

"What I have in mind is to take advantage of the long hills in the woodland sections of Alley Park and Hillside Park and to construct ski and toboggan slides, wide ice skating rinks and other facilities to meet Winter sport requirements. The climate is suitable, because there are Winter sport centres very close to New York City, but not available because of the cost to the average man and woman."

Mr. Harvey endorsed the park program, made public by Mayor Walker's committee, but added that he felt satisfied that the 1,390.30-acre allotment proposed by the committee for Queens was only the beginning of a program of acquisition of park areas in that borough. He said Queens had "every right to demand that it be designated as the playground of the city."

Mr. Harvey explained that he believed the new park areas in Queens would be preserved in their natural state, with footpaths and forest trails instead of concrete and stone sidewalks.

He approved of the paragraph in the park committee's report which indicated that a motor tax might be asked by the city to defray the cost of park-land acquisition and development.

"This is a far-sighted policy, if what it seems to indicate is so," he said. "The highways of the city are being used by corporations as railroads use their rights of way. The benefits they derive are all out of proportion to the toll they pay."

FINISH FIRST CABLE FOR HUDSON BRIDGE

Workmen to Complete Three Others on 178th Street Span Within Two Weeks.

TASK AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Mayor Transfers Approach Site for $279,000—Contracts Let for Manhattan Ramp and Tunnel.

The first of the four cables which will support the roadways of the new Hudson River Bridge at 178th Street was completed yesterday with the spinning of the last of 26,474 wires that make up the sixty-one separate strands of each cable, according to an announcement by the Port of New York Authority, which is building the structure.

The engineers of the Port Authority announced further that the stringing of the three other cables would be completed within two weeks. The cable-spinning work was started on Oct. 18, 1929. It is two weeks ahead of schedule.

Each wire in the cables is about 5,000 feet, nearly a mile, long and its diameter is about that of a lead pencil. Without interruption by weather they have been strung at the rate of 250 feet a day since work was begun. The hazardous work of the human spiders has been accomplished without loss of life or serious accident. Although no definite plans for a celebration have been made, it is probable that some kind of ceremony will be held to mark the spinning of the last wire of the four cables.

The individual wires of the strands which are compacted into the main thirty-six-inch cable are strung by means of a trolley arrangement which carries each wire from shore to shore. As one trolley leaves the Jersey shore another trolley carrying a strand starts from Manhattan. The stringing of the cables is practically a continuous operation, although the pulleys travel slowly.

When the last cable has been completed and welded together, the Port Authority announced, work will be started on the construction of the roadways and footpaths. The schedules call for the completion of that phase of construction so that the bridge may be opened for traffic early in 1932.

Mayor Walker signed an agreement with the Port Authority yesterday by which the Port Authority received lands required for the Manhattan approach to the bridge. In return, the city received a check for $279,000.

The Port Authority also announced that it had awarded the contract for the main ramp of the New York approach to the bridge to the Cornell Contracting Corporation, with a low bid of $746,679. The Port Authority Commissioners have voted to award to the same company the contract for the vehicular tunnel part of the West 178th Street approach to the bridge, the Cornell Contracting Corporation's bid of $1,756,945 having been lowest.

DEAD OF THE 69TH HONORED

Quarterly Memorial Mass Is Sung in Father Duffy's Church.

The high anniversary requiem mass, celebrated four times a year in memory of the dead of the old Sixty-ninth Infantry, was sung yesterday morning in Holy Cross Church, West Forty-second Street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, the church of the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, the regiment's famous wartime chaplain.

Father Duffy and many of the officers and men of the regiment, now known as the 165th Infantry, are in France for ahe annual reunion of the Rainbow Division, and the mass was said by the Rev. Edward Wood. Taps was sounded and the ceremonies included the blessing of the empty catafalque that commemorates the dead.

The memorial masses are sponsored by the ladies' auxiliary of the regiment.

WINDOW CLEANING MOST PERILOUS JOB

Fine Machine and Instrument Making Least Hazardous, Safety Contest Reveals.

TEXTILE MISHAPS ARE FEW

Work in Railroad Shop Less Risky Than in Food Plant, Merchants' Association Finds.

The safest of the many trades and occupations represented in the recent Greater New York Industrial Safety Contest is that of making fine machines or instruments and the most dangerous is that of window cleaning, according to the findings announced yesterday by the Merchants' Association, which, with eighteen other organizations, sponsored the contest.

A job in a machine shop or a railroad repair shop was found to be less hazardous than one in a food or tobacco manufacturing establishment. The clothing industry, one of the largest in the city, is one of the safest for its employes, the tabulated results showed.

The 1,485 concerns participating in the contest were divided into seventeen groups and the frequency of lost-time accidents in each group was computed without consideration of the severity of the accidents. The leader in each group is to receive a bronze trophy when the analysis of the records is completed in the near future.

The group standings were as follows:

Groups.	No. of Plants in Group.	No. of Accidents per Million Man Hrs.
Fine mach. and inst. mfg.	32	7.51
Clothing, cloth gds., tex. mfg.	104	8.39
Miscellaneous mfg.	27	10.18

Leather and leath. gds. mfg.	46	13.61
Mach. shops and ry. rep. shops	69	15.06
Care, custody and maintenance	86	16.16
Paper goods mfg., printing and publishing	146	16.73
Wood products mfg.	89	17.02
Rubber, comp. and bone gds., paper and pulp mfg.	17	17.28
Chemicals and metallurgy	57	18.06
Metal forming	119	18.68
Stone and clay prod. mfg.	22	18.81
Commercial enterprises	195	21.41
Food and tobacco mfg.	123	22.96
Bldg. trades—cont. and const.	124	31.01
Window cleaners	180	63.74

Included in the miscellaneous manufacturing group were glass merchants and manufacturers, pencil manufacturers, dental laboratories, house furnishings dealers, lacquering and enameling establishments and fishing rod manufacturers. The general commercial enterprise group included ice manufacturers, wholesale and retail stores, lumber yards, building materials dealers, garages, warehouses and coal merchants.

PANIC IN DARK, SMOKY TRAIN

Twelve in Cars Returning From Coney Hurt in Short-Circuit Accident

About 1,000 men, women and children, returning yesterday at 1 A. M. after a day at Coney Island, were frightened when a short circuit on the second car of a ten-car Sea Beach train caused a loud report and filled the cars with smoke as the train started to leave the Avenue U station in Brooklyn.

Lights went out and the train came to a sudden halt. Smoke drifted into the cars through the open windows and end doors. The passengers became panic-stricken and many were kicked, clawed and trampled as women screamed. The guards opened the doors after a few minutes and the passengers scrambled for the platform.

Twelve persons were cut and bruised. Mrs. Esther Longroff, 40 years old, of 86 Severlend Street, the Bronx, was treated for bruises and lacerations by an ambulance surgeon from Coney Island Hospital. Railroad employes extinguished the small insulation fire.

C. M. DEPEW ESTATE SET AT $15,954,249

$16,835,985 IN SECURITIES

Widow, Son and Yale University Are the Principal Legatees—Debts Total $362,564.

Chauncey M. Depew, former United States Senator, capitalist and public speaker, who died April 5, 1928, at the age of 94 years, left an estate appraised yesterday by Deputy Tax Commissioner Stephenson at $17,210,599 gross and $15,954,249 net, of which $16,835,985 was in securities.

The securities included only $219,899 of the New York Central Railroad, of which Mr. Depew was long one of the dominating factors, and $310,000 in bonds of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. His chief stock holdings were in trust companies. The largest single item was $3,390,100 in National Biscuit common stock.

The estate was reduced by debts of $362,564, which included $200,000 due under an ante-nuptial agreement made Dec. 27, 1901, with Marie Eugenie Palmer, by which she renounced her dower interest in his real estate and all claims to personal property for that sum. The estate owed $14,344 as a State transfer tax in 1927, $75,774 as a Federal income tax for three-quarters of 1927, and $37,402 for 1928 until April 5 of that year. The funeral and administrative expenses amounted to $208,281 and the executors' commissions were $679,268.

Mrs. Depew received $150,000 in cash, an automobile worth $1,400, her husband's jewelry, valued at $3,066; his clothing, appraised at $300, and a life interest in half the residue, $6,837,053, which is to go upon her death to her husband's son, Chauncey M. Depew Jr. The son also received the real estate at 27 West Fifty-fourth Street, worth $160,000; furniture and furnishings worth $35,759; silver articles, chiefly loving cups and other gifts made to Mr. Depew by various organizations; $200,000 in cash; a quarter of the residue outright, amounting to $3,418,526, and the other quarter in trust.

Yale University received without restriction $1,000,000, while $100,000 went to the village of Peekskill for educational or other public uses. Gifts to relatives included $200,000 for life to Anne Depew Paulding, a niece, and $50,000 outright to Charles C. Paulding, a nephew. Kate Strang, a sister, who died April 11 last, received $150,000 in trust.

Mr. Depew's real estate, other than the house at West Fifty-fourth Street, consisted of the property at 241 Monterey Avenue, Pelham, worth $28,000, and two lots in Tonawanda, N. Y., worth $1,485. He had $135,061 in cash, but the notes he held were valued at only $891. One for $5,000, made by the Bagdad Chase Mining Company, formed by a syndicate of which Mr. Depew was one of the members in 1910, was declared worthless.

No value was found for a copyright on "Orations, Addresses and Speeches of Chauncey M. Depew," taken out in 1910, assigned to the Leslie Judge Company and reassigned by the latter to Mr. Depew in 1926, because no copies have been printed since that time. Mr. Depew's "Memories of Eighty Years," published by Charles Scribner's Sons, yielded $115.35 in royalties between February, 1927 and Aug. 1, 1929.

The jewelry included as the most valuable articles a black pearl scarf-pin, $600; dress set, $500, and three ornamental pearl studs, $500. Two Lincoln autograph letters were valued at $250 and $150, respectively. The appraisal listed no taxable insurance.

By the terms of the will, if Mr. Depew's son, who is a bachelor and is in his late fifties, leaves no issue, the fourth of the residue held in trust for him will be distributed as follows: One-third in equal shares to Anne Depew Paulding and Charles Cook Paulding; one-third in equal shares to Martha Depew Townley, Elise Strang L'Esperance and May Strang, nieces, who also inherited the $150,000 fund for Mrs. Strang upon her death, and one-third to Yale.

Mrs. Townley, who was the wife of Supreme Court Justice Alfred H. Townley, died on April 17 last, six days after the death of her mother, and left her share in her mother's trust fund to her husband.

Will Rogers Is Pleased By 'Ma' Ferguson's Victory

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 28.—Say, what do you know about "Ma" Ferguson down in Texas?

I know "Ma" and I like her. She pulled her husband out of a bog hole one time, and that has always hit the old timers as just about what a real old Western wife should do.

They overestimate this Governor thing anyhow. States have good ones, bad ones and every kind, and yet they drag along about the same. Things in our country run in spite of government. Not by the aid of it.

Did you ever see the like of candidates everywhere? Every male white child over the age of 21 is running for something. You can always tell a poor business year by the number of candidates. When nobody else will give you employment you feel like the State should.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

CORRIGAN SHIFTS 23 COURT EMPLOYES

Third Shake-Up by New Chief Magistrate Is Made for "the Good of the Service."

NEW SYSTEM IS STRESSED

It Aims at Discouraging Intimacy Among Aides in Any One Court and Bondsmen.

With a repetition of his often-used phrase, "for the good of the service," Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan shifted yesterday twenty-three clerks and attendants in the magistrates' courts of Manhattan and the Bronx, removing them from positions which in some cases they had held for years and sending them to new assignments.

It was the third major shake-up in the personnel of the courts in the two weeks that Mr. Corrigan has been chief magistrate. He has now changed the posts of sixty-seven court employes.

The shifts made yesterday involve five clerks, six assistant clerks and twelve court attendants. They will go to their new surroundings on Friday. News of the shake-up was withheld until the orders were promulgated yesterday morning and those affected had only the example of the previous changes for advance warning.

The shifting of court aides is part of a policy now largely instituted by the new chief magistrate looking to a permanent system of rotation. The clerks and attendants will be changed from court to court just as the magistrates themselves rotate.

Explaining that his deputies had been charged with the responsibility of picking out the persons now to be shifted, Mr. Corrigan said: "The transfers are not to be construed as a reward or a punishment. The purpose is simply to establish a new system."

The reason of the innovation is a feeling on the part of the chief magistrate that he should discourage intimacy among the aides in any one court or between them and others whose business regularly takes them to the court, such as bail bondsmen. He expects that there will be very much less chance for the "fixing" of cases and for the disposal of court favors.

The chief magistrate announced his first shake-up on July 14, involving three clerks and twenty-two assistants. Last Thursday he transferred four chief court clerks, five court squad captains and ten court attendants in Brooklyn.

One of those whose transfer was announced yesterday was Edward T. Tyrell, chief clerk in the Harlem court. When there was a report last January to the effect that his brother was a bondsman who appeared in the magistrates' courts, the clerk said that his brother received no favors and that five other bondsmen were active in his court.

Besides the transfer of court aides Mr. Corrigan in his brief career as chief magistrate has started other reforms, including the barring by policemen of court hangers-on. He also has personally addressed the clerks of the courts, warning them of the responsibilities for which he would hold them accountable.

The transfers announced yesterday follow:

Court Clerks.

JULIUS LYONS, from Essex Market Court to Homicide Court.
DAVID TUCKER, from Homicide Court to Harlem Court.
EDWARD TYRELL, from Harlem Court to West Side Court.
CHARLES G. BRENNAN, from West Side Court to Morrisania Court, the Bronx.
MICHAEL V. SHEEHAN, appointed last Friday, to Essex Market Court.

Assistant Court Clerks.

EDWARD F. DORNA, from West Farms Court, the Bronx, to Bronx Traffic Court.
JOHN FITZGERALD, from Tombs Court to Harlem Court.
ABRAHAM MAGID, from Harlem Court to Tombs Court.
BERNARD HERC, from Traffic Court 1, Manhattan, to Essex Market Court.
MORRIS A. SABLE, from Essex Market Court to Traffic Court 1, Manhattan.
THOMAS A. CHURCH, from Bronx Traffic Court to West Farms Court, the Bronx.

Fined for Clipping Ears of Dog.

Joseph Jupiter of 1,982 Park Avenue was fined $10 in Yorkville Court yesterday by Magistrate Edward Weil for clipping the ears of a mongrel dog, which agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said was done to "make the animal appear well-bred." The dog ran away, the agents said, and after it was turned over to the society for treatment, an investigation resulted in a charge of cruelty to animals against Jupiter.

MEET TODAY TO PUSH NEW ANTI-NOISE LAW

Mulrooney and Heads of City Bureaus to Confer on Plan for Arbitrary Fines.

SEEK TO ALTER CHARTER

Plan to Allow Department Chiefs to Punish Violators Without Court Action.

SMALL PENALTIES FAVORED

Easing of Court Congestion Seen in Widening of Idea to Apply to All Minor Offenses.

To speed the prosecution of violations of the city's anti-noise ordinances and other minor offenses, the Noise Abatement Commission has proposed an amendment to the Greater New York Charter which would make the collection of fixed fines of $5 or less possible without any use of the magistrates' courts, Edward F. Brown, director of the commission, announced yesterday. The proposed amendment will be discussed today at a luncheon at the Downtown Business Men's Club, 128 Cedar Street.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney; Dr. William Schroeder Jr., chairman of the Sanitary Commission; Health Commissioner Wynne; Deputy Manhattan Park Commissioner John M. Hart; Charles C. Burlingham, president of the bar association; Lewis H. Brown, chairman of the Noise Abatement Commission, and Edward F. Brown are to attend.

The amendment would empower the heads of departments concerned with minor violations of the code of ordinances to issue a schedule of fixed fines. The same department heads would issue rules to their representatives regarding giving notices of violations to persons who plead guilty and do not want a court hearing.

Trials Optional to Offenders.

All notices of violations would be returnable to offices of the City Chamberlain in each borough, where the fines would be collected and receipts given. Anybody who wanted to stand trial would be permitted to accept a summons in place of the notice, and any one who received a notice and did not appear to pay his fine within a set time would have a summons served on him.

This plan answers Commissioner Mulrooney's objection to any proposal to enforce the anti-noise laws which would call policemen to court every day. At a meeting held on July 9 to consider the same subject he pledged police cooperation provided the plans for fuller enforcement of the anti-noise and other ordinances did not take his men off their posts. He estimated that at present about 1,000 policemen are taken from their posts every day to appear in court.

Advantages of Plan Cited.

Mr. Brown in announcing the luncheon yesterday asserted that the new plan, far from increasing the time policemen spend in court, would largely do away with it.

The statement issued by Mr. Brown, which was drawn up by the commission's committee on practical remedies, of which Charles C. Burlingham is chairman, also listed the following advantages for the plan:

Many violations now passed over because of the time and trouble of following them through the courts would be penalized. There will be no handling of money by the police or similar officials in the Park Department or sanitary commission. While collection will be simple for the city, the amount of the fine and the trouble of going in person to pay it will be a deterrent against repetition. A citizen's rights to a judicial hearing will always be protected. Citizens will not have to waste long hours in the courts and magistrates' courts will be relieved of a burden. The commission's statement also citeu legal precedents for the system.

MENDEL ACTION IN COURT.

Restaurant Man's Wife Says He Threatened to Shoot Her.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 28.—Mrs. Mollie Dillon Mendel, wife of William H. Mendel of Mount Vernon, restaurant owner, accused him of threatening to shoot her and said she feared for her life in her separation action against him, it was disclosed today in connection with the hearing of a motion by Mendel in the Supreme Court here to vacate a notice of examination before trial. Decision was reserved on the motion.

Mendel last Summer changed the cartridges in his gun with the remark that when he decided to shoot her he wanted to be sure of doing a complete job, Mrs. Mendel said in her complaint. In the Fall of 1924, she said, he placed a loaded gun against her head and threatened to shoot. Mendel frequently struck her, his wife's complaint says, and he choked her and blackened her eyes. She accused Mendel of frequently becoming intoxicated. Mendel has denied his wife's charges. The couple were married in July, 1911, in Stamford, Conn., and have two daughters, Helen, aged 16 years, and Kathryn, 12.

2 CLEARED OF EXTORTION.

Policeman and Tenement Inspector Are Freed by Magistrate.

Patrolman Henry Porter of the West 135th Street station and Joseph Tierned, tenement house inspector, were cleared of a charge of extortion in Harlem court yesterday by Magistrate Weil when a witness failed to identify them.

The two were charged by Charles Woodbine, a Negro, of 210 East 102d Street with having taken $10 from him after they had said they had discovered a still in his rooms.

Asked for witnesses to the transaction, Woodbine called upon Estelle Ander, a Negro, of 1,954 Second Avenue who, he said, had seen him pass the money. She testified she saw Woodbine hand a piece of paper to a man in a gray suit but when she was requested to pick out that man in the courtroom she pointed to Albert Stern, the court fingerprint expert, and Magistrate Weil dismissed the charge.

TO MARK 300 YEARS OF OLD NORTHFIELD

Villages and Moody Schools Will Centre Week's Program Round Famous Landmark.

WILL OPEN 'BIRNHAM HOUSE'

Exercises at Chateau, Also Known as 'Schell Castle' Will Be Attended by Governor Allen.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., July 28.—"Birnham House," commonly known as the "Schell Castle," and its estate of 125 acres, directly across from the Northfield Hotel, which was recently acquired by the trustees of the Northfield schools founded by the late Dwight L. Moody, will be formally thrown open to the public for the first time this week, in connection with the celebration by the villages of Northfield and East Northfield of their part in the tercentenary observance of Massachusetts.

Governor Frank G. Allen will participate in the chief function at Schell Castle on Friday. The castle is a French château containing more than forty rooms and standing on a knoll at the highest elevation of the grounds overlooking the colonial village of Northfield, the campuses of the Mount Hermon School for Boys and the Northfield Seminary for Girls, the Connecticut River, the Berkshire and Franklin Hills and the distant blue ranges of Southern New Hampshire.

Birnham House, a landmark throughout this region, belonged to Mrs. E. Francis Schell of 21 East Sixty-second Street, New York City. Although its assessed valuation up to a year ago was $114,000, she transferred it for $30,000 in cash and the release of a $4,000 mortgage to the Moody School authorities, who sought it for water rights and acreage adjoining their buildings.

Mrs. Schell wanted the school interests to have the property because her late husband, who belonged to an old New York family, and Mr. Moody were intimate personal friends for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Schell first came to Northfield in 1890 and spent their Summers there until the death of Mr. Schell in 1928. The Schells helped Mr. Moody and his elder son, William R. Moody, who still lives on the old homestead, in the development of the two schools for poor girls and boys and of the Summer Bible and missionary conferences.

Mr. Schell built his costly château directly opposite the Northfield Hotel, which was erected to accommodate those attending the religious gatherings.

Designed by the late Bruce Price of New York and finished in 1902, Schell Castle has a heavy stone foundation and terra cotta trimmings. Besides setting out shrubs and trees on the 125 acres, Mr. Schell created a lake by damming Warwick brook which runs through the estate.

Some years ago, as a memorial to his father and mother, Robert and Mary Schell, Mr. Schell gave to the town a new $45,000 public highway bridge across the Connecticut River, thus separating the highway from the old covered railroad bridge which had been built in 1848.

At first the Northfield school authorities feared that the four-story château itself would be a "white elephant" on their hands because of its grandeur as compared with the modest surrounding buildings. But in the few weeks since the title passed from Mrs. Schell into their hands the bedrooms have been fitted up to be used by overflow guests at the hotel. "The Château," as the castle will hereafter officially be called, can be seen for miles.

The total valuation of the Northfield interests is between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000, of which about $4,500,000 is in the plant.

2 KILLED BY RACING CAR.

Driver Skids Off Turn in Indiana—Boy Hit in Michigan.

ROCKVILLE, Ind., July 28 (AP).—Frank Jenkinson of Lafayette, Ind., race driver, was killed when his car skidded off a turn of the Jungle Park track yesterday.

Ray Meyers of Indianapolis skidded from the track near the spot where Jenkinson went over, but was unhurt.

"Red" Campbell of St. Louis skidded in front of the grand stand, went through a fence and hit a tree. He was not hurt seriously.

AMERICANS VISIT LA PAZ.

Western Students Get First-Hand Information on Revolution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LA PAZ, July 28.—A group of American students from the Western States has arrived here just at the time student life in Bolivia is unusually effervescent as a result of student activities in the June revolutions and Americans are receiving first-hand impressions of student activities in Latin-American politics.

The success of the students' uprising, which culminated in the revolution, is apparently causing uneasiness in Chile and Peru, according to news arriving here. President Leguia is said to have closed the universities and schools of Peru, while the students of Chile are reported circulating manifestoes against the régime of President Ibañez urging their fellow-students to follow the example of the Bolivian students and rise up and overthrow what they term an unconstitutional form of government.

FEDERAL BOARD SEEKS NEW RADIO ENGINEERS

Civil Service Commission Advertises Examinations—WNBF Asks New Equipment Permit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON July 28.—In line with the expansion of its general activities, the Federal Radio Commission is seeking several additional engineers for its engineering division, Dr. C. B. Jolliffe, chief engineer, stated today.

At the request of the commission the Civil Service Commission is advertising these vacancies, and noncompetitive examinations will be held. Applications for the examinations must be on file not later than Aug. 27.

The commission not only desires to fill present vacancies, said Dr. Jolliffee, but seeks to have created an eligible list upon which it may draw to meet prospective demands. The division, he said, has shown constant growth, attributable to the increased duties in the regulation of radio. The examinations advertised by the Civil Service Commission are for senior radio engineer at a salary of $4,600 per annum, radio engineer at $3,800 and assistant radio engineer at $2,600.

A tour of communication stations operating in the Great Lakes area will be made next month by E. K. Jett, acting chief of the commercial communications section of the Radio Commission's engineering division. He will visit radio code stations and police radio systems in sixteen cities.

Station WNBF, Binghamton, N. Y., operated by the Howitt-Wood Radio Company, Inc., today asked for authority to install new equipment and to use 100 watts power at night and 250 watts in the daytime.

Pennsylvanian, 73, Gets Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

MEDIA, Pa., July 28.—Howard H. Cloud, 73 years old, justice of the peace of Concord Township, Delaware County, obtained a divorce today from his 62-year-old wife. He charged her with desertion less than a year after their marriage in June, 1927, and with taking $17,000 in securities from a joint safe deposit vault, but said the securities were returned. He is the father of five grown children from a previous marriage.

HIT SHOW ENDS 'BUY,' JOINS LEAGUE RANKS

"Green Pastures" Voluntarily Calls Off Arrangement With Agents Which Ran to Sept. 1.

SEEN AS VICTORY FOR PLAN

Theatre Organization Decides to Begin Telegraph Ticket Reservation Service Outside City Area.

The League of New York Theatres scored what Broadway regarded as a sizable victory in its efforts to curb theatre ticket speculation when, late yesterday, "The Green Pastures," the 1930 Pulitzer Prize play and one of the outstanding successes of the theatrical season, voluntarily called off its "buy" and came into the league camp.

"The Green Pastures" has been one of two Broadway attractions not operating under the league's new ticket regulations. Its addition to the organization's ranks leaves George White's "Flying High" as the only current show not affiliated with the league.

Producers Favor Plan.

The decision of "The Green Pastures" management to join the league followed conferences of its producer, Rowland Stebbins, and Henry and Irwin S. Chanin, who control the Mansfield Theatre, with Harlow D. Savage, executive secretary of the league. Mr. Stebbins, who returned from a vacation in Maine on Sunday night, is said to have expressed himself yesterday as heartily in accord with the objects of the ticket control plan, and both he and the Chanins agreed to accept it immediately, although it meant the abrogation of a "buy" which extended until Sept. 1. From now on seats for "The Green Pastures" will be handled only by the box-office and by the league's sixteen accredited brokers.

"Without the generous attitude on the part of these men," Mr. Savage commented yesterday, "these tickets would have remained in the hands of speculators and would have been sold for as much as the traffic would bear, thus preventing many people from seeing this worthwhile show." Mr. Savage added that more than a week ago the Chanins had advised him that the Biltmore Theatre, the other legitimate playhouse which they control, would likewise go into the league, bringing the theatres associated with it to fifty-two.

Arrange Telegraph Service.

The league board of governors, at its meeting yesterday, also entered into an arrangement with the Postal Telegraph Company to begin a ticket reservation service for out-of-town theatre-goers. Nine hundred telegraph offices outside the metropolitan area are to be included in the project, and the only charge for the user, in addition to the cost of the theatre tickets, will be the telegraph company's regular charge for the necessary message and the money order.

By a code system, the message and money order will be sent to the league offices, which will, in turn, arrange with the theatre box-office to obtain the tickets. These will be held for the patron at the box-office or, if he desires, be delivered by messenger to his hotel. For the time being no ticket agencies are cooperating in the telegraph reservation plan, which is not effective within a fifty-mile radius of New York.

Philip N. Schuyler was the Postal Telegraph Company's representative in drawing up the reservation plan.

According to Mr. Savage, the complaint against the league as being a monopoly in restraint of trade, recently filed with Attorney General Hamilton Ward by the legal representatives of twenty-three non-accredited ticket brokers, was not considered at yesterday's meeting.

ASKS MAGYAR NAMES USED.

Hungarian War Minister's Request Irks Germanic Army Officers.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, July 28.—Julius Gömbös, Hungary's young Minister of War, who recently substituted milk for the soldiers' morning coffee and added Hungarian wine to their midday menu, is now trying to reform the names of his officers.

Recently a polite intimation was received by the commanders of regiments from the War Minister that officers bearing non-Magyar names should Magyarize them within a stated period. Some officers bearing famous German names, however, objected and allowed the period to elapse without complying.

BACK WITH BOLITHO PLAY.

Connelly Says No Plans Have Been Made to Give His Own Play Abroad.

Marc Connelly, playwright and author of "The Green Pastures," returned from a four months' trip in Europe yesterday on the Holland-America liner Volendam. He went to England to supervise the production of his play there but its presentation was barred by the public censor.

Mr. Connelly said yesterday that the reasons given by the censor were that it was improper to give a representation of the Lord on the stage and also that the majority of English playgoers would not understand "The Green Pastures." Mr. Connelly commented that in the light of "all the talk abroad of American audiences," the censor's remarks formed a sad commentary on British audiences, inasmuch as the play was easily understood in New York.

The playwright said he was not much disturbed by his failure to show the play in England and that he had had several offers to show it in Continental cities. Producers in Paris wanted to present the play with Senegalese Negroes in the cast, but no definite arrangements have been made to place the play anywhere in Europe, he added.

Mr. Connelly brought with him a play completed by William Bolitho shortly before he died several weeks ago. He expects that the play will be produced here in the Fall.

COATES APPLAUDED IN OPENING CONCERT

He Conducts Stadium Orchestra Without Baton in Works by Strauss and Moussorgsky.

GAINS IMPRESSIVE SWEEP

"Divine Poem" by Scriabin Is Given After Only One Rehearsal by Performers.

Albert Coates, conducting the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra without a baton, returned last night to the Lewisohn Stadium for a three weeks' engagement and his third season. The Russian-English composer chose for his opening program Dvorak's "Carneval" overture, a prelude to Moussorgsky's "Khovantchina," Richard Strauss's tone-poem, "Don Juan," and Scriabin's "The Divine Poem" (the Third symphony in C).

Whatever reservations which might have existed concerning the relative merits of conducting with or without a baton were dispelled by the results obtained by Mr. Coates. For one thing, a baton usually limits the conductor to signaling tempo and style in the right hand and shading in the other. Mr. Coates changed these functions of the hands at will. One might say that instead of a right and a left hand, he conducted, literally, with two wholly independent right hands, either of which he employed for nuance, tempo indications, the showing of entrances and whatever else he desired at will.

The conductor showed at once in his bright tempos and dynamics that he understands the difference between outdoor and indoor orchestral playing. In the opening item, by Dvorak, it was his manifest intention to get the high lights, and the speed he took the overture brought out a dazzling exhibition of violin technic. Later, during the intermission, Mr. Coates said that it had taken him five hours of rehearsing with the London Symphony to get an equal speed for recording purposes.

Conducts Without Reading Notes.

During the short rest period he chatted and joked in three or four languages with representatives of the press and some friends who had crossed the ocean with him. He told of Scriabin, with whom he had studied, though the composer was his junior, and of the composer's tragic death at 38. His conducting without a baton, he said, was habitual in concert, but that in the opera pit he found it necessary to use one, though it cramped his hand.

It was in the Strauss tone-poem that the conductor's sense of the dramatic and lyric sweep of the great German were especially impressive. Though the music was on the stand throughout the concert, Mr. Coates turned the leaves without looking at the notes. His interweaving of the contrapuntal strands here with the minimum signaling to the instrumentalists, some times with only his eyes and a nod of the head, showed the musician as well as the technician.

It is natural that the auditor should expect an intimate reading of the two Russian works from one born in Russia. The music by Moussorgsky was poetically interpreted. The conductor studied under Scriabin and used the cuts made by the composer himself. His sincerity and immersion in the work made the hearing of this rarely heard music unusual.

Coates Cordially Greeted.

The guest conductor was welcomed cordially when he appeared first, after unwitting applause for the assistant who carried his scores to the stand. After the Strauss work the audience gave him and the rising orchestra an ovation. At the end of the concert many of the auditors rose with the orchestra and gave the visiting director another ovation. Thereupon the auditors, players and conductor applauded one another.

After repeated "bravos" Mr. Coates made a short speech in which he expressed his great pleasure on being back in New York and his happiness at this reception. He stressed the surprising fact that the orchestra had not seen the Scriabin score before the day of the concert and had had but one rehearsal in the morning.

It was, under the circumstances, an extraordinary feat of rapid musical and technical assimilation. It gave an opportunity for some of the best trumpet playing within the hearing of the auditor.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Continuing the Hot Spell.

LADIES ALL, a comedy in three acts, by Prince Antoine Bibesco. American version by Elmer Harris. Staged by Marcel Vernel; settings by Rollo Wayne; produced by the Shubert Theatre Corporation. At the Morosco Theatre.

Nancy	Violet Heming
Julie	Germaine Giroux
Ann	May Collins
Bob	Walter Woolf
Chic	Preston Foster
James	William David

All the ladies of "Ladies All," which was put on at the Morosco last evening, devote three acts to proving that they are not ladies at all. Elmer Harris, author of "Young Sinners," has hammered it out from a comedy by Prince Bibesco, and Walter Woolf and Violet Heming have the time of their lives as its principal sinners. Heretofore Mr. Woolf has been snapping the matinee heart with the booming beauty of his baritone voice. Although he is now condemned to the songless stage, once or twice, as the great lover, a song comes naturally to his lips, and last evening his pack rose to him with a howl of delight whenever he split an octave in honor of his elusive charmer.

But "Ladies All" is no musical show. It is such a comedy of unlawful love as Mr. Harris likes to crack his undiscriminating jokes about—burlesque done with a transparent pretense toward suavity. Mr. Woolf, as the broad-shouldered voluptuary, comes with a lover's instinct to Westport among the artists. During the night in Nancy's barn studio a woman visits him. Who was it—his hostess, Nancy, her guest, Ann Duncan (Mrs.) or the maid, Julie? Not that it matters particularly, for Elmer Harris, conniving with Prince Bibesco, asks nothing more than to entertain the trade with blunt audacities and with insinuations that are as plain as the nose on your face—plainer.

That is one of Mr. Harris's chief troubles. Although he dotes on smart and piquant themes, he is most facile with crudities. Having discovered that love is a sin, he mentions the fact. It grows monotonous. "Ladies All" covers the field rather completely. There are startled rumors of the great lover's charm. There are bedroom doors visible on the balcony, pajama parades, automobile accidents, shooting by the jealous rival, the ghastly ritual of breakfast, the morning headache, and fairly constant intimations that love is an art as well as a passion. Throughout three acts there is as much liveliness as you are likely to encounter at a week-end house party in the country.

As the artist in clay and the divorcée in general, the svelt Miss Heming affects a roguish air for every line, as though instructions to the cook were repartee. May Collins is charmingly unassuming as the disgruntled wife, and Germaine Giroux is French as the maid.

Mr. Woolf attacks his part as the indomitable lover with the bounce and gusto of an actor who likes his rôle. You fear that he has entered the part imaginatively; he plays it from the inside, and, as a matter of fact, he plays it well.

TAKEN FOR GERMAN SINGER.

Marie von Essen of Detroit Won American Contract in Europe.

How an American girl singing in a German opera company was engaged to visit her native country as a German singer, was told yesterday by Marie von Essen, an American operatic singer. She arrived on Sunday on the Dresden and will sing contralto rôles in the German Grand Opera Company next season.

Miss von Essen, who was born in Detroit, has been singing operatic rôles in Germany for six years, since completing her studies under Mme. Schoen-René here and in Europe. After a performance a few months ago in a small German city, she was approached by J. J. Vincent, managing director of the German Grand Opera Company, who was touring Europe in search of new talent, and received an offer of a contract to appear in this country next season.

Mr. Vincent spoke to the singer in German and she answered him in English. She told him she was an American girl who had come to Germany for musical experience.

Conditions are becoming increasingly difficult for American singers who wish to sing in German companies, according to Miss von Essen.

Miss von Essen will go to her home in Detroit today for an extended vacation. She plans to return here next Fall for a concert tour before joining the German Grand Opera Company in January.

Leaves Show on Mother's Death.

Patsy Kelly, principal comedienne of Earl Carroll's "Vanities," will be out of the cast of that show until Monday because of the death of her mother, Mrs. Delia Kelly, on Sunday morning at her home, 328 West Forty-seventh Street. The actress, whose mother was stricken with paralysis on Friday, continued in her rôle through the performances on Friday and Saturday. She will be replaced during her absence by Betty Veronica, Naomi Ray and Thelma White.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The reopening of "Topaze," scheduled for next Monday night at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre, has been postponed until Aug. 18. Frank Morgan, who heads the cast of the play, is now making a talking picture.

"Fine and Dandy" will be the title of the musical show in which Joe Cook will be starred under the management of Morris Green and Lewis E. Gensler. The show goes into rehearsal today at Erlanger's Theatre.

John D. Williams has returned to New York from the Pacific Coast, where he has been conferring with Maude Adams about his staging of the play by John Colton in which Miss Adams will return to the theatre this Fall. Mr. Williams will also direct the William Du Bois play in which Lenore Ulric will appear.

Ethel Norris, last seen in "Great Day," has been engaged for "Luana," Arthur Hammerstein's forthcoming musical version of "The Bird of Paradise."

"Shoes," a play by Charles Dey and Verne E. Sheridan, is announced for production early in September by Bernard Levey, who says that he will open it at the Lyceum Theatre. Mr. Levey also announces that he will produce a play by Mary K. Brookes, which bears the title of "Knock Wood."

Patrick MacGill, author of "Suspense," the English war play which Charles Dillingham is producing, is now on his way from London to see the New York première, which is scheduled for Aug. 11 at the Fulton Theatre.

"Solid South," which, with Richard Bennett as the star, was recently seen in Chicago, is scheduled to open on Broadway Oct. 6 after a week's preliminary engagement at the Windsor Theatre in the Bronx.

James Whale, who staged the original London and New York productions of "Journey's End," will arrive today on the Olympic to supervise final rehearsals of the company which will reopen the play on Monday at Henry Miller's Theatre. The Ile de France today will bring Danielle Bregis, who will be prima donna of Connolly and Swanstrom's production of "Princess Charming," scheduled to begin rehearsals on Aug. 11.

BAIREUTH 'PARSIFAL' NEEDS OVERHAULING

Opera Wagner Wrote Especially for the Festspielhaus Has Slack Performance.

CRUDE SCENERY DISTRACTS

Choral and Orchestral Parts Seem Ragged—Behavior of Audience Disturbs the Listener.

By H. C. COLLES.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BAIREUTH, Germany, July 28.—"Parsifal" at Baireuth needs overhauling. It should be taken in hand soon, for the reputation of the Festspiel haus depends, in a peculiar degree, on its handling of "Parsifal." Wagner designed his last work for the special conditions which his own theatre afforded and wished it never to be given under any other conditions. Though that wish has been set aside, the fact remains that its presentation as a part of the ordinary repertory season of opera is never satisfactory and is generally repugnant to those who take its subject matter at all seriously.

The first thing to be overhauled is the behavior of the audience. Some of the newcomers do not know the rules. It has been suggested that with every ticket sold there should be issued a plain statement in English and other languages of what is expected of every ticketholder. The essentials are that he should be on time, since no door can be opened after the music has begun, that he should not speak even in a whisper after the lights are lowered or move from his seat until they go up again after the act, that there must be no applause at all after any act of "Parsifal" and none after an act of any other opera until the lights go up.

One person who breaks any one of them disturbs the peace of the whole audience. It was for the peaceful hearing of his works that Wagner designed his Festspielhaus. Unless one can be assured of that there is no object in going to Baireuth.

Mistakes Made by Singers.

Dr. Karl Muck is the last of the great conductors trained in Wagner's own ideas of what the interpretation of "Parsifal" should be, and this year's performance, so far as tempi and dynamic contrasts were concerned, has that unimpeachable authority behind it. But in the details of execution it was far behind the performances of "Tannhaeuser" or "Tristan." Individual players of the orchestra were heard shuffling from note to note of the unison statements of the opening theme and it was difficult to believe that it was the same choir singing the Grail scene, and more particularly the knights' entrance in the third act, as that which had rendered the pilgrims' chorus and the Hall of Song scene, the most thrilling experiences of the performance of "Tannhaeuser" a few days earlier. The choral singing was very ragged; the Grail scene has been better tuned and timed at an English festival.

There were such mistakes as that of the singer of the motto at the end of the first act who came in a bar too soon. Incidentally, the Isolde of Wednesday made a similar mistake early in the second act of that opera, but what is a momentary slip in a well-knit performance appears as a symptom of disease in a slack one.

Among the principal characters Alexander Kipnis's Gurneymanz was most impressive. One could admire, too, the manly appearance, the first-night manner and the acting of Gunnar Graarud as Parsifal, especially under stress in the second act, but his singing in the third act missed many of the subtler implications of the part. It is worth noting that he plays the last act without hair on his face. The traditional make-up with parted beard, intended to suggest pictures of the Saviour pardoning the Magdalene, was a feature of this act which many felt to be not in the best taste.

Emotional "Wabble" Noted.

Marie Roesler-Keuschnigg's performance as Kundry, though full of character and passion, is spoiled for the musical ear by the difficulty of knowing on which of two or three notes the voice is intended to be poised. Others, too, were guilty of emotional "wabble," which is the ruin of good music.

Some day the whole stage setting of "Parsifal" will have to be reconsidered. At present the first and third acts, with moving scenery, remain what they have always been, while the middle act, showing Klingsor's castle and the flower maidens' garden, has been the subject of more than one experiment. The present setting is not particularly effective; the dropping of lacelike curtains seems a poor evasion of the direction that Klingsor and the whole tower should sink and the garden rise and fill the stage in its place. No doubt the movable scenes representing the walk to the temple of the grail in the other acts are preserved out of a feeling of piety toward what the composer planned, but the panoramic views, moved to the left or right on rollers, now seem a very crude device, which, moreover, distracts the attention from some of the most glorious music Wagner ever wrote for the orchestra.

The difficulties in "Parsifal" await a solution on the lines of the scenic transformation in "Tannhaeuser." In the third act of the latter the change from Wartburg to Venusberg is almost imperceptible. The eye merely discovered that something had happened and that new forms seemed gradually to materialize to take the place of the former scene. It was not to be expected that more than one opera should receive a completely new study and the fresh representation which has been bestowed on "Tannhaeuser" in this festival. But "Parsifal" should be next on the list. Its renovation is overdue and Baireuth's "Parsifal" should be the ideal one.

A son was born to Mrs. Pedro De Cordoba, wife of the actor, on Sunday night at the Webb Sanitarium. Mrs. De Cordoba is the former Miss Eleanor Mary Nolan of New York City.

WHITE HERON VISIT STATE.

Flock's Arrival at Bear Mountain Park Held Harbinger of Hot Days.

Special to The New York Times.

STONY POINT, July 28.—Believed to be a harbinger of a prolonged hot spell, a flock of thirty-five white herons has just settled in Bear Mountain Park, it was disclosed today by Major W. A. Welch, chief engineer and general manager of the Palisades Interstate Park System.

White heron are plentiful in Virginia and points south of there, but rarely are found in New York State. They require hot weather and are reputed to be able to sense a continued spell of it.

Net Earnings Nearly Doubled

In the brief period of six years, the net earnings of a group of electric light and power companies which serve approximately 90% of the population of this country, have nearly doubled.

Well-selected investments in ably-managed electric light and power companies offer, in our opinion, attractive investment opportunities with a high degree of security, liberal yield and stability of earning power.

Odd Lots
Odd lot buying strengthens your financial holdings, because all of the burden is not on just one stock.
Unforeseen conditions might affect one stock. With your total holdings divided amongst eight or ten leading stocks a depression in any one of them would not materially affect you.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Sterling Higher, $4,000,000 More Gold to Canada—Stocks Advance Early, Reacting Later.

The continued rise in sterling exchange was the only incident of particular interest on yesterday's financial markets. Yesterday's advance brought the cable rate to $4.87; which, although well above the par of exchange, is still a full cent under the rate at which $21,000,000 gold was exported from New York to London last December. Since the rate has already, however, risen 1 cent in a month and ½ cent in not much more than a week, the essential fact is the market's evident trend.

It is a perfectly natural tendency with the American money market in its present condition and with the American gold reserve, even after the recent shipments to France and Canada, greater by more than $100,000,000 than it was at the climax of last year's demand for credit in this country, a year ago. Yesterday brought fresh engagement of $4,000,000 gold for Canada, making $31,500,000 sent out to that country and France since the middle of the month. There was also another $1,000,000 gold shipment from London to Paris, fulfilling the European expectation for a continued movement in that direction out of England.

The day's stock market displayed something more of professional activity, and for a time the recovery in prices, which began tentatively on Thursday, was carried further; but the advance did not hold. Most of it was lost before the closing, and there was a considerable list of net declines in the active shares. The bond market, whose prices on the average have been moving slowly but steadily forward, gained a little more ground yesterday.

There was nothing in the news to stimulate financial sentiment; the prevalent feeling, both on the markets and in business circles, continued to be governed by the somewhat negative assurance that, with so sweeping and severe reaction already effected, it was reasonable in the light of precedent to look for recovery rather than for further downward readjustment. In the matter of prices, the week began hesitantly. Even the rise in corn, which was the striking incident of last week, was halted by sharp reaction, and renewed declines occurred in wheat and cotton. Silver bullion, which had risen at London a full penny per ounce in the preceding month, declined 3-16 penny yesterday.

In the matter of industrial reports, railway earnings attracted the most attention, but June statements for the principal companies reporting since Saturday differed little from what previous traffic returns had indicated. Car-loadings for the month had decreased 14 per cent from a year ago; gross revenue of the companies thus far reporting has been reduced 16 per cent; with roads such as Pennsylvania, Atchison and New York Central showing decline of 16¾ to 19 per cent in such receipts. Comparisons with 1929 will presently be less exacting, but some of the larger lines earned a smaller total revenue in June than in that month of any year since 1921 or 1922.

GAIN FOR NEW YORK LIFE.

Increase in Total of Policies Written Reported for Half-Year.

The New York Life Insurance Company wrote more policies in this country and Canada in the first six months of this year than in the corresponding period of last year, it announced yesterday. This year it issued 187,758 policies for $538,079,800 of insurance, against 164,366 policies for $511,074,600 a year ago.

The total insurance in force for the company at present is at a new high record of $7,571,000,000. In the six months the company invested $46,155,363 in railroad, municipal, public utility, industrial and Canadian bonds and $33,153,710 in mortgage loans. Payments to living policy holders and beneficiaries amounted to more than $98,000,000, of which $65,000,000 went to living policy holders.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Every effort was made yesterday to continue the advance on the Stock Exchange and, in spite of occasional unsettlement, the prices of some of the leading issues were marked up. There was, however, considerable irregularity in the movement of stocks and only the favored few showed gains at the end of the day. These included American Can, Westinghouse Electric, American and Foreign Power, Pullman and General Public Service. Most of the active issues were off moderately on the day, but this is not to say that speculators for the rise were disheartened. As Wall Street appraised the situation, the market was ripe for a downward readjustment, and that was accomplished in the late dealings without any serious dislocation. Transactions on the Stock Exchange totaled 2,425,240 shares.

Steel Directors Meet Today.

Directors of the United States Steel Corporation will meet today to act on the regular quarterly dividend and to receive the income report for the second quarter. There have been rumors that the board might declare an extra dividend, but the feeling in banking quarters is that only the regular payment will be authorized. The statement of the corporation for the second quarter is expected to show around $3 a share earned on the common stock. In the first quarter of this year the corporation reported a net income of $3.44 a share on the common stock, while for the first six months of last year the amount available was $11.72 a share.

New Highs on the Recovery.

Brokers who often give voice to the sentiments of their principal speculative customers were at some pains yesterday to point out that the "averages" went into new high ground for the recovery, although late selling pushed prices substantially below their best levels of the day. The average price of fifty representative stocks touched a high of $207.12, while twenty-five industrial issues sold as high as $298.05.

Strength in Sterling.

Interest in the foreign exchange market has been divided recently between the two currencies, Canadian and French, which are at the gold-shipping point, and sterling, which, while still far from the level at which gold could be sent to London, has shown quiet and persistent strength. Yesterday sterling cables reached $4.87, the best price witnessed since early in the year. Bankers here would be glad to see some gold shipped from this market to London, but the majority of them consider such an event unlikely. Last Fall gold was sent to London without profit at a rate of $4.88 5-16 for cables, which rate, presumably, would again have to be equaled to bring about a movement. Several foreign exchange dealers are of the opinion, however, that some metal may go to England with the exchange at a considerably lower price.

Wholesale Business Declines.

The drop of 21 per cent in sales of wholesale dealers during June, compared with the corresponding month of 1929, shown in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank, is not quite so drastic as it appears. A good part of the decline is to be accounted for, it is remarked, by the fall in prices during the last year. At the same time the figures bear out the contentions of certain statisticians and economists that wholesale buying has lagged behind retail consumption. This situation, it has been suggested, will ultimately bring about a scramble on the part of retailers to stock up, which should result in an abrupt turn in wholesale business.

The Chinese Puzzle.

Recent reports from and about China with reference to telephoning across the Pacific fail to take into account that there is only a maximum of around 15,000 subscribers in Shanghai who conceivably might have some use for the service at present, according to experts in communications. The cost of building, operating and maintaining radio telephone transmitting and receiving stations for the exclusive use of a limited number of telephone users would make it necessary to charge heavily for each minute's conversation. A few years hence, when the proposed Pacific telephone network has taken in the most important island and mainland points on all shores of the ocean, a Shanghai connection may be created by some communications company. In the meanwhile, reports of active rivalry between A. T. & T. and R. C. A. for a "radio telephone concession" in China are considered highly imaginary.

Motors and Railways.

Railroads at intervals put out figures to show what motor vehicles have cost them in reduced passenger revenue, and, to a lesser extent, in freight revenue. Less frequently some commentators point out that what the motor industry has taken away in traffic from the railroads it has in great part returned by providing increased movements in oil and its products, road materials, steel and, lastly, in motor vehicles shipped by freight. To show how the railroads have come to depend on the motor industry for business, the reduced current returns of certain railroads were instanced yesterday. The earnings of these roads directly reflect the lower motor car output.

The Rise in Mexican Bonds.

Yesterday was mark-up day for Mexican Government and railroad bonds, with net gains ranging from 1 to 3¾ points, following publication of a further account of the agreement entered into between the bankers and the Mexican Government. There remains, however, a little matter of ratification. The Mexican Congress must pass upon the plan and the Mexican bondholders, scattered throughout the world, must give their consent. However, it is reasonable to assume that both the Mexican officials and the bankers' committee felt sure that the new plan would be acceptable all around or they would not have put their signatures to it. The fact that some opposition to the plan has developed both here and south of the Rio Grande has led to the observation that this is proof positive that the plan is by no means one-sided.

MONEY.

Monday, July 28, 1930.

Money continued freely offered and the undertone of the market easy. In some sections lower quotations were recorded without, however, attracting any increased business. On the Stock Exchange 2 per cent prevailed all day, while Street trades went at 1¼. About $15,000,000 was called. Maturity money was shaded a fraction, but market was dull and no trading reported. Best name commercial paper also dropped, with an active market outside of New York. Acceptances were quiet at prevailing discounts.

This Balanced "Security-Structure" means financial strength for the smaller investor

Too much weight in the wrong place . . . whether in a building or an investment plan . . . is a serious weakness.

The man who has all his money in a few securities is rarely in as sound a position as the man whose holdings are widely diversified.

Yet how can anyone with five or fifty or even one hundred thousand dollars spread his capital far enough to include more than a limited number of high-grade investments? How can he obtain maximum safety without concentrating solely on ultra-conservative securities which earn less than he has a right to expect? How can he buy a reasonable percentage of profitable common stocks without taking a greater risk than he cares to?

How, in short, can the small investor's dollar enjoy the same protection, the same opportunity for earnings, the same calibre of investment guidance . . . as the dollar of the man of wealth?

The answer lies in Uniform Trusts, through which the funds of many are mingled and managed by America's oldest Trust Company.

Call at any branch of the City Bank Farmers Trust Company or The National City Bank of New York, and the Uniform Trusts will be explained to you in full detail. Or send for informative booklet giving full details on "The Uniform Trusts," addressing the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, Department T, 43 Exchange Place, New York City.

REPORTS SALES OFF HERE.

Reserve Agent Shows 21% Decline in Wholesale Business.

The August Monthly Review of Credit and Business Conditions by the Federal Reserve agent at New York will say that sales of wholesale dealers, chain stores and department stores in this district were smaller in June than in the corresponding month last year. The Review will say:

"Sales of the reporting wholesale dealers in this district averaged 21 per cent smaller in June than a year previous. In several lines the June decreases were the largest reported so far this year, and in the cases of men's clothing and shoes the sales showed the largest decreases from a year previous in several years. Sales of cotton goods and hardware were smaller than a year ago for the eighth consecutive month, and the June decreases were the largest which have been reported in that period; wholesale stationery and paper dealers also reported substantial decreases in sales. Following increases during April and May, the Silk Association of America reported a decrease in yardage sales of silk goods of nearly 29 per cent in June. Orders for machine tools reported by the Machine Tool Builders' Association continued in less than half the volume of a year ago.

Some Decreases Small.

"Contrary to the general tendency, the sales of grocery and drug dealers showed only small declines from a year ago. In the jewelry and diamond trade sales continued well below a year ago, but the decreases were the smallest that have been reported since last October.

"Total sales in June of the reporting chain store systems averaged about 5 per cent smaller than a year previous, following increases in each previous month this year except March. Grocery organizations were the only type of chains that reported an increase in sales, and their increase was slightly smaller than in the three preceding months. Sales of ten-cent and drug chains showed the largest decreases in several years and the decline in the sales of reporting shoe firms was the largest since March. Following increases in sales in May, the variety and candy chain store systems reported moderate declines from last year in June.

"For the first six months of 1930 the total sales of the reporting chain stores averaged 3 per cent higher than the corresponding period a year ago. Last year the total sales of these chains in the first six months were 10 per cent larger than a year previous. Sales per store showed a decrease of 4 per cent from a year ago for the first six months of this year as compared with an increase of 5 per cent for the first half of last year.

"The total June sales of the reporting department stores in this district were 5 per cent smaller than a year ago, the largest decline in any month this year except March, when sales were affected by the late Easter. However, a part of the June decline may have been due to the fact that there were four Saturdays in June this year, compared with five Saturdays in June, 1929, and sales are usually larger on Saturdays than on other days of the week.

Declines in All Localities.

"All localities reported decreases in sales—New York City stores showed a decline in sales of almost 4 per cent, and substantial decreases were reported in most of the other sections of the district. The leading apparel stores continued to report a considerable decrease in sales as compared with a year previous.

"Total sales of reporting department stores for the first six months of 1930 were 1 per cent larger than the corresponding period in 1929, which, although smaller than the usual year-to-year increase, compares favorably with other lines of business activity, most of which have shown substantial declines in the first half of 1930.

"Stocks of merchandise on hand at the end of June remained slightly smaller than a year ago. The rate of collections on charge accounts during June was slightly below 1929, following a small increase in May."

INVESTMENT TRUST STAYED PERMANENTLY

Standard Oil Shares of America, Inc., of 80 Wall Street, the first management trust to have its business methods questioned as a result of 250 questionnaires sent out to investment trusts last May by the State Bureau of Securities, was enjoined yesterday from further sale of securities by Supreme Court Justice Strong in Brooklyn on motion of Attorney General Hamilton Ward. A receiver will be appointed.

Other defendants similarly enjoined in the same action were John Cabot McDonald & Co., Inc.; John Cabot McDonald, as president of both companies, and Harry B. Sawin, secretary of both companies and treasurer of Standard Oil Shares of America. A preliminary stay against the defendants was obtained July 2.

Analysis of the information submitted to the State Bureau of Securities by the Standard Oil Shares of America revealed irregularities which Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn believed warranted attention, and Deputy Attorney General Henry B. Staples was assigned to the case.

He charged that the company had failed to publish the names of securities dealt in, as required under the State general business law. He also charged that the company's portfolio was carried in a margin account of a brokerage house and that the company's securities were comingled with securities carried by John Cabot McDonald & Co. Charges of bucketing were also made, in that John Cabot McDonald & Co. took orders for stocks and carried them on margin for customers without actually buying the stocks.

HUGE POWER SOURCE IS FOUND IN CANADA

Engineers Say Potential British Columbia Developments Would Surpass Those on St. Lawrence.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 28 (Canadian Press).—The greatest water powers in Canada, greater even than those harnessed along the St. Lawrence, have been revealed along the coast of British Columbia north of Vancouver by government engineers during the past Summer, it is stated at the legislative buildings here.

Preliminary reports received here indicate that in addition to the noted Taseko Chilko Homathko power, with a possible development of 1,200,000 horsepower, two other sources of electricity have been discovered, bringing the possible development of the coast district up to the figure of 3,000,000 horsepower.

The two new power sites, revealed by recent surveys, are at Takesa Lake and Eutsuk Lake. The engineers say that by turning the waters of these lakes westward to the sea instead of eastward into the Fraser, 1,000,000 horsepower can be harnessed. The Bird project calls for the diversion of the Chilko waters westward to the sea by the way of the Homathko River.

ARGENTINA PAYS $1,600,000.

Six Months' Interest on Two Loans Settled by Republic.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—Payment to J. P. Morgan & Co. of $1,600,000 interest on two Argentine loans, one for $27,000,000 at 6 per cent interest, and the other for $20,000,000 at 5½ per cent, was announced today by Argentine Embassy officials. The payments fall due each six months.

Similar payments are made through the embassy here monthly with the exception of Jan. 1 and July 1, it was explained, on the interest and sinking fund of about ten loans with American bankers.

Price Levels Show Only Fractional Variations—German Boerse Closes Dull and Weaker.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 28.—Stocks generally were strong today except British railroads, which fell sharply on last week's dividend disappointments. Investors in British Government securities were selling the 5 per cent war loan, which sold at £103 7-16, and reinvesting in the 3½ per cent conversion loan, which rose to £79. The funding loan rose 1-16 to £90 3-16.

Internationals mostly were steady, Radio Corporation advancing 1⅛ to $46⅝ on encouraging news from Wall Street. Columbia Graphophone also was strong at £3 27-32, but His Master's Voice Gramophone slipped 1-16 to £3 3-16. International Nickel and Brazilian tractions opened firm, but reacted to $25¼ and $40⅛, respectively. Ford continued to advance, touching £3 27-32 on American buying, while British motors also were in keen demand.

Nitrates advanced following last week's boom in Lautaro. Rhodesian coppers were strong, especially Bwana M'Kubwa, at 13s and River Congo at 14s. Rio Tinto jumped 1¾ to £36.

Money was easy in Lombard Street, the overnight loan rate dropping to 1½ per cent. The discount market was weak, with three-month bills at 2 7-16 per cent. Sterling exchange was slightly firmer at $4.86 13-16. France bought £221,977 of bar gold at the Bank of England.

French Market Quiet.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 28.—The Bourse opened this week with trading almost non-existent. Conditions that have dominated the market for weeks were observable. Among professional traders offers were almost evenly counterbalanced by demands, the volume of exchanges was extremely slight, and the attendance at the sessions was small, even for a holiday period. The public in general refrains completely from participation in the market, and the final result is that prices remain below normal and waver only in small degrees.

Rentes, which provide the general indicator for the French market, were quiet but steady. They closed as follows: The 3 per cents 89.95; 1918 4s, 100.85; 1920, amortizable 5s, 135.90; 1928 5s, 103.50; 1920 6s, 102.05; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.65.

SAYS DEBT AGREEMENT AIDED MEXICO'S CREDIT

President Foresees Settlement of Damage Claims Growing Out of Revolutions.

MEXICO CITY, July 28 (AP).—In a statement to the press tonight, President Ortiz Rubio said that the advantages obtained by Mexico through the debt funding agreement signed by Finance Secretary Montes de Oca in New York would serve as a basis for the establishment of the national credit.

The President believes that, once Mexico's good faith has been demonstrated, it will be easy also to settle the question of her internal debt, and everything referring to claims by nationals and foreigners growing out of revolutions.

"By instructions of the executive, Finance Secretary Montes de Oca prepared the plan which met with so much success in New York, and before he left for that city the plan was approved by a Cabinet Council, which means it had the full support of all the collaborators of the executive," said the President's statement.

"The advantages obtained will serve as a basis for the establishment of the national credit. I firmly believe that once our good faith is demonstrated it will be easy also to reach an agreement on the internal debt, to which the full attention of Treasury Department experts is now being paid.

"I am confident also that in a short time we shall be able to reach an agreement on everything referring to the claims of nationals and foreigners for damages caused by the various armed agitations our country has experienced.

"For the completion of this work I confidently expect the patriotic collaboration of all Mexicans.

"The agreements will be published soon. All the agreements made with the various creditors, and also the agreement above referred to will be submitted to Congress at on opportune moment."

AUSTRIAN LOAN CHEERS BOERSE IN VIENNA

Success Stimulates Shares of Concerns Likely to Get Public Works Contracts.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 25.—While the stagnation at the Budapest and Prague bourses continues, the Vienna market is somewhat brighter due to the realization of the Austrian loan and the fact that the Austrian share was three times oversubscribed. As the public works planned consist chiefly of railways, roads and post office equipment, the affairs and shares of iron, car, cable industries and road building companies have improved. Yet for the present the situation of Austrian industry is still precarious, which appears from the fact that in the first half of July the number of unemployed rose by 2,400 to 152,000.

June figures for Austrian foreign trade show considerable deterioration. Compared with May, imports rose 16,000,000 schillings (the schilling is quoted at around 14.10 cents), and exports remained unchanged. Compared with June, 1929, the total turnover decreased considerably, imports being 22,000,000 schillings, or 8 per cent lower, and exports 45,000,000, or 23 per cent smaller. Under these circumstances the reduction in the adverse balance for the first six months by 48,000,000 schillings to 461,000,000, compared with the same period in 1929 is not a favorable symptom but a sign of general weakness.

The ratio of gold to paper in the Austrian National Bank, has risen since to more than 81 per cent, the highest figure since the foundation of the bank. On July 15 the holdings of gold and foreign exchange bills amounted to 870,000,000 schillings, which figure never was reached before, while the note circulation was 927,000,000. Yet the bank abstained from reducing the interest rate as increases in the rates of other countries are expected.

In general, the harvest prospects of Central Europe are favorable, although the drought has done some damage.

Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia plan joint action to again force preferential duties for European corn in Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia, for which they will make concessions in the duties on industrial products. Poland and the Baltic States will endeavor to extend this agrarian bloc to the whole of Europe.

PLAN WORLD NITRATE BODY.

Chileans to Confer in Paris With Representatives of 40 Companies.

PARIS, July 28 (AP).—The formation of a world-wide nitrate syndicate appeared imminent today when announcement was made at the headquarters of the Chilean industry that it expected to meet a group representing forty important companies outside of Chile tomorrow or Wednesday.

A conference of German nitrate financiers was held today in an effort to reach an agreement among themselves before placing their proposals before the Chilean interests.

Quebec Exports Off.

MONTREAL, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Exports from the Province of Quebec to the United States for the first six months of 1930 totaled $28,000,000 and were almost $5,000,000 below the value for the corresponding period in 1929. The greatest decreases were in aluminum, $800,000; hardwood, $800,000, and asbestos, $650,000. The soft wood export was $500,000 higher and wood pulp accounted for a gain of $300,000. The American consulate explained the decrease as lack of American demand and not failure of Canadian production.

SHIPMENTS OF GOLD TO CANADA CONTINUE

$4,000,000 More Sent in Two Consignments, Making Total $8,500,000 on Movement.

EXCHANGE REMAINS FIRM

Other Currencies Are Strong and Further Export to France Is Expected.

Further shipments of gold to Canada amounting to $4,000,000 were arranged yesterday, bringing the total amount which has been taken from this market on the current movement to $8,500,000. Of yesterday's shipments, $3,000,000 was sent by the Bank of Montreal and the remaining $1,000,000 was dispatched by an unknown agent. Two other shipments, both amounting to $1,000,000, were sent last week by an anonymous bank, presumably the same as the originator of yesterday's transaction.

The fact that no institution could be found in this city, which would admit arranging these three anonymous transactions has given rise to the opinion among bankers here that the shipments were undertaken for the account of the Canadian Government.

Canadian exchange remained firm yesterday at a premium of 5-32 cent, the level at which the recent gold shipments have been arranged. It was expected, therefore, that further consignments of gold to Canada would be arranged this week.

Other Exchanges Strong.

Other foreign currencies showed general strength against the dollar yesterday, the most conspicuous example being sterling, which rose to a price of $4.87 for cable transfers, the best quotation since Jan. 9, last.

The persistent strength in sterling lately has given rise to conjecture over the possibility of a gold movement from New York to London. The majority of bankers regard such a development as doubtful. They point out that the current strength in sterling is seasonal and has been assisted in some measure by a transfer of funds to London to take advantage of the higher money rates there.

Within the next month or so, however, sterling will encounter adverse seasonal influences when the Fall cotton buying and other regular Autumn remittances from London to New York will begin. There is marked divergence of opinion as to the rate for sterling at which gold could be moved. One or two dealers yesterday expressed the opinion that gold might be taken from this market with sterling cables not much better than $4.87½. On the other hand it was remarked that the shipments made last Fall at $4.88 5-16 for cables had been without profit. Presumably, it was said, at least as high a rate as $4.88 would have to be attained before any one would send gold to London.

More Gold for France Likely.

The movement of gold to France gives promise of being continued this week. French exchange moved up slightly to 3.93 9-16 for cables yesterday, the accepted gold shipment point, and a fast sailing is available on Wednesday when the Aquitania leaves. It is believed that one or more banks plan to make shipments on this boat. On Friday there are three fast boats leaving, the Bremen, on which the first shipment of the current movement to France left the week before last, the Ile de France and the Olympic.

In addition to the French and Canadian exchanges, other foreign currencies are selling at prices which point to the possibilities of gold shipments in the near future. These include the Scandinavian exchanges, the German mark, the Swiss franc and the Belgian belga.

How Would You Like to Own

an interest in one share each or more of the common stocks of 28 of the premier corporations of America, all listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and have the Guaranty Trust Company of New York hold them in trust for you? They collect all cash dividends, sell all stock split-ups, stock dividends, and rights; YOU collect the return each six months by clipping a coupon from a certificate which represents your ownership. Messrs. Hughes, Schurman & Dwight, attorneys, have passed on the legal matters incident to the Trust.

Canadian Roads Report.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., July 28.—The Canadian Pacific Railway reports for June gross earnings of $15,530,841, a decrease of $2,791,754 in comparison with June, 1929, but working expenses were reduced by $2,618,912. Net earnings were $2,820,982, a decrease of $172,842. For the six months ended with June gross earnings were $83,134,794, compared with $101,646,751 in the like period of 1929, while net earnings were $9,406,054, against $16,356,831, a reduction of $6,950,776.

The Canadian National Railways show for June gross revenues of $19,405,728, compared with $23,016,481 a year ago, and net revenue of $2,244,867, compared with $2,606,630. The figures include the Central Vermont but not the Canadian National Eastern line. Gross revenues from Jan. 1 to June 30 were $109,311,988, compared with $130,843,819 in 1929, and net revenue was $11,309,212, compared with $21,705,770.

The adjusted index of automobile production for last week shows a still further decline to 37.9 as compared with 42.9 for the week ended July 19. This drop is due to a decline of about 2,400 cars, last week's production being reported as 35,142 units. The decrease in output was due to several suspensions, including Graham-Paige, Oakland-Pontiac and Packard, which, together with small reductions by several other makers, more than offset moderate increases by Buick, Chrysler and Durant-Rugby.

Announcement that the Ford suspension, which was expected to end last week, is to be continued until Aug. 4 indicates a somewhat slower launching of production next month, though it is reported that the Ford daily rate after the Aug. 4 resumption will be 7,000 cars a day instead of the 6,500 earlier announced. Obviously, however, the Ford program is not very rigidly settled.

Comparing the present position of production with that of last year, it is to be noted that in the week July 27, corresponding to last week, production was more than 124,000 units. It is an interesting fact that last year—a year of great prosperity for the automobile industry—the week ended July 27 was the only one after the end of June which saw production in excess of 120,000 units. The late Summer higher production period of last year reached its crest in the closing week of August. After some recovery from the annual slump of Labor Day weekly production diminished rather sharply in October and November.

SAYS HOOVER FAVORS POWER INTERESTS

Senator McKellar Contends President's Intervention in Tennessee Primary Shows Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Senator Kenneth McKellar in a statement today said that President Hoover had favored the "power interests" in intervening in the Tennessee primary campaign in behalf of Representative B. Carroll Reece, who is seeking a renomination on a platform favoring private operation of Muscle Shoals.

Representative Reece fought against acceptance by the House of the Norris bill for government operation of the power project, and preventing any action, lent his support to a bill to authorize leasing the plant to private concerns. As the result of Representative Reece's fight the last session failed to act upon the long-standing controversy.

In his letter, dated July 24 and made public in Tennessee last Saturday, the President praised Representative Reece for his stand on the Muscle Shoals project. The letter said in part:

"The fact is that the House plan will secure development of this great resource (Muscle Shoals) more effectively and more greatly in the interest of Tennessee than would be the Senate plan.

"I am assured that the Senate plan cannot be passed in the House, nor would I approve the plan because it is not in the interest of Tennessee or the rest of the nation. Your course has been the only one that will secure an advancement of this development in the interest of the people of Tennessee."

The Tennessee Senator, commenting upon the President's intervention, said:

"It is certainly an unusual, if not an unprecedented, thing for a President to do—to take part between Republican candidates for Congress in a Republican primary.

"What the President really does, however, is to come out four-square for the power interests. Every one thought he was for them before. Now they will know it."

The Tennessee primary will be held Aug. 7.

MEXICAN BONDS RISE ON DEBT AGREEMENT

Gains of 1 to 3¾ Points Recorded, 3 of 6 Active Issues Making New Highs.

INDUSTRIALS TEND LOWER

Foreign Loans Add to Averages and United States Obligations Are Firm.

A spurt in Mexican bond prices stood out yesterday in an otherwise dull day in the listed bond market. Issues of the Mexican Government and Mexican railroads responded to the publication of further accounts of the Mexican debt plan, and net gains for the group ranged from 1 to 3¾ points. Three of the six active issues made new high marks for the year.

The averages for both foreign and domestic bonds rose somewhat despite the comparatively small turnover. French Government bonds were active and strong, and both issues of German Government bonds held unchanged. South American issues closed irregular.

Leading railroad and public utility bonds were steady to firm, and in a few instances second-grade issues of these groups showed some improvement. Gains were recorded of 4½ and 4 points, respectively, in Seaboard Air Line refunding 4s and Seaboard All Florida 6s, Series B.

In the industrial list, however, declines were frequent. Sugar Estates of Oriente 7s fell 5 points to a new low price of 34, and Cuban Dominican Sugar 7½s sold off a point to a fresh bottom at 22. White Sewing Machine 6s dropped a point to a new low at 62 and the 6s of 1940 3 points, to a new low at 60. Warner Brothers Pictures convertible 6s fell 2⅝ points, to a new low at 97½, in sympathy with the stock. Fractions were clipped from the prices of various other industrial issues. Advances in industrials were generally small.

United States Government obligations ruled generally firm. Fourth Liberty 4¼s made a new high for the year at 103 3-32, but finished at 103, off 1-32. Net changes for the remainder of the government group ranged from 4-32 up to 3-32 down.

$1,000,000 Issue of Bonds To Be Put on Market Today

One new offering of securities totaling $1,000,000 will be made today, consisting of a single issue of bonds. In addition, however, reoffering will be made of blocks of various bonds recently brought out.

The new issue is classified as follows:

Public utility $1,000,000

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Offerings and Awards of New Bond Issues to Bankers Announced.

Denver, Col.

The city of Denver, Col., which has tried on several occasions to market slightly more than $13,000,000 of 4¼ per cent refunding water bonds, but owing to market conditions has been unable to obtain the requisite price of at least par, has set Aug. 19 as the date for opening bids on the issue, which will amount to $13,540,000.

The proceeds will be used to refund a similar amount of 4½ per cent water bonds, due in 1948, callable after Nov. 1, 1928. The saving in interest is sufficient to make the transaction profitable for the city. The outstanding issue is callable at par.

Dallas, Texas.

The city of Dallas, Texas, has issued a call for bids, to be opened on Aug. 11, on a new issue of $3,900,000 bonds, including $1,650,000 storm sewer, $825,000 street widening, $500,000 sanitary sewer, $450,000 school improvement, $300,000 paving, $150,000 park and $25,000 school. The bonds will mature in varying amounts up to forty years.

New Orleans, La.

A new issue of $819,400 city of New Orleans (La.) 4½ per cent paving certificates has been awarded at 98.60 to a syndicate composed of Lehman Brothers, Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., the Northern Trust Company, Chicago, and the Mississippi Valley Company, Inc. The second highest bid was 98.29, by a syndicate represented by Rogers Caldwell & Co., Inc.

Toledo, Ohio.

A new issue of $521,000 city of Toledo (Ohio) bonds, consisting of $300,000 Toledo University bonds, due Sept. 1, 1931 to 1945, and $221,000 grade-crossing elimination bonds, due Sept. 1, 1931 to 1960, has been awarded to Harris, Forbes & Co. at 101.439 for the securities as 4¼s. The second highest tender was by the Northern Trust Company, Chicago, with a premium of $11 for $300,000 of the bonds as 4s and $221,000 as 4¼s.

Somerville, Mass.

The city of Somerville (Mass.) will open bids tomorrow on a new issue of $475,000 4 per cent high school bonds, to mature serially from July 1, 1931 to 1950.

BOND FLOTATIONS.

Birmingham Gas.

An additional issue of $1,000,000 Birmingham Gas Company first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due May 1, 1959, will be placed on the market today by Bonbright & Co., Inc., and W. C. Langley & Co. at 97, to yield about 5.20 per cent. The company is controlled by the American Gas & Power Company, and is supervised by the American Commonwealths Power Company. Net income for the twelve months ended June 30 was equivalent to 2.67 times the annual interest requirements on the first mortgage bonds outstanding, including this issue.

Pacific Gas and Electric.

Closing of the subscription books on the issue of $25,000,000 Pacific Gas and Electric Company first and refunding mortgage bonds offered yesterday on a 4.72 per cent basis was announced by the bankers. Subscriptions exceeded the amount offered.

READING TO ISSUE BONDS.

Railroad Gets I. C. C. Authority to Sell $15,000,000 Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Authority to issue $15,000,000 of general and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds was granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to the Reading Railroad. The bonds will be sold to the First National Bank of the City of New York at not less than 97½ per cent of par and will mature Jan. 1, 1997.

Between Jan. 1, 1924, and Dec. 31, 1926, the applicant stated, it expended from its income $22,536,387.82 in extension and improvement of its facilities. According to an agreement of Jan. 2, 1924, with the Central Union Trust Company of New York, the Reading Company is allowed, subject to the authority of the commission, to assume obligation of 80 per cent of its expenditures for the purposes mentioned.

The commission held that "there is sufficient basis for the issue of bonds in the amount proposed."

AMERICAN TOBACCO INCREASES EARNINGS

President Says Profit This Year Will Be Greatest Since 1911.

TO SPLIT COMMON STOCKS

Shareholders Approve Changes in Capitalization and Sale of Stock to Employes.

"Earnings of the American Tobacco Company for 1930 will undoubtedly far exceed for the first time the earnings before the dissolution," George W. Hill, president of the company, said yesterday at a special meeting of stockholders. His reference was to 1911, when, under the Sherman anti-trust law, the company was ordered to divest itself of large domestic and foreign interests which had been found to be a combination in restraint of trade.

At the meeting the stockholders approved split-ups of both classes of common stock on a two-for-one basis. They also ratified plans for the issuance and sale of class B common stock to employes and officers and for an increase in the voting power of the preferred stock to four votes a share from two, in order to preserve the relative voting strength of the preferred stock.

"I should like," Mr. Hill said in his address, "to emphasize the wisdom of our suggestion that our stock be split on a two-for-one basis rather than perhaps on the basis of a greater number of shares. The board has decided upon this recommendation after much deliberation. We are advised that one of the mistakes made by many large corporations in recent years has been the issuance of shares of stock at such a low value as to stimulate speculation on the part of the general public. Of course, if the company continues to prosper, there is an opportunity for consideration of a further split-up."

When the directors proposed to split the stocks it was determined to place the new shares on a $5 annual basis, provided the stockholders approved the plan. This would be equal to $10 a share on the present stock, which is paying $8 a year. They decided also that an extra dividend of $4 a share on the old stock, payable on Sept. 1, should be declared soon after the approval to split the shares.

Net income of the American Tobacco Company in 1929 was $30,182,700, equivalent after preferred dividends to $11.53 a share on both classes of common stock, which was a record for any year since the dissolution. In June last, Mr. Hill said, earnings for the first five months of the year available for the two classes of common stock were more than 100 per cent greater than for the corresponding period of 1929, with the outlook for the remainder of the year encouraging.

Selecting Your Trustee

In selecting a trustee to administer trust funds—either under your will, voluntary trust or life insurance trust—the following questions regarding the trustee's investment experience and facilities should be answered to your complete satisfaction:

1. To what extent is your trustee in touch with the whole field of investment activity?
2. What facilities has your trustee for systematically and periodically reviewing your trust investments?
3. Is your trustee equipped with a highly trained organization that confines its whole attention to trust investments?
4. Is your trustee equally well qualified by organization and experience to manage real estate and mortgage investments?
5. By what procedure will your trustee maintain the sound investment position of your trust and at the same time secure the best net income to beneficiaries consistent with safety?

These and other important questions are answered for the Guaranty Trust Company in a booklet entitled "Modern Management of Estate and Trust Securities." We shall be glad to mail it to you and to give any other desired information regarding our services and facilities as executor and trustee.

To Correct Earnings

Accuracy of an earning statement depends on the accuracy with which each account is appraised. Error in determining depreciation, error in distinguishing between capital and expense in plant expenditures, distorts net profit just as much as error in computing receipts. American Appraisal Service, determining property facts, provides the means for avoiding error, for assuring accuracy in earnings.

THE AMERICAN APPRAISAL COMPANY

New York · One Cedar Street

AN INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION

An Income Opportunity

An Omaha manufacturing company, which has been steadily increasing its output, needs $36,500 additional capital and will issue that amount of its common stock at par.

The company makes an old-established product of international distribution, with limited competition and its recent performance indicates its output is not materially affected by dull times nor influenced by local business conditions.

According to the report of certified public accountants, the stock has a book value of $114.00 and the sales for the first 6 months of 1930 were 46% above the same period in 1929. The company's figures show profits for the first half of 1930 at the rate of 28% per annum.

The manufacturers state they would prefer to sell this stock to one individual or a small syndicate, who would have the privilege of naming 50% of the board of directors and officers and of becoming associated with the company.

The investment need not be made in one sum, but should be available in three installments, six months apart.

HEAVY REALIZING SENDS CORN DOWN

Yellow Grain Goes to Premium Over Wheat in Chicago First Time in 35 Years.

WHEAT QUOTATIONS DROP

Visible Supply Increases—Hedging Pressure Lowers Oats—Shorts Are Buyers as Rye Falls.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Heavy profit-taking, headed by many local operators who had been on the bull side of corn for some time, carried today's prices off 2½ to 3 cents from Saturday's finish. The forecast for lower temperatures, reports of scattered showers over the week-end in parts of Illinois and Iowa and further showers during the day in parts of Western Nebraska were the depressing influences.

The rain in the latter came largely in a territory where wheat is the big crop and corn acreage is small, but an overbought condition was disclosed when the selling started. The finish was well toward the bottom, with net losses of 2 to 2⅝ cents.

On the extreme break, one of the largest of the local professionals became an aggressive buyer of December and was quoted as saying that he looked for much higher prices later. No hope of a general breaking of the drought was held out by the forecast. Sensational reports of damage to the new corn crop continued to be received, and while on a considerable area the deterioration has been small so far, moisture must come soon to prevent heavy losses in sections that are now in rather favorable condition.

Private Crop Estimates Are Low.

Some operators believe the coming private crop estimates will show as low as 2,500,000,000 bushels, or 122,000,000 less than last year's harvest. Owing to the shortage in supplies of old cash corn, No. 1 white sold up to 90 cents today, or ¼ cent better than was paid for No. 1 red or hard Winter wheat in the sample market. In some instances, yellow corn was also at a premium over wheat in the West. This is the first time since 1895 that corn has gone to a premium over wheat here.

As a result of the abnormally high prices, Argentine corn is said to have been bought by Boston in the last few days, despite the duty of 25 cents a bushel. It is said also that a cargo of Rumanian corn has been bought by a leading Canadian industry.

Buenos Aires September closed 1 cent lower at 53¾ cents, or 21¼ cents under the same delivery in Chicago.

A decrease of 278,000 bushels was shown in the visible supply of corn for the week, making the total 3,365,000 bushels, compared with 3,643,000 in the previous week and 10,403,000 in the week last year.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,202,000 bushels, a week ago 628,000 and a year ago 1,174,000. Shipments respectively were 407,000, 388,000 and 972,000 bushels.

Wheat Pressed From Start.

Wheat was under pressure from the start and closed 1¾ to 1⅞ cents lower, an increase of 14,503,000 bushels in the visible supply being a factor. The gain, however, was not a record, as an increase of 18,436,000 bushels was shown last year for the week ended on Aug. 1. The total is now 139,004,000 bushels, against 125,191,000 the previous week and [illegible]220,000 a year ago.

Ex[illegible] demand was much less active [illegible]n of late, with no sales of conse[illegible]ence indicated, although unfavorable weather conditions continue in Europe. Liverpool was off ⅜ to 1⅛d for the day, July showing the most strength.

Reports of 1 to 4 degrees of frost in the Peace River district in Northern Alberta, where the crop is in the milk stage, were ignored. Winnipeg closed 2 cents lower, messages from there indicating little prospect of black rust becoming a factor in Saskatchewan.

Buyers on Break in Wheat.

The best buying on the break here was by holders of bids and on resting orders, although several commission houses with Eastern connections bought December at 96 cents early. Prices at the inside figures were only ¼ to 1½ cents above the low for the season. Local arrivals were 1,26? cars.

Primary receipts of wheat were 7,350,000 bushels; a week ago 8,282,000 and a year ago 9,530,000. Shipments respectively were 2,057,000, 2,078,000 and 2,947,000 bushels.

Oats were easier with corn and because of hedging pressure, closing ½ to 1 cent lower. Cash houses sold December and bought September at 2⅞ cents difference.

Rye was 1¾ to 2 cents lower, with the Northwest on the selling side. Shorts bought.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

CURB STOCKS ADVANCE IN MODERATE TRADING

Many Issues Touch New Highs for the Month—Bond and Share Up Two Points.

An upward trend was in evidence all along the line in the Curb market yesterday, with many issues pushing to new highs for the month. Trading was moderately active, particularly in the utility issues.

Electric Bond and Share advanced 2 points for the day, while other utility issues showed gains, including America Gas and Electric, American Superpower, Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson, United Gas, United Light and Power and United Electric Power.

Cities Service moved up fractionally, along with Vacuum Oil, Houston Oil, Lone Star Gas and Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line. Standard Oil of Indiana was unchanged. In the industrial section there were gains for St. Regis Paper and Fox Theatres A, while American Cyanamid was lower.

The investment trust-holding company group was quiet. United Founders, Prudential Investors, Insull Utilities Investings and Central States Electric were slightly higher, while Pennroad was down fractionally. Goldman Sachs was unchanged.

COUNTER STOCK PRICES MAKE LITTLE HEADWAY

Small Gains Reported in the Bank Shares—Upward Trend in Insurance Group.

Over-the-counter security issues failed to make much headway yesterday, closing near their opening levels in most cases. In the bank group there were small gains by Bank of United States, City, Manhattan, Public, Bankers, Central Hanover, Corn Exchange, Guaranty, Irving and Manufacturers, while Chase, Chemical and Lawyers Title were off slightly.

Prices moved generally higher in the insurance group in dull trading. Aetna Fire and Life, Hanover, Hartford Fire, Home, Pheonix and St. Paul Fire and Marine were higher. On the other hand, Baltimore American, Connecticut General and Hartford Steamboiler receded slightly.

COTTON PRICES DROP AFTER EARLY RISE

Selling Pressure on Weather Forecast Causes Net Loss of 16 to 20 Points.

CUT IN PRIVATE ESTIMATE

First Report for End of Month Indicates Yield of 14,005,000 Bales This Season.

Prices on the Cotton Exchange advanced 15 points during early trading yesterday on continued hot, dry weather in Central and Western sections of the belt. Then the market came under selling pressure as a result of predictions of cooler, showery conditions today, and prices worked back nearly $2 a bale, losing the entire early improvement and ending the day 16 to 20 points lower than on Saturday.

Showers occurred throughout Georgia, but little rain fell in the remainder of the belt. From Alabama westward the weather remained unchanged from last week, 142 stations in Central and Western States reporting temperatures of 100 to 108 degrees.

The first private end-of-July crop report was issued by Clement Curtis, indicating a yield of 14,005,000 bales on a condition of 66.8. This compares with an estimate of 14,435,000 bales on a condition of 71 a month ago. The loss in prospects is due to a record deficiency in rainfall in several States since June 1.

TO REVISE COTTON DATA.

Exchange Will Put New Method in Effect on Aug. 1.

The first revision in many years in the weekly statistics of American cotton, as followed by producers, merchants and spinners in this country and abroad, will go into effect with the opening of the new season on Aug. 1, according to an announcement yesterday by the New York Cotton Exchange. After that date weekly figures on movement in sight, visible supply, exports and spinners' takings will be published exclusive of linters, with the exception of detailed statistics on visible supply and exports which will include linters as in the past.

The definition of "visible supply" has been changed so that it will cover cotton afloat to and at ports of the Orient, while the term "forwardings to mills" will be substituted for "spinners' takings" and the definition covering that term revised so that it will indicate more specifically movement to or into mills.

The Exchange announces that the purpose in effecting these revisions is to bring its weekly statistics more nearly in line with the present scope and organization of the world cotton industry, to simplify and clarify them and make them more readily subject to correlation with other statistics on such subjects as ginnings, domestic and foreign consumption and world carry-over.

PROCTER & GAMBLE ADD BIG BRITISH SOAP PLANT

Acquisition of Hedley Company Makes Cincinnati Concern a Stronger Rival of Lever.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, July 28.—The Procter & Gamble Company announced today the acquisition of its most important European connection, Thomas Hedley, Ltd., of Newcastle, England, said to be the largest independent soap manufacturing concern in Great Britain. At the same time the company announced negotiations are progressing for obtaining control of the Cadum Soap Company of Paris, which controls important branches of the soap industry in Germany and other countries.

Negotiations for Thomas Hedley, Ltd., were conducted by R. R. Deupree, vice president of Procter & Gamble.

From a London source it was learned that Mr. Deupree is conducting negotiations with several other European soap company officials, including the heads of perfume-making concerns. Procter & Gamble officials are soon to discuss these matters, according to a report here.

Officials of the company here declined to discuss these negotiations or their possibilities. It is understood, however, that the facilities of the Newcastle concern are to be expanded to enable that branch to serve northern England and Scotland more thoroughly. Capitalization of the Newcastle company is estimated at $2,250,000.

Acquisition of the firm places the American concern on a more favorable basis in its competition with the great English firm of Lever Brothers, Ltd., whose annual business exceeds that of Procter & Gamble.

CONTINENTAL OIL'S NET PROFIT JUMPS

Quarter's Total Reported at $2,120,518, Against $523,302 in First Three Months.

BIG CURTAILMENTS MADE

Company Forecasts Enviable Position When "Value for Products" Is Received.

The Continental Oil Company of Delaware and subsidiaries report for the June quarter consolidated net profit of $2,120,518 after franchise taxes, intangible development cost, depreciation, depletion, lease amortization, minority interest, &c., but before Federal taxes. This compares with $523,302 in the preceding quarter and $3,842,081 in the second quarter of 1929.

For the six months ended June 30, net profit before Federal taxes was $2,643,820, against $2,200,526 in the first half of 1929. Capital stock outstanding consists of 4,743,103 no-par shares.

Commenting on its operation for the first six months of this year, the company in its magazine Conoco says in part:

"Definitely the Continental Oil Company has made progress under these subnormal conditions. The company has been a party to every program that has had the appearance of lending itself to stabilization and better operations. The first six months of 1930 have been profitable in spite of the fact that prices of the raw and refined products have been below the average of 1929. Drastic curtailments of every nature are in force, and the result is that we have been able to make a profit.

"Our position has remained comparable to that of all companies without regard to their industrial representation. Stock prices are not a measure of the company's condition or its future prospects, but represent world-wide depression existing at this time. It can be honestly stated that we are in a position to preserve ourselves against any and all depression attacks, to weather them properly and to forecast an enviable position when we are receiving value for our goods."

The consolidated balance sheet of the company and subsidiaries as of June 30, compares with July 1, last year as follows:

Youngstown Court Adjourns the Steel Case Until Today.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 28.—After a short session this morning trial of the Bethlehem-Sheet and Tube Steel merger case was adjourned until tomorrow morning because of the warm weather.

Walter E. Meub, secretary-treasurer of the Sheet and Tube Company, was on the stand at the time. Minutes of the Sheet and Tube stockholders' meeting of April 8, approving the merger, were read into the record.

The fight on the merger made by the C. S. Eaton interests will become a battle of auditors this week. A. E. Ernst, head of Ernst & Ernst, and George O. May, of Price, Waterhouse & Co., will be called to the witness stand. Ernst & Ernst charged that a "grievous error" had crept into the Price, Waterhouse report on which the merger terms were based.

COURT ENJOINS CITY ON ROCKAWAY BUSES

CALLS OPERATION ILLEGAL

Criticizes Municipality for Its Failure After Ten Years to Solve Bus Problem.

Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong yesterday granted an injunction against the extension of the so-called "emergency bus system" to the Rockaways and, in his opinion, criticized the city for its failure in the past decade to solve the bus transportation problem.

The bus operation which Justice Strong's opinion enjoined was decided upon by the Board of Estimate at its meeting on June 6. At that meeting Representative William F. Brunner, Democratic leader in the Rockaway section, appeared before the board to ask that the so-called "municipal buses" be placed in operation between the municipal ferry at Beach 160th Street and the Far Rockaway station of the Long Island Railroad.

After listening to statements concerning conditions on the existing buses then in operation there, the board granted his request. The buses enjoined were being run on the same system as the crosstown routes in Manhattan—that is, permits were issued by the Department of Plant and Structures, and privately owned and operated buses were used, bearing the name of the city on them. In Manhattan the lines have been controlled by the local Democratic district leaders, it has been charged. No revenue is paid to the city, but the city bears the expense of supervision.

It was said last night that the buses might keep running for some time, as a stipulation between the city and Stanley Bogart, the attorney who obtained the injunction from Justice Strong, appeared likely. Such a stipulation would permit operation until the case had been argued. Justice Strong's decision was on the basis of the pleadings submitted by the city and by Mr. Bogart. In his decision he wrote:

"Notwithstanding the practical admission by the Corporation Counsel of the illegality of such operation, the suggestion is made that the court delay its decision for a time, to the end that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment may make further efforts to bring order out of the existing chaos in the transit situation.

"The suggestion does not find favor with the court. For the past decade the city has had it within its power to effect a legal change in this condition, but has permitted it to remain. A general blanket injunction forbidding the operation of any line where a certificate of convenience and necessity has not been obtained will not be granted on this motion.

"Although the answer admits that the buses on which the painted words 'Department of Plant and Structures' appear are running throughout the city on permits which the city has no authority to give, and it follows that in case of accident the injured party has no redress against the city, yet the general condition may be permitted to remain until some interested party brings a proceeding, general in its nature, which will prevent the waste of city funds and protect the lives and safety of the public, unless on the other hand the city authorities discontinue these unlawful acts.

"The motion is granted to the extent of enjoining pendente lite the further operation of this particular bus line."

Numerous injunctions have been issued in the past against the operation of the green "emergency buses" and against other bus lines with private labels which have run on permits granted by the city. One of these was obtained by the late Louis Marshall, but the papers were never served because of the realization that the buses were needed in the absence of any legally operated service.

At present the only bus lines operating under legally granted city franchises are those of the Surface Transportation Company in the Bronx, the franchise of which was awarded the same day as that of the Equitable Company. The Eastern Parkway, Brownsville and East New York Transit Relief Association in Brooklyn once held a franchise, and since its expiration has been operating on temporary extensions of the life of that franchise. The legality of that procedure has not been questioned in court.

AWARDS BORINGS WORK FOR MIDTOWN TUNNEL

Transportation Board Gives the Second Contract at Bid of $13,001 for Drillings in Manhattan.

The second contract for borings for the Thirty-eighth Street-midtown vehicular tunnel under Manhattan to Queens and Brooklyn was awarded yesterday by the Board of Transportation to the Giles Drilling Company, the lowest bidder, at a price of $13,001.

Meanwhile, at the request of the Board of Transportation, the Board of Estimate will hold a special meeting today at the City Hall for the primary purpose of considering transit matters. The Board of Estimate is scheduled to approve the award for completing the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line extension of the B. M. T. system from Sixth to Eighth Avenue, at a total price of $654,000. D. C. Serber, Inc., the original contractor, defaulted on the contract with 89 per cent of the work completed. Commissioner Ryan, acting chairman of the Board of Transportation, pointed out yesterday that the city had withheld more than $900,000 in payments to the Serber company and would lose nothing but a few months' time as a result of the default.

The Board of Transportation also will ask approval of payment of $2,300,000 in awards for property taken for subway purposes along Jay, Smith and Schermerhorn Streets, in Brooklyn, along the main line of the city's independent system in that borough.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Bankers Trust Company has been appointed agent for the payment of city of Duluth (Minn.) school district bond coupons.

Stern, Kempner & Co. have prepared a review of General Mills, Inc.

The National City Bank, as fiscal agent, reports that $87,000 of Republic of Chile external loan sinking fund 6 per cent gold bonds, due on Sept. 1, 1961, and $53,000 due on March 1, 1962, have been selected for redemption on Sept. 1.

CLOAK COMMISSION IS STAYED BY COURT

Roosevelt Board Temporarily Enjoined in Writ Won by Brooklyn Contractors.

HILLQUIT PLANS AN APPEAL

Admitting Decision Is Severe Blow, He Says He Will Press for Early Trial of Illegal Combination Issue.

A severe blow was dealt yesterday to Governor Roosevelt's Commission for the Cloak and Suit Industry when Justice Selah B. Strong in the Kings County Supreme Court granted a temporary injunction to a group of Brooklyn cloak contractors seeking to restrain the commission and other organized factors in the industry from functioning as "an illegal combination in restraint of trade."

Argument was heard by Justice Strong on July 16 when the Brooklyn contractors—a group of 160—sought relief after the American Cloak and Suit Association had expelled them on the ground that they had debased wages and standards fixed for the entire industry by the Governor's commission following the 1929 general strike. The Brooklyn group contended that the commission instructed all cloak jobbers and manufacturers not to "farm out" any work to the Brooklyn contractors following the alleged violations.

Morris Hillquit, counsel for the Governor's commission and for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, which, with three employers' associations, were made defendants in the injunction action, declared that he would take immediate steps to appeal from Justice Strong's decision and to get an immediate trial under the temporary writ. The injunction was issued to the Brooklyn contractors under the corporate name the Brooklyn Ladies' Garment Manufacturers' Association.

Representatives of all organized factors in the cloak industry were disturbed by the court decision. Neither George W. Alger, chairman of the Governor's commission; William Klein, counsel for the Industrial Council, the inside manufacturers' group, nor Harry Uvillier, head of the American Cloak and Suit Association, cared to comment pending an opportunity to read the full text of the decision.

Both Mr. Hillquit and Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the International Union, admitted, however, that a severe blow had been received by the commission and declared that efforts to standardize the industry and to eliminate cut-throat competition would be seriously hampered by the decision.

Mr. Hillquit declared:

"The effect of the decision is quite obvious. It really interferes with the object of the Governor's commission to enforce uniformity of standards and to eliminate the chaos with which this industry has been plagued for so many years. It will throw the entire machinery of the industry out of gear."

Mr. Schlesinger declared that the temporary writ would not check efforts to eliminate sweatshop and substandard conditions in the industry.

"The union, as well as all other decent factors in the trade, will not permit the temporary injunction to allow the return of the hated sweatshop," Mr. Schlesinger declared. "We will make strenuous efforts to seek a reversal of this decision."

At the time of their expulsion the Brooklyn contractors were charged with violating terms of the collective agreements prevailing in the industry by debasing wages and working conditions and by setting up unfair competition to concerns abiding by the compacts supervised by the commission.

PANNE SATIN

A Luxurious Weave That Dominates the High-Style Satin Group

Fall fashions expressed in Celanese Panne Satin have a new elegance, contributed by the soft, radiant sheen of this weave. Its luxurious weight falls readily into the new lines, interpreting the accepted, closely fitted styles with dependable firmness at the seams.

The most serviceable of satin weaves, Celanese Panne Satin embodies all the practical features of Celanese fabrics—found in no other type of textile: It will not shrink or stretch . . . dry-cleaning does not affect the softness of its hand, or its rich lustre . . . dampness and perspiration do not damage it.

The remarkable brilliance of Celanese Panne Satin in black is drawing attention, in view of the fall trend toward black afternoon costumes; the "white" is noteworthy for evening, as it does not yellow, even with repeated dry cleaning. There is a wide range of autumn colors that assume new beauty in the rich lustre of Celanese Panne Satin.

SOUTH'S POPULATION ROSE 14.2 PER CENT

Gain of 16 States and District of Columbia in Decade Was 4,695,620.

RATIO TO NATION DECLINES

Unofficial Total Indicates Slight Fall—Georgia's Rise Is Smallest in the Country.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—The sixteen States and the District of Columbia listed by the Census Bureau as comprising the South had a 14.2 per cent population increase in the last ten years as compared with a 12.7 per cent increase in the decade ending with 1920.

A compilation of the totals showed that on April 1 there were 37,821,423 people located within their borders, a numerical increase of 4,695,620 over 1920.

The South ten years ago had 31.3 per cent of the total population of the United States. While the total population of the country has not yet been completed, the unofficial total of slightly less than 123,000,000 indicates a slightly smaller Southern percentage this year.

The States listed by the Census Bureau as comprising the South are the South Atlantic States, including Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida; the East South Central States comprising Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, and the West South Central States, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

The population of these groups, their numercial increase since 1920, and the percentage of increase, were:

Group.	Pop., 1930.	Increase.	P.C.
South Atlantic	15,780,617	1,790,345	9.9
East South Central	9,888,311	995,004	11.2
West South Central	12,152,495	1,910,271	18.6

State.	Pop. 1930.	1920-30 Inc., P.C.	1910-20 Inc., P.C.
Arkansas	1,853,981	5.8	11.3
Louisiana	2,098,876	16.7	8.6
Oklahoma	2,388,953	12.8	22.4
Texas	5,810,683	24.6	19.7

Georgia's population was announced as 2,902,127. The gain over 1920 was 6,295 or 0.2 per cent.

The figure was less than preliminary estimates, which had placed the State at 2,903,722.

Georgia showed the smallest percentage of gain of any State thus far reporting, Vermont coming second with a gain of but 1.9 per cent. Montana has been the only State showing a decrease in reports to date.

Atlanta Figures Based on Borough.

The long-disputed question of whether Atlanta should be counted in the 1930 census at its "greater" or its "borough only" figure was brought to attention again today by the Census Bureau announcement of Georgia totals.

The summary of Georgia figures listed Atlanta among the principal cities as "Atlanta (borough) 266,559, increase 65,943 or 32.9 per cent.

The Greater-Atlanta figure, 359,668, was not included in the summary.

Queried as to whether this meant the Greater-Atlanta figure would not be used in comparison with other cities, Director William M. Steuart said:

"It means exactly what you see there."

The legal decision on the Atlanta figure was pending before the solicitor of the Census Bureau, he added.

PREDICTS BUSINESS GAINS.

SALEM, Ill., July 28 (AP).—Soundness of the American Government and the fighting spirit of the American people are factors which assure an upturn in business conditions before long, Governor Emmerson said in an address here today.

The present business depression, the Executive said, is more mental than real, as the real buying power of the people has not decreased. He predicted that business will show decided progress within the next few months.

"We let speculators, who gambled on margins and lost, mold public opinion into the belief that the country is on the downgrade, but we know it is not," the Governor concluded. "A nation of people who fought the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the World War will not long be held back in its progress by the collapse of fictitious values in the stock market."

PLANS A NEW CADILLAC.

Fisher Says 12-Cylinder Series Will Be Out in the Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 28.—There will be a new 12-cylinder Cadillac series out in the early Fall. Such was the announcement made by Lawrence P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Company.

According to Mr. Fisher, the V-12 line has been in progress of development along with the V-16 and is intended to take its place between this exclusive custom line and the Cadillac V-8 line. The V-12 engine is of the same type and is built to the same standards as the V-16, in fact is a duplicate of this engine in pattern and appearance, except for the difference in the number of cylinders.

The V-12 Cadillacs will be of 140 and 143 inch wheel base.

FOR PISTOL PERMIT CHANGE

Move for Legislative Action Hinted to State Police Chiefs.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 28.—The State-wide phase of police problems was discussed at the convention of the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police, which opened today.

Inspector Albert B. Moore of the State police at Albany implied that those who are backing stringent pistol permit laws said to be in preparation for the next session of the State Legislature would seek to organize centrally all pistol permit dispensation in the State.

Several delegates expressed dissatisfaction with the extradition laws in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Modification was urged to facilitate the process of waiving extradition.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—3 per cent for the best names.
Saturday—3 to 3¼ per cent for the best names.
The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Rug Buyers Clearing Stocks.

Floor coverings retailers this year will offer their regular stocks in August house furnishings sales and buy new merchandise for their regular Fall business, it was pointed out by selling agents yesterday. In spite of the slow season, buyers have found it difficult to pick up distress merchandise to feature in sales and have decided to mark down their present stocks. Those active in the market at this time are placing small orders for delivery after the sales are over. Requests for merchandise for later delivery have also been reaching the market by mail.

Clothiers Buy Fabrics Warily.

Manufacturers and wholesale clothiers are far behind in their current commitments for fabrics compared with last year and have adopted a different purchasing policy this season, it was stated yesterday by a producer of woolens. Last season if a clothier needed 100 pieces of goods, he would purchase 125 pieces, on the assumption that a fair amount of reorders would appear. This year he buys only seventy-five pieces for the same commitments, in anticipation of cancellations. Cancellations are frequent, due to sharp price competition, credit conditions and various other adverse factors that are compelling wholesale clothiers to adopt hand-to-mouth buying in self-defense.

Color Revival in Stationery.

The current week opened actively for selling agents of stationery here yesterday. Buyers seeking merchandise for immediate delivery, as well as Fall and holiday goods, were busy in the market. Low-end stationery for sales purposes was purchased in good volume. White was preferred by most of the buyers. A revival of colors in stationery is seen for Fall by many of the manufacturers. Light blues, as well as tans and grays, received most of the attention for the Fall trade. Holiday orders covered a wide range in both patterns and price. Orders of this type were limited in quantity.

Hair Fabric Coats in Demand.

The strong favor accorded men's alpaca and camel's hair coats last year is expected to continue during the Fall season, according to trade comment yesterday. Alpaca may outsell the camel's hair coat, it is thought, due to its slightly cheaper price and the fact that it comes in a variety of shades. Last year in the upper price range the largest volume was done at $75, but, in line with lower values, this season will probably favor coats in the $50 line. There is not such a large outlet for hair fabrics in the East, the demand being confined mostly to college students and consumers who can afford an extra overcoat. In the region west of Chicago, however, alpaca and camel's hair coats will be big sellers. It was brought out that these coats have replaced mackinaws to a great extent in the West.

Better Glassware In Demand.

Specialty shops handling high-priced glassware are in the market for substantial quantities of merchandise for holiday trade, sales representatives for foreign manufacturers reported yesterday. Orders being booked, they insist, have averaged less than 10 per cent under those of last year. Goblets retailing from $60 a dozen and up and glass flower vases which retail for $30 each are among the items ordered. Both vases and goblets have proved most popular in the modified modernistic designs.

Retailers Delay Shirt Buying.

Buying of shirts for the Fall season continues to lag far behind last year, it was reported in the trade yesterday, with the expectation that purchasing for the Autumn season, which is usually completed at the end of July, will not be finished until September this year. Retailers are holding out in anticipation of price reductions, but, although quotations on shirting fabrics have declined to a very low point, the large manufacturers are maintaining their price levels. A maker reports that a fair business is being done in dress shirts, with one model, in which the winged collar is attached to the shirt, selling very well. Formal shirts with two collars, one a wing model and the other a long pointed style, are also receiving some favor.

Trade Drop Hits French Chinaware.

The world-wide slump in business activity coupled with recent increases in American tariffs has tended to discourage French chinaware manufacturers, J. P. Lerch, American manager for the Haviland China Company, Inc., reported yesterday on his return from a two months' visit to factories in Limoges. French producers, he said, are at present retsricting output to staple patterns, preferring to wait until business conditions show improvement before launching anything new. The new duties, according to French exporters, will make it impossible for the French chinaware to compete in the American market with the better class Japanese product.

Fall Curtain Orders Restricted.

Buyers returning from last week's show in Boston stopped off here and placed numerous orders for small quantities of Fall curtains. Most of the business written was on medium and higher priced goods. In commenting on the small size of the average orders, selling agents reported that the store representatives are limited to smaller appropriations than ever before and have been extremely cautious for this reason. They have sampled many styles but will concentrate their future business on the one or two items, it is believed.

Sales of Fine Goods Moderate.

Although last week's fine goods sales were only moderate, each week in the month has shown an increase over that preceding and July is being closed with reduced inventories due to continued curtailment, according to the report of the Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates, Inc., yesterday. Reduction of rayon prices should aid in clarifying the situation and bring about a return to graded yarns, the report stated, though it is not believed possible for manufacturers to furnish these yarns on the same price basis as the inferior grade. Prices have held firm and, in some instances, a slight advance has been made. Carded lawns, moving in a fair volume, resisted price pressure. Combed broadcloths and pongees sold moderately.

Gray Goods Prices Weak.

The uncertainty in the gray goods market continues to affect prices and they showed a weakening tendency yesterday. Very little business is being done and all trading is confined to small lots, with buyers watching the cotton market and the general business situation closely. In standard printcloths, sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were reported at 4⅞ cents, mostly for small commitments. Orders for 38½-inch 64-60s and 39-inch 68-72s were filled at 5⅜ to 5½ cents and 6⅛ to 6¼ cents respectively. Trading in 39-inch 80 squares was dull and prices ranged between 7⅝ and 7¾ cents. Sheetings continue inactive.

SATTHERTHWAITE WILL SUIT

Executor Asks Construction of Document Disposing of $1,500,000.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 28.—In an action filed in the Court of Chancery today, construction of the will of Albert W. Satterthwaite of Burlington is asked by the Chase National Bank of New York as executor. Mr. Satterthwaite, who died on April 8 left an estate the closed value of which is said to be considerably more than $1,500,000.

His will, dated March 15, 1926, bequeathed 800 shares of F. W. Woolworth stock as part of a trust fund for Mrs. Satterthwaite. At his death he owned 26,425 shares. It is contended by Mrs. Satterthwaite that she is entitled to 2,000 shares as the result of a stock split following the drafting of her husband's will under which two and one-half shares were allowed for one.

The Satterthwaite home, known as Brookside Lawn, likewise was left to the widow in trust, and the executor wants to know whether two automobiles, farming equipment and other property on the premises should be included in the bequest.

In addition to Mrs. Satterthwaite, five daughters and two grandchildren are heirs. The petition seeking a court ruling was filed by Jay B. Tomlinson.

WELFARE BUREAU MOVES.

Vacates Municipal Building Quarters and Goes to 50 Lafayette St.

The Department of Public Welfare moved yesterday afternoon from its cramped quarters on the tenth floor of the Municipal Building to 50 Lafayette Street, where it willl occupy the entire eleventh floor. The new offices are expected to be open for business this morning.

Frank J. Taylor, Commissioner of Welfare, in explaining the move, said that on Sept. 1 the department would begin its work in connection with the payment of old-age pensions and that, in addition, he was trying to complete arrangements for the proposed new municipal employment bureau.

The last time the Department of Welfare was forced to move was on Feb. 1, 1929. At that time the Department of Hospitals was installed on the tenth floor of the Municipal Building and usurped much of the space formerly occupied by the Department of Public Welfare.

The beginning of a taxicab war was seen in Newark yesterday with the announcement by John L. O'Toole, vice president of the Public Service Corporation, that beginning Aug. 1 its fleet of about 400 taxicabs will set a maximum rate of 50 cents within the city limits.

The Twentieth Century Taxicab Company, which also has about 400 taxicabs in Newark, has been operating its machines on a similar basis. The Public Service company will charge its taxicab patrons the ordinary meter reading if the trip costs less than 50 cents.

WATER CASE UP TODAY.

Grand Jury to Hear $20,000 Shortage Charges in Gloucester, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 28.—Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin announced here tonight that evidence regarding the alleged $20,000 shortage in the books of the Gloucester Water Department would be presented to the Camden County grand jury tomorrow.

"My actions," he said, "will be governed by the judgment of the grand jurors. Records of State auditors and county investigators will be laid on the table and I will take whatever action is deemed necessary by the jurors."

Reports of the alleged shortage were first heard when taxpayers complained that water bills for 1929, which they already had paid, were being sent to them again. State auditors have been examining not only water department accounts but books covering paving, curbing and sewer assessments.

PLAN TO AVOID STRIKES APPROVED AT MEETING

Court to Arbitrate Disputes of Building Trade Unions Tentatively Sanctioned.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 28.—A "definite agreement for arbitration for all jurisdictional disputes" was unanimously decided upon at an all-day conference between national representatives of employers and unions in the building trades at the Strand Hotel here today, it was announced as the session ended.

Oscar W. Rosenthal of Chicago, president of the Building Trade Employers' National Association, chairman of the joint conference committee, said the aim of the conference was to prevent strikes arising from disputes between labor unions on construction work. Establishment of a court or arbitration board is sought to have power to adjudicate all disputes betweens unions without strikes.

The plan in principle was agreed upon, although the conference was not quite unanimous on details, he said. The plan will be presented by the conference committee to a meeting of national presidents of the building trades unions tomorrow at 10 A. M. If the plan meets their approval, it will then be considered at a joint meeting of the committee and the national presidents. Mr. Rosenthal said the arbitration plan would go into operation immediately if the joint conference agrees on the form it should take.

"If adopted," Mr. Rosenthal declared, "the proposed arbitration board will eliminate costly strikes on construction work and save to the building trades industry and to the public untold millions of dollars."

PLANES DIP WINGS AS VOUGHT IS BURIED

MANY ATTEND THE SERVICES

Chantry Crowded With Friends and Associates—Burial in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Funeral services for Chance M. Vought, pioneer designer, manufacturer and pilot of airplanes, were held yesterday morning in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church, Fifth Avenue and West Fifty-third Street. Mr. Vought died Friday morning at the Southampton (L. I.) Hospital.

The chantry was crowded with friends and former associates of Mr. Vought both in and without the aircraft industry. Many employes from the Vought plant in East Hartford were present. The Rev. Dr. R. H. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas's, conducted the services. Associated with him was the Rev. J. W. Claudy, former pastor of the First Congregational Church of Pittsburgh.

The choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me." There was no eulogy. Dr. Brooks read from the Scriptures and both Dr. Brooks and Mr. Claudy offered short prayers.

The honorary pall bearers were Harold F. McCormick of Chicago; Frederick B. Rentschler, Edward McShane, Grover Loening, Commander Mark Mitscher, U. S. N., Colonel E. A. Deeds, Byron Foy, Charles E. Merrill, Russell Vought and Mesmore Kendall.

Among those present in addition to members of the immediate family were Gordon S. Rentschler, Hugh Baker, Joseph P. Ripley, F. W. Jackson, Commander Jerome C. Hunsaker, Charles L. Lawrance, Guy W. Vaughan, Commander Bruce Leighton, Commander George Chapline, George Wheat, C. W. Deeds, Paul Becker, D. L. Brown, Captain T. E. Tillinghast, E. H. Herbig, L. S. Hobbs, Temple Joyce, S. S. Bradley, Luther K. Bell, Frank A. Tichenor, James B. Vought, Major F. Dwight Sullivan, E. O. McDonnell, Howard Coffin, Vincent Burnelli, Robert B. Knowles, George B. Patterson, F. W. McCarthy, Roger Q. Williams, Stephen B. McClellan, W. Irwin and J. A. B. Smith.

At the hour of the funeral all pilots on the air lines of United Aircraft and Transport, of which Mr. Vought was director and vice president, dipped their wings. The lines extend from New York to San Francisco and from San Diego to Seattle.

Burial was in Woodlawn.

WARNS AGAIN OF POLLUTION.

Wynne Refers to Earlier Statements of Bathing Dangers.

Commenting on reports published yesterday of privately conducted tests which showed how sewage impairs bathing in waters adjoining the city, Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne pointed to the fact that the Health Department has for years given no permits for bathing establishments in these waters, has principally traced the waters found them polluted and regularly warned against bathing anywhere near by except at Coney Island or the Rockaways.

While nearly two-thirds of all cases of typhoid are untraceable, he said the largest single number that can be traced originated from infection from bathing in polluted waters. He said also that specialists were convinced many infections of the eye, ear, nose and throat originated similarly. He called attention to the fact that the Health Department bars the sale of oysters from near-by waters because of the danger of typhoid.

"Each year," he declared, "we are compelled to put up more warning signs in regard to the dangers of bathing in local waters. But there is nothing in the law which permits us to stop bathers if they want to swim in them."

He urged parents to discourage any bathing except at Coney Island or the Rockaways.

AMELI ON COUNT'S LIQUOR.

Says Judge Bondy Omitted Moore and Him in Order for Return.

Howard W. Ameli, United States Attorney, explained yesterday his authority for destroying $30,000 worth of liquor belonging to the Count de Polignac of Paris, which was seized in a Brooklyn warehouse and destroyed by court order, even though proceedings for restoring the liquor to its owner were pending. The liquor was subsequently ordered returned to the warehouse.

Mr. Ameli pointed out that the order directing its return had been amended by Judge William Bondy, who signed it, and that certain parts, which referred to himself and to Marshal Jesse D. Moore, had been stricken out with ink. This made the order appear, he said, that only Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney for the Southern District, was ordered to return the liquor, and that his own office was prevented only from using any part of the evidence in prosecuting the owner of the warehouse. This absolved his office of responsibility, he said.

A memorandum, signed by Judge Bondy, appeared on the outer cover of the order yesterday. It read:

"Notice of settlement having been given and a request for a counter order not having been complied with, the order as modified by the court is signed."

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

S. Heiberg, Chicago Manufacturer, Killed at Minnesota Lodge.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Soren Heiberg, 56-year-old Chicago manufacturer, was found today shot to death at a lodge he maintained on an island in Wasson Lake, in a remote section of the Minnesota north woods.

Pending a coroner's inquest and investigation by the Sheriff, it was uncertain whether Mr. Heiberg had shot himself accidentally or had been killed from ambush.

He was president of the Soren J. Heiberg Syrup Company of Chicago, which has factories throughout the United States and in Denmark. Surviving him are the widow and three children, who live in Denmark, and a son, William, of Chicago.

2 GUILTY IN LOTTERY POOLS

Four Others in "Marks Brothers" Case Freed in General Sessions.

Two of six men were convicted in Special Sessions yesterday after a trial before Justices Salomon, Healy and Gresser on a charge that they promoted lottery pools on treasury balance figures, baseball games and the army and navy sweepstakes on April 23, last, in a room at 2,025 Broadway which they occupied under the name of "Marks Brothers."

They were Henry Kah, 40 years old, of 2,402 Avenue L, Brooklyn, who was known, the police said, as "Charlie Marks," and Meyer Rosen, 23, of 2,961 West Twenty-seventh Street, Coney Island, referred to by patrons of the place, it was alleged, as Harry Marks. Each was released in the $1,000 bail he had furnished at the time of the arrest, until sentence is imposed next Monday.

The other four defendants arrested in the raid on the offices were Charles D. Gill, 108 West Forty-third Street; Morris Brodis, 6,911 Clinton Street, Forest Hills, Queens; Solly Kirschbaum, 154 Avenue C, Brooklyn, and Louis Patalani, 248 West Sixty-seventh, Manhattan. The court voted their acquittal on the ground that the evidence against them was insufficient.

SEYMOUR GETS A HEARING.

Sheriff Asks Pardon for Bay State Escape Who "Goes Straight."

BOSTON, July 28 (AP).—The first step in what may mean freedom for Allen S. Seymour will be taken tomorrow when the State Advisory Board of Pardons meets at the Worcester House of Correction to consider his case.

Seymour escaped from the Institution in 1918, after having served but a small part of a five-year sentence for robbery. He went to New London, Conn., became a barge captain and later learned the plumbing and steam-fitting trade. He married a widow with two children and three children were born.

Three months ago, with the approval of his wife, Seymour returned to the House of Correction voluntarily, but Sheriff Albert F. Richardson is satisfied that the young man had already determined to "go straight," and today he filed a petition with Governor Frank G. Allen asking that he be pardoned. The Governor ordered a hearing by the pardon board.

CONVICTS HIT FALSE DOOR.

Four Fail to Break Out of Charlestown Prison.

BOSTON, July 28 (AP).—Authorities at the State prison at Charlestown today revealed an attempt by four trusties to escape Saturday during the recreation period. No disciplinary measures have been taken against them because of the uncertainty of prison officials that they were the men concerned.

Several prisoners entered the chapel and removed from its hinges a padlocked door as an easy means of escape through the west wing, but behind the door was a solid wall.

The men replaced the door and then turned to the bars of a window overlooking the roof of the deputy warden's home. Had they been able to pry these apart they could have gained the roof, and then only the warden's gate, usually open at that time of day, would have stood between them and liberty. Failing, they mixed with the rest of the prisoners.

FIXATION OF DUNES TRIED.

Experimental Forest Plantings Are Being Made in North Carolina.

At Fort Macon State Park, Beaufort, N. C., the State Division of Forestry is experimenting in the fixation of sand dunes through forest plantings. About 412 acres of typical sand-dune land contained in the park was deeded by the Federal Government to the State in 1924, says F. H. Claridge of the Forest Division in a bulletin issued by the U. S. Forest Service. This area is part of Bogue Bank, which separates Bogue Sound from the Atlantic Ocean.

It presents, says Mr. Claridge, a problem typical of thousands of acres from Virginia to Florida. The present growth on much of the land consists of grasses such as sea oats. A considerable portion of the area is in the shifting sand stage. The scattered thicket formations contain yaupon, live oak and Eastern red cedar. The problem, he says, seems to resolve itself into fixing the forward dune and afforesting or reforesting the area protected by this forward dune.

The first planting of trees behind the dunes at the park was made by the Forestry Division in February, 1927. These first plantations were greatly damaged by sheep which roamed up and down the banks; however, some maritime and loblolly pines planted in this first effort as one-year seedlings have now reached a height of thirty-six inches. Plantings of several different species of pines made in 1928 and 1929, after the sheep had been removed, have survived in percentages ranging from 81 per cent to 15 per cent, according to species and site conditions.

Mr. Claridge points out that it is too early to make any definite predictions in regard to the success of these plantings; but indications are that loblolly, maritime and slash pines will do best on these areas. It has been shown that young pines once established on the areas will grow well. Wind and sand action, according to Mr. Claridge, will probably be the limiting factors when the trees get above the protecting sea oats and other herbaceous growth.

An experimental planting was made in the spring of this year to try the fixation of the forward dune with sea oats. Three staggered rows of rooted plants were set out about seven feet apart over about one-fourth mile of beach.

Wood Alcohol Kills Prisoners.

DETROIT, July 28 (AP).—One prisoner of the Detroit House of Correction is dead, another is dying and a third is ill today as a result of a "wood alcohol party" in the prison warehouse this morning. The three prisoners, all serving terms because of non-payment of alimony, broke into the warehouse and took the alcohol which was intended for use in painting.

ANIMALS SEEK REFUGE IN GRAND TETON PARK

Big Game of Wyoming Roam Into Wild Life Sanctuary for the First Time.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The efficacy of the national parks as wild animal sanctuaries, the Interior Department declared today, has been proved again at the Grand Teton National Park, established early in 1929.

Although originally in the heart of the big game country of Wyoming, at the time of the establishment of the park few wild animals were seen, much to the disappointment of park officials.

Reports received at the National Park Service indicate that during the present Summer wild animals are observed in much greater numbers than a year ago, throughout the park generally and at headquarters.

Moose in particular have been in evidence. These animals, not generally seen around the haunts of man, have been noted calmly grazing around headquarters and in the horse corral or leisurely crossing the road. Those in the corral seemed much interested in the horses grazing in the pasture.

Black-tail deer seen near park headquarters aroused unusual interest, as did a bear, since these animals rarely are seen in the park.

Officials of the National Park Service assert that this is "just one more instance of the wild animals of the region recognizing the fact that the national parks offer them a place of refuge." During the hunting season in the surrounding States, it was added, they seem to have an uncanny knowledge that inside the park boundaries lies safety for them.

DESCRIBE GIRLS' BEATINGS.

New Hampshire Governor Repeats State School Abuse Charge.

CONCORD, N. H., July 28 (AP).—Governor Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire tonight offered specific proof of the general charges he levelled against the State Industrial School at Manchester several days ago of "barbaric treatment."

In a list of punishments of which Governor Tobey offers proof in his statement, there is included a whipping cure whereby "girls in their teens were given up to 250 lashes of a whip on their naked bodies"; a water cure, which was meted out to young girls by "standing them in a shower and turning a hose on them full force within a few feet of their bodies," and a so-called "dungeon treatment," which provided for the girls to be locked in dark narrow rooms.

The statement came as a result of denials of harsh treatment by Charles S. Emerson of Milford, former chairman of the board of trustees of the school, whose reappointment to the board was refused by Governor Tobey on the ground that Mr. Emerson had been cognizant of conditions at the school.

AMBULANCE FOR NEPONSET.

Dr. Greeff Establishes Service on Plea of Summer Colony.

One ambulance will be assigned today to the Neponset Beach Hospital by the city Department of Hospitals to serve the Summer residents of Neponset and Rockaway Point. Dr. J. G. William Greeff, Commissioner of Hospitals, granted yesterday pleas for such a service from a delegation consisting of Aldermen James F. Kiernan and John J. Lenihan and former Alderman Patrick H. Larney of Rockaway Point.

The delegation pointed out that the nearest ambulance service for the thousands of Summer residents of this district and in the vicinity of Jacob Riis Park was at the Rockaway Beach Hospital, several miles away.

The ambulance, with one interne in addition to the driver, will operate from noon until 8 P. M. and will take patients to the Kings County Hospital.

MAY SIFT FATAL AUTO RACE.

Jersey Prosecutor Concerned Over Danger to Spectators.

Special to The New York Times.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., July 28.—Prosecutor John E. Toolan of Middlesex County said today that his office might investigate the fatal accident yesterday at the Woodbridge speedway, in which Bob Robinson, automobile racing driver, was killed. The inquiry, if any, the prosecutor said, would be directed toward ascertaining the extent to which spectators at speedways may be exposed to danger.

Harry Riggin, one of the managers of the speedway, said everything possible would be done to strengthen the guard rail about the wooden bowl for the next race on Aug. 10. He attributed the break in the rail yesterday to the fact that Rick Decker's car struck the guard rail a split second before Robinson's car hit it. Decker's car was hurled back, but Robinson's machine smashed the rail and he was killed when the car plunged thirty feet to the ground below.

Robinson's body will be sent tomorrow to San Jose, near Jacksonville, Fla., for burial.

FREED IN BABY'S DEATH.

Chicago Father Who Fell on Child Is Cleared at Inquest.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Edward M. Johnson, 36 years old, who fell in an alcoholic stupor and crushed the life out of his 5-months-old daughter, Mary Jane, on Friday, was freed today by a coroner's jury. His wife, Margaret, 28, deprived of her two children in recent years, had fainted as she clasped her arms about her husband's neck a few minutes before the verdict of accidental death was returned.

Johnson, a World War aviator, for several years a La Salle Street bond salesman, bore an excellent reputation, according to the testimony of neighbors and business acquaintances.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., July 28.—A viaduct over the West Shore railroad tracks on the Nyack Turnpike at West Nyack, eliminating one of the most dangerous grade crossings on this side of the Hudson, was opened today. It cost $100,000, borne jointly by the railroad, State and county.

Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of the Appellate Division, whose boyhood home was West Nyack, was the principal speaker at the ceremonies.

Robert E. Leber, president of the West Nyack Civic League arranged the celebration and Assemblyman Fred R. Horn of Nanuet was also a speaker.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Operators Purchase Leasehold of 4 Dwellings on West 79th St. for 6-Story Apartment.

LEASE IN CHELSEA AREA

House on West Fifteenth Street "Key" Plot to Seventh Avenue Corner Is Taken by an Investor.

As a site for a new west side apartment house Max Rosen & Sons, operators and builders, have purchased the eighty-four-year leasehold on the four old residences, each four stories in height, at 102-108 West Seventy-ninth Street. The property adjoins the southwest corner of Columbus Avenue and is diagonally opposite Manhattan Square and the Natural History Museum.

The lease was purchased from the 102-108 West Seventy-ninth Street Corporation, B. Popkin, president. The fee is owned by the Shulder Realty Corporation, which has given its consent to the proposed operation, and a building and permament mortgage loan has been made by the Union Guarantee and Mortgage Company. Plonsky & Weiss acted as brokers in the sale of the leasehold.

The four houses on the property have a combined frontage of 63.6 feet by 76.5 deep. The lessees are having plans prepared for a six-story apartment house with one and two room suites. Construction will start in a short time and it is expected that the house will be ready for occupancy next Spring. Mr. Rosen has erected several high-class west side houses, including those at 710 West End Avenue, a sixteen-story house; 140 West Eighty-sixth Street, fifteen stories in height, and nine-story houses at 24 West Eighty-sixth Street, 42 West Eighty-fourth Street 160 West Seventy-seventh Street.

The new six-story apartment will be assured of ample light and air as it will adjoin on the east the building on the Columbus Avenue corner, fronting 18.6 on Seventy-ninth Street, while to the west is a dwelling fronting 18 feet, next to which is a fourteen-story apartment house. Directly in the rear fronting on Columbus Avenue is a 25-foot structure owned by the Wendel estate, which adjoins the old Evelyn apartment on the Seventy-eighth Street corner. The Wendel plot is under lease for a trem of years. Mr. Rosen believes there is an urgent demand for small suites of the type he is proposing to build in that vicinity.

The five-story apartment house at 158 West Fifteenth Street, just east of the Seventh Avenue corner and regarded as the "key" plot to the corner, has been leased for a long term to an investor by Dr. Frederick N. Whitehorn. It covers a plot 25 by 103.3 feet. The brokers in the transaction were the M. Blume Company and Desider Schoen. It is within a block of the tall apartment just completed by the Henry Mandel interests on the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Sixteenth Street.

Another tall apartment building under way in the Chelsea district is the nineteen-story structure being erected by Arthur Greenbaum on the southwest corner of Eighth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, a Moore estate leasehold recently taken for a long term by Mr. Greenbaum. The old hotel on the immediate corner, known as The Oak, a well-known landmark in the Chelsea area for more than a generation, has been torn down with adjoining buildings, and excavation work for the new house is in progress.

Harry S. Eckart has sold his cooperative apartment of eleven rooms at 1,021 Park Avenue, northeast corner of Eighty-fifth Street, to Mrs. Joseph L. Delafield. The building was recently completed by Anthony Campagna and all of the apartments have been disposed of. The Burgoyne Hamilton Company and Pease & Elliman acted as brokers in the sale.

OLD ARMORY OFFERED IN FORECLOSURE SALE

The old armory of the 104th Field Artillery, occupying the block bounded by Broadway, Columbus Avenue, Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth Streets, is to be sold at auction on Aug. 18 in the Vesey Street salesrooms by the I. Lincoln Seide Company. The sale is the result of foreclosure proceedings, in which Samuel S. Koenig is listed as referee.

The action was brought by the Naol Holding Corporation against Verschleiser Broadway Armory, Inc., and others, following a mortgage judgment of $3,238,758. Back taxes and other charges against the property are reported to amount to $41,137.

Max Verschleiser was the successful bidder for the armory when it was sold for the city by Joseph P. Day, in January, 1929. The price was $3,375,000. The city paid $265,000 for the site forty years ago and spent about $300,000 on the building, which formerly housed the Twenty-second Regiment. The plot contains about 55,000 square feet, fronting 225.9 feet on Broadway, 200.1 feet on Columbus Avenue, 224.7 feet on Sixty-seventh Street and 327.9 feet on Sixty-eighth Street.

Mr. Verschleiser is reported to have planned a large sports arena and amusement centre, and started alterations on the building several months ago, but the project never was completed. A loan of $3,500,000 was made on the property more than a year ago through the General Realty and Utilities Corporation. This mortgage was later taken over by the Naol Holding Corporation.

Starting of another foreclosure suit against a realty holding of Arnold Rothstein, slain gambler, was revealed with the filing of a lis pendens against the five-story building at 5 East Nineteenth Street. The action was brought by the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples through R. Weed, attorney, against Rothstein's Hooper Realty Corporation. A lis pendens involving foreclosure action was filed recently by the Realty Foundation, Inc., through Charles L. Loeser, attorney, against the Hooper Realty Corporation, affecting 28 and 30 West Fifty-seventh Street and 29 West Fifty-sixth Street.

RECORDED MORTGAGES.

Bolognino, vice president, on 313-17 West Forty-eighth Street, about 170 feet west of Eighth Avenue. This lien is combined with four other mortgages to make one first mortgage for $80,000, due July 25, 1933, at 5½ per cent.

The Midurban Realty Corporation, Jacob M. Kaplan, vice president, gave to the Edbro Realty Company, Inc., a mortgage for $375,000, payable Jan. 31 next, at 6 per cent, on the block fronting on Central Park West from 103d to 104th Streets, 100 feet deep on each street. While the Midurban Realty Corporation is the owner in fee of this property, the Rayon Holding Corporation is the equitable owner by virtue of an executory contract of sale in which Frederick Brown is the vendee, which contract has been assigned by Mr. Brown to the Rayon Holding Corporation. There is a first mortgage for $525,000 on the premises.

A mortgage for $10,000 given by Brevoort Estates, Inc., Henry A. Blumenthal, president, to the Lawyers Mortgage Company, has been consolidated with another mortgage to make a first lien of $45,000 on the five-story apartment with store on the southwest corner of Columbus Avenue and 103d Street, 25 feet 11 inches by 75 feet. The loan is payable July 16, 1935, at 5½ per cent.

The Bowery Savings Bank has extended to July 18, 1935, at 6 per cent, its mortgage for $97,000 on 55-57 West 125th Street, owned by F. D'Onofrio, Inc.

The Empire City Savings Bank took an additional mortgage for $10,000 from Pasquale and Fred Concotti on their property at 2,061-67 First Avenue. This is combined with another mortgage held by the bank to make a single lien for $40,000, due July 21, 1935, at 6 per cent, and to be reduced $500 semi-annually.

When 163-65 East Eighty-fourth Street, between Third and Lexington Avenues, was sold by the G. F. G. Corporation, Alexander Geiger, president, to the Sephardic Garage Corporation, of which Mr. Geiger is also president, the latter gave to the Bowery Savings Bank a mortgage on this plot for $110,000, payable according to a building loan agreement on Nov. 1, 1935, at 6 per cent.

The North River Savings Bank made an additional loan of $30,000 to the Saga Holding Corporation, Henry J. Schwartz, president, on the four-story structure at 428 Seventh Avenue, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Strets. This is consolidated with four other mortgages held by the same bank to make one lien of $100,000 on this property, to be paid April 23 next, at 5½ per cent. These premises have been held under lease by the Penn Avenue Corporation, John Fitzgerald, president, since April 22, 1919.

One of the buildings will be thirty-five stories in height and the other twenty stories. It will house about 15,000 tenants and will have a rentable area of 1,407,881 square feet.

It will contain a bus terminal and convention hall. One basement floor will be used for public automobile parking and another for tenants' cars. Several floors will be given over to sales and display space for New England industries. An alternate plan calls for airplane landing space on the roof.

The other structure, to be known as the Back Bay Professional Arts Building, will front on Dartmouth and Stuart Streets and Trinity Place. The site contains 20,000 square feet and the building will have 204,980 square feet of rentable space.

BAR GREASED CRAFT IN LIFEBOAT RACE

Sponsors of International Contest on Labor Day Also Rule Out Weighted Oars.

THREE ENTRIES ANNOUNCED

Selection of Course Is Deferred—Request Is Made to Have It Off Brooklyn This Year.

Three steamship lines announced that they would enter boats in the fourth annual international lifeboat crew race to be held on Labor Day under the auspices of the Neptune Association. Rules governing the race were adopted at a meeting of the committee of arrangements yesterday at the offices of the association, 105 Broad Street.

It was agreed that the race would be held as scheduled, regardless of weather conditions. The use of grease or pot lead on the bottoms of boats will automatically disqualify the craft. The scene of the race remained uncertain, however, as the suggestion was made that a course be selected this year off the Shore Road, Brooklyn and the committee left the question in the hands of the steamship companies.

The three races held thus far on the Hudson River developed a keen spirit of competition among the crews of the liners entering the port. The race is open to all crews and the trophy for which they compete, the William H. Todd Cup, has twice been won by the crew of the Garcia & Diaz liner Sud Americano.

The rules require that a crew win three races to retain the trophy permanently.

The various races have developed situations which, the committee agreed yesterday, showed a need for alterations of the rules. One of the conditions was the greasing of the bottoms of some of the boats, another was the type of oar used by some crews. The method of regulating the crews at the start of the race was also considered inefficient.

The committee decided that the crews might adjust the boat seats as they wished, but that their oars must have no weights attached that would affect their balance. The length of the oars is not limited. It has been found that weighted oars lessen the effort required of the men in the boat and furnish an advantage to crews using them over the two-mile route.

The committee considered the suggestion that the boats be tied to a line at the starting point, a slip-knot being attached to each boat to eliminate any jockeying for position and permit an even start.

Among those attending the meeting were A. S. Patterson of the British consulate, Captain H. Doxrud of the Norwegian consulate, P. A. Kjeve, representing a group of Norwegian ship lines; John Duffy of the United Dry Docks, Captain O. Thinn of the Norwegian-American Line and P. A. J. Sullivan and Captain John F. Milliken of the Neptune Association.

The Cunard Line announced yesterday that it would enter a lifeboat crew of the liner Mauretania, which won the race last year; the United States Lines will enter a crew and the Norwegian-American Line announced that it would enter at least one crew and possibly two.

BURNING SHIP ABANDONED.

Crew of Kronprins Gustaf Adolf Is Picked Up by Liner Off Brazil.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 28 (AP).—The Swedish freighter Kronprins Gustaf Adolf, 2,255 tons, bound from Danzig to Santos with a cargo of coal, has been abandoned because of fire in the cargo off Victoria, Brazil.

A message from Captain Moercy to the ship's agents here today said he had decided to abandon ship yesterday morning. The Lamport & Holt liner Vandyck, bound from New York to Rio de Janeiro, picked up the crew of thirty officers and men.

The freighter put into the harbor of Pernambuco on July 22 with fire in the hold, but later attempted to continue the journey. Victoria, the seaport off which she was abandoned, is 275 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro.

200-FOOT HULK REMOVED.

The nearly submerged hulk found floating in the East River near Hell Gate last Friday by the Yacht Owners' Association's chartered tug C. F. Scofield and towed to a Long Island pier was the hull of a 200-foot wooden ship, it developed yesterday. The size of the derelict became known when the United States drift collecting boat Rockaway went to the pier to tow the hulk to the army base. It was impossible to tow it, and it had to be cut into four sections before it could be lifted aboard. It is believed the hulk came to the surface because of the tunnel blasting under the river.

The captain of the Scofield reported that there was a great amount of driftwood, constituting a menace to navigation, off College Point.

CAPT. HITCHCOCK TO RETIRE

Army officials of the Second Corps Area announced yesterday that with the arrival of the transport steamer Château Thierry tomorrow Captain James C. Hitchcock, master, will retire after many years' service with the army. He served in the Spanish-American War and the Boxer Rebellion.

Officials of the army here and some from Washington will meet the Château Thierry and honor Captain Hitchcock for his long record.

The transport and the pier at the Army Base in South Brooklyn will be decorated with flags and bunting and an army band will play as the ship is tied up.

SEVEN SHIPYARDS BID TO BUILD FREIGHTER

San Francisco Firm Submits Low Offer of $1,095,000 on Red D Line Vessel.

Seven shipyards are seeking the contract to build a freighter for the Red D Steamship Line, operating in the Central American service, it developed yesterday when bids were opened at the offices of the line, 82 Wall Street. The low figure was $1,095,000, submitted by the General Engineering & Dry Dock Company of San Francisco. This company offered to complete the work in ten months.

The Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company submitted two offers for its Staten Island and Fall River plants, the figure in each instance being $1,220,000 and the time of completion fourteen and twenty months, respectively. The other bidders and their terms were:

United Dry Dock of Staten Island, $1,287,000 in fifteen months.

New York Shipbuilding Co., $1,301,000 in thirteen months.

Pusey & Jones of Wilmington, Del., $1,150,000 in twelve months.

Sun Shipbuilding Co., $1,290,000 in sixteen months.

The Newport News Shipbuilding Company submitted alternate bids of $1,340,350 and $1,360,370, to be determined according to final details of propulsion selected by the steamship line.

The ship will be 329 feet 9 inches long, 47 feet 6 inches beam and 25 feet molded depth. She will be built to make thirteen knots and will use oil-burning turbines. Although she will be a freighter she will accommodate a limited number of passengers.

The Red D Line has applied to the United States Shipping Board for a loan under the terms of the new Merchant Marine act, which permits the government to lend a maximum of 75 per cent of the cost of construction at the lowest rate possible, provided the ship meets government requirements. It is expected the ship will be completed by October, 1931.

OPPOSES 1,000-FOOT PIERS.

The Jersey City Chamber of Commerce adopted resolutions yesterday at a special meeting, requesting State authorities to withdraw their application to the United States Harbor Line Board for permission to change pierhead lines on both sides of the Hudson River to permit the construction of 1,000-foot piers.

An application was made jointly on July 16 by New York and New Jersey to the Federal Harbor Line Board. In one resolution yesterday the Jersey City Chamber of Commerce requested Governor Larson to advise the New Jersey Board of Commerce and Navigation to withdraw the petition. Another resolution was addressed directly to the New Jersey Board requesting it to take this action. The Chamber of Commerce asserted the proposed 1,000-foot piers would create a navigation menace by reducing the width of the harbor, thus hampering world commerce, and would give New York City an unfair advantage over New Jersey.

SOCIALISTS GREET AUSTRIAN COMRADES

Group of 89 Visitors Advised to Note Unemployment Rather Than Prosperity.

HILLQUIT WARNS OF WOLL

Socialists of New York gathered last night to welcome a group of eighty-nine of their comrades from Austria, where the Socialist party governs the city of Vienna and is the second largest party in the national Parliament. The admiration of the local Socialists for the achievements of their visitors was voiced by Morris Hillquit, national chairman of the Socialist party, before an audience of more than 500 in the Finnish Socialist Hall, Fifth Avenue and 127th Street.

Responding to the welcoming speeches of Mr. Hillquit and others, Robert Dannenberg, Deputy from Vienna, President of the Vienna Diet and leader of the visiting party, said that the fate of the Socialist movement in the world would not be decided in a small country like Austria, but rather in a country like the United States, where capitalism is the strongest. He expressed the hope that the workers of America would provide a large and powerful support for the fight against capitalism.

The group of Austrian Socialists, which includes thirty women, arrived Sunday on the Dresden of the North German Lloyd Line for a tour of the United States to study conditions. The party will be in New York for four days, and then will divide into groups, some of which will remain in the country only a short time. Others will stay for as long as six weeks. Many of the party will travel west as far as Chicago.

The reception last night was arranged by the Socialist party of New York City, the German branch of the Socialist party, the New Yorker Volkszeitung, and various sport, singing and gymnastic societies connected with the Socialist movement here.

The meeting was opened by August Claessens secretary of the party in the city, who compared the attitude of many Socialists here toward the Socialist movement in Austria with the attitude of many Christians toward the city of Jerusalem. Norman Thomas, who was to have followed with an address in English, was unable to be present because of an accident to his children.

Mr. Hillquit, speaking in both German and English, said he hoped the visitors had not come with too many illusions about the United States.

"You may have come to see the workers who ride to work in automobiles and own their own homes," he said, "but you will find 5,000,000 of them unemployed, with neither autos nor wages, suffering from the same unemployment as in Europe, except that they are totally unprovided for by the government as is done in European countries. You may be looking for progressive leadership in our labor movement. If so, I hope you do not meet Matthew Woll, with his foolish attempt to keep out everything from a country where the workers are at least trying to do something."

If the Socialist movement here were comparable with that in Austria, Mr. Hillquit said, the party would have 15,000,000 members in the country, 38 Senators and 200 Representatives.

In his reply, Mr. Dannenberg said he had had no illusions about America as a land of millionaires. In New York, he said, he had seen contrasts of poverty and riches, and the poor had made the greatest impression. The party, he said, had come to make the acquaintance of capitalism in its greatest stronghold.

TWO HELD IN GOLF THEFTS.

Yonkers Youths Accused of Westchester Club Robberies.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 28.—Captain Philip J. McQuillan of the Greenburgh police expressed satisfaction today that a series of golf club robberies had been cleared up with the arrest of Charles J. McCabe, 18 years old, of 552 Second Avenue, and Frank Lukitch, 19, of 26 Croton Terrace, Yonkers.

The youths, arraigned before Police Judge Frank E. Currey in Greenburgh, waived examination on charges of grand larceny. They were sent to the county jail under $1,000 bail each to await the action of the grand jury.

The police said they had confessed to taking the cash box from the St. Andrews Golf Club and golf equipment and an automobile belonging to Mrs. Louise Cohen from the Elmsford Country Club.

GRAVE OF PINTHIS FOUND.

Wreck of Tanker in the Fairfax Disaster Found by Diver.

Special to The New York Times.

SCITUATE, Mass., July 28.—The oil tanker Pinthis, sunk in a collision with the steamer Fairfax on June 10 with a loss of forty-nine lives, was found today 400 feet north of the southeast buoy in ninety feet of water with its indicator offering the mute testimony of "half speed." Hubert Grove, a diver, conducted the search on behalf of a New London (Conn.) insurance company.

The bodies of two members of the crew lie tangled in rigging just outside the pilot house.

The Pinthis is resting on hard sand bottom on its port side. Between the pilot house and the port bow the ship is pierced where the sharp stem of the Fairfax struck her.

The fire that burst out when the two ships struck was confined to the tanker forward from the pilot house, with the rest of the boat undamaged.

BOY, 13, DROWNS IN HARLEM

Sinks While Swimming—Bridge Traffic Tied Up by Watchers.

Vincent De Mayle, 13 years old, of 301 West 116th Street, was drowned late yesterday afternoon while swimming with a group of companions in the Harlem River near 176th Street. So many motorists stopped their machines on the Washington Bridge, across the Harlem at 181st Street, to watch the harbor police grappling for the body that vehicular traffic on the bridge was tied up for nearly half an hour.

The boy swam beyond his depth and then shouted for help. When he came up the first time a barge captain put out to his rescue in a rowboat, but by the time the bargeman reached the spot the boy had disappeared.

ENDURANCE CONTESTS WANE YET CONTINUE

Polecats Drive Down Two Tree Sitters—Wife's Threats End Whisker-Raising Feat.

Further evidence that the endurance contest epidemic is waning accrued yesterday from all quarters, although here and there new symptoms cropped up, freakier and funnier than the original ones.

Polecats drove Norman Stickdale and Thomas Unruh out of their tree in the Maple Shade district of Camden. Elsewhere in Camden the trees were shedding discouraged sitters, although Edward Githens held on, hoping for a new record.

In Bloomfield the whisker-raising contest ended when Raymond Sharp emerged from the brush he had acquired during the past week. Wallace Vogel continued to hold out, but admitted that he was weakening because his wife has threatened to put glue in his beard.

Four boys who had been tossing a baseball night and day for 130 hours in Bloomfield quit at midnight Sunday when two of their team retired because of lack of public interest.

Bicycle riders seem to survive in greater numbers than any of the other addicts. They are still grinding away in Bayonne, Woodbridge, Carteret, Bloomfield, Newark, Hillside, New Brunswick and Trenton, in New Jersey. The nearest to the record, which is held by a Hackensack team, is the New Brunswick aggregation, which passed its 330th hour at 4 P. M. yesterday. It has another fifty hours to go to establish a record.

A flock of pigeons ended a kite-flying endurance contest in Bloomfield by colliding with a kite which Raymond Otterbein and his brother Louis had kept aloft for more than nineteen hours.

The latest in the endurance category, as reported by The Associated Press, is the coffin-sleeping attempt of Captain Jack Evans in Atlantic City. He reclines in a ventilated coffin and takes his meals in it, but nobody seems to care.

3 GIRL PATIENTS ASTRAY.

Convalescent Children Missing From Up-State Institution.

Special to The New York Times.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y., July 28.—The Westchester County police were asked tonight to look for three little girls who strayed away from the convalescent home of the Children's Aid Society of New York, on the Pine Branch Road outside this village, during the play hour this afternoon.

The girls are Evelyn Morris, 14 years old, of 952 Trinity Avenue, Harriet Calpis, 11, of 1,317 Wilkins Avenue, and Gemma Petrucella, 10, of 698 Second Avenue. All three were virtually recovered and would have been discharged within a few days, according to Dr. Charles R. Conklin, medical director of the home, who said he believed the children were homesick and had wandered off with the idea of making their way to the city.

Autos in Jersey Killed 107 in June.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 28.—Automobiling continues to be an increasingly hazardous pursuit in New Jersey, with 107 fatalities occurring during June, the State Board of Health reported today. The month's death total was an increase of nine over the corresponding period last year. The suicide rate decreased by seven over the average rate of fifty per month last year. There were 3,443 deaths from all causes during the month.

MISS EDERLE DENIES DEAFNESS REPORT

Channel Swimmer Says Long-Standing Ear Trouble Has Been Diminished.

EARNED ABOUT $150,000

But Won't Tell How Much Went to Others—Now an Instructor in Westchester Pool.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., July 28.—Miss Gertrude Ederle, 24-year-old swimmer, who thrilled the world on Aug. 6, 1926, by swimming the English Channel, denied this afternoon that she had told a newspaper reporter she had lost her hearing as a result of the Channel swim or that she regretted ever having made the attempt.

Miss Ederle talked in conversational tones to a reporter at the Playland Baths of the Westchester County Park Commission, where she is employed as hostess and instructor.

"Yes, I granted an interview," she said, "but the reporter wrote altogether differently from what I said. She said I had lost my hearing, which is perfectly ridiculous. I have always had a running ear. My physicians said that the tremendous nervous strain of my Channel swim, the vaudeville engagements which immediately followed and other subsequent events—all without rest—cast all their effect on my ears.

"The doctors said it was just a temporary condition. In June, 1928, my father made me stop my vaudeville engagements because of my nervous condition. Since then, while I have been resting, my hearing has continually improved."

Miss Ederle denied that she had told her interviewer how much income she had realized from the vaudeville contracts and other means of revenue, said to have equaled nearly, $1,000,000, which were offeered her upon her return to this country from her Channel swim. She said she earned about $150,000 in round numbers, but refused to say what share of this was hers after paying her expenses.

She said she had spent large sums of money for physicians to treat her ears, but was no longer worried about her hearing. One of the physicians' requirements was, she said, that she go into the water as little as possible.

Miss Ederle denied saying she wanted a job in a New York club.

"What I would like," she said, "would be a position in a good club with a swimming pool, somewhere around here. My ambition when I returned from abroad was to have my own pool, the very finest obtainable, but that was too expensive. I'd like to give all the youngsters a chance to swim."

Miss Ederle lives with her family in Pelham, and drives to and from her work here.

492 NEEDY CHILDREN AIDED.

Jewish Bureau Put Many in Homes During Past Six Months.

The Jewish Children's Clearing Bureau placed 492 children in institutions, foster homes and hospitals during the six months ended June 30, Herman W. Block, president of the bureau, announced yesterday in his semi-annual report. The bureau is one of ninety-one social agencies affiliated with the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

Of a total of 1,588 cases, including 629 that were pending at the beginning of the year, 1,045 were disposed of by placement reference to other agencies or discharge, the report shows. At present 543 cases are pending.

Among organizations which cooperated were listed the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, the Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum, the Godmothers' League, the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the Home for Hebrew Infants in the Bronx, the Children's Haven of Far Rockaway, the Jewish Social Service Association and the Jewish Board of Guardians.

SHAMROCK V SAILS ALONE.

Lipton's Yacht Proceeds Here While Escort Coals at the Azores.

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—Dispatches from the Azores Islands today said Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Erin, which is escorting the Shamrock V across the Atlantic for the America's Cup races in September, had arrived in the islands for coaling.

The Shamrock V, meanwhile, continued on her course, and the Erin will shortly rejoin her. The dispatch said that so far the crossing had been without mishap, despite rough weather.

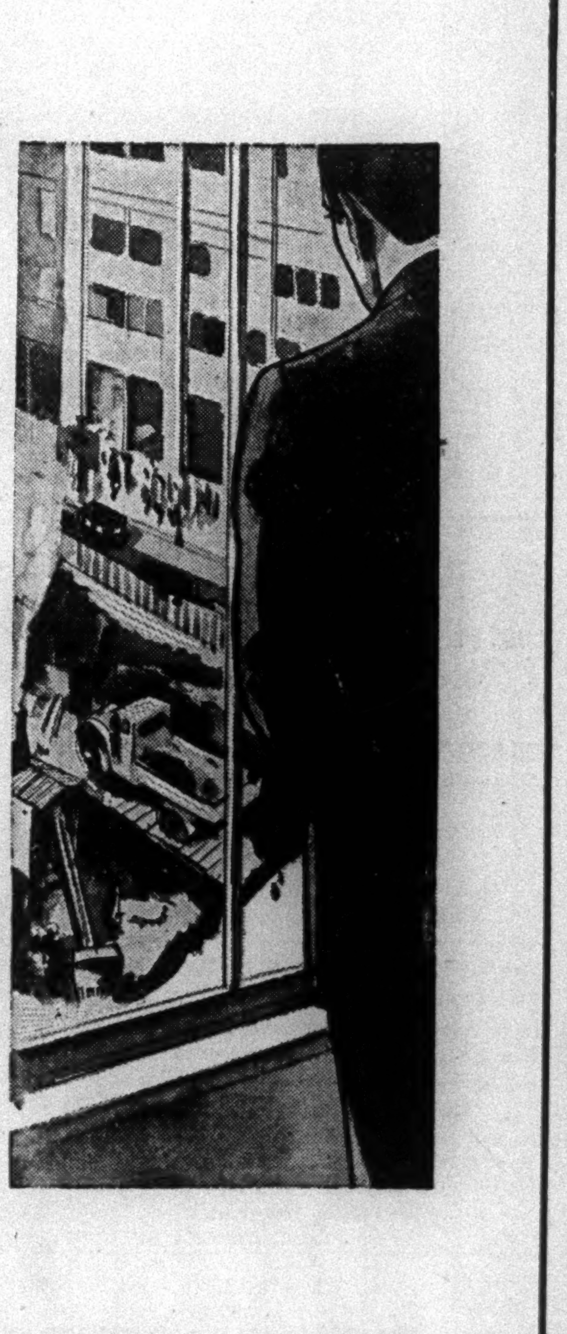
Make Your Money Work!



FORTUNATE is the man who is able to stay comfortably inside looking out at work that's being done for him. Done by other men. But done, in the last analysis, by the money that pays these men . . . his money. Rightly invested, this money works twenty-four hours a day.

The chances are, though, that he's letting some of his money work for him in a less spectacular way — in a savings fund. He knows that every man must have his own margin of ready money . . . that even great businesses have been forced into bankruptcy by being caught without an adequate reserve of cash.

An account at the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank is a real investment. Many men carry maximum deposits of $7500 in their own names, in addition to equal amounts in trust for members of their families. Emergencies find these men prepared, with a substantial cash reserve — and all that this means in increasing their credit.

Money that you deposit here never stops working for you — at the rate of 4¼%, compounded quarterly! It turns in this profit from the day of deposit until the day of withdrawal. It is always busy, earning more money . . . increasing your margin of safety.

Assets over $390,000,000 More than 225,000 depositors

Shaw-Walker Closes Largest Year in 30 Years

JUNE 30th, 1930, Shaw-Walker terminated its thirtieth fiscal year, with the largest record of goods shipped and billed in the history of the company.

Of Shaw-Walker's twenty-three branch offices, one increased 51.7%, another 21%, and another 10%. Only four branches showed any substantial drop from 1929. Moreover, the sales of the Shaw-Walker dealer organization increased 8%.

During the last eight months, all business concerns have been buying with scrupulous care. Therefore, we feel that this preference for Shaw-Walker office appliances in a time of caution, is a tribute to the "Built-Like-A-Skyscraper" method of building fine tools for the office. • • •

BUY NO FILE, BUY NO BANK EQUIPMENT, BUY NO SAFE, BUY NO INDEXING, BUY NO DESK, until you have seen the progress made by Shaw-Walker in these important branches of office equipment.

• • •

We especially invite you to visit our showrooms and see "Skyscraper" the new organized desk by Shaw-Walker. Its new patented working top, its drawers organized for a better day's work, its invisible wires, telephone and waste basket, its "Built-Like-A-Skyscraper" construction into one solid piece of steel, and its beauty at a commercial price of $50 to $100, mark it as a revolution in the architecture of the office desk.

Indigestion Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle — any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.
